The original idea of holding such a congress was merely local. Of recent years, however, it has grown to such an extent that the 28th International World's Eucharistic Congress, to be held at Chicago from June 20th to 24th, promises to be one of the greatest religious gatherings ever held.

A personally conducted tour for the benefit of the Catholic people of Ontario has been officially arranged by the Knights of Columbus. Pilgrims will travel on special trains via Canadian National Railways on which will be personal representatives of the company to ensure every comfort for the travellers.

Special railway fares, also fares including rail transportation, sleeping car reservations and hotel accommodation in Chicago, will be quoted on application to G. P. McHugh, State Advocate, Knights of Columbus, 510 Federal Building, Toronto, or through any Canadian National Railways Agent. 17, 22

NOME DISAPPOINTED

Kings Bay to the Pole, 750 miles, covered in 15 hours.

Circling the Pole and taking observations consumed 2 1-2 hours.

North Pole to Point Barrow, 1,250 miles, covered in 28 1-2 hours.

Point Barrow to Teller, 700 miles, covered in 24 1-2 hours.

Allowing two hours and a half for circling the Pole, the Norge's speed over the course from Spitzbergen to Alaska was approximately 46 miles an hour. Due to snow and fog, the pace from Point Barrow to Teller was less than 30 miles an hour.

Amundsen Thrice "Lost" on Previous Adventures

In turning up unexpectedly after many persons had given him up for lost, Captain Amundsen ran true to form. He had been gone three years and the world had long assumed him to be another victim of the Arctic, when in 1905 he arrived at Nome, at the end of his long explorations and of his voyage in the Gjoa through the Northwest Passage. When he came out of the Antarctic in 1912 with the news that he had discovered the South Pole, he took the world by surprise again. Last year, twenty-eight days after he and Lincoln Ellsworth had disappeared into the Arctic in two airplanes, they came flying back in one.

Slice Unexplored Area in Two

The flight of the Norge bisected the greatest unexplored region on earth. The explorers saw no land below them. They proved that this area, previously unknown, contains no great body of land. It may still be that small islands or volcanic peaks are to be found in parts of the area still unexplored, which lie on the other side of the plane's path.

The unexplored area was something less than 1,000,000 square miles in area. Amundsen, Ellsworth and Nobile sliced it in two. They ran an explored path through the centre of it, carying in width from probably 10 to 100 miles, according to the clearness or mistiness of the atmosphere.

Allowing them a field vision averaging fifty miles wide, they explored an area of 60,000 square miles on the flight from the North Pole over 1,200 miles of unknown Arctic lying north of the steamer track off Point Barrow.

Longest Trip Ever Made by a Dirigible

The entire trip from Rome, Italy, to Teller, Alaska, is the second longest ever made without a stop by a dirigible. The total distance covered was 6,820 miles. The trip was made in six laps, as follows:

Laps.	Miles.
Rome to Pulham	1,200
Pulham to Oslo (Christiania)..	750
Oslo to Leningrad	720
Leningrad to Vadsoe	800
Vadsoe to Spitzbergen	650
Spitzbergen to Teller	2,700
Total	6,820

THE HERO OF THE STRIKE.

If there was any hero in the British strike the title will have to be conferred upon Premier Baldwin, who emerges from the struggle with new laurels and enhanced prestige.

He is the man of the hour, acclaimed by the British people generally for his firmness in dealing with an unprecedented challenge and by the ranks of Labour for his fairness and his obvious anxiety to see that justice shall be done.

What finer tribute could be paid to a public man than was accorded Mr. Baldwin in Parliament the other day when Labour Leader Ramsay MacDonald suggested that the Premier should personally preside over the negotiations between the mine owners and miners, and Mr. Lloyd George, one of the Liberal leaders, seconded the suggestion, adding that otherwise the negotiations might be steered into the wrong channel?

When political opponents so signally display their trust in Premier Baldwin, nothing that can be said by his friends in his behalf can add to his prestige.

It was providential that such a man should have been at the head of affairs when the crisis developed.

What might have happened with a weakling leading the Government can readily be imagined.

SEE CANADA FIRST.

The tour of the Martime Provinces that is to be taken by some thirty-five members of Parliament with a view to getting some first-hand impressions of Maritime conditions and problems, commends itself as likely to have excellent results.

The trouble with many of our politicians is that they measure national questions with the yardstick of their own ridings.

Eastern members quite cunconcernedly tell Westerners how they should farm and Westerners on the other hand are not backward with advice as to the management of Eastaern industry.

And the chances are the Easterners who so advise have never travelled through the Prairie Provinces and the Westerners have never visited a big industrial plant.

The men who legislate for this whole Dominion should take every opportunity of seeing all parts of it; if they were one-quarter as well acquainted with the problems of the rest of the country as they are with those of their own district these national questions would be sure of being considered nationally.

They are not so considered by many Canadian politicians today, and the fact that they are not is one of the factors that is helping to keep Canada from jumping into that era of prosperity that Sir Wilfrid Laurier once so eloquently predicted.

CONDEMNING THE CHARLESTON.

There are varying opinions about the Charleston. Its admirers refuse to hear any criticism of this form of the dance; its critics on the other hand claim that it is far from being the poetry of motion and that it is minus the grace usually associated with dancing.

But it has remained for some of the good folks of Omemee to condemn the Charleston as immodest.

A few nights ago a local church minstrel company, giving a performance in Omemee under the auspices of a village church, included in its programme some dance numbers by a bevy of Peterboro girls, with results entirely unforeseen by those responsible.

Some people in the audience were horrified and the performance was broadcasted as a most immodest exhibition.

Yet the same dance was given by the same girls in the same customes at two different functions in Peterboro without a word of disapproval on anybody's part, and it is most unfortunate for the sake of those connected with the affair that the impression should have been spread abroad that they had been guilty of immodesty either in action or in costume.

Those Peterboro people who have seen the local exhibitions of dancing by these young ladies will agree with the Examiner that there was nothing objectionable either in the dance itself or in the costumes of the performers.

It was a mistake in judgment perhaps to have included such a number in a church entertainment, particularly in a small centre, but surely not a sufficiently serious indiscretion as to merit the wholesale condemnation it received.

LIEUT.-COLONEL MILLS PASSES.

The sudden death of Lieut.-Colonel Joseph Mills came as a shock to a community in which he had been for many years a familiar figure.

Lieut.-Colonel Mills perhaps was most widely known for his enthusiasm for military service and the deep interest he had always taken in local militia affairs.

For many years before the war he had been an officer in the 57th Regiment, Peterboro Rangers, and when the call to arms came Colonel Mills, although of an age that would have justified him in remaining at home, was among the first militia officers in Canada to offer his services, which were accepted.

He went to Valcartier Camp with the 57th's quota and eventually became Quartermaster of the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F., in which capacity he went to France, and served with the Iron Seconds during the Second Battle of Ypres.

Invalided home afterward, Colonel Mills contributed useful service in various capacities.

He was one of those officers who looked upon the Canadian militia as a necessary and important factor in the national life of the country, and thanks to him and hundreds of other patriotic gentlemen who held similar views, even in the face of a tendency in pre-war days to hold the militia lightly, Canada was ready when the war drums throbbed and the despised Canadian volunteer system produced an army that for sheer fighting ability was surpassed by no force.

The passing of Colonel Mills will be regretted by the whole community. He was a good citizen, who proved that fact in the most convincing manner when the enemy was at the gate.

U. S. FARM RELIEF FIGHT.

So fierce was the storm of opposition to the proposal to appropriate $375,000,000 for stabilization of the prices of United States farm products that its proponents considerably modified both their attitude and their plan, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal. They agreed to reduce the appropriation asked to $175,000,000, thus lopping $200,000,000 off the original sum, and also to the immediate imposition of the equalization fee on sales of certain crops instead of deferring it for two years. It is doubtful, however, whether these concessions will placate the critics of the so-called Haugen bill, which is a patent attempt to create artificial prices for the benefit of the growers, but at the expense of the general public. The supporters of the measure have, however, chosen their time well and are attempting to stampede the representatives from the States directly interested into lining up for it. They are doing this through the agricultural bloc in Congress, and are employing all the weapons of political cajolery and threats to put the bill over.

A statement recently issued by the so-called agricultural legislative committee, really the hand of the Haugen bill sponsors, declared that an effort is being made "to divide the country on an economic issue at a time when the sectionalism growing out of the Civil War has disappeared and labor has abandoned its early efforts to provoke a class struggle." The statement goes on to charge that the strategy of the opponents of the bill contemplates the organization of "an industrial bloc," the rousing of the forces of Eastern consumers and the forming of an alliance with ultra-conservatives from the south. This, coming on the eve of the primary elections when the parties choose their official candidates in the November elections, is intended by those who issued the statement to intimidate Senators and Representatives into squaring themselves with their farmer constituencies.

BREVITY IN PARLIAMENT.

Undue prolongation of the debate upon the Budget is not adding to the respect in which Parliament is held throughout the country. Almost four weeks have now passed since the Minister of Finance, with commendable brevity, presented his statement, and his example, unfortunately, has not been followed by many of those who have since spoken, apparently for the sole purpose of seeing how many pages of Hansard they may fill with statistics, quotations from newspapers and periodicals and repetitions of time-worn arguments for consumption in their respective constituencies. It is safe to say that every possible argument was exhausted by the time that a week had passed and it is safer to say that not a vote in the House has been changed by all of the flood of oratory which has descended upon the hapless head of Mr. Speaker. For any benefit that the public derives from this annual travesty, it might as well have been brought to a termination three weeks ago, the vote taken, and the House allowed to proceed to the discussion and settlement of more urgent business awaiting attention.

The ordinary citizen unacquainted with the ambitions of private members desiring to make an effect upon their constituents "back home" at Podunkville or Hick's Corners finds it exceedingly difficult to understand why it should be necessary to consume so much time in argument to no visible purpose save gratification of those ambitions and the gathering of ammunition for a future general election when the Mother of Parliaments dismisses its budget much more summarily, when every day so spent adds to the cost of government and when every member has made up his mind as to his vote weeks ago.

It is encouraging occasionally to find an honorable member who himself chafes under the delay and who arises to implore his associates to speak briefly and succinctly, if speak they must. But he might as well have spared himself the effort, for he is followed by a long succession of other members with axes to grind or petty local grievances to press to the cramping of the reporters' fingers, the annoyance of the Printing Bureau and the despair of those who would like to see Parliament adopt a businesslike procedure.

The formula usually applied to budget debates in this country seems to be to tire the country beyond all patience and then, as a last resort, to take the vote. Just as long as obscure members consider themselves neglected if they are not given an opportunity to place themselves upon record in respect to the Budget and every other subject under the sun and just as long as the "whips" lend themselves to such a conspiracy, just so long will budget debates be protracted beyond all reason and necessity and just so long will Parliament suffer in the public estimation.

There is every justification for the suggestion recently made by one member that a time limit of half an hour should be supplied to ordinary speakers. The adoption of such a policy, drastic though it might be, would do much to make the debates in the House both more interesting and more valuable and would do much to restore confidence in that institution known as Parliament. The public, which pays and pays well for the machinery of government, has a right to demand that its representatives shall conduct their affairs in a businesslike manner. It is somewhat sadly disappointed.—The Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Why not charter the Norge to survey the Hudson Bay route?

Looking at the number of motor cars parked round the city's places of worship, one wonders how people got to church in the days before the gasoline era.

The Budget division is expected this week, and when it is all over it will be found that the net result of the debate so far as affecting the vote was concerned has been nil.

STATE OWNERSHIP—A MENACE.

Sir—If the City of Peterborough took over all the properties in Peterborough and, therefore, the virtual control of the activities of our citizens, which follows as an inevitable consequence, what would be the result? Let us say that the city took over all the buildings and said that whoever wanted a building to live in or do business in would have to deal with the city as landlord. The loss through vacant buildings and failures in business and consequent inability to pay rent and taxes would have to be made up by those who are doing a successful business. Yet that is exactly what state-ownership involves. On paper it looks very fine to have the city, with its immense capital and borrowing facilities, behind the people. But the facts are that in a short time the successful, capable, energetic people here would leave. State-ownership not only takes industry out of the hands of the people but it also kills private enterprise because state-ownership compels private enterprise to pay for the failures of others and for the immense cost of providing for less favored localities. For the more favored localities to sacrifice themselves in this way is to lose all their advantage and to discourage private enterprise. Private enterprise must have free and fair play or it will "quit."

Now, then, does that apply to Peterborough at present? It certainly does. Do we get from Hydro the same cheapness of our utilities that we could and did get before? We do not. Take Campbellford also. That town has not given up all its natural resources, such as its water-power, and is in a most enviable position. Why do we? Professor Mavor says: "The Ontario government (and yet Prof. Mavor was a professor of economics in the State University of Toronto and an employee of the government) committed a fatal error in permitting what was originally designed to be an investigating . . . department . . . to transform itself into a monopolistic enterprise, to legislate itself outside of the law . . ." What we have in Ontario is as the professor says: "Excessive state-control," and when it does as it has recently done in Peterborough, threaten "private enterprise," it is assuming very dangerous proportions. If we are going to develop industry and private enterprise here, let us do it, but it cannot be done by putting ourselves under the iron control of the state, or of any other supreme (and political) power. It is not always easy to find out the exact cause of disease, commercial or otherwise. All we know is that we have it. But it ought to occur to anybody that absolute government-control of private enterprise, through taking over the permanent control and operation of the sources and bases of private enterprise, is to give the government absolute control of private enterprise and to discourage it. That is why great private concerns are going to Quebec.

The slow strangling of private enterprise is the inevitable result, and that is very largely the trouble with us. It will soon be time for the farmer of Peterborough to kick. He helps to pay the national or provincial cost of Hydro, and yet is getting no direct benefit from it at all. This fallacious modern Ontario theory of compelling the farmer to pool his savings in the general interest will not work. He knows good through-roads are an asset, but that is the government's work. What is it doing with the money it gets from sales? It doesn't all go to lunatic asylums, he hopes. Let the government, therefore, build these roads, but let it leave the farmer to do his own roads, and he will do them as experience proves much better. As Mr. Scott says: "Scraped thin road-tops spoil the roads." But, rightly or wrongly, the farmer is being taxed to death, not by himself, but by governments! And the sooner we all learn that this supreme dictatorship, assumed by a government, will not only paralyze "the individual," but tax him down to ruin, the better it will be for us.

—J. H. Burnham.

PLANE FOR FOREST PATROL

PORT ARTHUR, May 17 (Canadian Press).—The hydroplane aerial service to prevent spread of forest fires was commenced Friday. There are no fires in this district, although conditions have been favorable to their start and spread for some time.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 15 (Canadian Press)—Something of a dry weather scare developed in the wheat market today and gave a lift to prices in all the grain pits here. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 3-4 to 1 1-2 cents net higher, with corn 1-8 to 3-4 cent up, oats at 1-8 to 1-4 cent gain and provisions showing 5 to 15 cents advance.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, May 16 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.85 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.86 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 16 (Canadian Press).—The only business reported on the Montreal grain market Saturday was the sale of a few odd loads of wheat and oats to foreign buyers. The trade on spot was quiet and the tone of the market was steady.

There has been no important change in the condition of the local egg situation since this day week. Supplies have been the largest of any previous week this season. The market closed firm.

A very good trade was done in potatoes throughout the last week, but as the offerings from country shippers were rather large the tone of the market on the whole was weaker and prices closed lower than a week ago.

The receipts of butter in Montreal on Saturday were 1,518 packages, as against 1,377 packages for the same day last week, and 991 packages for the corresponding day a year, while the arrivals for the week ending May 15, 1926, were 9,076 packages, as compared with 8,855 packages for the previous week, and 5,323 packages for the same week last year.

The trade in butter during the last week was of a very limited character owing to the fact that there was practically no demand from outside sources and prices closed 1c to 1 3-4c per lb. lower than a week ago.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal on Saturday were 628 boxes, as compared with 1,166 boxes for the same day last week, and 1,968 boxes for the corresponding day a year ago, while the arrivals for the week ending May 15, 1926, were 17,761 boxes as against 9,907 boxes for the previous week and 26,791 boxes for the same week last year.

The feature of the trade last week was the demand that developed on spot for export account and purchases of several thousand boxes of Western No. 1 colored cheese were made at 18c per lb., but owing to the very limited supply of Western white available buyers found it impossible to fill their wants with such and were forced to pay a premium of 1-8c to 1-4c per lb. over colored for what little stock was offered, and the market closed at 18 1-8c to 18 1-4c per lb. for the latter.

OTTAWA, May 17.—(Canadian Press)—The Canadian International Paper Company will begin the development of Paugan Falls early in 1927, A. R. Crauslein, president of the Company stated in an interview recently. The power rights at this falls were recently bought from the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THEN HE HAS FAITH

Not long ago I was travelling aboard ship in a terrible storm. Several passengers were very much frightened, and one in particular was parying to God for the protection of the boat. He wanted the ship saved. It was a cunning prayer. Even a human being can see through the thought.

One passenger on that boat realized the great danger but did not pray. He feared to ask God for a favor for he felt in his heart that he did not deserve one.

Silently he made a promise. He did not bargain with the Divinity. He did not ask that the boat be saved, but he did promise to obey a Divine command and this man is keeping his promise.

He searched his heart for his greatest sin which was the use of profanity, and while the frenzied sea in its angriest mood was unnerving most of te passengers and most of the passengers were praying to be saved, this sincere man looked firmly in the face of a gale and made a promise—a promise to stop swearing.

Obedience, to my mind, is the only proof of great Faith. Prayer is often asking for a selfish favor.

I will admit that Faith sometimes goes so far as actualy to inspire the virtues in which it believes — that faith is a great force, but it is my firm conviction that obedience is what the Omnipotent expects. Then He has faith.

Is A University Education Worth While?

GEORGE HANNY thinks it is. He knows that a great majority of the successful men of today are college men and that a University education fits a man for a head start on the road to success in the modern business world.

When his son Albert is twenty, George Hanny is going to send him to University. He is going to give Albert the advantage of scientific training.

George Hanny is just an average man in average circumstances, but a North American Life "Child's Endowment," taken out when Albert was a baby, will provide the necessary funds. Mr. Hanny has never felt the strain of saving, and he has been guaranteed that even if he died, his plans for Albert would be carried out. He left nothing to chance—he made sure.

What are your plans for that boy of yours? Whatever they are, Education is the first consideration. You can, like George Hanny, make sure that your plans will be fulfilled. Our booklet, "Child's Endowment," explains how.

NEW CABINET IN WARSAW UNTIL ELECTION HELD

Professor Bartel Appointed Temporary Premier —Pilsudski Minister of War.

PUBLIC FUNERAL.

Victims of Military Coup Buried Saturday—Peace Returns To City.

WARSAW, May 17 (Canadian Press).—A new Cabinet, headed by Professor Charles Bartel, as Prime Minister, was formed on Saturday night. August Zaleski, former Ambassador to Rome, was named temporary Minister of Foreign Affairs. Marshal Pilsudski took over the port folio of Minister of War. Prime Minister Bartel announced that the Government would remain in office until after the election of a new President for the Republic.

Public Funeral For Dead.

The battle smoke cleared away Saturday and Warsaw, enshrouded in mourning, buried the uncounted dead who fell during the military revolt in a great public funeral.

Several hundred wounded in the various hospitals swell the toll of casualties.

From Friday afternoon Pilsudski's troops conducted a successful advance, taking one by one the streets occupied by the troops of the Government. Severe fighting occurred near the War Ministry.

Early in the afternoon it became clear that the resistance of the Government could last but a short time. In the late afternoon Pilsudski's forces captured the Palace, where the President and members of the Cabinet had been holding out.

A ghostly calm reigns over the city. All the public utilities are working normally, however, except the street cars, which are awaiting the repairing of the torn up streets.

Russia Keeps Hands Off.

MOSCOW, Russia, May 17.—High Soviet officials are maintaining the strictest reserve with regard to the situation in Poland, in line with their policy of non-interference.

A prominent Foreign Office official said Saturday:

"Russia wants peace. Nothing but a direct menace of her safety can stir her from aloofness. At present we see no such danger."

Socialists Support New Government

KATTOWITZ, Upper Silesia, Poland, May 17.—The German and Polish Socialists here have passed resolutions agreeing to act in co-operation, in case a call comes for action in the present Polish disturbances, which is interpreted as indicating that they will support Marshal Pilsudski.

Several detachments of Government troops have arrived to quell any possible uprising and the Provincial Governor has issued a proclamation urging obedience to the officials. All reserve officers in Eastern Silesia have been called to the colors by the Witos Government.

ALLIES MOVING AGAINST RIFFS

French and Spanish Forces Are Converging To Join Lines.

TRIBES AGITATED.

PARIS, May 17.—It seems to be a question of only a few days for the French and Spanish forces, operating in Eastern Morocco, to meet in the Nekour Valley and thus complete a huge converging movement, which will permit communications to be established permanently between Ajdir and Taza.

Friday's advance northward of the French and Spanish covered fully half the distance between the Kert and Nekour Valleys. All the passes are now in hands of allies, who marched through the mountain defiles at several points, avoiding the almost inaccessible peaks on either hand. The Ajdir force went very slightly southward but it is only a landing force and is actively building lines of communications preparatory to a junction with the forces coming North.

The remainder of the French front made an unopposed march through the country of the Beni Merch tribe, which is expected to be closely followed by the submission of the whole Mestara fraternity east of Quezzan.

The conversations are reaching the final stages now and when they are ended they will provide a French opening to strike at Chechouan from the south.

In the centre, however, the Beni Zerouals have launched a fierce attack on the French partisans and burned several villages. A punitive column broke up the attack, but the French will not seek to press their advantage severely yet because they expect an important success in East Morocco will be a better way to pacify the fierce Zerouals.

TARIFF APPEAL BEFORE GRAHAM ON WEDNESDAY

Algoma and British Empire Steel Corporations Will Be Heard.

BY NEW BOARD.

Preliminary Review To Decide if Fuller Inquiry Is Warranted.

OTTAWA, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Of several appeals already before the Advisory Board on tariff and taxation, the first to be considered will be those originating from two Canadian steel companies, the Algoma Steel Corporation and the British Empire Steel Corporation, Limited. These applications will be taken up by the Board at a meeting to be held in Ottawa on Wednesday, May 26, at 10.30 a.m.

The applications from the two companies named are based upon the incidence of tariff on various phases of the Canadian steel industry, with special reference to drawbacks, unequal producing costs, depreciated currency, and several other factors.

Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, chairman of the Tariff Board, has decided, in view of the nature of the brief submitted, that any fuller investigation should be preceded by a preliminary hearing, at which will be heard all parties interested in any manner in proposed tariff alteration affecting the steel or allied industries.

"In brief," stated the chairman, "these two applications will be asked to state their claim and establish to the satisfaction of the Board that they have a case warranting fuller inquiry. The preliminary hearing will be open in the fullest sense of the word and any section of the Canadian public which may feel that it has interests at stake will be given every opportunity to present its views."

CADET INSPECTION HELD AT LAKEFIELD

Capt. Trudeau Congratulated Cadets Upon Their Excellent Form.

LAKEFIELD, May 17.—At eleven o'clock on Thursday morning the annual inspection of the High School Cadets took place, with ideal weather conditions. Capt. Trudeau of Kingston was the officer in charge, with Cadet Stanley Darling as second in command. Platoon commanders were Frank Madill and Norman Lemay; Gordon Porter was the quartermaster, and Solan Nixon the drummer. The Cadets numbered about 40, and were a trim, natty looking corps, with their well pressed uniforms and shining buttons. The attendance of parents and citizens was much larger than in former years, and reflected a growing interest in the movement which for the past eleven years has been a factor in the life of the High School. Each year the boys look well, and this year no exception, as they never looked better. After the company and platoon drill the boys gave a creditable exhibition of their physical drill. Captain Trudeau expressed his pleasure at being present, congratulated the officers on their corps, their appearance and their drill. The idea of Cadet training is to make good citizens, teaching loyalty, both to the country and the family, for we need loyalty all through life, in whatever business we may engage. The physical training and discipline are invaluable, and do a great deal for a boy. We have a great Empire which deserves our loyalty, for we want to keep it and we must look after it, and if need be fight for it as we have done in the past.

Mr. J. M. Simpson, principal of the school, welcomed the visitors and expressed pleasure at the good attendance.

Mr. J. W. Ridpath, chairman of the School Board, congratulated the Cadet officers on their appearance and drill, which was very creditable. The boys worked under a handicap with the late spring, but the citizens should be proud of the corps.

Mr. E. H. Northey, a former member of the High School Board, congratulated Mr. Simpson and the Cadet officers on the splendid work they had done.

Mr. H. R. Wagar expressed his pleasure at being present. The Cadet training is one of the finest things we have in our schools, it teaches the boys to be gentlemen. It makes them manly and loyal, and is a great factor in character buildings. Be loyal to yourselves, to your teachers, your homes and your country. Be loyal to your teachers. Some think it's smart to disobey rules and cause trouble but it isn't. Use self-control for the spirit of mischief, and be honorable and protect the weaker sex, hold them in the highest regard and you will always come out on top.

Mrs. W. M. Graham spoke a few words in commendation of the work of the Corps and also of the value of Cadet training in the development of the boys, both physically and morally. The discipline is excellent, also the physical training which develops manhood. The speaker was glad to see the large audience which in their hearty approval and appreciation of the corps showed that they had no part in the pacifist movement that we hear so much of in these latter days. Mrs. Graham closed by wishing the Cadet Corps the greatest success and in assuring them of the pride the citizens felt in their success.

In closing, Mr. Simpson stated that the boys were handicapped this year in their drill as the late spring made the grounds too wet to be used until recently, and hampered the officers in their work.

RUMANIAN MOTHER IS AWARDED $5,000

Son Instantly Killed Working at Bryson, Que.

HULL, Que., May 17.— (Canadian Press.)— Mr. Justice L. Loranger, sitting in the Superior Court for Pontiac district, has handed down judgment awarding Mrs. Sanchira Kostenuk of Hull, the sum of $5,000 damages from W. J. Evans, Montreal contractor, as the result of the death of her son, Alexander Kostenuk, accidentally killed at Bryson, December 4, 1924 while he was working for Evans.

Kostenuk, a bricklayer, was working on a scaffold when the accident happened, the scaffold breaking and throwing him some 80 feet to the ground, causing instant death.

His mother, whose sole support he was, was living in Roumania at the time and immediately came to Canada to enter action.

FINE SHOWING MADE BY GROVE CADETS

Cadet Movement Is Praised By Head Master of School.

LAKEFIELD, May 17.—The annual inspection of "The Grove" cadets was held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a good attendance of friends of the school, who played the part of audience and enjoyed very much the trim, soldierly appearance of the boys who were lined up in platoons on the sports field. The picture was very attractive, the khaki-clad boys, the green sward with the background of trees and lake and a cloudless sky above. Captain Trudeau was the inspector and he complimented the boys on their apparance and drill, which was carried out as a company, as two platoons and as four half platoons. The physical drill was excellent and very extensive. Ernest G. Pullen is the captain of cadets, and G. H. Loosemore and Eric Moore as platoon commanders, and R. G. Young company sergeant major. There were about 44 cadets, all bright, alert and trim, constituting a splendid corps, one of the best in the history of the school. Mr. T. W. B. Marling, M.C., is the efficient instructor, whose excellent training received the commendations of Capt. Trudeau.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, the head master of the school, spoke a few words on the value of cadet drill in the life of a boy. The lessons learned remain with him all through life. One learns to walk erect always and to profit by discipline for we keep fit only through discipline of mind.

The CARBON Giant Can Ruin Your Motor!

CARBON makes your engine knock and miss; causes excessive wear on piston rings, cylinder walls, wrist pins and bearings; reduces the power and efficiency of your motor; and shortens its life.

You are gambling with carbon trouble every time you fill your crank case with ordinary motor oil, because the amount of carbon deposited by any oil is dependent upon the amount of carbon it contains.

Marvelube, the new process Imperial Motor Oil, successfully combats carbon. It contains only the merest trace of carbon.

Marvelube is the result of four years of diligent research and experiment by Imperial Oil Limited. It is refined from a special grade of Peruvian Crude Oil—lowest in carbon and richest in lubricating value. The Marvelube Process by which it is made, is a new and revolutionary step forward in refining science, because it practically eliminates carbon in the finished oil.

Imperial Oil Limited controls Peruvian Crude Oil—and is sole owner of the Marvelube Process. Hence this marvelous lubricant cannot be duplicated anywhere.

Play safe with your motor. Fill with Marvelube. You will get big returns in motoring satisfaction at once and save money on repairs and re-sale value in the future.

Marvelube is made in six grades—including Marvelube "F" for Ford cars, and is sold at Imperial Oil stations and by good dealers everywhere. The standard retail price of Marvelube from bulk is 35c. per quart.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Audrey Morton loves her guardian, Harry Morton, and is determined to overcome his refusal to marry her. Morton himself, middle-aged, attractive, wealthy and unmarried, has always been a mystery in Peterborough where he has lived for 15 years. His business and his past both are unknown. He maintains an expensive apartment in Toronto, where he spends much of his time.

Nona, a Toronto stage girl, also loves Morton. Satisfied that he cares for Audrey only as a child, she becomes fond of the other girl. Audrey, desiring to learn how stage women manage to interest Morton, decides to go on the stage herself. She hires a male dancing partner. One night she asks Morton for $1,000, showing signs of distress, but refusing to tell what the money is for.

He provides the money, and follows her to a theatrical agency.

Audrey is in an inner room of the agency. Morton, with the proprietor, an old friend, waits in the outer office. As a young man appears, Morton springs to block his exit.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

The young man whirled, and drew back.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded.

He was tall and heavy-shouldered: not at all the usual type of dancing man, except for the uncommon polish of his hair, and the exaggerated style of the clothes he wore.

Morton stepped toward him, deliberately, and closed the door behind him.

"Can we use your private office, Abe?" he asked.

Mr. Sunshine assented. "Help yourself—but there's a lot of girls with Miss Morton in the back room. Watch out and shut the door. They'll all be coming in to listen if you don't."

"You come in too," Morton proposed.

The young man was edging along the wall, keeping a wary eye on Morton.

"Get in that other room," ordered the latter, crisply.

"I'd like to see you make me!" The young man thrust out his chin, and leaned forward. "Just make me."

Morton was shorter, and much lighter, than the other, but his air was wholly assured as he advanced.

"Go in there," he said, his eyes meeting the hostile stare of his opponent.

The young man took a step backward, and then another. Mr. Sunshine, deeply interested, entered the situation.

"Come along, you big bum," he suggested, affably.

He took the larger man by the elbow, and without further parley the three went into the private office.

"Take that chain in the corner, Joe," continued Mr. Sunshine. "Mr. Morton, you sit here."

Abe dropped into his own revolving chair, and surveyed his guests.

"This is better than a show itself," he said. Then, with sudden purpose, he went to the door of the innermost room, and opened it.

A roar of girls' and men's voices emerged, punctuated by the strains of a piano.

"All you people keep out of my office," he shouted, "until I open this door. Anybody who comes in, gets fired." Putting his head farther inside the room, and looking sidewise, he continued: "Young lady, you wait. I'll tell you when your man comes."

Withdrawing his head, he slammed the door, and returned to his seat.

Morton sat with his chair tilted back against the wall, his knees crossed.

"Abe," he said, "I find I didn't know the whole story when I talked with you. This fellow here—this Joe—" indicating the large young man—"tried to work the 'badger game' on me, not long ago. He didn't get far with it."

"I bet not," interrupted the sympathetic Abe.

Morton continued: "He had a little dancing partner. They were broke. Nona told me this fellow and the girl could get a job in a London supper club if they could get passage money. I was sorry for the girl, and sent them the money. This lad here lost it all shooting craps. He took the girl's jewelry and pawned it. He kept the money. He got three hundred dollars from Miss Morton, and didn't tell his partner anything about it."

"He left her hungry—almost starving."

He bent his brows at the man Joe. "And all the while the girl was worrying about him. Now he is trying to extort a thousand dollars from Miss Morton! What had we better do with him, Abe?"

The young man stirred. "You ain't going to do anything," he asserted. "That girl's got a rich father, and he'll pay anything to keep her name from being dragged out into court."

"So?" inquired Morton, with velvet voice. "I'm interested. I happen to be her guardian, myself."

Mr. Sunshine, with delighted enthusiasm, let out a little yelp.

"This is great!" said he.

Morton regarded the large young man thoughtfully.

"Ask Miss Morton to come in," he told Abe.

Beaming, the theatrical agent opened the door, and summoned Audrey. An interested throng of young women crowded the opening in an instant. Mr. Sunshine waved them back, and Audrey appeared.

As she saw Morton she emitted a cry.

"Daddy!"

"Exactly," he said. Waving toward the corner, he proceeded "And here's Joe."

The girl advanced, timidly, as the crowd behind her was shut out. Morton moved a chair for her, and shaking, she sat down. Her eyes moved from Morton to the young man and back again.

"Audrey," said Morton, "I'm going to tell you something. Listen carefully." He stood over her, holding out his forefinger and moving it to emphasize his remarks. "No girl, and no man, who is innocent, ever has to pay money to keep a blackguard quiet.

"This gentleman here—" he indicated Joe—"is a blackguard. He has started a career in which he proposes to live off women—off the money that women give him."

Audrey, with fear, looked at the large young man.

"Watch me a moment."

Morton stepped to the corner and deliberately struck the man first on one cheek and then the other, with his open hand.

"Here!" roared the other, without arising, "you can't do that to me, you . . . !"

Morton swiftly, with the back of his fingers, smote him on the mouth.

"That will be all from you," he said, turning his back.

Joe, his face purple, moved as if to spring. The theatrical agent was watching him, intently. In a moment, though, the young man sank back in his chair, and fixing his gaze sullenly upon Morton, was silent.

"I'd like to know what he means using my office to collect money from women," speculated Abe.

"He wanted me to meet him on a street corner first," said Audrey, timidly. "Finally he said to come here."

Morton had returned to his chair, and was thinking. "Audrey," he said, at last, "I'm not going to ask why you were going to give him that money. I can guess what sort of threat he made. But don't ever yield to fear again if you meet another such situation.

"This whelp was really more afraid of you than you were of him. But he thought he'd take a chance—and he almost won."

His forehead drawn in perplexity, he continued, "I don't know exactly what to do about him." He turned to Joe. "Listen here, you worthless lout! I'm going to let you go out of here. I'll decide later whether I'll hunt you up again. But you quit collecting money from your dancing partner. Let the girl alone!"

He rose and crossed the room. Standing close to the young man, he concluded, softly: "And I am quite certain that you will never come into contact with Miss Morton again, directly or indirectly. Do you get my meaning?"

"Yes," growled the other, turning his head away.

* * *

Audrey was back at the Sunshine offices the same afternoon to meet Nona. She passed directly into the inner room, where Mr. Sunshine himself was criticizing the work of a group of dancing girls.

"Those notes are all sour and that dancing is all wet," he pronounced.

The piano player suspended operations. The girls, panting, clustered around the producer. He turned to Audrey.

"Mr. Morton picked this chorus," he said, with dissatisfaction, "because he said he wanted 'em moral. I wish they wasn't so moral and had more pep. Try that last number again!"

The piano whanged and the girls, locking elbows, tripped down the floor. As usual, they were clad in rompers or bathing suits, for ease of movement, and their flesh showed the glisten of perspiration. Turning, they moved in pairs to the upper end of the room, swinging their legs high in time to the music. At the reverse they trooped in threes and became tangled.

"Stop it!" cried Mr. Sunshine.

Sound and movement halted abuptly.

"You girls all go down to Dan Baster's school right away," Abe directed. "I'll telephone them you're coming. That dance is rotten, and you've got to start rehearsing another. You're not to come back and show me until you've got it right. Beat it!"

Exhausted, the girls leaned against one another until they recovered their breath. They they retreated behind a curtain that covered a corner of the room and began to change their clothes.

"Baster's my partner," explained Abe, turning to Audrey. "He drills 'em; I produce 'em. I hope you dance better than they do. Got your dancing clothes?"

Audrey pointed to the bag that stood beside her on the floor.

"Those girls'll be out in a minute," said Abe. "Then you go back of that curtain and change. Nona'll be here in a minute."

He sauntered into his own office.

* * *

Nona appeared, in course of time, and was greeted by a sardonic, "Good-evening," from Abe.

"I suppose I'm late, as usual," she assented. "But you don't worry, do you, Abie?"

She gave him a pat on the cheek. He took her hand and swung it before him, inspecting, her the while.

"Looking younger every minute, Nona," he said.

"Well, I'm no antique," she defended. "I'm only twenty-four—and I'm thinking of being twenty-three next birthday."

She went on into the other room, greeting Audrey warmly. They sat together and chatted, while the chorus girls, one by one, reappeared from behind the curtain, wearing their street dresses, and passed out of the room.

"Isn't there a shower bath for them?" asked Audrey.

Nona laughed. "What would they do with a shower?" she asked. "They'd get their hair wet."

"But—" Audrey started to protest. Nona interrupted.

"I know what you mean. But they don't live like you do. Some of them take baths, and some of them don't do anything but wash. There's talcum powder, and perfume, and baking soda, you know. They use all three.

She arose and started for the curtained corner..

"Bring your rompers," she directed. "We'll try to do some steps. I have a new one."

When Audrey reappeared, it was in a pinafore that reached a point several inches above her knees. Nona wore a black satin bodice and silvered trunks.

"Got these for my show," she explained, "and I suppose I might as well get some use of them."

The piano player, after a moment's consultation with Nona, struck a chord, and, hand-in-hand, the girls started, Nona explaining to Audrey the movements step by step.

Morton and Abe came in, after they had worked for half an hour, and Abe watched critically.

"You'll need two weeks' work," he pronounced. "But you're not actually bad," he added, to Audrey. "And by the way—there's a dame been telephoning here, trying to locate you. If I'm any judge, she's mad enough to scratch."

Women Dispose

Of this new hygienic pad as easily as tissue —no laundry

COUNTLESS women have discarded old-time "sanitary" pads for a new and better way.

A way that offers far greater protection. A way, too, that banishes the old-time problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald motored to Peterboro on Wednesday.

If Men Had To Do The Cooking—

I know one thing that would happen:—

There would be an awful lot of old stoves chucked out of the kitchens.

Men simply wouldn't have the patience to try and cook on the "old timers", the "back numbers", the worn-out "relics", that many patient women are wearing themselves out trying to cook on today.

If you have one of these next-to-useless stoves in your kitchen, just invite your husband to cook a meal or two on it.

Take it from me, he will be more eager than you to have a new, modern Gurney Gas Range in the kitchen.

And just think how much fuel the economical Burners on the Gurney will save you.

And the oven—it will cook beautifully. The things you simply can't help burning or spoiling in your old oven will be a success in the Gurney oven.

Cooking will be a joy on a convenient, up-to-date bright new Gurney Range.

Why not issue that cooking invitation to your husband today? Then you'll be choosing your new Gurney Gas Range tomorrow.

Yours sincerely,

Holt Renfrew

THORNTON SAYS C.N.R. WILL SOON MAKE PROFITS

Tells Members of C. N. R. Association of Toronto of Progress.

100 PER CENT SERVICE.

Annual Banquet of Toronto Employees Held—Road Officials Guests.

TORONTO, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Addressing the members of the Canadian National Railways Association at dinner here Friday night on the occasion of the second anniversary of Radio Station CNRT, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, predicted that the system would shortly be on a profit making basis.

A wonderful tribute was paid to Sir Henry by the members. The event coincided with the yearly dance in which Sir Henry took part. In his speech he emphasized this fact that no matter where the Canadian National employees are situated they belong to the "National family." Continuing, he said: "Part of our success has been due to the deep interest which every member of the Canadian National Railway has shown in giving the best possible service to all our patrons. We have treated everyone with courtesy and kindliness, which means 100 per cent service. This should, undoubtedly, bring more traffic to the company, and I would like to emphasize the irresistible effect of our 100,000 employees, both men and women, working for this objective. The result of such united effort is almost beyond comprehension and I leave it to every one of you to visualize its irresistible force."

Sir Henry further drew attention to the remarkably fine success made by the Canadian National during the first quarter of the present year and stated that it was due not to the efforts of the officials but of the employees at large and he earnestly desired to express in behalf of the directors, his appreciation of their fighting spirit to make the National system a success.

"Of all business enterprises," said Sir Henry, "the operation of a railway depends the most upon its man and woman power and I would like to take this opportunity personally to thank all employess for what they have done to build up public confidence in our system. I want to express my appreciation of your generous support and loyal co-operation, and I would ask you not to look upon me as your president but rather as your friend who is working with you to achieve a common objective—the success of our railway.

The gathering was presided over by E. R. Harwood, president of the Canadian National Railway Association, while Sir Henry was introduced by Miss Gladys Pearce, of the freight claims department. The other guests included the members of the winning team in the ladies' and men's bowling leagues, and the C. N. R. hockey teams of Toronto. Among those at the head table were O. J. McDonald, director; A. E. Warren, general manager, central region; W. G. Barber, general manager, Canadian National Telegraphs; J. B. McLaren, controller, and C. R. Moore, general superintendent, transportation.

PETERBORO' MEN SUED FOR $18,030

Robert Hall and William Irwin in Action at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Unpaid fees and damages for alleged breach of contract, totalling $18,030 are claimed by John A. Knox and James A. Lewis, Vancouver timber cruisers, from Robert Hall and William Irwin, both residents of Peterborough, Ontario, in an action brought to trial before Mr. Justice W. A. MacDonald, in Supreme Court.

Knox and Lewis contend that in 1920 they, together with the late D. C. Irwin were instructed by the defendants to locate for them Government timber equal in value to 4,256 acres in Timber Berth 507 which they owned and which had been included in the water reservoir established by the Federal Government for City of New Westminster. The Federal authorities had agreed to exchange timber rights in Berth 507 for others of equal value in another location. After the trio carried out this commission, it is alleged Hall and Irwin were awarded $120,430 for their property and took no further interest in the new limits which had been found for them. Knox seeks to be reimbursed with $6,850 for his services rendered, and Lewis $2,100. They also claim $9,080 as commission. Church on Thursday afternoon. The claims are disputed by the defendants.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ANNUAL MEETING

Two Papers Given on Combatting the Use of Slang.

WOOLER, May 17.— The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. L. H. Rowe on Wednesday afternoon, where thirty ladies gathered together to uplift the motto, "For Home and Country."

The President, Mrs. J. J. McColl, was in the chair, with Mrs. George Adams secretary-treasurer, to help conduct the business part of the programme.

A nominating committee was appointed, Mrs. M. E. Maybee, Mrs. Geo. Anderson, Mrs. S. L. Terrill and Miss Mabel Rogers; scrutineers, Mrs. Boneham and Mrs. H. Richards. The new officers were elected by ballot as follows:

President, Mrs. Wm. Orvis; First Vice-President, Mrs. M. Sharpe; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Percy Gooding; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Way; District Director, Mrs. Wm. Orvis; District Representatives: Mrs. J. J. McColl, Mrs. M. E. Mabee, Mrs. S. Palmer. Branch Directors, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Mrs. L. H. Rowe, Mrs. Dr. Anderson, Mrs. C. Rogers. Auditors, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. L. H. Rowe.

A hearty vote of appreciation of the work being done by the retiring officers were moved by Mrs. Dr. Anderson.

In reply, the president stated she had only been absent two meetings of her two years' service. The secretary-treasurer had only been absent one meeting in her two years.

The convenor, Mrs. Stanley Mabee, now took the chair to conduct the programme.

The first number, a piano trio by three lads, John and George Ruttan and Gordon Way. The subject of the day was, "How to combat the use of slang." The first paper given by Mrs. Zetland Ireland, What is slang—low language; is it necessary to use slang; when we have a language and a literature that contains words to express every thought. Poetic expressions, demonstrative expressions, descriptive expressions. Then why use those vulgar terms? We have our idea of the perfect lady, whether we live up to it or not. Can we hope to combat this evil? said the speaker.

A solo, Mrs. Dr. Anderson.

The second paper by Mrs. Geo. Adams, was the subject, How can we combat the use of slang? First, begin in the home. If father and mother do not use slang the children will not, and if they do learn it at school, the parents are prepared to teach them the evil of it. A person cannot speak, but he judges himself with his will or against his will, he draws his portrait to the eye of his companion. It is like a spool of thread thrown at a mark, but the other end remains in the thrower's hands. Some of us are astonished at the amount of soul destroying gossip in a neighborhood, village or small town, said the speaker.

A solo by Mrs. Frank Morgan.

The lunch committee, Mrs. Esli Terrill, Mrs. W. A. McColl, and Mrs. S. Palmer served sandwiches, cake and hot coffee.

BETHANY PERSONALS

BETHANY, May 17 — Mrs. Rachel Staples, who has been confined to the Ross Memoral Hospital, Lindsay, for the past two months, was able to be moved to the home of her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Johnston, on Saturday.

Mr. Cecil Ward, who spent the winter in Tampa, Florida, spent the past week with his mother here, Mrs. John Ward, before resuming his position in Toronto.

Mr. Walter Jakeman was a visitor to Yelverton on Friday.

Dr. Lapp of Toronto spent the week-end with his friend, Mr. Jos. Hadden.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers and children of Lindsay spent Sunday with their parents Mr. and Mrs. William Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rowan and little daughter, Yvonne, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, in Millbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Brown of Grafton attended the concert on Friday night which was given under the auspices of the Scarlet Chapter.

Mr. Ernest Cavano, Mr. Roy Ferren, Miss Violet Jackson and Miss Bertha Fallis attended a concert in Peterboro on Friday night.

Quite a large audience attended the concert given in the Town Hall Friday night under the auspices of the Scarlet Chapter of L.O.L. 1022, by Jimmie Reed and his troupe from Toronto.

Mr. William Hunter spent the week-end in Peterborough visiting friends.

A little of the fall wheat in this locality has been damaged with the recent cold weather.

The Sunday School of the United Church observed Mother's Day in a very fitting manner by co-operating with the regular church service and using the prepared programme. A choir of mothers sang as a chorus an old song, "My Mother's Prayer."

Mr. Poulter gave a very interesting mothers' address, basing his remarks on "Lois, the Mother of Timothy." A pageant, "The Spirit of Motherhood," was given by nine girls, namely, Verna Belle Lee, Winnie Dawe, Hazel Jackson, Marian Fallis, Thelma Patton, Helen Patton, Jean Thorndyke, Helen Byers and Pricilla Howden.

The church was tastefully decorated around the altar with May flowers and flowering house plants.

NEW YORK SUMMARY

Crucible Steel directors meet for preferred dividend action at 4 p.m. Standard Oil of Nebraska advances gasoline and kerosene one cent a gallon. Salt Lake Oil advances 2 cents a bbl. Gulf Coast and Mirando 10 cents and Pan Handle Tex Crude 10 to 25 cents. Magnolia follows 25 cents advance in mid-continent by Pacific Oil and Gas each in the Pan Handle District. Calif. Crude Oil production week ended May 15 averaged 604,800 barrels daily, increase 2,500 daily over preceding week. Los Angeles Basin 320,200 daily, increase 1,500. Standard Oil advances gas and kerosene one cent throughout territory except South Dakota, where gasoline is raised ¼ cent and kerosene one cent per ballon. Dodge Brothers acquisition of Graham Bros. completed May 1st: $8,250.00 five per cent money notes sold privately. French Minister of Finance arrives in London to begin negotiations for settlement of debt to Great Britain.

Demand—Sterling $4.86 1-8, francs $2.99 1-2; lire $3.51 3-4.

New Low Record Made By Francs In New York

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 17.—(United Press.)—French and Belgian francs dropped to a new low record at the opening of the foreign exchange here to day. French francs were sold at 2.99 1-2 cents, off three points from Saturday's last price, while the Belgian currency fell off to 2.93 1-2 cents, a loss of more than one tenth of a cent over the week end.

Values Continue Downward Dull Trading On Market

NEW YORK, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices continued to follow downward trend in today's dull trading, although movements in several groups were highly erratic. New low record for the year were established by representative issues in motor, rubber, merchandizing and motion picture sections although with few exceptions declines were limited to a point or two. Reports of backward retail trade in many lines caused general selling of mail orders, chain and department store stocks. Despite General Motors announcement of record April business, motor shares were unable to throw off the depression which settled over this group last week. U. S. Steel dropped back to 118 1-4 but later regained part of this loss.

Prices Continue Easier Market Dull at Toronto

TORONTO, May 17 (Canadian Press).—The week's opening session of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning was a dull affair of light trading with prices easier all around. None of the numerous losses were very substantial, however. Brazilian and Smelters led the decline as they led in activity. Brazilian losing a point at 94 and Smelters 2 at 189. Arnold Common lost half a point at 21, and Canada Bread was a point easier at 67. C.P.R. also eased a point at 156 1-2, Imperial Bank was one of the session's most active stocks, and it touched 207 but closed the morning at 205, a one point gain. Teck Hughes firmed 5 cents at 3.45, and Noranda 8 at 15.58.

CAR KILLS BOY.

WINDSOR, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Douglas Desisle, 11 years old, was killed late on Saturday night when he was hit by an automobile in charge of Mrs. Lillian Allen. The woman was not held.

ST PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

At St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien made several announcements, with regard to the celebration next Sunday in Kingston of the centenary of Kingston diocese, the ordination on the following Sunday here of five young men to the priesthood, four for this diocese and one for Calgary, and the celebration three weeks from yesterday of the centennial in Peterborough of the first Mass ever offered in this city.

The hours of the Masses at the Cathedral have been changed in conformity with the summer schedule, the services now being held at half-past seven o'clock, nine o'clock and ten-thirty, the last a High Mass.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

Professor J. Gresham Machen, D.D., was the special preacher at the ninety-third anniversary services held in St. Paul's Church yesterday. At the morning service, Dr. Machen took as his text, 1st Kings, 22nd chapter, and the 14th verse: "As the Lord liveth, what the Lord saith unto me, that will I speak." The text was a great text, he said, and was taken from a great chapter. Every Christian has the right and the duty of being a prophet, but true prophecy in the supernatural Biblical sense does not exist to-day. We have in the Bible, he said, a great account of the way in which God saved men by the redeeming blood of Jesus Christ. The Scriptures are placed in the hands of man that we might give the word of God to others—this is not a low task, but one that calls for the best in every man. If you, he said, accept the Bible as being God's book, you have one qualification, that of being a speaker that is able to say something every time, for you will have something to say.

At this juncture, Dr. Machen stated that he would speak a cheerful word in defence of pessimism. Pessimism, he said, is sometimes a mighty good thing, and quoted as an example ships at sea steaming along slowly in a fog, even though the Captain may be reasonably sure of his bearings. In this time of peril in the Church, he said, there are leaders who say "all is well." May God forgive them for the evil they do. The true prophets will be called to warn the men of sin and to be a true prophet will cost you popularity, for no man is popular that warns of what is ahead in the next world. The world, he said, is full of quack remedies for sin. There are those who tell us we are wrong in placing so much emphasis on the Cross. Only at the foot of the Cross is there a remedy for sin—there only will we find peace and relief. In your efforts for the cause, he said, many will speak ill of you, but One will say, "Well done, good and faithful servant." Even now you will be called upon to endure hardships for the cause of Christ, but whatever you do preach him boldly. Among the crowds there are many hungry hearts, hungry for the word of God. What is there that can be compared with the leading of a needy soul to Christ? There is one thing only that is worth while, and that is to remain faithful to the teachings of God's word.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

"Thou shalt remember all the way that the Lord thy God hath led thee," from Deuteronomy, 8:2, and "Speak to the children of Israel, that they go forward," from Exodus, 14: 15, were the texts of the sermon preached at the morning service yesterday in Murray street Baptist church, by Rev. Dr. J. Austin Huntley, pastor of James street Baptist church, of Hamilton. Dr. Huntley, who was the visiting speaker on the occasion of the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the foundation of Murray street Baptist church in the city, also gave an address to the Pastor's Bible class at the morning service, entitled "Leadership, or the Scrap Heap," and spoke in the evening on "How Souls are Kept." There were large congregations at both services, and keen attention was paid to the discourses of the visiting preacher, whose sermons were marked by enthusiasm, originality of conception, and an eloquent manner of delivery that made his thoughtful utterances very pleasing.

"It seems to me well that occasionally we pause in the rush of business and the hurly-burly of life to take a look back over the past," said Rev. Dr. Huntley at the morning service, which was one of the Unified Church and Sunday School Services for which this church has become noted. "If a painter were to represent the church by a human figure to-day, he would portray her as looking forward with hope, rather than looking backward with pensive memory. But memory also has its advantages, and so, in the struggle of our daily lives and in our endeavor to push forward the Kingdom of God, we do well to look back over the past, that our hearts may be encouraged, our faith strengthened and our hope increased, as we remember all the way that the Lord our God has led us.

"There are great outstanding events in the life of every nation that cannot be forgotten. The Greeks can look back with pride to that glorious defence of the Pass of Thermopylae, the English to the victorious Battle of Tralalgar, and our present-day Canadians to many of the battlefields of France and Flanders; to Courcellette and Mons, to Vimy Ridge and Langemarck. And so the Christian church can look back over the past and contemplate the events that have occurred in the progress of the life of the individual church and of the Kingdom of God, in order to keep her reminded of the things that God has done for her in the past and keep her humble and true and steadfast.

Small Beginnings.

"You recall that this church was a church of small beginnings, like most other Baptist churches that I know of, and it was brought into existence by the soul travail of those who believed in the simple teachings of the New Testament and who were determined to be true to what God had revealed to them in the teaching of His Word. The lesson that comes to us is this, that we are not to despise in spiritual matters the day of small beginnings." Rev. Dr. Huntley drew here an analogy between the workings of small things in the spiritual realm and the incessant working of the soil to make it fertile, which goes on in the actions of the grubs and tiny beetles and insects that inhabit the surface layers of the earth and keep it constantly in action, to render it fertile.

"So, in the working out of the Kingdom of God, Christ came not as a prince of the earth, but rather as a humble, poor workman, and his workers were not drawn from the ranks of the rich, the powerful, or the influential, but they were a handful of poor, illiterate fishermen, who went out to found the Kingdom of their Master on earth, and to overthrow the pagan idols of a mighty Empire. Sometimes in small ways are accomplished vaster things than when we bring into play all the machinery that we think is essential to the growth of the kingdom of God.

"We must remember that the church's great moment is in the day in which we live. Men nowadays are longing for firm and sincere convictions and for faith that is really believed in. I don't believe that the Golden Ages are all in the past. Jesus said: "Greater works than these shall I do, because I go to the Father." The great spiritual needs of the world make a golden opportunity confronting the church of Jesus Christ. There is the constant strife between labour and capital and the theological world itself is split on the rocks of differing dogmas and creeds. And outside are vast multitudes without hope and without faith in God. It is only the principles and the Gospel of Jesus Christ that can heal those wounds and satisfy those needs. All the manipulations of men cannot overcome our disputes and solve our problems. The church must get the vision to see the need and go forward to accomplish the great task to which God is calling her.

"I believe that God intends the present to be better than the past, and the future to be better than the present." Quoting a sermon of Archbishop Ireland, Dr. Huntley said: "Whatever has been accomplished in the past is only an inspiration to the glorious future to which God is calling you."

A final quotation sounded the inspiration note of the entire address in an allusion to a poem by Rudyard Kipling, in which the writer tells of the destruction of the dykes of Holland through the inertia and indifference of the sons of the men who had built them at great cost. The remorseful words of the men who realized their shame too late were: "And it may fall that we have slain our sons, as our fathers we have betrayed."

"Take great care of this heritage that has been bequaethed to you, so that, when God calls you to greater endeavor, you may be ready to say, "Here am I, Lord. Send me."

"How Souls Are Kept."

In the evening, speaking on the subject, "How Souls Are Kept," Dr. Huntley discoursed on how to live in the world and yet escape its evil influence, one of the hardest problems confronting followers of the Saviour.

When Jesus prayed to the Father to keep His sons from evil, he meant by "the world" that pagan-ized society, with its hates and greeds, its foul habits and dark motives, its jealousies and untruths, which is sometimes lovely in its forms of passion and, alluring in its fascinations, but is always deadly to the purity and simplicity of the soul.

The spirit of Christ's prayer was the habit of His life. He did not wrap Himself in mystery nor assume special sanctity. He sat at the tables of rich men and associated with good and bad alike. He was charged by His foes with being the friend of publicans and sinners, but still He went through all unscathed.

Three agencies necessary to preserve the sanctity of the soul were cited in the keeping of the conscience quickened by the indwelling presence of God's spirit; the keeping of an abundant life within, for, as good health depends not so much on absence of disease as in healthy blood corpuscles, so does the victory of the soul depend not on avoiding all contact with sin, but in being able to resist it from within, and, lastly, by the power of God through faith in Him. Faith secures the right conditions and reveals the right ideals. It is a vision of the worthwhile things of life.

The morning and evening services were marked by special music which added immensely to the attraction of the anniversary celebration. The choir sang, with fine effect that showed exceptionally good training by the organist and choir leader, Mr. Francis Sutton, A.T.C.M., two lovely unaccompanied anthems. The reverent effect imparted by the soft, hushed music was interpretive in both instances of the beautiful words of the morning anthem, "The Vision of Christ," and the evening selection, in "Souls of the Righteous." A male chorus and a beautifully-played organ prelude by Mr. Sutton were other distinctive features of the evening musical programme.

History of Church

The history of the present Murray Street Baptist Church which yesterday celebrated its eightieth anniversary, is an interesting one. The Baptist cause in this vicinity was established by Rev. John Gilmour, who in 1838 organized the church in Smith Township. Eight years later he organized a church in Peterborough, giving the site for a building for which the members contributed the money and materials. This was on Aylmer Street, and was in later years occupied by the Salvation Army and the Christian Scientists, now being used as Gillespie's Garage.

Twice the congregation outgrew its quarters. First they purchased from the Bible Christians the building now occupied by the G.W.V.A. and later, during the pastorate of Rev. J. R. Webb, they erected the present building at a cost of about $75,000. In June of 1911, Dr. John Clifford, President of the World's Baptist Alliance, laid the corner-stone, and in May of 1912, Dr. J. L. Gilmour, grandson of the founder, formally opened the church. Before the building was dedicated, over two-thirds of its cost had been raised, and, through careful financing by pastors and people, the debt has now been reduced to less than $2,500.

The first pastor set an example for long pastorates. For, when Dr. Poole's History of the County appeared in 1868, Rev. John Gilmour was still pastor. Among those who have ministered to the congregation now known as Murray Street Baptist Church are such well-known names as Charles Carroll, E. J. Stobo, P. C. Parker, John Trotter and Jonathan Bastow.

The present pastor is the very popular and kindly Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D.

Among the memorial gifts which have recently been received by the Murray Street Baptist Church are church telephones for use of those who do not hear distinctly. These were in use for the first time at yesterday's services. Two were installed by Mrs. Harry Webber, in memory of her husband, Deacon Harry Webber, and two by the "Others" Class in memory of Miss Daisy Webber.

Progress is being made in the work of installing the Memorial Chimes, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews, in honor of their son, Lieutenant Harold Stratton. Matthews, and it is expected that the chimes will be ready for use by June 20th.

A gift in remembrance of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Mann has also been received by the church, in a substantial sum of money for use in providing for increased comfort of the choir. The proposed changes and additions to the choir apartments will probably be completed by June 6th.

LONDON DOCKERS ACCEPT TERMS

Agree Not To Strike For Any Cause Without Trying Conciliation.

SAME WAGE SCALE.

LONDON, May 17 (Canadian Press)—The London dockers will resume work on Monday on the terms of settlement signed by the Transporters Union. The Union undertakes in future not to instruct its members to strike either nationally, sectionaly, or locally for any reason without exhausting the conciliation machine of the national agreements. The dockers will be re-engaged on their former wage scale and the union advises other parties to agree to similar conditions.

GASOLINE FIRE BURNS ELEVEN

Two Victims Are Rushed To Ottawa Hospital After Accident.

OTHERS HURT.

OTTAWA, May 17 (Canadian Press). — Eleven persons, mostly children, were burned, two of them seriously, near here yesterday afternoon, when gasoline being poured into the tank under the hood of their automobile caught fire, enveloping them in flames. Mrs. Joseph Pelow was burned about the legs and arms. Her four-year-old daughter, Josephine, is in a critical state from burns to her face, arms and legs. They were both rushed to a hospital here.

Other victims who, however, received only minor burns, were Joseph Pelow, husband of Mrs. Joseph Pelow; Mrs. S. J. Tough, mother of Mrs. Pelow, and three other children, John, Mary and Albert Mitchell.

CEMENT PLANT FOR BRIGHTON

Valuable Deposits Found on Outskirts of Village—Along Lake Shore.

BIG INDUSTRY.

(By a Staff Reporter).

BRIGHTON, May 17. — Last autumn it was announced in The Examiner that valuable deposits of cement rock had been found on the outskirts of this village and that the prospects were that a large cement plant would be established here, a plant large enough to put this thrifty municipal on the industrial map of Central Ontario. Drilling operations had been sufficiently advanced to establish the fact that the raw material existed in sufficient quantities, but with the setting in of winter these operations were suspended. It was, however, announced that the enterprise would be taken up again in the spring.

This forecast has proved correct, for on the opening of the season the promoters of the proposition appeared again in Brighton and secured a renewal of the options which they held on the lands on which the deposits have been found.

These lands are situated near the lakeshore, and are owned by Carman Baker, the well-known breeder of pure-bred Holsteins, and who is also reeve of the village, George Lawson and Matthew McDonald, both of whom are farmers. The land on which the deposits have been found comprises over 500 acres, and the deposits as shown by the drilling goes to a depth of 90 feet. It is estimated that there is sufficient raw material in sight to keep a large plant in constant operation for over 30 years, and it has always been understood here that once they were satisfied of these conditions the capitalists interested would go ahead with the work. It has also been given out that all the by-material required for the manufacture of high-grade cement is on the ground, and that the clay which covers the rock is of the quality needed for mixing with the main ingredient.

The personnel of the company interested in this project has been kept a close secret, but the negotiations have been carried on by agents in a manner which would indicate that there is capital behind the move and that those who have it to invest mean business.

It is expected that the new plant will give employment to at least 300 hands, and this would mean a doubling of the present population of Brighton and a wave of prosperity such as the village has never before known.

IDEAL SPOTS.

Said Neighbor White to Neighbor Brown, "You shoulda been with me. I took my fam'ly drivin', just to see what we could see. We packed ourselves a picnic lunch, an' talk about your treat—we found about the swellest place I've ever seen, ta eat.

"Right down along the water on a dandy piece of ground. A lot of spreadin' shady trees, and not a soul around. We built a roarin' camp fire, while the kids rolled in the sand. You oughta try it out some time. I'm tellin' ya, it's grand."

Said Neighbor Brown to Neighbor White, "that's fine—but not so much. I found a place, just yesterday, that, say, you couldn't touch. It's way down in a valley. Towering rocks on every side. You'll think the place you found is best—until this spot you've tried."

Yea, that's the life of touring, and, when Sunday comes around, each fellow thinks there's no place like the place that he has found. For thisa that and other things in natures li n we fall, and I will ne'er be satisfie until I've seen them all.

Advice For Young Mothers

Hamilton, Ont.—"Before the arrival of my little boy my health was very poor, my back hurt and my nerves were so upset I could not sleep. I grew very weak and miserable and suffered from morning sickness. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in the drug store where I trade, so I decided to try it, and it did me a world of good. It relieved me of all distress in my back, built me up in strength and my nerves did not give me any more trouble. I got along fine the remainder of the time and I had a very strong, healthy baby. In addition to keeping a woman healthy and strong it relieves her of a certain mental strain, from which most women suffer during motherhood."—Mrs. Joseph Curto, 147 Bay St., North. (Picture above.)

Smartly Correct

This season the two-piece frock rules over a wider domain than ever, and on many days, the hours of its reign extend from morning to evening. Therefore, it must be practical, yet combine as well, a semi-formal charm for leisurely events. The model pictured here is a typical example of a sports costume that is smartly correct for either a morning of shopping, or an afternoon of bridge. The jumper shows a high, turn-down collar, joined to a vestee with button trimming, and oddly-shaped patch pockets that support a narrow tie belt. It has long set-in sleeves gathered to deep cuffs at the wrists. The skirt, attached to a body lining, is box-plaited at the front only. No. 1261 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years requires 1⅝ yards 36-inch plain material for skirt, with ⅝ yard lining for bodice top; blouse requires 2¼ yards 36-inch figured material, and ⅝ yard plain contrasting. Price 20 cents.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

MOVING DAY HINTS.

Moving may be done economically or expensively; it all depends upon the packing. Reliable and quick movers are essential, therefore it is best to employ those of good reputation.

The first rule is move clean and unencumbered by useless stuff. Books may be packed in folding pasteboard cases. Linens, all clean, and washable curtains, go in the linen trunk. There is usually room also for all the best blankets. In a packing trunk, fold neatly all the heavy draperies, table covers, sofa pillows, and any other draperies. Other pillows may be neatly stacked and covered with a sheet, carefully pinned. Personal clothing goes in personal trunks and bags.

Roll the mattresses and cover them with sheets, or leave them flat, covered with their gingham covers. In empty bureau drawers, or chiffonier drawers, pack light ornaments, light photograph frames, and little things that are light and frail. Pack all glassware in an open box or basket with soft papers between.

Two sugar barrels will carry an immense amount of china, if well packed with newspapers instead of hay or excelsior. It is not hard to pack china but it must be packed tightly. First wrap plates and set them against the side of the barrel, set platters well wrapped also, at the side against the barrel, in the center, pack the odd-shaped pieces, wedge around with well-wrapped pieces fitting things close together like fitting a puzzle.

Cover polished table tops with paper pads, well tied on. Leave large pictures open, small ones may be packed in groups, paper between, and tied securely. Some lamp shades may be packed in the drawers. A large hamper may be lined with paper and into it the better kitchen utensils can be packed, a clothes basket can also be used for the same purpose. Kitchen crockery and so on is best packed in a barrel by itself.

Ironing boards and table leaves, brush handles and rug beaters may be tied up firmly together. Tall lamps, or floor candlesticks should be neatly paper wrapped. Children's toys, after being carefully sorted, can be packed in the plaything box or a basket.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES AN AFTERNOON FROCK OF UNUSUAL DESIGN.

We have been awfully busy at the shops, lately, designing outfits for various brides of the season.

The bridal gowns themselves have been lovely, and then a number of the brides have ordered their entire trousseaux from Madame.

Today Madame spent most of her time on the frock above, which is only one of the lovely afternoon frocks she is including in the trousseau of a pretty young girl who is to be married soon.

The dress is quite striking in appearance, due to Madame's careful designing and choice of colors, for the design of a dress like this must be handled by someone who understands color combinations perfectly. In the first place, the foundation of the frock is navy blue crepe roma, made into a perfectly straight line dress with shallow neckline and long, tight sleeves.

The frock had progressed this far when the young girl came in today, and Madame gave her a fitting and planned the rest of the frock.

That is, she supplied herself with bolts and bolts of grosgrain ribbon from the stockroom. This ribbon was in three different colors, rose, yellow and soft blue, and in varying widths.

Then Madame set to work to plan the horizontal bands of ribbon which were to run around the frock.

The very widest, which happened to be soft blue, she applied as a hem, and from here up she planned alternate rows of the colors, the widths narrowing as they reached the upper part of the frock.

About the shallow neckline she put a row of the yellow grosgrain, which reappeared several times lower down on the frock and finished it with a bow and lots of short ends, on one shoulder of the frock.

Bands of Grosgrain in Rose, Yellow and Blue Trim This Navy Crepe.

"Now, Madame dear, what hat am I to wear with this ducky frock?" asked the young girl, who had stood patiently throughout the planning.

For answer Madame sent for the milliner, who returned with an almost finished hat of navy grosgrain, trimmed with wide rose grosgrain.

CHOPS AND BOOKS!

Kathleen Norris, author of "Mother" and "The Black Flemings," revels in her ranch home with huge oven built at one end of a rustic dining room in the forest.

Writing books in the morning, broiling picnic hike chops in the afternoon, is the not-so-bad program of Mrs. Norris. Her husband, Charles, author of "Pig Iron," is a writer, too, and likes picnic chops as well as his wife. Such duality, such scope for a woman, seems almost too good to be true!

FOOD FANCIES.

Fish and eels are not eaten by young Fijians until they are 21—I mean the Fijians, not the fish and eels. In New South Wales only the married men eat duck. But here's wagering no kind of man at any age refuses to eat a 3-8 inch slice of ham, fried slowly with 1-2 pint of maple syrup poured over it and four boiled and peeled sweet potatoe added. Yum! Yum!

Male members of some savage tribes, such as the Uripiv Islanders, eat with women at risk of death by other members of the tribe. And in northern Rhodesia where food is scarce men eat alone, explaining that the scarcity of food would tempt them to snatch food from the weaker women if at their table.

In our land, the man of the house serves the woman of the house first and no gal would "date" with a swain who did not pull out her chair for her before and after dancing.

TIPPING THE LID.

In days of olde when knightes were bolde, friendly knights raised their visor in meeting friends to show their amiable intent, which grew into the hat-tipping custom. Women are loathe to accompany escorts whose hat-tipping manners leave much to be desired. Women like escorts who remove their hats in hotel and club elevators, who tip hats to all women acquaintances met, of course, and who tip when speaking to elderly or more celebrated men acquaintances.

THE BRIDE.

"The something blue" which the bride wears is a remnant of the blue border in the dress of the ancient Israelites, signifying purity, love, and fidelity. Besides the "something blue" which our June brides wear are the silver slippers and silver veil band to match the silver-edged white prayer book.

BLUE RIBBONS AND MUSLIN.

Gowns white like drifting, foaming orchard petals are the robe of the hour. But think you not that they are the ingenue, sweet sixteen white gowns of yesteryear with blue ribbons pinned to muslin and lawn! They are opulent, exotic white gowns of satin and taffeta, crepe and brocade, worn with pastel velvet evening shawls and slippers of silver gauze.

LAUGHING ANN.

"When laughing Ann trips down the street
The sun comes out as well,
The town is at her twinkling feet,
The crier rings his bell,
The young men leap like little fish,
Policemen stand and purr,
While husbands look behind and wish
That they had married her."

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

WEDGING OF FOOD.

You have suffered the annoying experience of having stringy foods wedge between your teeth; and you wonder what can be done to remedy it.

Normally, teeth should be tight together with rounded contacts as when two marbles touch; but through tooth decay or from teeth 'drifting', this contact is lost.

The food then 'jams' between the teeth and is held there until released—with what results?

Obviously, decay is liable to be incited in this area.

Also this impacted food material presses upon the soft underlying tissues, until they become irritated and inflamed. Thus injured, they lose their 'tone,' and fall an easy prey to the micro-organisms that cause disease.

Then follows the destruction of this wedge-shaped tissue between the teeth; a 'pocket' is formed, which, becoming infected, results in the progressive destruction of the supporting structures of the teeth, which are then lost.

You see, then, what grave damage can result from so simple a cause.

Now, the remedy! It is not the toothpick, which, through its indiscriminate use, may do further harm, and which at best provides but temporary relief.

But, where this 'wedging' is first noticed, the insertion of a filling in one or both of the involved teeth to restore the contact, will clear up the trouble.

This may even necessitate the removal of a faulty filling already in place, but far better this than to suffer the prolonged discomforts from 'wedging food,' with its train of grave consequences, should it go unchecked.

COLLECTORS OF ANTIQUE.

If you clean your antique brasses with oil and rotten stone or with tripoli, they will retain their rich yellow tone, and they will be infinitely more decorative than if you allow them to be dark and tarnished.

Women's purses and handbags made of ostrich skin are a new fancy in Paris.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL of TODAY

GREATER THAN LOVE.

"Judy," said Mamie Riley to me, when Buddy Tremaine asked me if I thought he could ever have loved a woman like Lola Lawrence, I turned rather sick.

"While I did not think that he could have done this, yet I was also sure that he had tried to make himself satisfied with that counterfeit thing which men sometimes call love.

"Everyone, I expect, even Buddy's wife, thought that Lola Lawrence was Buddy Tremaine's mistress and here I was toying with the same idea about myself. I was thinking that possibly everyone might at some future time suspicion that I was his mistress.

"Judy, I love him. Love him so much that I will be his, soul and body, if he asks me, and what will I get for it? Only what he has given Lola Lawrence and a score of others. Buddy Tremaine has nothing of himself to give to me. He has thrown it all away. Oh, the waste of it!

"I know that will sound queer to those who know him. He has the reputation of lavishing jewels and furs and every material gift on the woman that pleases his fancy for the time.

"I want none of those. But oh, Judy, I do want his real love, his tenderness, his sympathy, and I do want the knowledge that I have someone to turn to for these and that someone will not fail me."

I looked at Mamie in surprise. Did she expect to get these things from a man who was buying her just as he had bought many other women?

Before I could ask the question she answered it of her own accord.

"Of course, Judy, the first thing Buddy said to me was that I had no right to throw such a thing away as my voice.

"'Mamie,' he said, 'there are some things in this world that are of more account than even love. The poet who sings to the world of his broken heart gives a poignant beauty and consolation to many other hearts which would be much sadder if he had not sung his song.'

"'I may break your heart, dear, but I do not think I will, and it really will not matter about your life or mine. We are, after all, only pawns on checker boards of destiny.'

"Judy, he made me understand that my voice was worth more than either himself or myself."

TOMORROW: A Gift of Self.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, MAY 18.

The planetary configurations for this day point to the necessity for extreme caution in the renewing of contracts, signing agreements, and in the handling of all manner of papers, writings and publications, lest there be fraud or misrepresentation. Likewise, make all changes, removals or journeys cautiously. In all that concerns domestic, social, artistic or romantic affairs there should be happy and flourishing conditions under the gracious rule of Venus.

Those whose birthday it is are enjoined to sigh all manner of papers or documents with caution and to be alert for fraud or misrepresentation in making contracts, etc., during the year. All heart and home affairs should thrive and give pleasure. A child born on this day may be talented, accomplished, probably artistic, but may require rigorous training and discipline in the matter of truth and veracity. It should be popular and well-liked.

Fashion Doubles and Redoubles the Inverted Plait

One's joie de vivre must not be hampered by one's dress. There is room and to spare for the restless age to have its fling in a frock that wears two inverted plaits before and two more behind. The simple little frock of the illustration has fumble-proof raglan sleeves that waste no time at the armhole; bloomers that take all the embarrassment out of one's ups and downs; the most adorable of tiny collar and cuffs and pockets for anything interesting that one might meet in a day's play. It is a smart style for pin-dot swiss, cotton or sateen prints of tiny design, etc.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID FINDS AN INTERESTING LITTLE LADY.

David tossed his wide-rimmed hat into the air but failed to imprison the pretty butterfly.

"Never mind, I'll get you yet," he laughed, picking up his hat. "I'll wait until you settle on that bush and then I'll——"

"What's the big idea?" asked a small voice, and David glanced around to see who was talking. "You don't need to pretend you don't know who's speaking," again laughed the tiny voice. "It's Mrs. Hop Merchant," and the little brownish-gray butterfly settled on a leaf right near David's nose. "Why do you want to catch me, David?"

"Well," David replied laughing merrily and stepping closer to the butterfly lady: "I just wanted to see what kind of a butterfly you are. What did you say your name is?"

"Mrs. Hop Merchant," replied the little brown-winged creature. "Some folks say the markings on my wings look like a comma, so they call me Comma Butterfly."

"But why, the 'Hop' to your name?" laughed David. "Surely, you don't hop?"

"Goodness, no," chuckled the butterfly. "Im called Hop Butterfly because I lay my eggs on the hop vines. That's what I've been doing this morning, laying my eggs on your Daddy's hop vines."

"Really?" exclaimed David, all excitement. "Oh, I wish I cou'd see them. May I?"

"Why Do You Want to Catch Me?"

Mrs. Hop Merchant led the way to the hop vines and, sure enough, there on the underside of the hop leaves were Mrs. Hop Merchant's tiny eggs laid in string like clusters, dangling down from the leaf.

"And they'll hatch right here?" asked David. "Do you lay them all at once?"

"No, indeed," laughed Mrs. Hop Merchant. "I lay them one at a time. The ones fastened to the leaf are laid first and——"

"But they'll hatch first and what will become of the others?" questioned David. "I should think the others would fall off before they hatch."

"Well, that's a queer thing," replied Mrs. Hop Merchant. "Although the eggs nearest the leaf are laid first, they hatch last. The ones down here chew their way out of the eggshell first and clamber over the other eggs to the leaf. TheW the next eggs will and so on, until the ones fastened to the leaf hatch out the very last. You will come out here one of these days and find a crowd of wee, little, white caterpillars all speckled with reddish-brown dots. Then when they are about a month old they'll spin their cradles and from them they'll hatch out into real Hop Merchants. But I must be on my way now. Take good care of my babies," and, spreading her pretty, little brown wings, Mrs. Hop Merchant sailed away.

David watched her out of sight, then he ran into the house to tell Mama what he had learned about the wee butterfly.

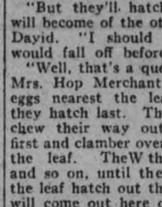
Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.



The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

ON THE WAY TO MISTER SNOOPSY'S.

"Now my fortune is all gone!" said the little Whiffet. "I gave it all to that queer Dingbat in the side-show."

"Well, what's the difference?" said Nick. "He told you where to find your shadow, didn't he? You won't need money any more."

"I hope not," said the little Rag-bag fellow. "If I don't find it soon, my beautiful purple bombazine suit will be worn out and now that Mom and Pop have had to move out of the rag-bag into the hat box, I shall never get another."

"Oh, bombazine never wears out!" cried Nancy. "It says so on the back of Mrs. Darlington Willowby James."

"Mrs. Who?" almost shrieked the little Whiffet.

"Mrs. Darlington Willowby James, the one with the green tea-gown and her hands under her chin," said Nancy. "She's my best."

The Whiffet looked so queer that Nick laughed. "That's one of her paper-dolls," he said. "She's got words on her back."

"Yes, but it's all right," nodded Nancy. "Black and white are quite good for underthings now, and Mother says—"

"Dear me," said the poor little Whiffet. "I'm getting kind of dizzy. I'd certainly like to find my shadow."

"I know," said Nancy, patting him. "I shouldn't mix you up with things. But you mentioned bombazine and I thought I'd tell you. Now then. Where did that queer person in the show tell us to go?"

"He said to hunt up Mister Snoopsy," said Nick, "He's a pirate who lives in a cave between Hidy Go Land and the sea."

"It sounds terrible," said the Whiffet.

"Well, it isn't," said someone. "Not tearable at all! Both Towser and I have been at it all day, he at one end and I at the other, and it won't give an inch."

There sat a puppy dog with a red tongue, panting as though he had run the whole way to Kalamazoo and back.

"What are you talking about?" asked the Whiffet crossly. "More paper-dolls?"

"Not paper! Rag!" barked the puppy. "Somebody left it outside last night and Towser and I found it, so we agreed to take half apiece. But it wouldn't tear."

"I should say not!" remarked a Rag Doll, getting up suddenly from the grass where she had fainted. "I'm stuffed with the best white cotton and my skin is made of sugar-sacking. As for my dress, it's just odds and ends. But they are very good odds and ends, the best in the rag-bag."

"Rag-bag!" cried the Whiffet. "Was it Mrs. Brown's rag-bag?"

"Yes," nodded the Rag Doll.

Suddenly the Whiffet shouted out, "Why, your apron is exactly like my suit. It's purple bombazine too! We're cousins!" And what did he do but throw his short arms around the astonished Rag Doll's neck and kiss her soundly.

"I've just come from Hidy Go Land," said the Rag Doll. "I'm on my way home."

"Hidy Go Land!" cried Nancy and Nick and the little Whiffet together. "Do you know Mister Snoopsy?"

"I should say so," said the Rag Doll. "He sneaks around and steals things in Hidy Go Land. He takes ALL the lost pennies. Barrels of them!"

"Does he steal shadows?" asked the Whiffet fearfully.

"I should say so," said the Rag Doll. "He steals them and makes them do his work."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

Edson R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT it takes business co-operation to build better cities.

THAT a Chamber of Commerce furnishes a meeting ground for all business interests as a whole.

THAT at their meetings local situations can be discussed and plans made and carried out to meet the needs of the home city.

THAT all business people are mutually interested in the development of better business for the whole community.

THAT common-sense business-like co-operation will always bring most satisfactory results.

THAT business co-operation will always bring order out of chaos.

THAT when the men who have faith in the home city and whose ambitions are not confined to their own selfish selves co-operate together through their Chamber of Commerce, the home city will always progress faster.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

oD you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now by McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.

Omemee Register 2-1 Victory on Home Pitch from Masseys

OMEMEE WON LEAGUE POINTS AT MASSEYS' COST IN FAST SOCCER

Roy Black Scored For Omemee After 20 Minutes of Play.

SCORE TWO TO ONE.

Laidler Equalized In Closing Period—McGill Scored From Outside Defence.

Ideal weather prevailed on Saturday afternoon for the soccer game between Omemee E. and E. and the Masseys in a league fixture, at Omemee. Just seven minutes before the final whistle was blown, Bob McGill started a bombardment against the Masseys defense which terminated in the ball being diverted through the goal when the ball bounced off a knoll in front of the uprights, past the Massey custodian, for them to win two to one.

Omemee Very Aggressive

Masseys lost the toss and had to kick up the slight grade on the pitch. Willis made tracks for goal but Butler cleared to R. Black who dribbled along the wing at a fast pace until within shooting range. His centre was repelled by Grant's head, just as Brooks was waiting the result. Halliday carried the ball into his left wing, Burchell tackled to gain possession and placed his parting shot in close proximity to Petes' goal.

Wag Hotston (who was playing goalkeeper) fisted clear. Omemee retaliated quickly to gain a clever opening, Grant and Brooks mixed things up and penalized Omemee on a referee's decision. Ten minutes had fully gone before the Masseys made any progress up field. The Petes half-backs altered their tactics from close passing to a swinging ball. This change worked wonders to their benefit because James' solo run to Omemee goal deserved a better reward than a fruitless corner.

McGill-Black Wing Smart

From the goal kick, Lunn trapped the ball in mid-field, slipped it forward to Leiper who in turn passed back to his centre-man. Halliday intervened nicely but McGill replied in close-dribbling that finally left R. Black with the ball and at the opportune moment to open the scoring from the touch-line, the Massey goalkeeper accidently touching the sphere through from the rocket shot. Encouraged by their success, the Omemee eleven hemmed the Petes defense into goal and kept Hotston busy clearing his charge.

At last, the prolonged seige terminated in a break-away by Foster into Omemee's territory. The defense tackled the visitor to no advantage. By this time James was in readiness to convert from the left wing pass but a misunderstanding let Omemee save the situation and Blowers put past.

Play Very Even

Exchanges were even thereafter, with both half-back lines giving no latitude with the ball. Both goals went under siege for a while until Brooks broke through. Mann tackled as the opponent let his wing man take the ball. Quick as a flash, Roy Black shot from the wing to strike the upright. Grant cleared to James who went through on his own to be held very closely. He passed the ball back to Captain Blowers who ripped a fast one over the cross-bar. It was seldom that Peterboro were able to get away from the more important part they had to play in defending from almost constant Omemee attacks. Eventually the referee's announcement of half-time brought the much sought relief.

Omemee 1; Masseys 0.

Half Time

When the second half started it was seen that Foster and Ted Hotston had changed places. Peterboro had the advantage of the wind and were at once down on Brook's charge to cause Omemee full backs a lot of anxiety. Lunn transferred the play up field but Blowers punted into goal again. His forwards made progress through combination James outwitted three men in succession to place his inside man in possession of the ball, four feet from goal. To the surprise of all and the shout of "Oh" the Massey player banged the ball past the upright, instead of touching it through.

Massey Equalized

Two minutes later the same performance was enacted with Laidler again holding the upper hand when he made amends by equalizing from close range. They came back again to the Omemee goal but the defence tactics were superb in every department. It was pleasant to view the clean and clever tactics that held sway for a while until Rhodes, accepting a pass from Burchell, travelled into the Massey area to gain a foul kick at Halliday's expense. All the players crowded into goal but Lunn's punt went up in the air over the bar. Again Massey's retaliated through combination into the goal area where Foster missed an open goal when a few feet out.

Play Very Fast

The ball travelled from end to end in quick rotation for a while and Omemee gained the advantage on play when McGill repeatedly dribbled his way through the defense to test the Massey goal-keeper with long range shots. At this point Roy Black indulged in wing springing and swinging passes into goal which brought into prominence the heading facilities of Grant and Mann. McGill trapped the ball, [illegible] out to his left wing, but Montgomery intervened quickly to let James away upfield. He transferred the ball to Ted Hotston who landed it in below the crossbar where Omemee's custodian cleared in mid-air. J. Black headed forward then punted to McGill who dribbled up field.

The Winning Goal

In transit, he was encountered with close checking but held on to the ball until he had a shot. Blowers and Mann thought that their goal-keeper would stop the ball but it bounced on a little hillock a few feet from goal and swerved through the goal, thereby giving Hotston no chance to save. Masseys made a strong reply and for a while Omemee were kept strictly on the defensive, Brooks saving again and again from all angles and doing it extremely well. A break-away by R. Black brought nothing to account. Play was in mid-field during the closing minutes and Omemee walked off the field with a brace of points in the league. Omemee 2; Masseys 1.

Goal scorers—Roy Black and McGill for Omemee; Laidler for Masseys.

Omemee — John Brooks, goal; Jack Black and Butler, full backs; Burchell, Lunn and Nicol, half backs; Rhodes, Leiper J. Brooks, McGill and R. Black, forwards.

Masseys—"Wag" Hotston, goal; Mann and Grant, backs; Montgomery, Halliday and Blowers, half backs; Willis, Laidler, James, T. Hotston and Foster.

Referee—Alex McKinley; linesmen—J. Leiper and T. Stewart.

Notes on the Game

The Peterboro boys left the city in one fo Cooney and Jopling's big buses at 2.15 and made a fast trip to Omemee. They immediately returned after the game to be back again at 6.45 in a very happy mood that was enlivened by singing en route. Everyone enjoyed a splendid outing.

Butler who played left back for Omemee, used to be with the Quaker Oats two seasons ago.

The two Lindsay players, Burchell at right half and Rhodes made a very favorable impression on the fans.

According to reports in Omemee, Lunn is leaving for new quarters, perhaps a Hamilton team but Mr. Leiper, manager of the team, anticipates a full back from Toronto Defenders and Gilpon, the star centre half of the Toronto Scottish, to strengthen his eleven.

Omemee's playing pitch is not in perfect order yet but will be all right once they apply the heavy roller to the ground.

Soccer In Canada Now The Equal To Any Played

Roy Black, the fast outside left of the E. and E. Omemee Soccer team, who has played with many of the first class teams throughout the province, remarked to the Examiner reporter: "the class of soccer now being played in Canada is equal to any that is being given in the Old Country." He continued in a very serious mood: "I am speaking from experience of my opening game this season when playing for Toronto Scottish in Robertson (Toronto) Cup Final. His opening goal against the Masseys was of the million dollar kind.

SOFTBALL RESULTS.

Champion Clerks Win Game Over Nervous St. Mary's Team.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17—St. Mary's made their debut in the Softball League, by losing to the champion Clerks, 18 to 6, in a scheduled game at the Agricultural Grounds Friday night. The newcomers were apparently nervous before the large crowd and made many errors, while the Clerks played steady ball in the field, St. Mary's were up against stiff opposition in their opening game, and with a little more practice and team play will be heard from later.

BUFFALO BEAT OWEN CARROLL

Toronto Star's First Defeat After Seven Straight Victories.

SYRACUSE WIN.

BUFFALO, May 16 (Canadian Press).—Buffalo defeated Toronto for the third time in two days, today's score being 15 to 7. It was Carroll's first defeat after winning seven straight. The Maple Leafs scored their seven tallies in the fourth, mainly through the wildness of Lucey, who relieved Bolen after the latter had been touched for two singles. Scores:

WINDSOR BEAT MONTREAL C.N.R.

WINDSOR, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Saturday afternoon, before 8,000 spectators, Windsor defeated Montreal C.N.R. by 2 to 0 in an Inter-Provincial League engagement. The game was brimful of brilliant soccer, and was the fastest ever seen in Windsor.

BUBBLING OVER WINS KENTUCKY DERBY IN ROMP

Five Lengths Ahead of Stable Mate Baggenbaggage Before 70,000 Crowd.

PAID $50,575.

E. R. Bradley's Entry Third To Finish in Saturday's Order.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Bubbling Over carried the E. R. Bradley colors to victory in the fifty-second Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday. His stable mate, Bagenbaggage, finished second, marking the first time that any stable's entry had finished one two after having won and placed in a previous Derby Rockman was third and Rhincock fourth, in the field of thirteen colts.

Bubbling Over's time for the mile and a quarter was 2.03 4-5, within two-fifths of a second of the Derby record set by Old Rosebud in 1914. Before the greatest throng that ever witnessd the classic of American turfdom, the stouthearted son of North Star III.-Beaming Beauty raced to the front in the first quarter of a mile and stayed there. He finished five lengths ahead of his stablemate who was three lengths ahead of Rockman.

$50,575 To Winner.

The race was worth $50,575 to the winner which with the $6,000 for the second horse, made the race worth $56,575 to the master of Idle Hour Farm.

The western colts repulsed the strongest invasion out of the east in years, for Bubbling Over, Bagenbaggage and Rhinock are Kentucky hoses, classed as the "west" in turf parlance, and Rockman, a Maryland animal, was the only eastern entry as good as fourth. Headed by Pompey, champion two-year-old of 1925, such sterling runners as Rockman, Canter, Espino and Display went down to defeat in the dust of the flying heels of the Kentucky-bred thoroughbreds. Rockman was the only eastern horse that could stand the pace.

The Bradley entry paid the surprisingly good odds of $5.8r for straigth and place tickets and $4.60 to show on a $2 pari-mutuel ticket. Rockman paid $30 to show.

Called to the post at 5.05 o'clock, it took Starter Hamilton four minutes to get them away, chiefly due to the antics of Recollection and Display.

Crowd of 70,000.

"They're off!" roared the crowd, estimated as high at 70,000, as the colts reared up and plunged into action. Hustled to the rail by Jockey A. Johnson, Bubbling Over began to open up ground between himself and the field. Pompey, fighting to retain his crown, charged into second place and set the early pace. So terrific was this speed that the leader passed the quarter pole in 23 seconds, a half length separating the two horses. Rockman was third.

Rounding the first turn, Pompey moved up to challenge the Bradley colt. The latter hustled away and Pompey was through as a contender Rockman took up the challenge when Pompey fell back and at the three-quarter pole on the backstretch was a length away from the speeding leader.

On they came, around the back turn and to the head of the stretch. Bubbling Over had moved away from the field and was three lengths ahead of Bagenbaggage, who had been coming along steadily as Bubbling Over shook of his pursuers. As they rounded the last turn, the Bradley entry had a clear field and easy sailing. Rockman had failed to last and was third. Pompey was fourth and Rhincock, who came steadily, had moved from eighth to fifth place. Bubbling Over, having negotiated the mile in 1.38 1-5 seconds opened wider the gap between him and the pack, winning by five lengths. Bagenbaggage was three lengths ahead of Rockman, who beat Rhinock out of show money by a neck. Pompey finished sixth, Light Carbine seventh, Canter eighth, Blondin ninth and Display tenth.

Recollection, Champ De Mars and Roycrofter, clearly outclassed from start to finish, ran like platers.

Replete With Thrills.

In all its glorious history, the Kentucky Derby has never been so replete with thrills. Not only did the Bradley entry of 1921, when Behave Yourself and Black Servant won and placed in the forty-ninth renewal, but the victory marked the fourth time this year that Bradley's horses have finished in the order they did Saturday.

Bagenbaggage won the Louisiana Derby and Boot to Boot, who was scratched out of Saturday's race, was second. Twice at Lexington, once with Baggenbaggage and Barcolo and once with Bubbling Over and Boot to Boot, the Bradley colors sailed past the winning post the winners.

The race marked the third time that an entry has finished in the order that horses did Saturday. Sir Barton and Billy Kelly, from stable of Commander J. K. L. Ross, were the first to do it, in 1919.

The United States, Great Britain and France are to engage in a series of international tennis matches in Paris, beginning May 31.

N. H. L. FRANCHISES TO DETROIT, CHICAGO AND NEW YORK RANGERS TEN CLUB CIRCUIT NEXT WINTER

New Rinks Must Be Far Advanced By September, League Stipulates.

MEET IN MONTREAL.

Law Suit Against Frank Patrick For Sale of Western Players.

MONTREAL, Que., May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Providing work has advanced far enough on the rinks to assure a home for the clubs to start scheduled games in November, Chicago and Detroit will have teams in the National Hockey League next season. The major pro hockey circuit will be a ten-club loop, the New York Rangers, Tack Hadwick's Chicago Club and the Townsend-Seybourn Detroit Club having been granted franchises in the major professional league at the concluding session of the semi-annual meeting held here Saturday.

Col. Hammond's New York Rangers are officially in and the Chicago and Detroit clubs are definitely in, providing their building plans next September satisfy the league directors. Paddy Harmon's application for a franchise for Chicago was considered and after some discussion it was resolved that, if it was in the best interests of the league so to do, a second Chicago franchise would be granted for 1927-28, with the Harmon-Hall interests getting first consideration.

Harmony At Last.

Thus ended the semi-annual meeting, which has sat on three different occasions since the middle of April and which at one stage became so stormy that an impasse was reached which threatened dire results. However, the path has apparently been fairly well cleared and the final session ended with all clubs in apparent harmony—all signing an agreement to be binding for 15 years that they would stand together for mutual benefit and co-operation—and would not flirt with propose new circuits.

With the addition of the Chicago and Detroit clubs, it is likely that at the annual meeting of the league next September a decision will be reached to operate the circuit in two sections, each section playing out a full schedule of games, interspersed with intersectional battles—the winners of the section playing off for the Stanley Cup.

Change Constitution.

Following the deadlock which was reached at the last meeting two weeks ago when the New York Americans opposed the entry of only one team in Chicago—and a unanimous vote was required to admit new clubs—an amendment to the constitution Saturday paved the way for the entry of the Hardwick team of Chicago and the Detroit club backed by Wesley Seybourn. A notice of motion was filed at the last meeting as a move to overcome the apparent impasse. This called for a change in the constitution requiring only a majority vote to admit new clubs instead of a unanimous vote. The necessary two-thirds majority was obtained to so change the constitution, the vote being reported at 6-2 and New York Americans and Canadiens named as the dissenting clubs.

To Revise Rules.

Playing rules of the league are to be overhauled, a committee of President Frank Calder and all the playing managers being named to study the code and report their recommendations to annual meeting next September. It is likely the committee will confer with the amateur teams in an effort to get a uniform hockey code for next winter.

The application for a franchise for Cleveland, filed by W. T. Douglas, of Cleveland, was tabled for one year. New York Rangers were officially admitted, the rule calling for admittance only at annual meetings going by the boards with the amendment to the constitution.

Suit Threatened.

While matters were more harmonious than in recent gatherings of the league, there was one cloud floated over the horizon. John Callaghan, a local lawyer, informed the delegates that Mr. Thompson, of Edmonton, who claims an interest in the Edmonton Club, planned starting a suit against Frank Patrick and Kenny McKenzie, in connection with the sale of Western Hockey League players to Chicago and Detroit interests. Mr. Thompson claims that Patrick and McKenzie were not within their rights in disposing of the clubs and players.

Mr. Sears, of Boston, prominently identified with the formation of the minor pro league to operate in Boston, Providence, Springfield and other neighboring centres, held a watching brief in connection with the decisions of the N.H.L. at Saturday's meetings. His league proposes to operate as a minor group and with a working agreement with the N.H.L.

MONTREAL WINS SOCCER OPENER

Scots Earned Spurs in Fast Game With Toronto City.

SCORE WAS 3-2.

MONTREAL, Que., May 17. — Montreal's new professional soccer team—Montreal Scottish—earned their spurs in their first match at Thornton Park on Saturday, by a 3-2 win over the visiting Toronto city eleven.

The match was played at a fast pace throughout, with the exception of a brief lull towards the end of the first period. The second session was even more spirited than its predecessor and a keen struggle for mastery was only ended by the expiration of time.

Exactly nine minutes after the kick-off Jackson led the Toronto team on a successful invasion and, after neatly tricking Smith, the Toronto centre sent the ball into the corner of the local net.

Within six minutes however, Scottish had wiped out the arrears when Marshall scored from close quarters after a pretty combination play. No further scoring took place until six minutes from the interval when Stafford sent Sams on the route for the third counter. The inside right jockeyed for position and swerved the ball into the corner of the net.

After twenty-five minutes of the second half, the Scottish had the score reading 3-1. The advantage was not long maintained, as within another five minutes M. Stewart had wormed his way through the Montreal defence to beat Hodgkinson for Toronto's second goal, and put the visitors again within striking distance of their opponents. The score was the signal for renewed effort by the visitors, but they were playing against time, and the remaining fifteen minutes, replete with clever play, expired without afteration in the score.

Montreal Scottish: Hodgkinson, Smith, Massie, Sinclair, Stafford, Greer, Lymer, Sams, Marshall, Tait and Harrowing.

Toronto City: Fraser, Melrose, Woods, Bissett, Cartwright J. Stewart, Barron, H. Stewart, Jackson, Cooper and Sorbie.

Touring Antipodeans Show Fine Form Against Marylebone.

GAME AT LORD'S.

LONDON, May 17 (Canadian Press Cable).—The touring Australian cricket team opened their fifth game at Lord's Saturday, when they engaged in what was expected to be a severe test against the Marylebone Cricket Club. Eighteen thousand fans thronged the famous cricket-ground and Saw Richardson, whom the Australians have held more or less in reserve up till now, carry out some tremendous executions among the M. C. C. batsmen.

At first the M. C. C. batted confidently and with vigor, following a bad beginning, when MacBryan was retired on a catch by woodful off Gregory, Stevens and Hendren, staged a long and profitable partnership. Hendren was the first to go at 33, and A. M. Carr entered briefly on the scene, to be dismissed, however, with a count of five. Chapman succeeded him, and together Chapman and Stevens continued to score heavily. With three wickets down M. C. C. had their score standing at 147 and looked like putting up a tremenous fight.

At this point, however, the collapse began and a regular procession was staged from the club-house to the wicket. The rest of the team were able to add only fifty-two more runs to the brilliant total of the first three, and in that fifty-two there were a couple of zeros, a one and a three. Foster and and Falcon were the only batsmen who were able to get into double figures.

Richardson accounted for six wickets, Collins three and Gregory 1. A curious feature was that three of the M. C. C. batsmen, Foster, Astill and Kennedy were dismissed leg before wicket, while Hendren was the only player to be "clean bowled." The others, MacBryan, Stevens, Carr, Chapman, Haig and Frankline were caught out with Richardson doing his own honors in the case of Stevens and Carr.

The Australians sent in Oldfield and Taylor to commence their first innings, but there was only five minutes of playing-time left, and after having started off with twelve runs, they closed the day's play. Oldfield and Taylor will resume for the tourists on Monday.

The visitors have been unfortunate over the week-end.

A NEW TEST FOR CONCRETE.

The United States Bureau of Standards has developed an electrical device, called a "telemeter," to measure accurately the stresses and changes of pressure in a solid concrete structure. The telemeter, says Popular Science Monthly, consists of a stack of carbon disks, both ends of which are connected by electric wires with recording instruments. The electrical resistance of the carbon disks varies with the pressure put upon them.

A concrete dam in course of construction in California will be tested to the breaking point by the new device.

THISTLE WON FROM DE LAVAL

Johnny Ward Scored Four Goals and Hutton Two For Thistle.

SCORE SIX TO ONE.

The two local teams, the DeLaval and Thistle, met in a league match on Saturday afternoon on Nicholls Oval before a fair attendance of spectators who viewed the Thistle in great form to win by six goals to one.

First Half.

Both teams were late in starting. DeLaval won the toss and Johnny Ward, who made his appearance at centre forward in place of Hugh Richmond, set the ball a-rolling. After twenty minutes exchanges, Buchan passed an accurate opening to Ward for the opening counter. DeLaval made things interesting in the Thistle area but bunched altogether in their anxiety to score. A break away by the Thistle forwards ended in W. Hutton making the "Jags" score two. DeLaval were not idle in any respect but could not get going properly. Anderson was cautioned for an infringement, the free kick resulting in nothing definite. The Thistle saw the advantage they had in Ward in centre forward, where speed counts nowadays in the new off side rule. He notched two goals before half time, making Thistle 4, DeLaval 0.

Second Half.

The second half opened up at a fast pace. Each goal was visited in rotation that resulted in corner kicks and freee kicks of no account. The Thistle increased their total to 6 through Hutton and Ward. Pulley was the marksman for the Separator boys.

Thistle 6; DeLaval 0.

Goal scores: Warde 4, W. Hutton 2 for the Thistle; Pulley for DeLaval.

Referee, J. C. Russell.

DeLaval: Jones goal, Honour and Bishop backs; J. Smith, Cooper, Edwards half backs; Fowler, E. Smith, Lindsay, Pulley and Hanson forwards.

Thistle: Griffin goal; Scott and Anderson, backs; Buchan, Wade and Bromley, half backs; Gore, W. Hutton, Ward, McPhate and Mayette, forwards.

BOBBY CRUICKSHANK—PLAYIN SHORT ONES.

If the ball is sunk in the sand use a niblick, because it has a sharp blade and cuts through the sand easily.

Tighten the grip as the club-head approaches the ball on the down swing.

If the ball lies clean on the sand, an iron or jigger should be used, or even a spoon, if the lie and distance warrant. The sand may be slightly scraped by the sole of the clubs or the ball may be hit cleanly. When playing in sand always make sure that the feet are firmly planted. Other wise the power of the blow will be lessened. I always dig my heels into the sand until they are firmly set.

A firm stance, steady body, steady head and elbows held well into the body will always aid greatly in the short game.

A player should make up his mind as to the distance of the shot and decide definitely which club is best to use. If it is a mashie-rion, mashie-niblick, or mashie shot to the green, he should select a point on, or near, the green to play for.

BILLY EVANS SAYS.

Severe Handicap.

"Bring back those pitchers to me!" Words and music by Jakie Atz, manager of the Fort Worth team of the Texas League.

Joe Pate, who won 20 games for Atz last season is now with the Philadelphia Athletics. He recently made his major league debut at 33 years of age by defeating Washington.

"Lefty" Johns, now a member of the Detroit Tygers, won the same number and lost only eight games, four less than Pate. Johns also won his first start against Cleveland.

Losing two pitchers who turned in 40 victories last season seems to have upset Fort Worth's pennant strategy. During the first three weeks of play the club has floundered around the cellar.

Atz, who has won six straight pennants in the Texas league for Fort Worth and five Dixie series in the same time from the pennant winners of the Southern Association, is having mighty rough sledding. No wonder he is singing

"Bring back those pitchers to me."

Bench Managers.

Bench managers once again have the call over playing leaders in the majors. The odds are 9-7 in favor of the bench directors.

The American League has five playing managers as against two in the National. Of late years the American has been in the habit of giving star players, who so desired, an opportunity to manage.

Hornsby, the biggest celebrity in the National League, is one of the few stars in that circuit to enact the managerial role.

On the other hand, five of the most brilliant players in the junior circuit, Cobb, Speaker, Sisler, Harris and Collins, are not only playing but managing as well.

* * *

Average Success.

The success attained by American League stars, on the whole, has been above the average. Stanley Harris has turned in two pennant winners and one world championship, while Tris Speaker has one of each to his credit.

Managing a major league ball club is a man's job itself without doing any playing. If a star is temperamentally fitted to handle men, his chances to deliver are much better.

However, it is often the case that the work of the star player is impaired by the added duties of the mangger. There are many sides to the argument for and against the policy of making managers of star players.

* * *

College Star.

Steve O'Neill, star catcher of the Cleveland Indians when they won a pennant and world series in 1920, is back in the minors this year. He's catching for Toronto of the International League.

On the Toronto club this year is Pitcher Owen Carroll, former Holy Cross star, who is still the property of the Detroit Tygers.

Carroll is the young man who lost only two games in four years of college twirling and turned in something like 50 victories. On joining the Tygers, Carroll found the style of play decidedly different in the big show, and just couldn't win.

I worked the first two ball games Carroll pitched in the majors. I predicted success for him despite defeat, but thought he was a year or two away.

Under the direction of Steve O'Neill, who is catching him at Torohto, Carroll is a consistent winner.

"Carroll looks letter in every start. He will be a finished pitcher at the close of the season, ready to jump to the majors and deliver."

That is Steve's impression of Carroll, who, by the way, is of the opinion that O'Neill should come back to the majors as his catcher.

Canadian newspapers are flashing close-ups, middle-views and long-offs of the English labor uprising, rushed to these shores by radio, cable, homing pigeons and sign language.

This marks another rearward-forward movement in scientific progress and is comparable only to the creation of reversible handkerchiefs and non-squeaking chewing gum.

Outstanding virtues in cable-radio pictures is remarkable haste with which they can be dispatched from a given point to any editor's first page.

This is probably what John McGraw meant when he kicked over a table at the Lambs Club and shouted "Et tu Brutus, or who said you could pitch?"

Your near-sighted aunt from the country may complain that she has taken better pictures with her Brownie No. 2 camera—will you ever forget that shot of the parson and his canary at the strawberry festival last summer—but science must exact a little discouragement.

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—No other industry has so much horseplay commingled with its production activities as the movies, including such semi-savage pleasantries as the electrically charged "set" chair which catapults the unwary with an excellent imitation of shell-shock, and the ribald tortures inflicted by many directors upon minor employes hired as the official fools.

A more dignified buffoonery was initiated on the Valentino "Son of the Sheik" set when Hezi Tate, assistant director to George Fitzmaurice, inaugurated a gilded derby hat as a fool's cap for anyone suffering directorial reprimand. Every member of the technical staff had donned th esymbol of disgrace in turn.

Only Fitzmaurice remained ignorant of its significance. One day the director stumbled over a cable and let loose a volley of expletives.

The tactless property boy, then wearing the derby, considered this sufficient cause for transfer of the crown, and solemnly placed it on Fitz' head.

Only the quick explanations and pleas of Valentino saved the prop boy from being fired on the spot. The director grinned and wore it for five minutes. Boys will be boys.

Film folk, especially producers, have accepted with a great deal of doubt, although an original shock, the statement that Paramount has agreed to produce Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" as written.

How, they ask, can it be done, censorship and box office requirements being what they are?

For here is stark, relentless plumbing of emotional deeps. The only previous essay of ecomplte screen fidelity to a tragic novel was the filming of "McTeague" under the title "Greed," whose box office history is known.

Paramount is said to have paid $95,000 for the rights to Dreiser's book.

CAN'T GET TEAM.

Lew LeBarr Unable To Get Lacrosse Team Here For May 24.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17—Lew LeBarr of Peterborough has notified T. J. Horkins, chairman of the sport committee, that it will be impossible for him to get up a team of lacrosse players to play at the Victoria Day celebration here for Mayor's trophy as not more than five Peteborough men are available for that date. An arrangement, however, has been made to overcome this difficulty so that the lacrosse contest as already advertised will be held. Hastings will furnish enough players to make up a team with Peterborough. William Sarginson was in Hastings Saturday afternoon and received assurance from William Clapper, the lacrosse man of that village, that this could be done.

CRICKET.

The Peterboro Club opened their away matches, when practically the entire club journeyed to Port Hope on Saturday last, to play the first and second elevens of Trinity College School. The weather was ideal for cricket, the sky being cloudless, though there was a little wind with just the sharpness in it to make one move around snappily to keep warm. The ground was not in the usual billiard table shape as one is accustomed to see, and both pitch and outfield was soggy, which favored the clow bowlers, though not the fast ones.

Both Peterboro teams were unfortunate in losing the toss, for both T.C.S. captains elected to bat first. The games started around three o'clock and finished at 6.30, both the local teams losing, though they were by no means disgraced. If the word "breaks" could be used in writing up a cricket game, it would certainly apply to the play of the first team, for several hard chances at catches were given, but not accepted which might have materially affected the results, thought it cannot be denied the fielding of the locals was not in the class that drew commendations from visiting teams last year. This is hardly to be wondered at so early in the season, with only the little practice it has been possible to obtain in this late season. Post mortems are not agreeable at any time, least of all in cricket, and should be discouraged, but one cannot refrain from remarking that the Peterboro bowling, though exceptionally good, might have been rewarded with better results, had it been varied more, by mixing up the slow with the fast instead of the fast at both ends, with a spell of slows at both ends.

T.C.S. First XI. opened up very steadily with Lazier and Martin, against F. and R. Dyer, the defensive game of the former being particularly good, and it was not until the twelfth over that the first wicket fall at the total of 16, Martin being given out l.b.w. to R. Dyer for a total of 2 runs. With Cartwright in the score was carried to 61 before he was bowled by Dunkerley. A very good partnership between Lazier and Biggar carried the score to 130, when the tea interval was taken. On the resumption, Lazier retired for a total of 62. It was a great innings, though it only included two fours. He gave several chances, most of which, however, were difficult. The score rose slowly, until Biggar was neatly caught at square by Monkman, at the total of 152. After a couple more overs the innings was declared closed at the total of 153 for four wickets. The Peterboro bowling was good without any loose balls, and with snappier fielding would have been better rewarded. R. Dyer taking two wickets and Dunkerley taking one.

Peterboro First XI. opened with Stuart and Thorpe, against Seagram and Ninnett. Both these bowlers seemed to have quite a lot of "stuff" on the ball, and got the first six wickets down for 19 runs. At this point a most valuable partnership was staged by the brothers Dyer, carrying the total to 53 for seven, when Frank Dyer was bowled. His score was 23 and constituted the brightest piece of batting of the game. He hit all round the wicket, and made two long drives, for one of which he got five runs.

The score rose to 72 for nine, when bad running accounted for the last wicket at this same total, and at the late hour of 7.15. Winnett was the most successful bowler for the school, taking five. Seagram and Martin each taking two.

The School Second XI. played the same steady defensive game as did the First XI., and the score rose steadily until a score of 117 for seven wickets was reached and the innings declared closed. Contributing to this total was an innings of 47 not out by Burns, and another good one of 19 by Martin II.

The Peterboro slower bowling achieved greater success in this game, G. R. Langley taking five wickets, and had the many chances at catches been accepted and with snappier fielding the result would have been entirely different. A word of excuse for the latter state of affairs might not be out of place, when it is pointed out that more than half the team had not touched bat nor ball previously this year. The Peterboro batting was a sorry tale, the whole side being out for twenty runs, which included two innings of eight each by Calladine and Campbell, there being six ducks; Archibald taking six and Syer taking three wickets for the school.

The detailed score is given below:

WOMAN WALKS INTO NIAGARA

Is Quickly Carried Away Over American Falls.

NO CLUE LEFT.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 17 (Canadian Press).—Three tourists were horrified on Saturday afternoon to see a woman, apparently about 60 or 65 years old, wade into the river and be carried over the brink of the American Falls. The tourists say they saw the woman walk down a little path from Goat Island, sit on a seat for a few minutes, take off her hat, coat and gloves, and walk into the river. Her body was soon caught in the swirling current and she was thrown over the brink.

The coat, left on the bank, gave no other clue to the identity of the woman.

SOLDIER SETTLERS PAYING FOR LANDS

8,105 of 17,331 Settlers Have Paid in Full.

OTTAWA, May 17 (Canadian Press).—Eighty-seven per cent. of the settlers under the Soldier Settlement Board have made payments in the current collection period, and 83 per cent. of the amount due has been collected, according to Major John Barnett, chairman of the Board. Of the $4,105,523 due there has been paid in $3,404,703, while of 17,331 settlers who had payments to make, 8,105 paid in full and 6,957 made substantial part payments.

The three district offices of Saskatchewan lead in respect to percentage of settlers who have paid; Saskatoon with 95 per cent. and Regina and Prince Albert each with 94 per cent., while Prince Albert has the distinction of having paid in 99 per cent. of the amount due.

The figures for the three settlement districts are: Saskatoon: Settlers with payments due 1,718, paid in full 1,022, in part 604; Regina: due 1,677, in full 905, in part 668; Prince Albert: due 1,394, in full 854, in part 452.

Ontario shows a percentage of 91 per cent. of settlers making payments, and the Maritime Provinces as a whole show 90 per cent. Vancouver's percentage is 92, Calgary's 81 and Edmonton's 86.

On the same date a year ago the percentage of monies collected was 69. In Major Barnett's opinion, more than 85 per cent. of the amount due this year will be paid in before the end of the collection period.

CLYDE LINER LEAKING

NEW YORK, May 17 (Canadian Press).—The Clyde liner Seneca, reported early Sunday to be leaking off Miami Bar, put into Miami Harbor and discharged her 325 passengers without mishap, it was stated last night at the line's offices here. The Seneca was bound from Miama to New York.

EMPLOYEES' GIFT TO MISS TREVOR

Case of Silverware From Friends at C.G.E.

At a meeting of the porcelain department of the C. G. E., a number of the employees met together to say farewell to Miss Effie Trevor, 271 Westcott Street, who has been associated with her friends for the last four years and now going to take up a "situation" across the line. Miss Irene Todd, on behalf of the employees, presented a handsome case of silverware to her departing friend, while Alex. McKinley read the following address:

Peterboro', May 15, 1925.

Dear Effie—We, the employees of the porcelain department of the Canadian General Electric Company, feel that we cannot let you leave here without showing you that we appreciate your good friendship as you are about to enter upon a new life. So, we would ask you to accept this little gift as a token of esteem by which you are held by the employees of this department, and, in taking it, our good will goes with it.

We all join in wishing you our very best wishes.

Miss Trevor was taken completely by surprise and thanked her friends for such a beautiful gift which would remind her of the many happy days she spent amongst her friends in the city.

CORNWALL STORE BURNED TO GROUND

Totally Destroyed, With Stock and Household Goods—Insurance Small.

CORNWALL, Ont., May 17 (Canadian Press).—The grocery store of A. J. Andrews here was destroyed, along with his stock and household goods, when fire broke out at the rear of the building yesterday. The coat factory of the Cornwall Pants Manufacturing Company adjoining was badly damaged with smoke and water. A horse and a dog were also burned in the fire, which will cause the loss to Andrews amounting to $10,000, with small insurance.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL.

"LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN."

One of the 6 Best Pictures of the Year.

In "Lady Windermere's Fan" Ernst Lubitsch has given us another of his finished and tecnically surprising photoplays—masterpieces of their kind and the cream, surely, of polite drama, in one direction, and polite satire, in the other, in motion pictures. Going back to Wilde's play, he has built upon its skeleton a graceful, smoothly muscled form of cinematic adaption which, while it has no Titan power, is interesting in every movement and in every gestufe of its intelligent action. Adhering closely to the structure of the original, this picturization of "Lady Windermere's Fan" avoids the Wildian cleverness, supplanting it with the Lubitsch ingenuity, at once recognizable from its manner of glowing narrative, rich, imaginative and perfectly translated in the language of the screen. In place of thrills of situation, thrills of spectacular sets, thrills of mobs and masses and what-not, a keener thrill—one always to be experienced before this sort of motion picture entertainment by intelligent patrons of the cinema (for Lubitsch is always of the cinema in contrast to those directors who are always, and merely, of the movie) — is awakened by the inner fabric of the picture, lying there like a taut warp for the sure and shimmering pattern on the shifting screen, a pattern changing in rhythm, yet its color never varying in good taste and the design ever more clearly established and defined from scene to scene, through embellishment on embellishment, until the full, ordered plan is executed. How many directors of motion pictures to-day can give you that accomplishment?

The story of how Mrs. Erlynne, beautiful, witty, determined — and declasse—came back to London and, unrecognized by her daughter, the bride of Lord Windermere, saved that young lady's reputation from scandal by claiming her fan in the lodgings of Lord Darlington where she had fled after a misunderstanding with her husband who she believed was having an affair with the notorious Mrs. Erlynne, is perhaps too well known to repeat further. It is a good story and has bequeathed a situation to innumerable progeny reared by other writers after, and doubtless before, Wilde. But it is no better a story than Mr. Lubitsch's film, and the film has the advantage since it is in the medium of to-day. The important thing to see is that a good story can be made a better picture — when a Lubitsch handles it — sheerly through cinematic qualities developed through thorough understanding of what the screen should and can do as distinguished from what it should not and cannot do. And for the additional reason that when it does this, it is doing what is beyond the power of the written word in books and the spoken word on the stage. Such uses of the medium in "Lady Windermere's Fan" are too many to enumerate. They consist of such little, all-important matters as matchless cutting, unique camera angles, precisely natural movements of the actors, backgrounds that are like depths in paintings, and finger-touches of control of the mass that keeps it fluid yet never allows it to become muddy. What a clear screen, indeed, is that of Mr. Ernst Lubitsch, and what a frame of delightful proportion is set around it by his quiet and choice imagination.

To pause at the film's technical quality for a moment and offer an illustration: Lord Darlington and Lady Windermere have gone out into the garden in the rear of the stately London house in which the great party is being held. He is imploring her to leave her husband and come with him. Mrs. Erlynne appears, coming out of the house, on the balustrade overlooking the garden. She sees the man and her daughter behind a box hedge quite far off. Now, the camera is never brought near to Lady Windermere and Lord Darlington. Their heads bob back and forth across the distant hog hedge. You see them about as Mrs. Erlynne sees them. The effect is perfect, the drama of the scene behind the hedge is precisely, vividly, and how uniquely told, and the air of the clandestine that awakens Mrs. Erlynne to the potential danger of the situation to her daughter is created so as to make the audience see what Mrs. Erlynne sees, and feel as she does, without bringing directly to our gaze Lady Windermere in flight before an impassioned man in a dark garden, a touch of artistry with a messy, man-handling close-up would almost certainly have spoiled by coarsening the visual image. Mr. Lubitsch has not forgotten that his characters are well-bred.

The cast throughout is capable, as the Lubitsch casts invariably are. That loveliest actress of our screen, Irene Rich, contributes a Mrs. Erlynne that makes us feel at every turn what a fine lady is this, and how unconscionable was the smugness of the British society that tried to throw her out. If Mr. Lubitsch was interested in the Wildian attack on the snobbery of the swells, he has pointed it mainly through Miss Rich's Mrs. Erlynne and the connotations to be drawn from the attitude of the characters as they are reflected from her, and at all times cinegraphically, for the Wildian dialogue of the play is avoided in the titles, which are scant and to the point, and not fillips to, but accessories of, the action.

"Lady Windermere's Fan" is directed by Ernst Lubitsch and photographed by Charles van Enger.

The cast: Lord Darlington, Ronald Colman; Mrs. Erlynne, Irene Rich; Lady Windermere, May McAvoy; Lord Windermere, Bert Lytell; Lord Augustus, Edward Martindel; Duchesses, Helen Dunbar, Carrie Daumery, Billie Bennett. —National Board of Review Magazine.

POLITICS, SOCIETY AND FAMILY LIFE.

"The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted" Promises Exciting Entertainment.

A mother who crucified herself on the cross of scandal so that her son might escape imprisonment; a wife who gave herself so generously that the world misjudged and her husband lost faith in her; an intense rushing maelstrom of incidents brought about by love, deceit and relentless justice.

This is what the Regent Theatre promises to-day when "The Wife who Wasn't Wanted" will start a run of 3 days. This new picture is a Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, featuring Irene Rich in the title role. A powerful cast includes Huntly Gordon, John Harron, Gayne Whitman, June Marlowe, Don Alvarado, Edward Piel, George Kuwa, Jimmie, Quinn, Wilfrid Lucas, Gertrude Astor, Elinor Fair and George Pierce.

The picture is an adaptation of Gertrude Wentworth James novel of politics, society and the family of an ambitious District Attorney, who is faced with the problem of prosecuting his own son on a charge of killing a woman while speeding in an automobile.

The adaptation was made by Bess Meredyth, who after writing the script for "Ben Hur," was signed by Warner Bros. under a long term contract. This is her first scenario for the Warners and it is said to be one of the best of the year. James Flood was the director.

WEDDING BELLS.

McDOUGALL—MILLER.

At St. James' parsonage on Saturday evening the marriage took place of Gordon Ira McDougall, Sherbrook St., and Mabel M. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, Maude street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. D. Richardson, minister of St. James' church. The young couple will reside in the city.

DAVIS—NORTHEY

A pretty spring wedding took place at the Parsonage of Lakefield, on Saturday, April 24th, at eleven o'clock, when Emma P. Northey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Northey, of Burleigh, became the bride of Wesley Davis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, Young's Point. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Kemp.

The bride wore a blue canton crepe dress, with hat to match and black satin shoes and stockings. Her coat was in sand and green.

The groom's gift to the bride was a silver butter dish.

On the following Wednesday, April 28, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where some eighty intimate friends were present. Many splendid gifts and money were received by the young couple. An enjoyable evening was spent with dancing, and supper was served at midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis left the following morning for their home in Young's Point, the bride travelling in a suit of brown satin.

OBITUARY.

ALBERT WILLIAMS.

Died in Peterborough on Monday, Albert Williams, of 190 Auburn street. The funeral will be private and interment in Little Lake cemetery.

PATRICK KANE.

The death occurred on Sunday morning of Patrick Kane, after a very short illness. Mr. Kane has been a resident of this city for years and was one of the first employees of the local C.G.E. plant.

He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife, two sons, James and Dennis, and one daughter, Mrs. Philip Heffernan, of this city, and one sister, Mrs. Patrick Heenan.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 9.00 o'clock from the home of his son-in-law, Philip Heffernan, 472 Charlotte street, to St. Peter's church and cemetery.

J. F. ECOBICHON.

The largely attended funeral of the late John Francis Ecobichon, who passed away suddenly Tuesday, May 11th, at his residence 703 Aylmer street, took place on Friday afternoon, to the Little Cemetery.

He had been in ill-health for some time but the end was little expected, and was a great shock to everybody.

The deceased, who was in his 55th year, had resided in Peterboro for 21 years, coming here from Jersey, Eng. He was very widely known, honored and loved by all. He was a sergeant of No. 6 Company 57th Regt., for a number of years, and was amongst the first to offer his services to the Mother Country in 1914. Owing to the age limit he was unable to don the khaki until the organization of the 93rd Battalion, with which unit he and two sons went overseas. Mr. Ecobichon was returned to Canada in 1918 after a severe injury to his foot while in training in England.

Mr. Ecobichon was employed as a miller at the Peterboro Cereal Company, where he worked for 15 years, and was held in very high esteem amongst his fellow workmen.

He was laid to rest by his brother Masons of Peterboro Lodge A. F. and A. M., of which he had been a member for a number of years.

The pall bearers were Messrs. H. Rush, W. A. Logan, A. Gibson, R. J. Devey, James Abraham and S. Whatley, being a few of his closest friends.

JUDGE W. G. FISHER.

ORANGEVILLE, May 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Walter George Fisher, Judge of Dufferin conuty, died yesterday in his 62nd year. Saturday afternoon he spent playing golf and arose yesterday feeling fine. Turning from the dinner table he collapsed and died shortly afterward. Acute indigestion was the cause.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear husband, Edward F. Airriess, who died 17th May, 1920:

Dear one you are not forgotten
Tho' on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with me
As you always were before.

—Sadly Missed By His loving Wife and Children.

IN MEMORIAM.

HERRON.—In loving memory of my dear husband, James Edward Herron, who was drowned May 17th, 1925.

"One tiny year, some might say,
But it is ages since God called Dad away.
A wonderful pal, yes, your kind are few,
So loving and kind, gentle and true.
Every night, dear, we see your sweet face,
Your spot in our hearts no one can replace,
Our lips cannot speak how we loved him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
As we journey along life's way.
Lone are the tasks and sad the hours,
Since your dear form is gone,
But, Oh! a far brighter home than ours
In heaven is now thine own.

A loving husband, kind and true.
Was my gift from God when He gave me you.
But I forgot His was the right to claim,
To retake the gift of my youth, so I pine in vain,
But when the pain is great and hard to bear,
I turn to my garden of memory fair
And think of a love that was lasting — and great,
And it gives me the strength to be patient and wait
Till the power of death no longer can sever
The tie that God made when He joined us together."

—Sadly missed by his Loving Wife and Children.

UTILITIES COMMISSIONREPORT

ENGINEER'S REPORT ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE WATERWORKS AND ELECTRIC DEPARTMENTS FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL

WATERWORKS DEPARTMENT—

Pump House and Dam

The ice is all gone from the river and the annual spring freshet is now in progress. There is about fifteen times the normal flow of water over the dam at this time.

A large number of the stop-logs are getting rotted at the ends and we will soon have to purchase some new ones. The deck of the dam is also in bad repair in spots and we should consider some repairs to it this summer.

Filter Plant

The usual painting is being done and the sedimentation basins have been cleaned out.

We started the use of Alum on April 1, with a dose of 1.3 grains per gallon. The raw water has considerable color, being the greatest since the plant was put in operation. However, no difficulty has been experienced in properly filtering the water.

Pumpage

The pumpage for April was the lowest on record and the comparative figures are as follows:

	1926	1925	1924
January	2,310,000	2,832,000	2,699,000
February	2,263,500	2,732,000	2,705,000
March	2,246,000	2,650,000	2,557,000
April	2,165,000	2,534,000	2,460,000

All above in gallons per 24 hours.

During 1925 a total of 30 million gallons of water was used by those consumers which had meters on their services. The bulk of this was for the factories of the city, which was about 21 per cent of the total yearly pumpage. Attached is a table giving the total amount of water used by each consumer.

Distribution System

If the city council decides to pave Rubidge and Reid Streets, it will be necessary for us to relay a number of services on these streets. We will also have to build valve chambers on these streets to replace some wooden ones and also on valves that have no chambers at present.

We have not much work in prospect in this department this spring and our staff is at a minimum. We are fortunately able to take care of our regular men in work for the Electric Department, and are thus able to have them on hand for emergencies.

ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT—

Meters

About 500 meters have been changed for routine inspection. We have about 300 yet to do. The large number of connection and reconnection orders that have come to hand lately have slowed up the meter changing, but they are slackening off now.

Mr. Welch has made a visit to the plant of the Lincoln Meter Company, in accordance with your instructions, and has gained considerable knowledge of their electric meters.

The portable duplex graphic meter has been set in the following factories in addition to those reported in March: Ontario Marble Company, De Laval Company (two factories), Raybestos Company. We have also installed it in two circuits in the substation.

Reconstruction

We made a start on this work but had to drop it on accounts of several large jobs to be done elsewhere. It appears that the most economical way to handle this work would be to place a large enough gang on it and leave them there until it is finished. These continual interruptions are costly.

We have completed the power connection for the new Trent Canal shops, and also the changing of the poles at Charlotte and Water Streets.

Plans

We now have a draftsman busy completing the plans for the system.

Street Lighting

We have completed a report on a street lighting scheme for the main part of the city. The chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the city council was consulted while this was being made.

Magnetite Arc Lamp Changes

We have made a start at this work and hope to have it finished by the first of June.

Inspection of Commercial Loads

We have made about 350 inspections to date and the net increase in load is 2,139 watts. We are over half done this work.

Substation

During the month, on a Sunday, we shut off all the power coming over the 44,000-volt line and thoroughly cleaned up the building. In the meantime we were served through the Hydraulic Tie Line.

System Loads

The monthly peaks are as follows:

	February		March		April
	1925	1926	1925	1926	1925	1926
Peak H.P.	5174.3	4593.8	5005.3	4675.6	4706.4	4436
Date	4th	25th	27th	23rd	1st	28th

K.W. Hours Daily	50,100	46,521	48,419	44,606	41,284	39,260
Load Factor, Per Cent	54.0	58.7	54.0	53.2	50.6	51.2

The peak load continues to fall off but our load factor is better, showing that we are making better use of the power we are paying for.

Yours respectfully,
R. L. DOBBIN, Engineer.

STANDARDIZATION IN EDUCATION IS CONDEMNED

All Right For Motor Cars But Not For Human Beings.

ROTARY IS TOLD.

Prof. Machen, of Princeton, Speaker at To-day's Luncheon.

"Hard-headed business men and politicians recognize that this world needs religion," declared Professor J. Gresham Machen, D.D., of Princeton Theological Seminary, in a most scholarly address before the local Rotary club today on the subject of the relationship between Christianity and the national problems of today.

Professor Machen who was introduced by Mr. James Dutton remarked that there was a school of thought which believed that before edaling with the problems of another world we should first set this world in order. It was possible, he said, to sympathize with those who held these views but nevertheless he could not admit that they were right. Christianity must first concern itself with the higher things and in so doing the problems of this world would be solved but if Christianity were to be used only to accomplish this end not only would these benefits fail to materialize but Christianity itself would be lost. The speaker strongly condemned the use of religion meerly to bring about the solving of the world's problems, as it was being used in his country in an attempt to Americanize immigrants with a club in one hand and the Bible in the other. Strong, too, was his criticism of religion in the schools and of methods which were based upon the idea that education should be standardized. "Standardization is an excellent thing in the turning out of Ford cars," declared Professor Machen, "but not in the education of human beings." He condemned the idea that the state alone was responsible for the education of children and that parents had no responsibility or right along this line. "Hand the children over to the bureaucrats," he said, "and you might as well hand over everything else."

Rotarian Dr. M. A. Morrison moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and it was tendered in the usual Rotary style.

There was a very large attendance at today's meeting which was presided over by President C. H. Rogers. Rotarian Doug. Fletcher acted as song leader.

"Y" SWIMMING PARTY.

Children of Junior Classes Have Merry Time in Pool.

The Junior pupils of the Gymnasium at the Y.W.C.A., held a very jolly swimming party at the "Y" pool on Saturday morning, followed by service of refreshments in the Domestic Science room. About seventy-five of the members of the Junior classes were present, and had a merry time in the pool, with a number of special races and stunts. A special babies' race, which excited much interest was won by Meryl Smith, Maudie Heron, Evelyn Hill and Ruth McNeely.

Sadie Levine won the diving competition and the Open Style race, Margaret Dunlop was first in swimming under water, and little Ross Latimer won the boys' race.

CORSAN HAS TAUGHT THOUSANDS TO SWIM

Has Given Instructions in Many Lands—Has Tried Channel Swim.

George H. Corsan, the internationally known swimming instructor, and himself one of the greatest natators in the world, who is teaching swimming at the local Y.W.C.A., stated to the Examiner this afternoon that during his 15 years as a swimming instructor he has taught the art of swimming to over 100,000 men, women and children. In that time he has been instructor in many countries in Europe as well as in the United States. He was a contender in the English Channel swim in 1922. On that occasion Mr. Corsan was in the water 18 hours and was within three miles of the English coast when forced to succumb to the strong tide and the extremely cold water. His feat was remarkable, nevertheless, as only three or four of the hundreds who have tried the channel swim have succeeded in the long, tedious battle against the tide and the cold, as well as other elements they were called upon to face. This evening Corsan will give in the Y.W.C.A. pool an exhibition of about two dozen methods of swimming. Lifesaving and various other stunts will be demonstrated, including swimming with hands and feed tied by rope, smoking under water and the Houdini sack stunt where he is tied in a sack and thrown into the pool, where he makes himself free.

PREMIER AND OPPOSITION LEADER ARE PAIRED AND WILL NOT VOTE ON BUDGET IN THE HOUSE TO-NIGHT

Illness of Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen Cause of Unique Situation.

PREMIER TO SPEAK.

Will Be Followed By Hon. R. B. Bennett During Debate To-day.

OTTAWA, May 18 (Canadian Press)—Premier W. L. Mackenzie King and the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, will not participate in the vote on the budget in the house tonight. This unique situation will materialize as the result of an agreement entered into whereby the leaders are being paired, owing the indisposition of Mr. Meighen. The Prime Minster is expected to open his speech on the budget this afternoon but the Conservative chieftain, who is confined to his home, will be unable to address the house. The Hon. R. B. Bennett, former minister of justice in the Meighen administration ,will likely follow the Premier from the Conservative benches. The vote will likely take place late tonight.

COTTONS SHOW NORMAL TRADE

Canadian Cottons, Limited, Report Increased Sales Last Year.

PRICE WAR ON

MONTREAL, Que., May 18 (Canadian Press). — A return to more normal volume of business is indicated in the annual financial report of Canadian Cottons, Limited, for the year ending March 31, 1926. Sales amounted to $9,606,641, as compared with $8,549,897 in the preceding twelve months. These sales practically correspond with those of the year 1923-24.

The profits realized from these sales, together with income from investments, resulted in a showing of nearly 9 per cent. on the $2,715,500 of common stock outstanding, after deducting interest charges and dividends on the preferred stock. This compares with 8.08 per cent. in the preceding year and 10.31 per cent. in 1923-24.

Total surplus now stands at $2,709,793.

Cotton Price War.

In his remarks to shareholders, President Charles R. Hormer states in part:

"It is difficult to forecast the year 1926-27. Raw cotton is low in price, but goods in both England and the United States are selling below the parity of cotton. In the Southern States this is particularly so at the present time. The desire for business appears to have precipitated a price war, which is causing great concern for the mills involved.

"Unfortunately your company has to meet these cut prices or cease operations, the latter course being quite as serious as the selling of goods at or below cost.

Apply Dumping Clause.

"The Canadian dumping clause of the tariff ought to operate in cases of this nature, but under existing regulations little is being done to assess a proper valuation for Customs duties on such goods.

"For the present there appears little likelihood of your mills being able to operate full time.

"A hopeful phase of the situation is that stocks throughout the country are low, and if business confidence can be maintained, we believe that the year before us may be made as successful as the year which has just closed."

Quality of Liquor Cause Of High U.S. Death Rate

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 18 (United Press). — The quality of Americans' liquor and the sped with which fat and paunchy Americans put it away is responsible for an alarming mortality among men of the United States between the ages of 25 and 45.

This is the theory of Dr. Thomas M. Joslin, the English surgeon, attending the National Health Congress here.

The typical American accustomed to good living is not the "Collar ad Adonis," to be observed on any billboard, but a flabby-faced individual with telltale "bolloon duets" under his eyes, which speak of acid presence, he said.

Blood Of Saint Dissolves Naples Hails It As a Miracle

NAPLES, May 18 (United Press).—Extra editions of newspapers appeared on the streets and the populace of this city rejoiced tumultously on Monday when the blood of St. Januarius dissolved unexpectedly during a visit of Crown Prince Humbert to Naples.

The congealed blood of the saint is kept in a small phial in the St. Januarius Chapel. It usually dissolves in May and September. The fact that it dissolved on Monday, while the city was celebrating the Crown Prince's visit, caused the people to hail the Royal heir as responsible for a miracle.

LAVOIE FIRM FOR HASTINGS

Citizens of Village Asked to Subscribe $10,000 for Stock.

PART SUBSRIBED

(By a Staff Reporter).

HASTINGS, May 18.—The Lavoie Knitting Company of Peterborough is negotiating with the Village Council for the transfer of its plant to Hastings, and there is every prospect that the change will be made as the village seems disposed to meet all the conditions. The company asks that the village residents take stock in the industry to the amount of $10,000, and of this nearly $7,000 has already been subscribed by some of the leading business men.

P. M. Howard has a brick building near the bridge which he offers to sell to the company for a factory, agreeing to take stock for part of the purchase price. An architect will come here from Peterborough to look over the building, and if it is suitable for factory purposes it is understood that the deal will be made. The company once it is established here, will give employment to 35 hands. The proposition which it submits has been very favorably received here, as the company has work up its present industry from a small beginning by its own exertions and enterprise, and without any considerable municipal aid.

Bobcaygeon and Omemee have both offered the company inducements to locate there, but Hastings appears to be the favorite.

Dominion Textile Company Report Increased Profit Last Year.

STRONG POSITION

MONTREAL, Que., May 18.—(Canadian Press).—The annual report of the Dominion Textile Company Limited for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926, shows earnings equivalent to $6.48 on the outstanding common stock of the company as compared with $5.22 for the previous year and $4.13 in 1924.

Manufacturing profits for the year were $1,707,344 as compared with $1,684,908 for the preceding year. Interest on investments amounted to $197,965 as compared with $263,759, bringing total income to $1,905,307. From this the followings deductions: bond interest $310,320, preferred dividends $135,842. This leaves applicable to the 225,000 shares of no par value common stock the sum of $1,549,145, which is equal to $6.48.

In the balance sheet, current assets are $10,526,860 and current liabilities $1,342, 490 revealing a working capital position of $9,184,370; which compares with $8,508,225 one year ago.

NICKLE STATES LICENSE FORMS MENTION LIQUOR

Says Word Beer, With or Without "4.4" Does Not Appear.

NO HIGHER FEE.

Government Has No Authority To Amend O.T.A. He Says.

TORONTO, May 18 (Canadian Press). — Attorney-General W. F. Nickle yesterday took exception to statements in a Peterborough despatch regarding the issue of licenses to hotels handling beer.

The despatch claimed that until recently the licenses had read, "For the sale of 4.4 beer," but that the new issue at the same price as last year, simply reads, "For the sale of beer," and contains a clause obligating the licenses to pay a higher fee if called upon to do so at any time during the license year. Licenses in Peterborough district were reported by the despatch to see in this clause the possibility of Premier Ferguson raising the alcoholic strength of beer as was done a year ago.

Mr. Nickle pointed out yesterday that there is no mention of the word "beer" in either the old or the new issue of permits. Nor do the figures 4.4 appear on the old license forms. "Liquor" is the word used in both the old and new forms, and each permit carries the explanation that the word "liquor" means "all drinks and drinkable liquors which are non-intoxicating and which contain not less than one-half or one per cent. by volume at 60 degrees fahrenheit of absolute alcohol."

A study of the new permits fails to reveal any clause which obtains the licensee to pay a higher fee if called upon to do so.

In regard to the despatch's suggestion "that Premier Ferguson is about to use the power given his Cabinet by the Legislature to amend the Ontario Temperance Act at discretion," Mr. Nickle stated that the Government had no authority to do any such thing."

SCORES OF FOREST FIRES IN MANITOBA

Rangers All Engaged — No Prospect of Rain.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18.—(Canadian Press).— Manitoba is facing one of the worst epidemics of prairie and bush fires experienced within the past ten days. Scores of large and small fires are raging in the province and in several instances huge forest tracts and reserves are menaced. There is no immediate prospect of rain.

Every available ranger has been rushed to the most serious outbreaks by the local branch of the Dominion Forestry Services. Volunteers are also helping to check the progress of the flames.

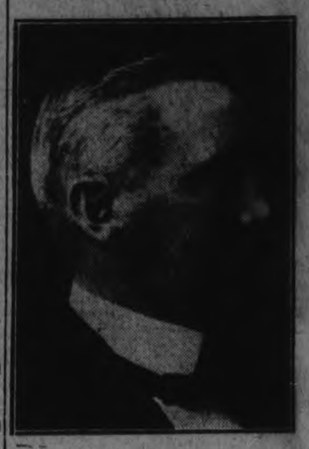
The areas more seriously endangered are around Lac de Bonnet, Sprague, Fairford, Woodridge and Victoria Beach. In the southeastern part of the province, fires are threatening the valuable pine ridges there.

The majority of the outbreaks are attributed to settlers and farmers burning their land in preparation for plowing.

NOME, Alaska, May 18 (Canadian Press). — Amundsen showed signs of great perturbation yesterday, when he learned an account of the flight of the Norge over the North Pole had been written by Col. Umberto Nobile, pilot of the Norge, and published.

"It is Sweet to get Home"

"It is sweet to get home," were the words used by the late Lieut.-Colonel Mills at the reception tendered him at the Armouries on December 7, 1915, when he returned from overseas. In spite of the unfavorable weather that day a large crowd gathered at the C.P.R. station, and all along George Street were hundreds of people eager to do honor to this citizen who had "done his bit." The 93rd Battalion was drawn up on the station square, and as the train drew into the platform, the 93rd Band swung into the strains "O Canada."



At the Armories a reception was held, an address of welcome was presented to Lieut.-Colonel Mills by Mayor Buller, and other prominent men gave suitable addresses.

The returned officer, in his reply, stressed the need of men to support those at the front, and entered into a vigorous recruiting campaign. He thanked the citizens for the interest they had shown in the boys, mentioning specially the Daughters of the Empire, the Kitchener League, and the girls of the Collegiate Institute.

* * * * *

Today, Lieut.-Colonel Mills again passed down George Street, surrounded by the pomp and display of military ranks, and with other hundreds lining the sidewalks to pay tribute to the passing of the gallant soldier whom they welcomed eleven years ago. It was his last journey, and this time instead of the blaring band and cheering throng there were reversed arms and muffled drums.

Colonel Mills has fought a good fight; he has finished his course. "It is sweet to get home."

Prince Visits Limehouse At 2 O'clock In Morning To Chat With Policemen in the Notorious District

LONDON, May 18 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales has caused a mild sensation in England by doing the unexpected again. It was learned yesterday that he appeared without warning at 2 o'clock on Saturday morning in the Metropolitan Police Station in Limehouse, one of the most notorious and dangerous of London's slum areas. He was accompanied by Detective Inspector Hall. The Prince remained two hours, shook hands with all the policemen, and complimented them on their work.

Another story about the Prince of Wales' strike activities is told by The Graphic. One day early in the strike, the Prince drove a lorry loaded with milk to one of the poorest districts of London. Arrived there, he helped to distribute the milk from house to house.

BUS ROUTING PLAN SOUGHT

Committee To Ask Hydro For Arrangement With Private Buses.

LITTLE PROGRESS.

The special committee appointed by the city council to deal with the 'bus question met last night with the mayor in the chair. The mayor opened the meeting by pointing out some of the many ideas on the transportation subject held by the different residents of the city. The aldermen were not desirous of shutting the private busses off the city streets as these busses are serving parts of the city the Hydro system does not touch. The committee favored an agreement of these two lines whereby they would not run in opposition to each other. Mayor Holloway pointed out that at present the private busses were running in such a schedule to just be at certain places before the hydro busses and in this way take all the cream away from the Hydro. He also showed that it was the central hydro system of Ontario that would be the loser if the hydro commission stopped operating the Peterborough street railway system and Peterborough being the largest power consuming centre in central Ontario the brunt of the loss would naturally fall on her in the increased rates which would likely follow all over the central Ontario system.

At the present condition that the road is in the hydro commission has estimated that it would cost about $125,000 to put the railway in shape. Alderman Phelan stated that he had been going up to Toronto for the past five years interviewing the Hydro Electric Commission and in his estimation very little has been accomplished. He stated that five years ago the commission told them that they did not contemplate putting in a line into east city then last winter after telling the city that they were unable to operate the system they put on the bus system. Some of the aldermen thought that putting on the busses was a way of trying to entice the city to buy the system. It was also stated that the only transportation that the Western Clock company and the DeLaval had ever got was from the private buses.

The mayor then said that the Park street line and the part of the line between the C.G.E. and Byersville were now the property of the city as the commission had forfeited these lines by not operating on these lines for 90 days.

The following resolution was then moved by Alderman Fife and seconded by Alderman MacDonald that the mayor be a committee to Toronto to discuss with the hydro commission what co-operation can be arranged between them and the private buses as to mapipng out routes for each and to submit a suggestion to the commission as to the different routes and take up with them the general situation.

ITALIAN FLOODS BECOME WORSE

Parts of Many Towns and Provinces Are Inundated.

RIVER OVERFLOWS.

ROME, May 18 (Canadian Press). —Flood conditions in Northern Italy became worse during the night. Parts of Pavia, Pauda, Piacenz, and Verona were inundated, while the Po River overflowed within the heart of the industrial section of Turin. Three bodies were recovered from the Adige River in Trent. Near Brescia two workmen were killed by a snow avalanche which came from the heights of Adamello Mountain. Seven comrades were rescued.

Referendum In Australia To Appoint Labor Tribunal

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 18.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The Commonwealth government will introduce a bill at the opening of parliament on May 19 which will provide for the taking of a referendum throughout Australia on the question of empowering the government to appoint a tribunal to deal with the questions of hours and work and conditions of employment in the country and also empowering the government to legislate with regard to trade unions and to enact to measures to deal with essential industries in the interests of the whole community. The referendum will probably be taken in August.

Male Voice Choir Concert Is In List Of Five Best

George S. Parlour was in Toronto yesterday making final arrangements in connection with the broadcasting of the Male Voice Choir Concert in St. Paul's church to-morrow night. While in Toronto he was advised by Mr. Hewitt, in charge of the broadcasting for the Toronto Star, that the United Press was sending out to all the newspapers on its list through the United States and Canada information to the effect that the Peterborough Male Voice Choir Concert was included as one of the five best programmes for Wednesday night.

WILLINGDON IS NAMED IN PRESS TO FOLLOW BYNG

Two London Papers Say Former Governor of Bombay Coming

GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

New Canadian Viceroy Has Had Long Political Career.

LONDON, May 18 (Canadian Press).—The Morning Post and the Daily Graphic both announce that Viscount Willingdon will succeed Baron Byng of Vimy as Governor-General of Canada. Viscount Willingdon, who before receiving his title in 1924, was known as Freeman Freeman-Thomas, is a former Governor of Bombay and Madras. He was a member of the House of Commons from 1900 to 1912, and Junior Lord of the Treasury for two years.

MAYOR OF ARVIDA.

New Aluminum City in Quebec Organizes.

QUEBEC, Que., May 18.—(Canadian Press).—Frank E. Deckie has been elected Mayor of the new city of Arvia, the headquarters of the Aluminum Company of Canada in the Saguenay district, and H. Wake, manager of the Company, has been chosen as city manager.

COOK FAVORS ACCEPTING MONEY FROM RUSSIAN MINERS REFUSED BY LABOR HEADS DURING STRIKE

Czarina's Furniture Being Sold By Soviet

MOSCOW, May 18 (United Press).—The bedroom furniture of the late Czarina of Russia will be sold at auction here, with other valuables of the former Royal household.

Fifteen carloads of these goods are en route here from Leningrad. The shipment contains the Imperial bedroom suite, paintings, glassware, gobelin tapestries and carpets.

Some articles of particular value will be exported to Western European markets. The sale is expected to realize several hundred thousand rubles.

HEALTH BOARD ORDERS SEWERS

Several Householders Must Instal Sanitary Conveniences.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

Business of a routine nature occupied the attention of the members of the Board of Health at their meeting this morning.

It was decided that the Board recommend the City Council to construct a sewer on Clifton Street.

The Medical Officer of Health was ordered to send out several notices to owners of property notifying them that sanitary conveniences be installed. In two cases it was decided that if the sanitary conveniences were not put in within the limit of time allowed, that the premises would have to be closed.

The Board decided to leave the matter of procuring fifteen storm windows for the Queen Mary Hospital in the hands of the chairman for any action he may see fit to take.

It was decided that the secretary write to the different coal dealers in the city requesting tenders for next winter's supply for the Queen Mary Hospital.

The meeting adjourned.

G. N. GORDON SCORES FERGUSON FOR LACKADAISICAL POLICIES

Peterborough Worst Treated Part of Province Regarding Roads.

JUST A MORASS.

Former Minister Will Spend Several Weeks in Provincial Campaign.

Last evening there was a large, enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Liberal Association held in the offices of Gordon & O'Brien. Miss Luella Jobbitt, the president of the association, called the meeting to order and plans were discussed for a picnic this summer and an excursion, besides continuing the extension of the membership scheme which has been on foot during the winter.

Hon. G. N. Gordon addressed the meeting and dealt with the reasons why the Ferguson Government was too alarmed to go to the country in a general election, and was too feeble to announce its Government Control policies in respect to liquor sales.

Mr. Gordon went on to say that the Ontario Government had only a popular majority of five thousand, which he prophesied would be wiped out and the Ferguson Government go to defeat on account of its increased taxation and adding to the Provincial debt.

The speaker said that the Ontario Government had permitted the Provincial highways to be destroyed and ruined, and the roads were in a worse condition than when the Ferguson Government went into power, and yet they were taking more money out of the people for road building than the people were ever taxed before.

Peterborough Slighted.

Mr. Gordon went on to say that Peterborough was the worst treated part of the Province so far as the roads were concerned. The Ontario Government had built concrete roads through hamlets and villages all over the Province, but the largest city between Ottawa and Toronto was nothing but a mud hole and a morass, and it was like travelling through a ploughed field to get any way out of the city.

The former Minister told the audience that he had arranged to spend several weeks in the Provincial campaign, in order to clean up the mess that had been waiting for some years to be dealt with.

The meeting adjourned, to meet at the call of the Executive.

THINK IT OVER.

Canada's wheat crop of 416 million bushels in 1925 was the second largest in her history, and much more than in 1921. Canada is now the world's chief wheat exporter, and holds the key to the food supply of the world. Canada's average wheat yield for 23 years, of 17.8 bushels, heads all countries; the United States being next with 14.1; Argentine, 10.6; Russia, 9.4. Canada's wheat crop value for 1925, of $1,230,500,000, was 235 millions over 1924.

BUFFALO INCREASE.

Necessary To Send 2,000 More To Slave River Preserve.

EDMONTON, Alta., May 18.—(Canadian Press).—Buffalo in the Government Park at Wainwright, Alta., have increased so rapidly in the last year that another consignment of 2,000 young animals will be shipped 700 miles north to the wild buffalo preserve on the Slave River early in June, according to official announcement here.

DON'T FORGET THE DANCE IN HASTINGS ON WEDNESDAY, MAY 19TH — NASIMOK'S ORCHESTRA. 2d118 1602

Offer Will be Discussed on Thursday—Miners' Funds Are Low.

MINE OWNERS MUM

Have Not Indicated Attitude Toward Premier's Plan for Coal Industry.

LONDON, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—The mine owners have not yet indicated whether they are disposed to accept Premier Baldwin's plan for the rehabilitation of the mining industry. Both miners and mine owners are still considering its bearings and discussing details, and probably little will be definitely known before Friday, when the Prime Minister is expected to inform parliament how matters stand.

There is much interest in the offer of the Russian Miners' Congress sitting at Moscow of the money refused by the Trades Union Congress during the general strike to Miners' Federation to assist the wives and families of the British miners. It is not known if this money will be accepted, but A. J. Cook, secretary of the federation, favors acceptance, and the question will be discussed by the delegate conference on Thursday. The miners' federation funds are very low and Secretary Cook's idea is to welcome funds from any source.

Dockers Return Slowly.

There is still delay at some of the ports in getting the dockers back to work, but the position improves daily. Most of the other industries are operating normally, and the only apparent difference in the railway world is curtailment of some of the Whitsuntide holiday trains on account of the dislocation caused by the strike.

The financial situation is still embarassing for the recent strikers, and the Transport Workers' Union has issued an appeal that all who have resumed work should contribute sixpence weekly, in addition to the ordinary trade union contributions, to assist in financing those whose reinstatement has been delayed.

Little Bitterness.

Premier Baldwin's appeal for conciliation seems to have left little bitterness behind the strike. During the course of that industrial movement demands were made in various quarters for new legislation to "clip the wings" of the Trade Unions. Now, however, little is heard of such legislation as it is thought that "in view of the agreement made in the various industries since the strike, such restrictive legislation is unnecessary, and there is a disposition to adopt the premier's "pull together" advice.

THE WEATHER.

Highest temperature yesterday 75 degrees; lowest last night 42 degrees. All the trees are now making rapid progress in leafing, and the last two or three days have made a noticeable difference in the appearance of many. May 24th is generally considered the average date that the trees first appear in full leafage. Last year as well as the year before, the season was late, and this year will likely prove the same.—W. Sir James Aikens Deplores Loss of Population in Montreal Speech.

ADMIRERS QUEBEC

MONTREAL, Que., May 18. — Canadian Press. — Strong internationalism was not possible unless a country was also strong nationally, according to the opinion expressed yesterday by Sir James Aikens, the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, and President of the Canadian Bar Association, addressing the members of the Montreal junior bar.

Sir James stressed the need of keeping young Canadians at home, and decried the tendency to become a population-exporting country. He advocated a strong national spirit in order that Canada may take advantage of her opportunities and become a leader in the coterie of nations which make up the British Empire.

Sir James said that he had just returned from a visit to the Maritime provinces, and upon entering the province of Quebec he was impressed that Canada could not be Canada without this province. The greatness, the progress and the prosperity of this country, he said, would always be enhanced by the fact that it contained the province of Quebec and its people. He himself had gone to Western Canada with the spirit, visions and the hope which the older provinces of Quebec and Ontario had inspired. These things were firmly fixed in his mind, and he was glad to say that they were being firmly fixed in the minds of young Canadians in Western Canada.

Love Province First

The speaker urged the gathering to love their province first, to endeavor to make it the best, and then to try to see Canada as a whole There was much talk nowadays, continued Sir James, about being international, instead of national, but how was strong internationalism possible unless the country was first strong nationally, he asked. Canada should be strong as a nation, take advantage of her opportunities, and become a leader in the coteries of nations known as the British Empire.

Keep Men at Home.

This could only be done, proceeded Sir James, by careful control of the people who are allowed to come into the country from foreign lands. He deplored the tendency to become a "population-exporting country," and he emphasized the great need of keeping young Canadians at home in order to realize fully the great opportunities of the country.

In conclusion, Sir James declared that it was a great pity to see young people from Quebec going to the United States, instead of to western Canada, where they were needed to fill up the country. To bring this about the speaker advocated a strong spirit of nationalism, without which, he said, the country could not progress.

PECULIAR HURT CAUSE OF DEATH

Woman Helping Build Fence Struck By Flying Mallet Head.

SKULL FRACTURED.

BRANTFORD, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—A peculiar accident occurred on Saturday at Maple Grove Corners, Scotland, whereby Mrs. Edith Wollcott lost her life.

She and her husband were engaged in building a fence and he was standing on a wagon driving down a stake which she held in her hand while standing on the ground beneath. The mallett flew off and struck her in the head. The mishap was not thought much of at that time beyond inflicting a severe bruise, but a few hours later she became unconscious and died yesterday morning. Her skull was fractured.

Quebec Loses Appeal Before Privy Council—Supreme Court Upheld.

VITAL DECISION.

Dominion Authorities Have Jurisdiction Over Provincial Crown Territory

LONDON, May 18.—The appeal in the case of the attorney-general of Quebec vs. the Nipissing Central Railway Company was dismissed with costs by the judicial committee of the privy council yesterday. The appeal was taken by the province of Quebec against the decision of the Canadian supreme court that the Nipissing Central Railway Company had the right to occupy crown lands in Quebec for the purpose of constructing a branch line into the Rouyn gold fields. The attorney-general of Canada was joined in the issue, which involved an important constitutional question.

The supreme court at Ottawa last December held that the Nipissing Central Railway Company, whose railway is a subsidiary of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, owned by the Ontario government, had the right to occupy crown lands in the province of Quebec for the purpose of constructing an extension of the Larder Lake branch of the line from Larder Lake, Ont., into the Rouyn gold mining field. It was against this judgment that the province of Quebec appealed to the privy council.

The province of Quebec contended that section 189 of the dominion railway act, under which the Nipissing Central Railway Company was given power to cross Quebec crown lands, was unconstitutional.

ORGANIST IS GOING TO CARLETON PLACE

R. T. Cowell Is Leaving Campbellford For New Position.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18—R. T. Cowell, who for over five years was organist and choirmaster of St. John's United Church, and who resigned a few months ago on account of his health, has regained his former vigor and is able to take another position. He has just been appointed organist and choirleader the United Church in Carleton Place and will take over his new duties in a short time. He will also hold the position of bandmaster in the town to which he is removing. He carries with him the highest credentials as to his qualifications for the dual position and his friends here will join in wishing him every success in his new field.

During his residence here Mr. Cowell gained a reputation as one of the leading musicians of Ontario. He received his training from some of the best teachers in England where he held good church positions and also excelled as an instructor in both vocal and instrumental music. Soon after coming to Campbellford he was appointed leader of the Northumberland Regiment Band and placed that organization on a high standard until it was known as the leading band in the Third Military District. Over a year ago he was forced to resign this position on account of failing health and for several months he was unable to carry on his duties as organist, and was obliged to take a long rest.

The church to which Mr. Cowell has been called as organist is one of the largest of that denomination in Eastern Ontario and the position which he has secured is in every way a desirable one and one which he is well qualified to fill.

CAMPBELLFORD TAX RATE IS SET

Council Pares Four Mills From Last Year's Levy.

1926 RATE 43 MILLS.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18. — The members of the Town Council, every one of whom were present except Reeve Davidson and Councillor Stone, held a special meeting last night and disposed of the arduous task of setting the tax rate for the year. The pruning knife was vigorously applied and the result was that the Council, after several hours of close figuring in which the members were assisted by Town Treasurer Wood, were able to pare the rate to 43 mills, four mills less than it was last year. The rate of Public and Separate School supporters is the same, this rate being 11.9 mills. The total assessment for Separate School purposes is $22,800.

The amount required for the maintenance of the Public School is about the same as it was a year ago, but the estimate for the High School is nearly $2,000 lower than it was in 1925. The attendance from the County has steadily increased ever since the new building was completed, and this means a greater revenue both for maintenance and debenture payments from the rural districts.

As some sewer debentures have to be taken care of this year, it was for some time thought that the rate would be higher than ever, but a grant of $10,000 from the Water and Light Commission, as against $6,000 from the same source last year, enabled the Council to make a substantial reduction.

OSHAWA MONTHS FAILURES NINE

Wholesale Houses Nervous and Put Clamps on Credit.

SERIOUS PROSPECT.

OSHAWA, May 18.—The manner in which the tariff reduction on automobiles has affected the merchants of the City of Oshawa was revealed by D. A. J. Swanson, of the law firm of Swanson, German and Mackenzie. This firm has, during the past month, received nine applications for assignments, bankruptcy proceedings and business compromises. Last week seven of these were completed, and more are expected to take place within the next few days.

Worst in 20 Years

Mr. Swanson said that during his 20 years of law practice in the city he has not known such a condition of affairs to exist before. This state of affairs, he said, was the result of the business depression which followed the announcement of the revised tariff one month ago. All the business men who had made these requests for legal proceedings told him the same story. The wholesale houses that carried them had become nervous of the state of business affairs in the motor city if the tariff changes are ratified. They, therefore, stopped carrying the merchants on credit, and assignments, bankrupt proceedings or business compromises had to be made.

Serious Matter

"It is a serious matter for a city of this size to have the merchants taking these actions," said Mr. Swanson. "All these applications have ben made to my offiie within the last month. I know other lawyers who have had the same experience. oNt only that, but lawyers who have accounts outstanding cannot get paid because the people are holding their money until they know what they are going to do—stay in the city or move to some other place I know that other lines of business are affected the same way."

The friends of Miss Ella Johnston will be pleased to learn that her condition has improved and she hopes to be able to return from Nicholls hospital to her home soon.

G. Fletcher has recently bricked his new residence on Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong of Cavanville visited friends here on Sunday.

Claude Ballentine was the guest of friends at Garden Hill on Sunday.

Miss Nellie Flemming of Nichols Hospital, Peterboro, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. D. Hibbard.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moncrief on April 30th, a girl.

OBITUARY.

JOHN J. JOHNSTON.

MARMORA, May 18.—On Saturday morning, about 5 o'clock, John J. Johnston, beloved husband of Rose Devine, passed peacefully away in his sleep at his home near Deloro. Deceased, who was in the 39th year of his age, had been in indifferent health for the past six months, but was active to the last, attending to his farm chores as usual on the Friday evening. His death therefore occasioned surprise, and sympathy goes out to his widow in her sudden bereavement. Deceased was one of a large family. Besides his widow, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sandy Johnston, of Rawdon Township, and six brothers and seven sisters. Their names are: Matthew and Alexander of Wellman's Corners, David of Campbellford, Edward of Crookston, Will of Tweed and George of Kansas City; Mrs. Thomas Brennan, Mrs. James McAvoy and Mrs. William Forestell of Campbellford, Mrs. George Stapley and Mrs. William Brennan of Thorold, Mrs. Charles Pounder of Thomasburg and Mrs. Peter Ryan of Rawdon Township. Mr. Fred Johnston of Marmora is a nephew.

The funeral service was held at the Sacred Heart Church on Monday, Rev. Father O'Reilly officiating. Interment took place in the adjacent R. C. Cemetery.

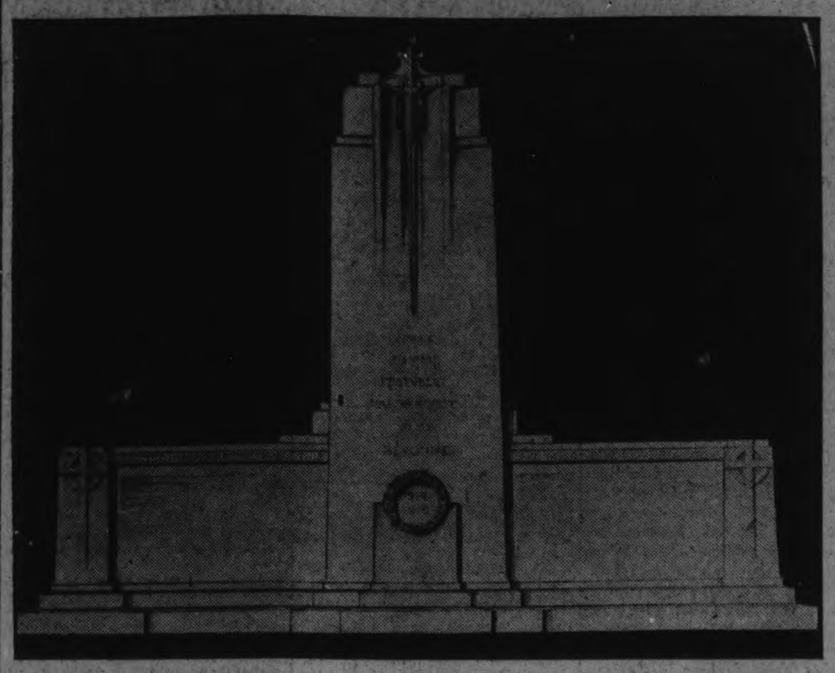
"BLUE SKY" LAW.

Prairie Provinces Seek Ontario's Aid.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Efforts will be made to enlist the support of Ontario in the fight of the three prairie provinces for provincial "blue sky" legislation to control sales of shares, it was learned in Government circles here yesterday.

Premier John Bracken will visit Ottawa during the latter part of May and will again bring the question of provincial control before the Federal authorities. In the meantime, it is understood, overtures for co-operation on the part of Ontario will be made.

CAMPBELLFORD WAR MEMORIAL



ERECTION IN JUNE OF MEMORIAL TO CAMPBELLFORD'S 67 HEROES

Efforts and Plans of I.O.D.E. Nearing Fruition — Monument To Fallen Work of Love and Remembrance—Municipal Grants.

CAMPBELLFORD'S ROLL OF HONOR.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18. — The shouting, the music of the bands, the hymns and prayers of thanksgiving that followed the signing of the protocol that brought to a close the Great War that for four years had convulsed the world, had scarcely ceased before the members of the Campbellford Charter of the I.O.D.E. took up the work of raising funds for a monument to commemorate the sacrifices that had been made by so many of the young men from this town and district. The call for volunteers had met with a ready response, the names of the local defenders of the Empire had frequently received honorable mention in the dispatches and of those who had enlisted sixty-seven never returned from overseas, but are now sleeping under the crosses and poppies in Flanders' Fields. To perpetuate the names and fame of that band of martyred heroes a fitting memorial will be erected here in June, thanks to the efforts of the I.O.D.E.

An Active Organization

All through the war the members of the I.O.D.E. had been active in the interests of the local soldiers and comforts were sent to the men in the trenches, the hospitals and the prison camps at regular intervals. Then, with the return of peace, the work of erecting a monument to the fallen was systematically taken up and was, after several years of effort finally carried to a successful conclusion.

The present officers of the Senior Chapter of the I.O.D.E. are Mrs. W. H. Ashton, Regent; and Mrs. A. Haig, Secretary, but every member of the organization during the campaign rendered efficient and unselfish service on one or other of the committees. The nucleus of the memorial fund was formed from the proceeds of entertainments and in this line of endeavor the society was ably assisted by the members of the Junior organization, the Bemersyde Chapter, of which Miss Hazel Atkinson is Regent.

Aid from Municipalities

The first assistance that the I.O.D.E. received from outside in the work of raising funds came in 1923 when the Town Council of that year on the suggestion of A. J. Meyers who was mayor, voted the society a grant of $500. A similar grant was made one year later and at the same time A. E. Caddy, now of Peterborough, donated for the same purpose money that was due him for service rendered the municipality.

In 1925, the Seymour Council was asked to join in this movement so that the names of those from Town and Township who had fallen might appear together on the memorial. At the Township meeting last December, the ratepayers assembled by a unanimous vote authorized the members of the Township Council to make a grant of $1,000. A similar amount was donated by the Town Council at the beginning of this year so that the task of the I.O.D.E. so far as the raising of the necessary funds, was completed.

There was at the beginning the usual difference of opinion as to the location and the form which the memorial was to take. At the municipal election of 1925, the latter question was submitted to the people when the majority expressed themselves in favor of a monument rather than a memorial building. The site finally chosen was on Government land on the west side of the river where the memorial, when erected, can be seen by the tourists passing up and down the Trent Canal.

The Immortal Sixty-Seven

The names of the dead, without anything to show difference in rank, is all that will appear on the monument. It will be a vast democracy of death here as it is in the cemeteries on the battlefields where the sacrifices were made. The martyrs were members of one brotherhood in life and so continue in death.

"They gave their lives for others." In his "Tale of Two Cities" Dickens has made immortal the name of a man that another whom he scarcely knew might be spared to his wife and child, and the name of that martyr is cherished today almost with the same veneration as those of the saints.

Sidney Carton gave, to save another, the fag-end of a wasted life, a life without any but bitter memories and lacking a single ray of hope for the future.

The sixty-seven men whose names are to be held in perpetual memory here, sacrificed lives that were full of hope and promise. Every one of them was chosen from the best of young Canadian manhood. When the call came for national defenders they responded. They faced death in its most hideous forms with a courage that was sublime and day after day looked into their open graves with vision undimmed and hearts that never quailed. Their grieving relatives can comfort themselves with the thought: "It is a far better thing they have done than they ever did; it is a far sweeter rest they have gone to than they have ever known."

The Roll of Honor.

A THREAT REMOVED.

The terms of the agreement which a number of the trades represented in the British strike have signed with their employers make another general strike in Great Britain almost an impossibility.

The significance of the victory won for the nation by Premier Baldwin's handling of the whole situation is just begun to be appreciated.

The trades unions have acknowledged that they were wrong in calling a general strike, and some of them at least have bound themselves by solemn obligations not to strike nationally, sectionally or locally until every effort at conciliation has been exhausted.

The threat of a general strike has been banished—surely a result for which the cost of the recent tie-up, heavy enough as that was, is not too great a price to pay.

Let us hope now that in the adjustments that are being made justice and kindly consideration will enter into the final arrangements, that the lot of the workers may be so improved that there will be no fertile ground for Red agitators to cultivate.

The effect of the stand of the British people against the recent challenge was like a bomb-shell to the Russian Internationale; that effect can be made permanent if the spirit of Baldwin's plea for fair play enters into the final negotiations with the workers.

SEE PETERBORO FIRST.

The opening out of the summer is an appropriate time for Peterboro citizens to consider the advisability of seeing more of their own district than they have yet been able to do.

How well do you know the city in which you live and its surroundings?

Are you getting as much out of the advantages offered you here as you should be getting?

The man who owns a car has easy means of transportation to points of interest in the neighborhood.

If he uses that means wisely the summer should be full of delight to himself and his family.

There are beauty spots in profusion close at hand that invite him; with a car he should be able to visit most of them in the next few months, and he will be wise to do so, instead of confining his trips to distant points and to cities that offer little of the charm that is to be found right at his door.

Peterboro motorists should resolve this summer to see more of their own county, to learn something of the northern lake country, to spend some time at the many beautiful picnic spots that are to be easily located.

And those who don't own a car can get more out of Peterboro than they perhaps imagine if they will endeavour to do so.

Nicholls Oval, Inverlea Park and Jackson Park offer facilities for enjoyment that are being overlooked by many of our citizens.

For the sake of the children, if for no other reason, organize picnics for these parks.

You'll be surprised at the enjoyment the little people will get out of these outings.

The parks are yours; use them.

THE ANNUAL CONTROVERSY.

Peterboro saved itself the annual early summer agitation over the question of daylight saving by voting upon it at the municipal election and thus disposing of the matter for a year at least, the proposal to adopt the scheme for the summer months being rejected.

In some centres, however, the community is split into two camps as a result of an argument over the desirability of following the daylight saving plan, a question that seems to be almost in a class by itself when it comes to producing enthusiastic supporters and equally enthusiastic enemies.

Whatever may be one's opinion about daylight saving there will be general agreement that a condition such as exists in Hamilton where manufacturers and merchants are operating on the new time and the City Council refuses to abandon standard time is intolerable.

Were the system to be introduced on a nation-wide scale, as it was when first tried out, daylight saving would have a large measure of support in all urban centres.

Even with a whole community agreeable to adopting it as a local measure, it can be operated fairly successfully.

But with two different systems of time in use, as in Hamilton, the only possible result is confusion—worst confounded.

RECREATION FOR ALL.

The Examiner pointed out the other day that the city fathers should not forget in providing recreational facilities the advantages of lawn bowling as a game for citizens of more mature age that is worthy of being considered.

In support of this contention it is interesting to note that the annual year book of the Playground and Recreation Association of America just published shows a heavy increase in adult recreation.

The figures given by the association indicates that many cities have recognized the fairness of looking after the recreation of adults as well as of the younger generation, with the result that the provision of public golf links, tennis courts, quoit courts and bowling greens has steadily increased.

The report says that everywhere east of the Rockies practically 50 per cent. of the participants in municipal sports and other recreations are adults, and that bowling on the green has become a favourite with middle-aged men in many cities.

The Examiner believes that the same viewpoint should be followed in Peterboro, and that the mistake should not be made in confining civic interest and assistance to those sports in which the children are chiefly interested.

The older citizens have a legitimate claim to the same consideration when plans for recreation are being made by the city fathers.

Recreation for all should be the general policy of the civic authorities in dealing with this question.

"BABE" RUTH.

If George Herman Ruth, better known as "Babe," isn't seen in quite the same perspective in this country as he is in the United States, in whose major league baseball parks he cavorts, his exploits are always followed with interest by readers of the sport pages of the Canadian press, says the Hamilton Spectator. When one thinks of "Babe" Ruth, one also thinks of home-runs, the lining out of four-ply hits being his specialty. A few years ago, this most picturesque figure in baseball had another specialty—dissipation. He was one of the last to be convinced that he couldn't do both acts well. At the close of a season when realization came to him that he could not knock out home-runs with a bottle, Ruth pledged his word to a gathering of baseball writers in New York that he would climb up beside the driver on the water-wagon and seriously devote himself to the job of fitting himself for the next season's campaign. The following year, Ruth's bat and baseballs collided with such devastating effect that a new all-time home-record was established and the "Babe" again rode on the crest of popularity's wave. With one convincing experience behind of the dangers of the bright lights and one illuminating experience of the rewards of clean living, one would have thought that Ruth would have kept off the primrose path. But he didn't and last year found him in disgrace, in wretched health and most of his fortune dissipated. Again this solon of awat made the uphill fight and this spring reported to Manager Huggins of the New York Yankees in fighting trim. His eleventh home-run of the season, which rang from his bat yesterday, was a fitting anniversary of the eleventh homer he made on the same date in 1921, his best year. The "Babe" bids fair to equal if not excel the record of that season. The boys of the land like Ruth better in the role of buster than in the role of boozer. He has been both the bad and good example—220 pounds of temperance lecture.

TO CHECK SALE OF ARMS.

Revolvers and automatic pistols are designed to be effective at comparatively short ranges, and only to the extent that they may be used in target competitions may they be regarded as sporting arms. They form part of the equipment of soldiers and of police officers but, because they can be employed at short ranges and can be secretly carried, they are the favorite weapons of criminals. That fact is demonstrated by newspaper reports of hold-ups and shootings and by a statement, made by Mr. George Doherty of the New York police force to the International Association of Chiefs of Police in 1924, that of 10,000 murders committed in the United States, ninety per cent. had been committed with revolvers or pistols.

Because revolvers and pistols are the favorite weapons of criminals Senator Belcourt of Ottawa would place additional restrictions upon trade in those arms. The Criminal Code contains a number of sections dealing with the carrying and selling of pistols and airguns. It provides for the imposition of a fine on any person who sells or gives a pistol or airgun to a minor under sixteen years of age, and for the fining of any person who sells such a weapon to anyone without keeping a record of the sale, and the date thereof, the name of the purchaser, the name of the maker of the arms and other marks by which it may be identified. It prescribes a fine or imprisonment for one month for anyone other than a justice, a police officer or a soldier or sailor in His Majesty's service and on duty, who has a pistol on his person elsewhere than in his own dwelling, shop, warehouse or counting house and who has not a permit to carry arms or reasonable cause to fear an attack upon himself, his family or his property. It fixes heavier penalties for persons who carry arms with intent to do injury to other persons, or who are found to be armed when arrested for an offence, while committing an offence or while in possession of smuggled goods. Similarly, the regulations for the enforcement of the customs and excise laws forbid the carrying of offensive weapons without a police permit, and forbid aliens to have in their possession anywhere any firearm or ammunition therefor or any offensive weapon without such a permit. The regulations also instruct customs and excise collectors not to release for delivery any pistols or airguns to any importer, other than a recognized dealer, unless such importer has a permit from a police officer or other official authorized to issue such permits. Senator Belcourt would establish control of all trading in revolvers and similar weapons. He has introduced in the Senate a bill to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of such arms, except under Government authorization and supervision.

Under such legislation, presumably, the Government would have authority to limit the classes of persons to whom revolvers and pistols might be legally sold. If the Government's officers then succeeded in enforcing such a law effectively they would have a close check upon all legal traffic in revolvers and pistols in Canada. In the United States there has been agitation for some time in favor of control of the sale of firearms of that kind. Results achieved by that agitation would have a beneficial effect in Canada because they would lessen the danger of an illegal influx of weapons into the Dominion. Action on both sides of the international boundary might to a large extent remove the ground for the assertion of Col. Courtland Starnes, Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, to the Chief Constables' Association of Canada in 1924, that "there is no doubt that something should be done to control the enormous number of revolvers loose in the country."—The Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Just when we were beginning to enjoy the first summer weather along comes the St. Catharines Standard to tell us that soon fat women tourists wearing knickers will be here again.

A contemporary remarks that merchants are now dividing their customers into two classes, those who drive motor cars and those who pay their bills.

UNIVERSITIES ARE FAVORED BY BOARD

Junior Courses at High School Centres Are Approved.

TORONTO, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—According to a resolution adopted by the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto, the Board, while not opposed to Premier Ferguson's scheme for new junior universities at strategic points in the Province, favors the retention of first year courses in pass and honor subjects of the University Curriculum for all who desire to take them. Speaking at a meeting of the Board, Professor Albert Baker stated he was in favor of the Premier's scheme to establish junior universities in collegiate institutes at such high schol centres as Peterboro, Chatham and Port Arthur.

RED LAKE SURVEY COSTS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The mapping of the Red Lake district cost the Department of the Interior $800 and the Royal Canadian air force $6,400. In all, 2,400 square miles were surveyed at an approximate cost of $3.00 per square mile, according to information given in the House of Commons Monday.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

LETTERS TO THE PUBLISHED UNDER THE HEAD MUST BE RECEIVED AT THE EXAMINER OFFICE ON THE DAY BEFORE THEY ARE DESIRED PUBLISHED.

STATE-OWNERSHIP—A MENACE.

(No. 6.)

Sir—A representative "Farmer" of the Western United States wrote a fierce letter of denunciation to the United States government because it is experimenting with the newly-discovered Garnet wheat, which will greatly increase the normal wheat yield. This representative farmer wanted a shortage, not a longage of wheatfoods, so that the farmer might make more money by squeezing the people. This monopolistic spirit was evidently adopted by the Western American farmers from other callings which are accustomed to tighten the market and reap higher profits.

Now, this word "profit" is what causes much of the trouble because "profit" is something which we get without giving any equivalent for it, otherwise it isn't profit, and that is the whole world's sin. But the point which I wish to make just now is that the United States government is not giving the United States farmer fair play in this case. It may seem a strange thing to defend the apparently indefensible cupidity of the western farmer who would deliberately squeeze the people in foods which are the very life of them. But this superficial and first-glance view changes immediately when we note that the United States government conducts no experiments to reduce the prices of the farmers' own necessaries. Hence, for the state to interfere in Garnet wheat for the purpose of reducing the farmers' profits, is distinctly unfair and is crippling him tremendously in his fight for life. Once a government begins to interfere, even though it repudiates, as does the United States government, state-ownership, it is sure to do some class a wrong. Let the people alone and they will work out their own salvation. The moment a government "interferes" the trouble begins. A government-owned country is a dead country like Mexico. It is a government's duty to see that the natural or usual agencies, together with the freedom of the people to employ them, are allowed fair and free play. That is the whole duty of a government. Then, like the changes in temperature and in saturation of the atmosphere, trade, as nature does, will proceed to regulate and to again bring matters to a balance. That is the real law of trade and development, and it is all really the Western United States farmer is asking for, though he did not put his case plainly enough. It is what we must have everywhere. We must have freedom to develop our own lives and properties or else we will quit and that is what we are doing, both morally and commercially, in Ontario.

That is the very reason why compulsory state laws affecting trade like those directing morals prove so futile and dangerous. They kill the individual and his power of development. Let a government see fair play. That is its function as trustee for the people, but no more, if we are to have a self-reliant and developing, and not a dead, people.

—J. H. Burnham.

PROHIBITION—CHRISTIANITY?

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Can a prohibitionist be a Christian, No. Why, Because Prohibition is not Christianity. What is Christianity? God made man free. But man instead of loving God, obeying Him and doing good works chose to do evil continually. Man was then instructed and warned by God that he would hurl himself into destruction if he did not turn from his wickedness and live a right life. Still, however, man persisted in doing evil, that is in turning the things that God has created to a bad and evil use God then said not that man should no longer be free but that He would send His Son as a means of salvation and that those who would believe in and follow Him would go to destruction. God did not say as the Prohibitionists do say that He would remove in any way the means and materials and temptations by which man persisted in his evil courses. It became plain and plainer to some people, however, as time went on that if God would not remove these means, agencies, materials and temptations they would have to do so themselves, because the Saviour and God's plan of salvation were not working out well enough. God's plan would have to be supplemented by man's plan, that is by a removal of all the means, materials, agencies and temptations of evil as far as possible, and that a beginning should be made with everything that could be turned into alcohol and with alcohol itself which was no good and really should never have been created and with its manufacture. This is a fair and true statement of the case as it stands at present and it is quite plain that man cannot endorse God's plan of salvation and endorse Prohibition too, which is nothing more or less than a disbelief in God's plan of salvation as a complete one. Not only does it deny the freedom which God gave man, but it denies the sufficiency of God's means of redemption. Therefore, no man or woman can be a Christian and be a Prohibitionist. The problem of evil in the world is as old as the hills, and sceptics in all ages have suggested just such remedies as prohibitionists have. Christians believe in God's plan. It is very simple. It simply means that if man will not do what he ought to do, there is no way of making him, because God's man is free, a free moral agent who can do evil in His sight and can reject salvation if he wants to. It may seem a strange plan to Prohibitionists, but it is clearly God's plan and if they reject it they are as the publican and the sinner, sure of condemnation.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 17 (Canadian Press)—Wheat prices turned decisively downward today at the last. Confronted with excellent crop advices from the southwest, wheat traders who had been on the buying side attempted to unload and support for the market gave out. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 3-4 to 2c net lower, with corn 5-8 to 1 5-8c off; oats 1-2 to 1 1-4c down, and provisions varying from two cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

With wheat reported as already heading out in Oklahoma and Southern Kansas and as ready for the harvest in Southern Texas perhaps within week, announceemnt of nearly 5,000,000 bushels falling off in the United States visible supply total failed to act as any especial stimulous toward higher prices. The increase of the visible supply had been largely discounted beforehand. Besides, dearth of new export business acted as a weight on the market and so, likewise, did talk that foreign finances were weak.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., May 17—The demand from the United Kingdom and the continent for Manitoba spring wheat on the Montreal market continued steady today and as the prices bid were in line with some exporters views a moderate amount of business was worked. The demand for coarse grains was of a very limited character.

The feature of the potato trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices scored an advance of ten to twenty-five cents per bag.

The tone of the market for eggs was firm and prices show no important change. There was a steady demand for car lots and a moderate amount of business was done in western extras at 30 1-4c, firsts at 28 1-4c, and seconds at 25 1-4c per dozen, f.o.b. Saskatchewan. The receipts were 1,404 cases.

Business in beans was dull and prices were unchanged with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $2.25 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $2.45 to $2.50 per bushel.

The receipts of butter in Montreal today were 158 packages. There was no important change in the condition of the market, business in all directions being quiet.

The receipts of cheese were 1,958 boxes. The volume of business was again light owing to the continued indifferent attitude of foreign buyers, but the tone of the market was steady.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A SENSE OF HUMOR

Mark Twain was often very careless about his personal appearance or dress. One day he made a social call without a necktie and his wife rebuked him for his carelessness. The next day Mark sent a necktie to his hostess by mail with this note: "This, Madam, completes my call."

This act on the part of Mark saved a family argument through the sense of humor.

A little sense of humor now and then would lessen home discord.

Aged Roseneath Men

These photographs are of two pioneer men who were born in the village of Keene, Ontario, and have chosen the village of Roseneath in which to spend their retirement. They live immediately opposite to each other and oftentimes have talked over their school days and early experiences.

James Eddington, the older of the two, is of Scotch descent, born May 18th, 1835. His parents arrived in Canada in 1834, after a voyage of five weeks on the Atlantic. On arrival they took up land in Peterborough district where they lived until death. Their son, James, became a farmer having land both at Keene and near Roseneath. Later he moved into the village of Roseneath and kept the Temperance house for a number of years.

He is still active in mind and enjoying fairly good health. In point of time Mr. Eddington is in the front ranks of readers of the Globe, having been a subscriber for many years. He well remembers the time when the first copy of the Globe came to Keene. He seldom missed a day during the winter in attending his chickens. As his wife says "he eats heartily and still likes his tobacco."

Edward Ellenor, who was born on March 8th, 1836, is of Irish descent. His parents came from the green isle in the early thirties. They settled on land in the Peterborough district. Their son, Edward, worked on a farm for a few years. Later he became a carpenter, and built many houses and barns in this locality. He was constable for a number of years, a fact which many of the men of today will remember well.

He has been a resident of this district for many years and celebrated his nineticth birthday on Monday, March 8th, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Annie Lapp. Many friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations. Although active in mind his health is gradually declining.

The Aged Man

Behold you worn out, aged man
Among the busy throng,
Whom age has bent, staff in each hand,
How slow he moves along.

His limbs he nimbly used to ply
Can hardly move along,
He's now in danger when without
To mix among the throng.

His arms that used to labor hard
And win his daily bread,
Are now so stiff he hardly can
Life them above his head.

His eyes, that used to spy afar,
Are heavy, dull and dim,
No objects now divert his mind,
For everything seems grim.

The allotted days for man on earth
He now has lived to see,
The messenger will soon be here
His soul from earth to free.

For very soon old mother earth
Will claim him for her own,
Like to a shock of corn,
When ripe must be cut down.

I know for me He suffered death
My soul for to redeem;
I once was lost but now am found
I long to be with Him.

The time for my departure's near
My strength is failing fast,
My race of life is nearly run,
Here long I cannot last.

My last advice to all I give,
Leaving this world of care;
Think often of your latter end
Before death on you stare.

For youth is the proper time to seek
The Lord, and to obtain
Assurance of the rest that doth
For God's people remain.

I now bid young and old adieu
All on earth I hold dear
Hoping to meet you all in Heaven
When done with all things here.

BRITAIN IS ADVISED TO SEEK BIG SHARE OF BUSINESS FROM WITHIN THE EMPIRE

Manufacturers Should Instal Best Equipment and Workmen Should Respond, Board of Trade President Proposes.

LONDON, May 18 (Canadian Press Cable).—"Buy British goods" was the burden of a speech delivered in the House of Commons Monday by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade, when the Board of Trade estimates were being considered. Sir Philip emphasized that it was absolutely vital that all efforts should be directed towards the settlement and building up of British trade. British manufacturers should be ready to instal the best plants and there should be a response on the part of the workmen to justify the expenditure.

"We are not living on credit at present," Sir Philip said, "for while our trade balance is nothing like as large as we would like, it leaves a balance for investment." He would continue the "Buy British goods" campaign and was convinced that the country was going to practice it, thus creating employment at home and increasing the trade balance available for investment and development, particularly of Empire markets. Trade returns, Sir Philip stated, showed the importance of home and Empire markets and Britain should get the biggest possible share of these. The sale of British goods had been helped by reduction of prices and also by British prestige, which he believed was higher to-day than ever. There was a great admiration everywhere for Britain, and that prestige could be used to advance British goods in the world's markets and redress a great deal of the loss which otherwise might come from events of the past fortnight.

CAMPBELLFORD CLOTHIER HANGED HIMSELF IN BASEMENT OF STORE AFTER TURNING BACK FROM RIVER

Clothes Soaking Wet When Body Cut Down By Citizens.

NO INQUEST HELD

No Reason Ascertained for Suicide—Was a Popular Merchant.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18.—Paul Weighell committed suicide sometime Sunday night and his lifeless body was found hanging in the basement of his store on Front street about 10.30 Monday morning. There will be no inquest.

The late Mr. Weighell, who was a bachelor, lived alone in rooms over his store. Monday morning it was noticed that his place of business was not opened and several express parcels had been left at the door. Peter Corkery, from whom Weighell bought the business over three years ago and R. Spiers, who occupies the adjoining store, started an investigation. All the lower doors were locked but the neighbors secured a ladder and made their way to the balcony in the rear, where they found the entrance open. There was no sign of Weighell either in his living rooms or in the store and the two men went into the basement where they found his lifeless body hanging from the ceiling, the feet of the dead man being only a few inches from the floor. It was evident that he had fastened the rope to the ceiling by standing on a box from which he jumped.

Coroner W. F. Loucks was called and after looking over the situation decided that it was a clear case of suicide and that no inquest was necessary. The remains were cut own and removed to the undertaking rooms of A. G. Watson and Company where they were prepared for burial. The body was fully dressed and in the pockets of the clothing there was found $74 in cash and a cheque for $11. Coroner Loucks took charge of the effects.

The coroner found that the deceased had been dead for over 10 hours and that he had evidently committed the fatal deed about 10 o'clock Sunday night. It is believed that he first attempted suicide by drowning as his clothing was soaked with water, the theory being that he had jumped into the river but that his courage failed him, and that he got out of the water, and found death by hanging.

Weighell came to Campbellford from Tamworth in the month of February, 1923, and had carried on the clothing business ever since. He has several brothers in Tamworth, and word was sent to that town but up to the time of writing no word has been received. At one time the deceased had been in business in Stirling. He was a man of quiet habits and was a general favorite with all who knew him.

No reason can be given for his act and the discovery of his remains was a shock to the community. Weighell attended St. John's United church.

Brother Arrives Here

John Weighell, a brother of the deceased, arrived here last night on the evening train from his home in Tamsworth, and will take the remains back with him today. The news of the suicide was a shock to the brother and he is unable to explain it. Paul was in good health, he was of a cheerful disposition and was fairly prosperous in business, and his relatives as well as those who knew him during his residence here would regard him as one of the last men to take his own life.

Paul owned some property in Tamworth and a short time ago received an offer for it. He went to Tamworth to close the sale but the deal fell through. This, however, did not worry him any.

The deceased was about 60 years old. He is survived by two brothers, John who came here, and Robert, who is ill at his home in Tamworth. Like Paul, the two surviving brothers are unmarried, and they work jointly a market garden. All three were born in England.

QUEBEC EXPLORES UNGAVA TERRITORY

Three Parties Comprising 50 Men in June.

QUEBEC, Que., May 18.—(Canadian Press).—What is considered the most important expedition that has ever been sent out by the Provincial Government will leave Seven Islands in June next for a long exploration trip in the vast territory of Ungava. The expedition will be under the direction of Henri Belanger, well known surveyor, who has several similar undertakings to his credit already, and will comprise about fifty men and be divided into three parties, with Mr. Belanger, Paul Savard and Adrien Chalifour as the respective leaders.

The whole exploration will be accomplished in three airplanes. The principal aims of the expedition are the preparation of a detailed report on McLean's Fall, considered the largest falls in Canada, 800 feet in height and three quarters of a mile wide. More than 1000 miles will be covered by the explorers during the four months they expect to be absent.

$25,000 FAIR GRANT GETS SIX MAJORITY

Kingston Defeats Fixed Assessment By-law.

KINGSTON, May 18.—(Canadian Press)—Two by-laws were submitted to the ratepayers of Kingston Monday one to raise $25,000 for improvements to the fair grounds and the other to grant a fixed assessment of $1,000 to the Monarch Battery Company for a period of ten years, the former carried by a majority of six, while the latter failed by about fifty to get the necessary two thirds majority.

FIRE BRIGADE TO BE FORMED

To Man Chemical Apparatus Recently Purchased for Warkworth.

W. A. KELLY CHIEF

(By a Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, May 18.—A public meeting will be held here for the purpose of organizing a volunteer fire brigade to man the chemical fire fighting apparatus recently purchased by the village trustees. It is taken for granted that the chief of the brigade will be W. A. Kelly, chairman of the trustees and of the Electric Light Commission, the personnel of which is the same as that of the Trustee Board. As the fire chief will give his services without compensation there will be no legal objection to putting Mr. Kelly into another office. He is always ready to serve his municipality in any capacity and his services have always been appreciated.

Warkworth in its latest civic enterprise will aim to preserve all the traditions of the old time fire brigade. Some distinguishing garb will be secured for the chief and he will also be provided with a megaphone so that in the event of a fire his orders may be clearly heard above the inevitable din.

The Percy Township Council will be asked by the village trustees for a grant to help pay for the new equipment as the Community Hall and the Town Hall, in both of which the township has a financial interest, will be protected in the event of a fire.

CONVICTS CAPTURED.

Last of Five Men Rounded Up—One is Dying of Consumption.

DETROIT, Mich. May 18.—(Canadian Press).—The last of the five convicts who escaped from the state reformatory at Ionia last Thursday night have been accounted for with the capture here Sunday of James T. Schaules, 29 years old, and Edgar Heald, 19. Schaules begged the arresting officers to shoot him, saying he would rather die than return to prison. He was a patient at the tuberculosis hospital and is said to be in the last stages of the disease.

De Valera Launches "Fianna Fail" To Promote Republic.

DUBLIN, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—Eamon De Valera, who recently split with the other Republican leaders, yesterday inaugurated a new political organization called "Fianna Fail". The principal point of its policy is to unite the people against the oath of allegiance to the Crown which would enable the Republicans to enter the Dail Eireann where they have hopes of becoming the majority and would work for the inclusion of North Ireland in the Free State.

COUNTER REVOLT

General Haller Prepares To Oppose Old Friend, Pilsudski.

BRESLAU, Prussian Silesia, May 18 (Canadian Press). — The continued concentration of Polish troops on the Polish-German border is agitating the German Silesian populace. Within the last few days large bodies of troops have been observed in movement, while Sundry all the officers in the Polish reserves were called out in Polish Silesia.

It is feared that within a few days the food supply of Kattowit and other places will be cut off, as all traffic from Galicia, which is the principal food market, and from Little Poland, has been interrupted.

Ex-President Wojciechowski is now at the Pala Palace, the former residence of the Russian Czar, where he has been placed under a heavy guard. Former members of the cabinet are interned at Vilanow.

Agarian Reforms

Premier Bartel, leader of "the party of work," has announced that one of the first things on the programme will be the carrying out of the agarian reforms by dividing large estates among small land owners. The second phase of his programme calls for greater autonomy for national minorities and the third the continuation of the struggle against communists.

Reports from Posen said General Haller is feverishly organizing a counter revolution.

M. Trompczynski, president of the senate, has gone to Posen as Pilsudski's emissary to negotiate with General Stanislaw Heller, leader of the Wilto's forces, for a cessation of hostilities. It is understood that Haller's 8,000 troops are now concentrated at Zyrardow.

Late Sunday the Pilsudski regime revoked the orders calling for a state of national emergency Pilsudski headquarters has issued a communique reporting that fighting has ended and that troops have been ordered to return to their garrisons.

Given Recognition

WARSAW, May 18.—Recognition of the government of Marshal Josef Pilsudski in Poland, set up as a result of his apparently successful revolt which forced resignation of the previous government, was virtually accomplished yesterday

It was done through representatives of numerous foreign governments visiting the heads of Pilsudski's regime.

The American, French and Soviet legations were among the first to take up connections with Pilsudski's government.

CLAIM TO EARLDOM.

By Soda Fountain Clerk in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18.—(Canadian Press).—The lost heir of the estate and title of the Earl of Oxford may prove to be a man who has lived in Winnipeg for the last four or five years, according to information secured by a local newspaper Monday.

The man is Frederick Mason, son of one of the claimants for the estate, who at present is out of employment and is now seeking a position as soda fountain clerk at a railway station refreshments booth here.

Mr. Mason's mother, and his uncle, G. Lawrence, of Vancouver, are two of five of the family who are putting in a claim, and are now collecting legal evidence.

APPEAL DISALLOWED.

New Brunswick Court Decision Sustained.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—The Supreme Court of Canada, after argument, gave judgment yesterday quashing the appeal in New Brunswick Electric Power Commission vs. New Brunswick Gas & Oil Fields, with costs of a motion to quash.

The appeal was from a decision of the appeal division of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick increasing the award of Mr. Justice Leblanc, sitting as an arbitrator under the provisions of the New Brunswick Electric Power Act, in respect to the expropriation by the commission of a certain fight over lands to the south-east of the City of Moncton, N.B.

NEW YORK STATE IS AFTER QUACKS

Use of Title of Doctor To Be Restricted.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 18.—Governor Smith yesterday signed the Webb-Loomis Medical Practice act, designed to drive "fake doctors and quacks" out of business in the state.

In a memorandum, the governor sets forth that the bill will allow the practice of any cult or practitioner of healing within the state, so long as the practitioner does not disobey the new law, particularly in attempting to diagnose diseases. Chiropractors claimed they would be driven out of business in the state if the bill became a law.

Must Register.

Under the new act, no one not properly qualified can use the title of doctor, and physicians must register annually with the secretary of the state board of medical examiners. This list is to be public property.

The medical profession is empowered to set up an organization similar to the Bar association to "clean its own house," the governor expressed it, while all prosecutions of violations will be in the hands of the attorney-general.

CONFERENCE HAS BIG MEMBERSHIP

Toronto Body of United Church Hears Statistical Reports.

TORONTO, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—The membership of the Toronto conference of the United church is 106,581 and the conference raised a total of $3,311,785 for all purposes for the year. These were the salient facts gathered out of the numerous reports of a statistical nature presented to the Toronto conference, resuming its sessions yesterday. A motion by the Rev. W. L. Lawrence of Sault Ste. Marie provided the memorials committee with one of the knottiest discussions of the gathering, concerning the legal right of Protestant clergy to tie the nuptial knot for Roman Catholics or persons of any other creed. The committee over which Rev. Alex McGillivray presided advised that the motion be sent before the General Council for consideration.

A PLEA FOR A SPIRITUAL MINISTRY

The following sermon was preached by the retiring moderator, Rev. Principal D. J. Fraser, D.D., LL.D., at the meeting of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa, in Chalmers Church, Ottawa, on October 11, 1921, and is reprinted in The Examiner by request

2 Corinthians, III, 4-5. (Athorised Version.)

Our sufficiency is of God: who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament: not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.

St. Paul is referring primarily to himself, but he courteously associates with himself Timothy, whose name appears in the salutation of this letter and Titus who has just come to him with good news of his Corinthian converts. But sometimes he forgets Timothy and Titus and writes in the first person singular. He is defending himself against the charge of certain hostile members of the church—one man in particular—that he has not adequate credentials as a Christian apostle, and he is really using the editorial we. Therefore, Dr. Moffatt is justified in translating the pronoun here throughout as I and my.

The translation of the authorised version is unfortunate. St. Paul is not claiming to be an able minister in our sense of the phrase. The word able is not an adjective qualifying ministers. It is a part of the verb. God made us able or fit or sufficient—God qualified us—as ministers or servants. Ministers of what? Of the new testament, say the King James translators. But the misleading word the is not in the original, and the reference obviously cannot be to the New Testament spelt with capital letters—our New Testament of the books from Matthew to Revelation—for it had not yet been written. St. Paul was unconsciously contributing to it when he penned or dictated these words. He does not mean, as the authorised version might suggest, that he is made by God a spiritual rather than a literal interpreter of the peculiarly Christian canon of scripture, for the only canon of scripture the Christians of his day had was the Jewish Law and Prophets and Writings. If we leave out the, change testament which was carried over from the latin Vulgate of Jerome (testamentum) to covenant with a small c, which is the meaning of the Greek, and take the second sentence as definining the new covenant, we get the translation Our sufficiency or ability or qualification for our work is of God who also equipped us as ministers of a new covenant a covenant, namely, not of letter but of spirit. He is contrasting two covenants—the old or Mosaic covenant which was written in the book of the law and the new or Christian covenant which is spiritual, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tables of stone but on the tablets of the human heart: and he professes to be not a minister of the old letter of the law of merit based on good works—as his judaising challengers evidently thought he ought to be—but a minister of the new spirit of the gospel of grace. Dr. Moffatt therefore, renders it My qualifications come from God, and he has further qualified me to be the minister of a new covenant—a covenant not of written law, but of spirit: for the written law kills, but the Spirit makes alive.

History repeats itself, and we witness to-day the same contrast between the old and the new, the letter and the spirit. They who are not slabishly loyal to the letter of past revelations are sometimes declared to be unfit as ministers of the gospel. Now, it is the letter of the Old Testament, again the letter of the New, that is appealed to for the discomfiture of the modern prophet. Sometimes it is the letter of St. Augustine, of the Westminster Confession of Faith, of the Thirty-nine Articles, of the sermons of John Wesley, that is quoted against the preacher who seeks to reinterpret the truths of Christianity in the light of the newer learning and larger experience. But the literalist of whatever school attaches himself to the opponents of St. Paul. He takes the position that sometime in the past, the judaiser said in the Old Testament, the modern legalist says in the New Testament or in the Catholic Creeds or in some later Confession, the statement of religious faith is literally made in full and final form. He places some document of the past in the seat of supreme religious authority where St. Paul's critics placed the letter of the Old Testament and the Scribal tradition. This is a stage in the age-long conflict between tradition and progress, static and dynamic, conservative and liberal, fixity and growth, the letter and the spirit. We who stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free, who walk as free men amid the thought of our time—the researches of reverent scholarship and the evolving experience of the generations—must vindicate ourselves to our age, as St. Paul vindicated himself to his age, as ministers of a life-giving spirit rather than of a killing letter.

I intend to choose just a few of the almost countless illustrations of the modern conflict between a literal and a spiritual interpretation of our religion and to appeal to the ministers of our own Church for a leadership that will prove us true disciples of Jesus, St. Paul, Martin Luther, who dared protest against the tyranny of the letter and who bequeathed to us our priceless inheritance of spiritual Christianity.

(1) In the first place there is the conflict between the literal and the spiritual conceptions of Holy Scripture. Some of us can remember when the orthodox view of the bible was that from Genesis to Revelation it was a verbally inspired and absolutely infallible rule of faith and manners, all of its parts of equal value, and that from its store-house of proof-texts literal quotations might be made in support of condemnation of doctrine and practice. And this mechanical view has not yet wholly disappeared, although it has ceased to be any longer orthodox. Indeed it is not the teaching of plenary inspiration and religious infallibility authorised by the Standards of our Church. We have been led, however, chiefly by the modern method of the literary and historical study of the books of the bible, to regard it as a record of the gradual and progressive revelations of God to Israel which find their culmination in the Word made flesh. It is a frank and comprehensive record. It contains the imperfect conceptions of God and the crude ideas of stage of human history. It does not conceal the doubts that perplexed the authors of the Book of Job and some of the Psalms, the cynical philosophy of Ecclesiastes, the obvious contradictions of the legalist and the prophet, the irreconcilable discrepancies between the religious view of earlier and later writers, the inadequate teaching of the law which Jesus came to fulfil and on which he passed his judgment, Ye have heard that it hath been said . . . but I say unto you.

In order to catch the spiritual message of any bible-writer we must know the circumstances of his age and place, the people for whom or to whom he wrote, the actual conditions that called forth his writing. This of course is not a universal truth, for many parts of scripture are of absolute religious value and have proved of inestimable comfort and inspiration to simple souls in every age who knew nothing of their historic setting. But it is a fundamental law of literary criticism that to fully understand any writing we must know the soil out of which it sprang. This principle is being applied to the study of all literature—not merely biblical literature—to the intense interest and immense profit of the student. There is a general protest against the mechanical method of detaching a piece of literature from its relation to life and reading it as a thing of value in itself. The best interpreters of English Literature deprecate the books of selections which are being offered for college use and urge the necessity of reading a book or a play or a poem as a whole with due regard to the environment that called it forth. The historical study of Holy Scripture is a method that is being universally adopted. We cannot thoroughly understand Robert Burns' poems apart from a knowledge of the time in which he lived, or Carlyle's Sartor Resartus, or Tennyson's In Memoriam or Chalmer's Sermons. Similarly we cannot intelligently read the Book of Amos without thinking of the religious life of the Eighth Century B. C., or the Book of Hosea apart from the thought of his domestic tragedy, or the letters of St. Paul without some acquaintance with the converts to whom he wrote and the controversies of the early church, or the teaching of Jesus without taking into account the religious needs of the Apostolic Age that influenced the formation of the Gospel tradition.

The letter of Scripture has sometimes been quoted in support of doctrines against which the human instinct revolted. It was quoted during the American War in favour of slavery. It is being quoted to-day in our own country in favour of polygamy. Dr. Harnack is reported to have sought justification of the ravage of Belgium by an appeal to the law of human necessity as illustrated by David and those who were with him eating the shew-bread in the House of God. This literalism is the fertile mother of sectarian vagaries that are proving a menace to rational religion. But it is the spirit of the bible that has inspired human progress. Its emphasis on the infinite value of the naked human soul has abolished slavery. Its law of human brotherhood is the motive behind the present movement towards universal disarmament. Its requirement of absolute purity of heart is the foundation of ideal family life. Its conviction of Immortality is the origin of the Christian Sabbath. Its enthusiasm for the spiritual as transcendent over the material has saved the church from deteriorating into a cult of bodily healing or a society of merely humanitarian benevolence. We are ministers of this covenant of the Spirit. Ours it is to discriminate between the eternal truths of Holy Scripture and their local and temporal expression, and to witness to the universal and immortal elements that are embedded in the majestic writings of prophet, psalmist and apostle and incarnated in Him who is the Living Word.

(2) In the second place there is the perennial conflict between traditional theology and contemporary scientific and philosophical thought. This is the age-long quarrel of "Science and Religion." I need not sketch the history of the Church's opposition to the progress of Science by its appeals to the letter of the Scripture. The psalmist and Revelation were quoted against the Copernican theory that the earth is round and revolves about the sun as its stationary centre. Did not St. John the Divine speak of the four corners of the earth and did not the psalmist speak of the sun going forth like a strong man to run a race? We remember the incident of the Pope and Galileo. The story may be legendary that after recanting the heresy that the earth moves, on rising from his knees he was heard to mutter: "It does move all the same"; but it illustrates the possibility of the tragic conflict between intellectual integrity and loyalty to the creed of the Church. The most recent dispute, perhaps, has been between traditional orthodoxy and the theory of evolution. It is not for us to say whether or not the evolutionary hypothesis is a satisfactory explanation of the phenomena with which it deals, although as educated, even if not scholarly, men we are entitled to our opinion. The fact is, however, that men are thinking to-day in terms of evolution, and if we would work along the line of least resistance we must present the gospel in language that is intelligible to our age. I will take only two examples. It is claimed that evolution allows no place for the biblical narrative of the fall of man. If we yielded to the geologist the letter of the story of creation in the first Chapter of Genesis without the sacrifice of its essential spiritual teaching, we need not be afraid that by yielding to the evolutionist the letter of the story of the Garden of Eden in the Third Chapter we shall forfeit its imperishable moral and spiritual lessons. A theistic doctrine of evolution cannot cancel the facts of sin, moral responsibility, the need of redemption, which are the essence of the Eden story.

And the doctrine of Atonement has been brought into the argument. Appeal has been made to the Pauline and Augustinian doctrines of Atonement as final statements. But St. Paul was stating the fundamental Christian truth in the Jewish terms of expiatory sacrifice and St. Augustine in the terms of Roman law, just as the modern theologian interprets it in the terms of evolutionary thought. All three represent the temporal formulation of a timeless truth. And is it not possible that the language of evolution allows us to formulate one aspect of the doctrine of Atonement which has been neglected down through the ages,—although it is clearly recognised by Isaiah in his picture of the suffering servant of Jehovah and by St. Peter in his First Epistle, and finds expression in the teaching of Jesus and St. Paul,—and which has peculiar significance for the generation that has passed through the Great War—namely, the universal law of vicarious suffering, the principle which found consummate expression in the death of Christ but must also be the law of life for every follower of Christ? If any man will be my disciple, let him deny himself and take up his cross—not my cross, there is no suggestion of proxy—take up his own cross and follow me. What new dignity is added to the life of the humble believer by the thought that by his sacrifices for righteousness sake he is a partaker of the sufferings of his Lord, that in degree his life too is being offered for the redemption of the world!

I need not elaborate this, for in our Church there has not been any marked tendency to stifle inquiry and to suppress reconstructive statements of faith by an appeal to the letter of our subordinate standards or even of the New Testament. Large liberty has been allowed our preachers and teachers to interpret the peculiar doctrines of Christianity in terms of modern thought, so long as loyalty to the mind of Christ has been maintained. Rather would I plead for some slight interest in any doctrinal presentation of our religion! Theology has strangely fallen into neglect even among the descendants of the Scottish fathers. We have great zeal for evangelism, the missionary enterprise, social service. There is a loud demand for practical rather than doctrinal preaching. Leaders in the Church are not ashamed to proclaim that they care nothing for dogma. But Christianity has an intellectual content and will only appeal to thinking men when presented as a rational religion. Without a theology that embodies the results of biblical criticism and the comparative study of religion and the latest philosophical thought, evangelism will become mere emotionalism, the foreign missionary movement a proselytising propaganda, social service a humanitarian sentimentalism. Dr. Herbert Symonds, a brother beloved in all the churches, within a year of his death, addressed to me an Open Letter on A Spiritual Forward Movement which many of you have doubtless read. He felt very keenly that the Forward Movement inaugurated by the Protestant Churches of Canada did not make room for the contribution of the modern scholar, and he made a plea for the recognition of Theology. Let his valedictory come with pathetic appeal to the ministers of our Church as we are now seeking the climax of the Forward Movement in the deepening of the spiritual life of the people. "I have a strong conviction," he said, "that the modern scholar has a contribution of the utmost value to make to a Forward Movement. Indeed I believe it depends on him more than upon others whether the movement be forward or backward. If our Forward Movement takes the form of mere emotional revivalism, based upon a theology which is outworn—a house of bondage to the letter—then indeed there may be a great display of crowds, and counting of converts, and yet not progress but regress in the main. It is not less theology that we need but more—only not the theology of the Scribes and Pharisees, a good thing once, like an old suit of clothes, but good no longer; not a thing of traditions of the elders, a hortus siccus of theological growths than lived long years ago, but a living revelation by seers and prophets of the living God." Let us heed this plea of our lamented friend for a teaching ministry. There is always need for a rational interpretation of Christianity—for orthodoxy in its original sense of right thinking; and our neglect of theology—the contempt for dogma, the popular criticism of our colleges as doctrinaire rather than practical, the yielding of many a pulpit to the demand for the sensational and the entertaining—is not a good omen for the Church. Has the indoctrinating of the youth fallen into such bad fashion that we are facing a generation which is hardly capable of receiving from the Forward Movement any other impression than which is emotional and ephemeral? This can be remedied, not by the attempt to revive the letter of the old formulas which have had their day and ceased to be, but by honestly facing, as our fathers did, the religious problems of our age and seeking their solution in the light of the newer scientific knowledge and the larger Christian experience.

(3) In the third place there is the conflict between the letter of external religious authority and the spirit of the Christian consciousness. The question of authority is very pressing. We all know the rival claimants. Reason, says the Unitarian, is the seat of authority in religion; but many of the truths that lie in the universal religious consciousness of mankind are such as reason has not given us and reason can offer no adequate apology for their persistence. They transcend reason. They are truths that never can be proved. The Church, says the Roman and Anglo Catholic, is the court of final appeal; but the decisions of the Church have not always been consistent with one another and the character of those who reached these decisions has not always been such as to give us confidence in their verdict. The Bible, says the evangelical protestant, is our infallible religious guide; but the bible, as we have seen, is not always self-consistent. It contains the historical revelation of God to man, but that revelation was gradual. Here a little and there a little, from strength to strength, the bible grew. The claim that the bible as a whole is the infallible authority was replaced by the claim that the teaching of Jesus in the New Testament—the words of Christ—the mind of the Master—is the ultimate source of appeal in matters of religion. But men have asked: Why do you believe in the teaching of Jesus? Is it on the authority of the bible or of the church or of reason? Moreover, how do you know what Jesus said? Are you not dependent for his teaching on the early disciples? They do not pretend to give us his sayings in precisely their original form or in their exact chronological order. Why do you accept their interpretation of Christ as a literal guide? Because they were inspired interpreters of Jesus' thought? On whose authority do you believe that they were divinely inspired interpreters of Jesus' thought? On their own authority, that is, the authority of the bible, or on the authority of the Church, or on the authority of reason? Thus there is no possibility of our avoiding the question: What is the ultimate source of religious authority? And there is no merely external letter to which we can appeal. We must take our place beside St. Paul as ministers of a spiritual covenant which is written not with ink but in the fleshy tablets of our hearts. The word of God within us bears witness to the word of God in Holy Scripture or in the teaching of the Church or in the deliverance of reason. The word of God is not far from any one of us. It is not entrusted to the highest dignitary of the Church, that we should say, who will go up to him and bring it down to us? It is not buried in the depths of Scripture that we should send critics and exegetes to dig it up for us. The word of God is in our mouth and in our heart. This is no modern doctrine, although it needs to be revived for the Westminster Divines clearly recognised it when they say in their Confession of Faith: Our full pesuasion and assurance of the infallible truth and divine authority of scripture is from the inward work of the Holy Spirit, bearing witness by and with the word in our hearts. The Romanist appeals to the letter of his Church's decree, and timid Protestants are sometimes envious of his clear-cut external authority and would put the letter of the bible in its place. But it will not stand the test. We are called to be courageous Protestants, loyal to the principle of the Reformation that the inspiration of the bible-reader is as necessary as the inspiration of the bible-writer, that the Holy Spirit within us testifies to the teaching of the Holy Spirit in the Book, that the word of God is in our heart and one jot or tittle of that Word shall never pass away.

(4) In the fourth place, and finally, there is the conflict between the letter of the apostolic preaching and the spirit of the modern gospel message. I will choose only one example—the second advent. There are religious sects that claim to be apostolic in their preaching and who carry down and make essential to faith all the paraphernalia of the Apostle's message—its Jewish setting, the symbolic and apocalyptic language in which it was delivered. They seek to produce in the Western world today the letter of the apostolic religion in the Roman Empire two thousand years ago, and they suspect the presentation of the gospel in the language of our time and place as diluted, inadequate and disloyal to the original evangel. The early missionaries of Christianity necessarily use Jewish terminology—to say nothing of the language of the mystery religions of the Greco-Oriental world—and it is imperative for us to penetrate behind that poetic and figurative garb which was local and transitory to the universal and abiding body of their message. Indeed we find in the New Testament itself evidence that where the gospel was carried over to Greek soil its Jewish garb was partially discarded. The author of the Fourth Gospel, for instance, spiritualised the great doctrine of the Second advent of Christ. I wonder how many of those who insist on the letter of the Apostolic preaching of the Coming of Christ would go to the bedside of the dying with St. Paul's exact words of comfort to the Thessalonians: For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. I fancy that they reserve these words for the funeral, and come at once to the comforting conclusion: So shall we ever be with the Lord, and that they turn to St. John's spiritual presentation of the Advent—words that never fail to cheer and sustain the believer as he starts on his lone journey— Let not your heart be troubled' In my father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you. I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also. And whither I go, ye know the way. There you have in the Early Church the old gospel in a new garb, to meet the needs of those to whom the Jewish apocalyptic language would have little meaning; and so we are justified in presenting the substance of the Gospel not in the Jewish forms of the First Century but in language that is intelligible to the Western world of the Twentieth Century.

What, then, is the essence of this Apostolic preaching? St. Paul reminds the Thessalonians of the manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God, and to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, who delivered us from the wrath to come. That was the proclamation of the Apostles by which they reaped so large a harvest on Gentile soil—the death of Christ for our sins, his resurrection and ascension to God's right hand, and his speedy coming again to reward his friends and to recompense his foes. The coming again was the climax of all that went before, and what was the spiritual essence of the doctrine of the coming again? It was moral judgment—the discrimination between the good and the bad, the everlasting Yea and the everlasting Nay, the come ye blessed and the depart ye cursed. We are sometimes criticised for being ethical rather than evangelical preachers. But evangelical preaching is essentially ethical. The apostolic gospel was an ethical message with a religious sanction. The letter of the apostolic preaching in our day may kill its moral significance. Its temptation is to become a doctrinaire gospel. It is the spirit of it that giveth life. And in this age of industrial strife, of material greed, of the desire for success at any cost, of the feverish pursuit of pleasure regardless of the moral law, of class wars and national jealousies, our preaching will be of little value to the world, if it does not make real to the men the laws of the moral order and give them a vision of eternal righteousness seated on the throne of the universe. Tender words of comfort there must be for the sad and of forgiveness for the penitent; but for the cowards and slackers, the impure and unjust, the human vultures that prey on the weakness of their fellows, there must be the stern announcement of the outer darkness which Jesus pictured with no ray of hope. This is the apostolic preaching to a selfish and indifferent age—Divine retribution—God our judge. To the godless the coming of the Lord will be a devouring fire and everlasting burning; but he that walketh righteously and speaketh uprightly, he that despiseth the gain of oppression, that shaketh his hands from the holding of bribes, that stoppeth his ears from hearing of blood, that shutteth his eyes from looking upon evil, he shall see the King in his beauty and shall meet the advent with the glad welcome: The Lord is our judge; he will save us.

I have simply touched the fringe of a great subject, but I have gone beyond the time-allowance of a Synodical Sermon. May I just sum up what I fain would have expressed by quoting the relevant little parable of Him who said: It is the spirit that quickeneth; the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life. Therefore every scirbe which is instructed unto the Kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is a householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.

And now to the Father, Son and Holy Spirit be ascribed by us and by the whole Church, as is most due, the Kingdom and the Power and the Glory forever and ever. Amen.

New Brunswick Lady Speaks Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. E. Anketell Suffered From Kidney Trouble.

SHAW BROOK, N.B., May 17. —(Special.)—"Your Dodd's Kidney Pills have given me complete satisfaction," says Mrs. Anketell, a well known resident of this place." For three months I have taken them and I am very pleased with the results. The pains in my kidneys from which I was suffering have completely disappeared. I am highly in favour of Dodd's Kidney Pills and would not be without them in the house for any money."

The reason Dodd's Kidney Pills have come to occupy such a prominent place in the home is that so many ordinary everday ills come from sick kidneys.

Rheumatism, urinary troubles, backaches, diabetes and heart disease can be traced directly or indirectly to sick kidneys. To be assured of good health the kidneys must be kept in good working order all the time.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the best remedy for sick kidneys.

THERMOMETER FOR FISHERMEN

The wise fisherman of the future will test the temperature of the water in which he casts his lines. The Biological Board of Canada, after an extensive survey, has found that haddock and cod especially are very particular about temperature, says Popular Science Monthly. The cod will not stay where the water is freezing, and for him 50 degrees is unbearably hot. Between 40 and 45 degrees is about right, and if fishermen will fish where such temperature prevails it is claimed they can scoop cod up wholesale. Haddock prefer water about five degrees warmer.

The board urges fishermen to use deep sea thermometers and not waste time where there are no fish.

BAZAAR AND SUPPER HELD IN CAVAN HALL

Successful Event Put On By Committee in Charge.

CAVAN, May 18.—A splendid supper, bazaar and play was given in Cavan Community Hall on Thursday evening, May 13th, under the auspices of the hall committee.

During the afternoon there was a fine display of fancy articles, useful garments, groceries and other articles too numerous to mention. The ladies in charge of the tables did a brisk business. A good supper consisting of cold meat, salads, pies, cakes, etc., was served in the basement.

The programme consisted of a play entitled "Willowdale," and the music between acts furnished by the Stewart-Moncrief orchestra.

The characters in the play were as follows:

Joel Bassett (store-keeper and in charge of the post office)—Mr. Totten.
Mrs. Joel Bassett—Mrs. Milton Carr.
Simon Pinner (would rather whittle than work), Mr. Cobbly.
Tom Skerrett—Reg. Sutton.
Millie Bassett—Mrs. Melville Carr.
Oleander—Joyce Wood.

The plot of the play was interesting, the different characters bringing out a lot of humor.

The parts were well taken. The play was much enjoyed by a large crowd.

Just before the play was presented a quilt which had been donated was sold, the Rev. R. T. Richards acting as auctioneer. The quilt was sold to Mr. Papineau for the sum of nine dollars.

The total sum realized was over two hundred dollars.

Mrs. Caley, Leaside, is visiting friends in Cavan and attended the play and supper.

The Rev. R. T. Richards and Mrs. Richards, Peterboro, were also present and were welcomed by their many friends.

Miss Emmerson, Peterboro, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Pritchard,

Mrs. I. Keegan is at her own home in Cavanville, after spending some weeks with friends in Peterboro and Lindsay.

A number from this vicinity attended the play given by the members of the Anglican Church in Bethany on Friday evening.

Work on the land is general, everybody trying to take advantage of this fine weather. A few are reported to have potatoes planted. There are so few old ones in the country that farmers are anxious to have an early crop.

COMMUNITY PLATE WEEK

In Peterboro—Third Day

"Family Plate"—the silverware that is a proud family possession for generations, is usually COMMUNITY PLATE. The "open stock" designs are artistic creations which time does not date—of such fine craftsmanship that passing years but add to their charm.

Many sets of prized "Family Plate" had their beginning in "Hope Chests," the young girl's gift dowry of useful household things. But most people start with a few pieces of COMMUNITY PLATE or a small set, adding piece by piece as occasion demands. Beginning say with even six teaspoons costing $4.25, in a very little while you can have a magnificent family service.

Ernest Linnenkamp, the noted European artist, has chosen his fifteenth and last of American beauties for his canvases—Miss Louise Clerc (shown above) aged 19, of New York city. Mr. Linnenkamp declares that she is the most beautiful woman in the United States.

The trout season is on and the lakes and streams are being "whipped" for the speckled beauties. Above is shown a favorite "eddy" on the Nipigon river, near where the Nipigon Fishing and Hunting Club, a newly-formed international sportsmen's body, with headquarters at Toronto, is undertaking a $200,000 development. The club will be one of the largest of its kind on the American continent.

An automatic foot-pump which relieves back and arm strain and which permits pumping the tires up to a higher pressure than that obtained by using the ordinary hand-pump is now in use by European motorists.

Dr. F. J. A. Davidson, the author of "Old Wine in New Bottles," a novel dealing with Canada and particularly Toronto University life. His vitriolic and perhaps veracious romance was written in French and published in Paris and is already in its thirteenth thousand of circulation. It speaks of Toronto or "Forham" as famous chiefly for its "bigotry and self advertisement." In addition to being a professor and novelist he is also a near millionaire, for his father, Joseph Davidson of "Brookwood" in 1901 left an estate of almost a million.

Of more than passing interest at the present time was the victory of Miss Susan Lawrence (above) in the recent Eastham by-election to the English House of Commons. Miss Lawrence is the fifth woman M.P. in the House. She is a woman of means and has devoted her life to welfare work. The Labor party has adopted 17 other women candidates.

Rev. John Carter, M.A., Canadian mayor at Oxford, whose revolutionary ideas of what the duties of an English mayor should be have resulted in criticism from certain sections of the English press. "THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

AUDREY MORTON, and a Toronto stage girl named NONA, each is deeply in love with Audrey's guardian, HARRY MORTON.

Morton, immensely attractive to women, unmarried, middle-aged, and rich, maintains an expensive home in Peterborough and an apartment in Toronto, between which he divides his time.

Trying to avert Audrey from her love for him, he directs his secretary, JOHN PARRISH, to be her companion whenever possible. Audrey treats Parrish with disdain. Seeing that Morton is much in the company of actresses, Audrey herself decides to go on the stage, and she and Nona form a dancing team.

At the end of the last chapter, ABE SUNSHINE, producer of revues, has just come into the room where Audrey and Nona are rehearsing, and says that an angry woman has been on the telephone, asking for Audrey.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIX.

The girls halted.

"Goodness! More trouble?" asked Audrey, faintly.

"Who was it?" Nona wanted to know.

Abe shook his head. "She wouldn't leave any name. She said she was sure you were here, or were going to be here. I suppose she'll drop in."

"I think I know," said Morton. "You remember the young gentleman we had on the grill here this morning?"

Abe and Audrey nodded. Nona looked at them in inquiry. Briefly Morton told her what had occurred. "Well, you know the girl who dances with him is very much attached to him. The chances are that he has told her that we abused him, and she blames the whole thing on Audrey."

He laughed as he turned to the girl. "You WOULD go on the stage, would you?"

Nona breathed a long sigh. "Well, the poor fish!" She was indignant. "Ran right to the girl, to tell his troubles! And now she's jealous because Audrey was his dancing partner, for three days."

Mr. Sunshine bobbed his head with vigor. "You get a girl like that started," he said, "about a fellow she's struck on, and you can't tell what she'll do."

Audrey sat down, quickly, as if her knees had weakened under her. "What will I do?" she wailed.

Nona patted her soothingly on the back. "We'll look after you," she said. "But you'd better have some one along with you, all the time."

The dancing lesson went on, with Audrey somewhat absent mindedly obeying the instructions that Nona gave her. The two men sat and watched, with Abe offering a suggestion now and then. Once, going to the piano, Morton waved the pianist aside, and himself sat down and played. At the end of a bar or two, he turned.

"Stop a moment, Audrey," he said. "Nona, will you do a few steps of one of your own dances?"

Audrey sat down, and Nona, poising an instant on tiptoe, swept into an intricate movement with graceful ease. Morton speeded the tempo, and for a few moments Nona was whirling, swooping, bending, in a dance wilder than Audrey ever had seen.

Morton stopped the music with a crash.

"You've still got it, Nona," he said. She bowed to him, as if she were accepting applause from a crowded theater.

"Absolutely, you're a great dancer!" said Abe, with sincere conviction. "How come you're only doing little parts, and teaming up in cabaret shows?"

Nona shrugged her shoulders. "Things don't always break right, you know," she said.

She sat down beside Audrey, and the younger girl put her arm about Nona's waist. "You're lovely as—as—"

"A black panther," supplied Morton. "I've thought about that simile before, in connection with Nona."

"She IS like a panther," said Audrey. "Isn't she, Mr. Sunshine?"

"About panthers I know nothing," said Abe, "but I know a dancer when I see one. It's a shame she ain't using her stuff. Why don't you help her?" he asked Morton.

Audrey's guardian looked at his ward thoughtfully, and then at Nona. "Audrey," he said, "let's be Nona's angel, and get her starred!"

Before she could answer, Morton turned to Abe.

"Will Audrey be all right? You saw her dance."

The producer pondered. "Well, she won't be any Pavlowa, exactly, but she'll do all right in this show we're putting on. But Nona, she's a dancer!"

His black eyes shone. "Personally, I'd like to mix into it, if somebody could get her a real engagement."

Morton arose. "Maybe you can 'mix into it'," he replied.

Nona had been listening to the conversation, gravely. She rose to her feet, now, and extending her hand to Audrey, said: "Come on. We'll have to work."

For two hours the girls labored, Nona patiently leading, Audrey following the orders she received. Both were tired when Morton finally told them to quit. Mr. Sunshine long since had gone back to his own desk.

Morton waited while the girls changed their clothes again, behind the curtain, and accompanied them as they passed through Abe's office. Mr. Sunshine held Morton a moment.

"Miss Morton won't stay on the stage," he said. "She's the marrying kind."

"Sage words from an expert," laughed Morton.

Audrey bowed her head in confusion and hurried on, but Nona paused.

"We're all the marrying kind," she said, "but we don't always get the right chance."

Morton's car was waiting outside, the chauffeur napping at the wheel. The authentic breath of spring was in the air now, and small boys, shooting dice on the pavement, were using the running board of the car as a convenient bench to sit upon.

Morton poked at the boys good-naturedly with his cane.

"If it wouldn't attract so much attention, I'd like to shoot craps with them," he confided to the two girls.

They entered the car, and Morton told the driver to go to the office.

"I'll get Parrish," he said, "and we'll all take dinner together."

Audrey objected. "Why do we have to have him tagging along?"

Nona watched the younger girl's face, her eyes half closed. "What's wrong with him?" she asked.

Morton answered the question. "Nothing, really, except that he has undertaken to give orders to Audrey. That is always a mistake in dealing with young women."

There was a change in his voice that attracted the attention of both girls. His tone had dropped, as if in dejection. He bowed his head, and stared moodily at the floor

"What is it, daddy?" asked Audrey, squeezing his arm anxiously.

He shook his head. "Oh, just a thought. Audrey—" he turned and looked at her intently—"in all your life, have I actually forbidden you to do anything?"

"Why no, I think not. Why?"

His gaze dropped again, and there was a long delay before he answered.

"Once," he said, "there was a young man who tried to give orders to the girl he loved. And he broke his heart."

* * *

Parrish eagerly accepted the invitation to dinner, and while Morton waited, he arranged his desk in a hurry, and prepared to depart.

"My new dress suit and knickerbockers are done, sir," he said, taking his hat from the office closet. "Shall I go and put them on?"

"Both of them?" Morton inquired, facetiously.

"No sir. I mean just the evening clothes," Parrish said, without smiling. "Miss Morton has not seen me in them yet, at all."

"She has been deprived of a great pleasure," the older man responded, gravely. "We'll drive you to you home, and leave you there while you primp, and make yourself beautiful. Then we'll go on to my apartment, and do likewise. You can join us there."

Parrish stared as he saw Nona sitting in the machine, and carefully climbed to the far corner of the tonneau. Morton saw a curious little flash in the girl's eyes, as Parrish settled himself.

He sat on one of the small folding seats, and with great care turned his back to Nona. Morton sat in the middle, between the two girls.

Nona was quiet, as they rode to Parrish's boarding place, and Audrey refused to address herself to the young man at all. She nodded coldly as he got out. Nona was looking out the window, on the other side of the car, when he lifted his hat and turned away.

"Nona, my dear, you're planning something," said Morton, touching her lightly on the sleeve as the car moved on again.

His tone was mischievous, as he continued: "Black panthers sometimes spring, don't they?"

"What do you mean?" Audrey asked.

Morton chuckled. "Nothing, particularly. I was just doing a little mind-reading. Nona has been thinking so hard I could hear the gears working, and the motor back-firing in her brain."

He refused to commit himself further. Nona remained silent, but from time to time she cast speculative glances at Audrey, in her corner on Morton's other side.

When they reached the Morton apartment, Audrey asked Nona to come in.

Nona demurred. "You people and Mr. Parrish are going to be dressed up festively," she said. "I'd better run home and change."

"Take the car over," Morton assented. "Tell the driver to wait for you, and come back when you're ready."

He and Audrey entered the building as Nona drove away.

"How do you like Nona, now that you know her better?" Morton asked.

"She's a dear," Audrey said. They left the elevator and entered their drawing room. "I'll tell you something. She said to me once, that you would never marry me—that you looked on me as a child. Daddy, there's something in your eyes when you look at her, too."

She wrapped her arms around one of his, and held him close for a moment. "I know you never are going to marry her, either."

"How do you know that?" he inquired, amused.

"Because you don't love her. You just like her," said Audrey, gleefully. "And I'm so glad!"

She ran upstairs, and Morton followed her, more slowly.

PULP SHIPS LOADING.

Two Cargoes For English Ports.

CHICOUTIMI, Que., May 18. — (Canadian Press.)—The two first pulp carrying ships of the season have arrived at Haha Bay and are taking on cargoes at Port Alfred. They are the "Terneuzen," a Dutch freighter, which is taking aboard a cargo of 3,500 tons of mechanical pulp; and the "William Blumerr," a Norwegian steamer which is also taking a load of 5,500 tons of pulp. Both ships will sail from Port Alfred for an English port.

Piano—Miss K. Buchanan.

Banjos—Messrs. Chapman and Starr.

Violin—Mr. A. Robertson.

Drums—Mr. "Bus" Whaley.

Saxaphones—Mrs. J. Kearns and P. Koster.

Cornet—Mr. E. Hotson.

Trombone—Mr. W. Peryer.

There was a good attendance at the entertainment. The first part of the programme was well received but the latter part was considered pretty far fetched and rather foolish. There was nothing in all the programme in the least objectionable.

A "wishing shower" was given by Mrs. E. P. Cuffe on Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Mildred Gray whose marriage to Mr. I. Harland Keefer takes place in the United Church, Norwood, on Wednesday, May 19th. Many good wishes were showered on the bride-to-be.

On Saturday afternoon a double shower was given at the home of Mrs. B. W. Squire in honor of two, Miss Mildred Gray and Miss Ona Finlay, whose marriages take place in the near future.

Miss Gray, whose marriage takes place on Wednesday next, and who will make her home in Norwood, was given a kitchen shower and received a large number of very useful kitchen utensils, including a great many pieces of "Bonny Blue" enamelware.

Miss Finlay, whose marriage to Mr. William A. Smith of Esten, Sask., takes places later on, was tendered a "miscellaneous shower" and received many very useful gifts. Miss Finlay is giving up her position on the staff of the Royal Bank, and after her marriage will live in Esten.

Both young ladies during their residence in Norwood have won many warm friends who will wish them all that is best in their future home.

Be not ashamed to own thy follies, but ashamed not to end them.

CAVAN U.F.O. CLUB WELCOMES VISITORS

Peterborough U.F.O. Members Put On Good Programme For Hosts.

BAILIEBORO, May 18.—A special meeting was held by the members of the South Monaghan and Cavan U.F.O. club. There were about forty of the members with their wives present, and the president, Fred Wood, took charge of the business part of the meeting, and informed the meeting that up to date there were eighty-four paid up members in the local U.F.O. club, and that the executive was in hopes that the membership roll would reach the hundred mark before the end of the year.

Orders were also taken for stove and nut coal and binder twine.

A number of the Peterboro U.F.O. members were present and at the conclusion of the business meeting the visitors put on an excellent program. Mr. Wood invited the president of the Peterboro branch to take charge of the latter part of the meeting. Mr. Scott, the president, made an excellent address. Several musical numbers were put on by the members of the Petrie family, including guitar duets by Misses Ivy and May Petrie, solos by Earle Petrie, duets by Messrs. Kenneth and Earl Petrie, and a reading by Kenneth Petrie. Mr. Shields gave a splendid address, as also did Mr. Vivian Milburn.

At the conclusion of the meeting the ladies of the local Club served the visitor a dainty luncheon.

A very interesting meeting was held at the Young People's League on Tuesday evening. The pastor, Rev. W. H. Foley, took charge of the meeting and during the business session of the meeting the league voted sixty-nine dollars towards paying for the new piano which has recently been purchased. Frank Dawson sang a solo "I Completely Surrender" which was much enjoyed by all. Mr. McLean took the topic entitled "Church Stewardship" and clearly illustrated his subject upon trust, loyalty and sacrifice. The subject was well presented in a most interesting and able manner.

Mrs. S. Lake of Chicago has recently been the guest of her nephew, W. D. Hibbard.

Mr. Harry Dawson left for Detroit on Wednesday morning to visit his daughter, Kathleen, who is seriously ill there.

The members of the Anglican church are practicing for their play which they intend staging on May 24.

MILLBROOK CLUB ANNUAL BANQUET

Curlers Wind Up Successful Season With a Presentation.

MILLBROOK, May 18.— The curling club held a banquet on Friday evening, the special object of the gathering being to present the Allen Cup to Rink No. 5, skipped by J. N. McGill, which had the honor of winning the trophy at the close of the past season.

For various reasons no suitable opportunity of holding the annual gathering had presented itself until now, and while sickness and other causes prevented a full attendance on Friday evening, so enjoyable did the occasion prove it was voted one of the most successful in the history of the club.

The banquet was held in the Waverly building, Mine Host V. C. Lambert serving a menu that gave general satisfaction both as to quantity and quality, and having the tables so arranged that they presented a most attractive appearance.

J. A. Vance, president of the club, filled the position of chairman in his usual capable manner, and in his opening remarks stated that, while curling locally had been rather late in getting under way, there had been no lack of good sport during the winter months, interest and enthusiasm being maintained throughout. He felicitated the winning rink upon the honor of standing highest when the schedule of games was completed, and believed that curling in Millbrook would always be a means of profitable enjoyment to those who had been for years connected with the club, and to the new members who would yet join its ranks.

The chairman then called upon H. B. Allen, the donor of the Cup, assigning to him the pleasant task of presenting the trophy to Skip J. N. McGill who received it on behalf of himself and the other members of his rink: Vice-Skip L. C. Russell, T. H. Collins and C. C. Garside.

Mr. McGill expressed in well-chosen words his personal pleasure in the winter's sport, and his appreciation of the honor which had fallen to the lot of Rink No. 5 as winners for the season of 1925-26, those associated with him voicing a like sentiment in the brief addresses which each in turn made in response to the chairman's request.

Other members of the club also spoke briefly, the note emphasized throughout being one of pleasure in the game itself, with many references to the added interest and enjoyment as a result of the friendly rivalry which competition for the Allen Cup engendered.

A pleasing feature at the close of the evening was the presentation of a cheque for $25.00 to the treasurer of the club, Mr. W. J. E. Gillott making the contribution, the officers to use the money as they best see fit.

For the season of 1925-26 the officials were: Honorary President, R. M. Waddell, Peterborough; President, J. A. Vance; Vice-President, G. E. Burnham; Secretary-Treasurer, H. J. Grassett; Management Committee: R. H. Edmunds, J. Vance, W. E. Ball, W. G. Hetherington. Representative to the O.C.A., R. M. Waddell.

Was Nearly Crazy From Headaches

BANQUET ENDS A.Y.P.A. SEASON AT ALL SAINTS'

Members of Association and of Orchestra and Dramatic Club Dine.

HAPPY EVENT.

Work Done By Church and Various Societies is Recounted By Speakers.

All Saints' A.Y.P.A. wound up the 1925-26 season with one of the most successful banquets the association has held. The Dramatic Club and Sunday School orchestra joined with the A.Y.P.A. Prepared by a committee of ladies of the association, the supper was served to about seventy members and friends of the three organizations in the guild room of the church last night. During the meal and for a short time after, community singing was led by W. George Henderson, who also made a short speech on the value of such singing.

A lengthy list of toasts was honored, starting with that of "The King," proposed by the chairman, J. H. Price, president of the A. Y. P. A. and of the Dramatic Club, and honored in the usual manner.

"The Church" was the next toast, proposed by the Rector's Warden, C. Lacheur. Mr. Lacheur said that the members of All Saints' Church had every reason to be proud of their membership in the finest church in Peterborough, a church that was doing a great work.

The Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, rector of the church, replied to the toast to the church and said that in view of the great works that had been done, especially during the present campaign, he was proud and thankful to reply. There was, he said, a spirit in the people of All Saints' that was making things go forward.

"What Good Is It?"

"If a heathen came to town and, on seeing All Saints' Church, asked what it was and what was the good of it, what could he be told?" asked Mr. Paterson. "It is," he continued, "known as a working and useful organization in the community." Mr. Paterson then told of work being done by the church, and said that never had he been obliged to turn down a request for help, and that the people of the church had always backed him up when he needed assistance in helping others. The church, he said, must stand for the community in which it had been placed to give help, and he propesied that greater things would be done in future.

Speaking of the work of the young people, the rector said that the young people of the parish twenty-four years ago, when it was first organized, had seen a vision of what the church might be and had worked to bring that vision into being. Now, nearing the beginning of a new quarter century in the history of All Saints', the young people of to-day must see a vision of the work to be done. They must take up the challenge of the young people of yesterday and lift up the church to a still higher level before handing it on to the next generation.

"This is seedtime," said Mr. Paterson in conclusion, "and as the shoot which comes up tells of the kind of harvest, so the young people to-day show the character and spirit that will be found in the church in the future. It is time to hand over the work, and the church will go on to a great and glorious future, and the older people will be proud of it."

W. H. Buller.

W. H. Buller also replied to the toast to the church. He said he had been connected with All Saints' since the days when he attended the first Sunday School, held in the little white house on the corner of Dalhousie and Bethune Streets. "We were proud of that little building," he said, and went on to tell of the progress that had been made. He said that All Saints' Church had always had the right material in it to progress, but that the old people were passing and the young people would have to take hold. He expressed the hope that the church would be able to extend into the south-west part of the city and start a new church, and that a large parish hall might be built. It was necessary, Mr. Buller said, to get hold of the young people, and he concluded with a tribute to the work done by the A.Y.P.A. for the church.

The A.Y.P.A.

The toast to the A.Y.P.A. was proposed by Mr. Glover, a member of the Sunday School orchestra, who expressed his appreciation of the value of the A.Y.P.A. and of such joint meetings as that of last night. The reply was made by Miss Agnes Stout. Miss Stout asked what kind of an A.Y.P.A. there could be if all those present were active members, urging teamwork and co-operation. She sounded a warning, however, against too much thought of one organization or another as the main thing and not enough of the greater whole, the church.

The Dramatic Club.

J. Lancashire and E. Waudby were the proposer and responder to the toast to the Dramatic Club. Mr. Lancashire spoke of the pleasure there had been in the working of getting up the recent successful play. Mr. Waudby, though speaking in a humorous vein that kept his audience continually laughing, drew some good advice from the events of the play for the members of the A.Y.P.A. and the other societies.

The Orchestra.

The good work of the Sunday School orchestra, not only in the services of the school, but in other capacities, was discussed by Ted Rye, who proposed the toast to the musicians. A. Hope, president, and Mrs. C. Goodley, conductor, replied for the orchestra. Mr. Hope spoke of the good work done in the Sunday School, while Mrs. Goodley mentioned the incentive it had given the young musicians to play for the Dramatic Club at the play.

"The Ladies."

Last but not least on the toast list, although the proposer accused the toastmaster of speaking slightingly of it, came the toast to "The Ladies," proposed by T. Percy Hooper, People's Warden of the church. Mr. Hooper said that the men could not get along without the ladies, and the men present expressed their agreement with his statement by singing heartily, "For they are jolly good fellows." Miss M. E. Dawson replied for the ladies, speaking of the work they did and of the harmonious way in which men and ladies worked in All Saints' Church.

In concluding the programme, Mr. Price asked for continued support from the members during his second year as president of the A.Y.P.A. in order that the association might prosper.

VIM, PEP, ENERGY.

The successful and happy person radiates good health, has vim, pep and energy, clear flashing eyes, lightness of step and cheerfulness of manner. You cannot however, be this fortunate if you are troubled with indigestion, stomach disorders, constipation, rundown condition or any derangement of the digestive or intestinal tract. The liver, kidneys and bowels must be in good condition to avoid contamination of the blood stream. Nature however, has provided the means for correcting such conditions and restoring the system to health. The means is the new product, MILLER'S HERB JUICE. It is composed of the juices of roots, herbs and barks blended in such a manner so as to be pleasant to take and giving prompt and permanent results. Thousands of sufferers have voluntarily submitted signed statements of gratitude and appreciation. Frank Bawden, prominent Windsor, Ont. business man stated: "Although for years I had tried many remedies I could not secure relief from indigestion and constipation. I could not sleep with the terrific gas pain. MILLER'S HERB JUICE is the product that made all my troubles disappear. I now attend to business full of vim, pep and energy."

FOREST FIRES MENACE NORTH

Valuable Timber Areas Are in Path of Forest Fires.

WIND IS STRONG.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18 (Canadian Press) — Two areas, one in Northern Ontario, and the other north of Winnipeg in Manitoba were facing threatening forest fire situations last night. Continued dry weather had left the territories dry as tinder and continued wind storms were adding to the menace. Large areas of timber were in the paths of the fires.

FRENCH AND SPANISH PREPARING TO RESUME MOROCCAN CAMPAIGN

Expect Decisive Victory Over Riffs in Short Time.

KRIM RETIRES.

Seeks Refuge in Mountain—Deserting Former Stronghold.

By A. L. Bradford
(United Press Correspondent).

PARIS, May 18.—Franco-Spanish operations in Morocco will soon enter a most important stage which it is hoped will result in a decisive victory, it is learned from authoritative sources.

Troops are now completing roads and establishing food and ammunition depots in preparation for major action.

As a result of the Spanish successes south of Ajdir and French advances west of Kert, the two armies are but twenty miles apart, with the Beni - Ouriaghel tribe, which has been friendly to Abd-El-Krim, trapped between them. It is therefore expected that the tribesmen will surrender.

If the tribe does surrender the French and Spanish forces will establish a liason between them, and then push westward toward Targuist.

Abd-El-Krim, realizing the danger of his position, is said to have left Targuist, where he had created a fortified mountain stronghold, and is now living in a village deep in the mountains. If the French occupy Targuist the Riffian leader will be obliged to quit the mountains and seek refuge with the Chomara, a large tribe dwelling west of Chechaouen, which has not been any too friendly toward him.

It may be, Frenchmen say, that the projected campaign will end with Krim a fugitive.

UNITED CHURCHMEN HEAR FINE ADDRESS

Rev. Dr. McKinnon Addresses Final Meeting of Association.

The last monthly meeting before summer vacation of the "United Churchmen's Association" of Peterborough was held in St. Andrew's School Hall last night. A fine representation from the official boards of each of the six United Churches of the city was present. Supper was served by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church in their usual generous style.

George A. Gillespie, president of the association, presided, and introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Murdock McKinnon, D.D., of Runnymede United Church, Toronto. Dr. McKinnon is an impressive figure physically with his six feet plus of manly stature and strong face. He spoke for nearly an hour on the general topic of missions, stressing especially the peculiar call from the great Western land to the United Church. His 15 years' residence in Regina fitted him in an eminent degree to speak with authority on such a subject. It was a most inspiring and encouraging address throughout.

MINERS ACCEPT SOVIET MONEY

Moscow Report Says A. J. Cook Has Expressed "Deepest Thanks."

MOSCOW, May 18 (Canadian Press).—The Soviet news agency announces that A. J. Cook, Secretary of the British Miners' Federation, has accepted "with deepest thanks" the money given by the Soviet miners to aid the strikers in the British Isles. Previous despatches from Russia announced that the sum collected for the British miners in Soviet Russia amounted to about one million dollars.

YOUTHS SENTENCED.

Three Go To Jail For Various Thefts in Toronto.

TORONTO, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Penalties were meted out in police court to-day to three members of a gang of seven youths who appeared in court for sentence on numerous charges of theft of motor cars and burglary. Joseph Bates was sentenced to a term in Portsmouth Penitentiary on various charges, but the sentences will be concurrent, making a total period of three years. Robert Dewsbury will serve three years. Ernest Watts was sentenced to a year in the Ontario Reformatory, being under age. Four others were released on suspended sentence.

BIG DIRIGIBLE IS DISMANTLED

Norge Will Be Shipped From Teller in Two Weeks.

WAIT FOR SHIP.

NOME, Alaska, May 18.—(Canadian Press.) — Back within the charted paths of navigation, Amundsen and his three chief aides spent their first day in a log cabin here which they will occupy until a steamer takes them out of the Arctic area. An opportunity was provided last night for the explorers to make up for the sleep lost while they rode from Spitzbergen over the North Pole to Teller, Alaska, where they came in the dirigible Norge. With fourteen members of her crew of eighteen busy dismantling her at Teller, the Norge yesterday resembled a mass of wreckage. This was the word brought down to Nome by two airplanes which visited Teller. The Norge, it is said, will be shipped from Teller within two weeks.

ENGLISH AGENTS ARE SENTENCED

Three Men Jailed as Spies By the French Authorities.

PARIS, May 18 (Canadian Press) —The three Englishmen who were arrested here last December on charges of espionage were given prison sentences in criminal court to-day. The court found they had endeavored to obtain secret documents concerning French maritime and aviation stations. John Leather was sentenced to three years and fined 3,000 francs. Ernest Phillips and William Fiacher were sentenced to two years each with fines of 2,000 francs.

TOWN DESTROYED.

Fire Renders 5,000 Families Homeless in Bacau, Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 18 (Canadian Press)—A disastrous fire yesterday destroyed the greater part of the town of Bacau in Moldavia, about 150 miles north of Bucharest. More than 5000 families are reported to be homeless.

BILL REJECTED.

Railway Committee Throws Out Branch Line Bill.

OTTAWA, May 18 (Canadian Press)—After a few minutes' discussion, the railway committee of the House this morning rejected the bill for the construction of a railway line from Quibell, Ont., on the Canadian National about one hundred miles north of the new gold mining district of Red Lake. Subsequently, the committee decided to report to the House that the bill was not in the public interest. Charles B. Hibbard of Montreal was one of the promoters of the bill.

INVESTIGATE HYDRO.

Toronto System To Be Subject on Inquiry By Judge.

TORONTO, May 18. Canadian Press. — County Judge Denton will conduct an inquiry into the affairs of the Toronto Hydro Commission extending back to its inception, the city council decided early to-day after an all-night session.

C.P.R. Strong Spot On a Heavy List

TORONTO, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Trading took in a broad list on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and was moderately heavy in volume, but comparatively few price changes were recorded. C.P.R. was the strong spot in an otherwise easier list, advancing 1 1-2 at 158. Brazilian eased an eighth at 94 7-8 and Smelters, the other leader, was down one at 192 1-2. Banks and mines were unusually active without any definite trend. Imperial Bank lost a point and a half of its late advance, receding to 205 1-2. Tech Hughes firmed one at 347 and Dome eight at 13.68.

Selling Pressure Renewed By Wall Street Market

NEW YORK, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Prices turned reactionary on Wall street this afternoon when selling pressure was renewed against motor shares. Rumors persist that automobile industry is showing signs of definite recession in sales. Mack Trucks and Moon each sold at least 2 1-2 points and Dodge Brothers and Hudson yielded a point. Rails and Oils in demand, with the latter showing relatively firm undertone, but weakness developed in Chicago and Acton issues common sagging 2 5-8 to 4 1-2 preferred 3 3-4 to 6 1-2, both new low records for the year. Coalers sold a point or more higher. U. C. Cast Iron Pipe broke 7 points to a new low at 154.

Stocks Trend Downward On Light Trading Market

TORONTO, May 18 (Canadian Press). — There was little recovery from the general slight downward trend evidenced on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, when the stocks continued to recede moderately in the light trading. Some of the golds held firm, however, led by Dome Mines, which advanced 20c at 13.75. Argonaut and Teck Hughes, active leaders, each eased a point at 25 and 3.44, and Tough Oakes, at 36½, was also a point lower. Castle Tretheway eased two at 1.40, and Noranda was ten lower at 15.40.

Francs Drop Still More On European Exchanges

PARIS, May 18 (United Press).— The franc touched a new low level in exchange trading here to-day at 33.90 to the dollar or 165 to the pound sterling, against 33.44 to the dollar or 161.70 to the pound at yesterday's close.

At London.

LONDON, May 18 (United Press) —French and Belgian francs and Italian lire were lower at the opening of the Foreign Exchange Market here to-day. The French franc was quoted at 164½ to the pound, against 161 at yesterday's closing, and the Belgian francs 168½ against 164, and the lire 134 3-4, against 131 3-4.

At New York.

NEW YORK, May 18 (Canadian Press). — New low records for all time were established by French and Belgium francs in the local Foreign Exchange Market to-day, the former dropping to 2.27½, and Belgium exchange sinking to 2.84½. The flight of capital from both countries seeking investment safely in the gold standard currencies of Great Britain and the United States was reflected in the selling of continental exchange.

ANNOYS AMUNDSEN.

ROME, May 18 (United Press).— Umberto Nobile, Commander of the dirigible Norge, will return to Italy, arriving here in June, according to plans announced for him here today. He will leave late in June for Tokio to deliver and supervise the assembling of a dirigible Japan has purchased from Italy.

COURT DATES SET.

Royal Functions Postponed For General Strike Are Re-scheduled.

LONDON, May 18 (Canadian Press).—The social world was aflutter yesterday when the dates were announced for the postponed court functions which had been put off because of the general strike. Their Majesties will hold courts at Buckingham Palace on June 8 and 10 and on July 7 and 8. Invitations issued for the postponed May courts will hold good for the June functions. King George will hold a levee at St. James' Palace on May 31.

TORONTO REQUIRES NEW WATERWORKS

Some Parts of City Will Go Short, Says Engineer's Report.

TORONTO, May 18 (Canadian Press).—All possible speed should be made in the construction of a duplicate plant supplying the City of Toronto with its water, it is urged by the engineering firm which to-day reported on the proposed enlargement of the existing facilities, or otherwise Toronto would be fortunate if certain districts did not experience a shortage. A new plant will cost fourteen million dollars and will take three years to construct.

FIRES HELD IN CHECK.

Numerous Near Fort William, But Are Kept Isolated.

FORT WILLIAM, May 18 (Canadian Press)—The forest fire situation here remains little changed. While the fires are numerous they have so far been confined to isolated sections and are being held in check fairly well. South of Fort William towards the international boundary the fires are worse and dense clouds of smoke can be seen in the vicinity of Cloud Bay and Pigeon River.

CHRISTIANITY IS A WAY OF LIFE SAYS SPEAKER

Professor J. G. Machem Addresses Large Audience at St. Paul's.

CRISIS IN CHURCH.

Issue at Present Time Concerns Facts, Says Speaker.

A large audience assembled in St. Paul's Sunday school room last night to hear Professor J. Gresham Machen deliver his lectuer on "The Present Crisis in the Church." Prior to the address Rev. William Allan, minister of St. Paul's, in a brief speech paid tribute to Dr. Machen for what he has done for St. Paul's, and expressed the hope that they would soon be privileged to hear him again.

Dr. Machen said that it might be possible that he would say somthing that everybody might not agree with, but he believed that all controversies should be subject to the golden rule—treat other people the way you want them to treat you. Christianity, he said, is a way of life founded upon a doctrine—a message—a gospel founded upon facts.

The present issue in the Church, he said, concerns facts: whether or not on a certain morning long ago, the body of Christ arose from the dead and appeared again. Did it happen, or did it not? Some of the people say they believe in the resurrection, but claim that they must interpret it in their own way. But where is the business of self-interpretation going to stop, he asked. The Christian religion is founded upon facts as to whether the wonderful things that happened to Jesus did happen or did not, he said.

"It depends on not what Jesus said or was while on earth but what he did when He saved us from sin by His atoning death. Some people," he said, "say that is the Christianity of the Apostolic Church. We have got to get back of that—the gospel about Jesus is the Gospel of Jesus—that is the Gospel He preached while here," he said. "They think it brings us nearer to Jesus, but it does not. When you preach a gospel about Jesus, you say what He is or what He did. The gospel of Jesus is that gospel which Jesus Himself proclaimed and is also about Jesus.

"Some people," he said, "hold up their hands in horror when we say that Jesus was not a Christian. Christianity is a means of getting rid of sin. Christ had no sin, therefore He was not a Christian. One man said to me: 'If a man lives a life like Jesus lived, is He not a Christian?' my answer was 'No,' he is something better, he needs no atonement—he has not fallen into sin' Our trouble is," said the speaker, "that our lives do not seem to be the life of Jesus. It is because we do not live that life that we come to Him."

"Christianity, whether it be good or bad, is something that has actually existed in the world, and in order to determine what it is, one must investigate it by historical means.

"But when we investigate it by historical means we discover the utter falsity of many current answers to the question what it is. From the very beginning we discover, Christianity is not a life as distinguished from a doctrine; and it was not a life that has doctrine as its changing expression; but (just the other way around) it is a life that is founded upon a doctrine. At the very foundation of Christianity is a message about the saving work of Christ. Christ came into the world, as has well been said, not primarily to say something but to do something; He came to save sinful men by His death and resurrection. It is quite wrong, therefore to distinguish the gospel about Jesus from the gospel of Jesus; for the gospel of Jesus, the gospel that Jesus Himself proclaimed, was also a gospel about Him. Jesus was not merely presented by others, but He presented Himself, as no mere teacher and revealer of God, but as the divine Saviour from sin. That has always been the Christian message, and without that message—that 'doctrine'—whatever else we may have, we cannot possibly have Christianity. Indifference to doctrine, from the Christian point of view, is all wrong; the central business of the Christian is to get his message straight and then proclaim it by his life as well as by his words.

"We say," he asserted, "that the Bible is primarily useful because it sets forth the facts. It makes plain the holiness and righteousness of God. The other side says it is inspired, because it is inspired—that's all."

"We hold that the Bible is the seat of authority in religion—others say that Christ is the real authority. The Bible is an organic book, he said; "if you take one part and not the other you get nowhere.

"There are two entirely distinct views of Christ in the Church today. The first is that Christ existed before He came upon earth—that He died a sacrifice for the sins of the world and rose again by the stupendous power of God. The other one is that Christ was closer to God than any other man—that He fell a victim to jealousy—that His disciples just thought they saw Him after His death, and that upon them the Christian church was founded.

"The people that hold the latter belief," he said, "claim that they believe in the deity of Christ. "Deity," he said, "is just a formula that men use to describe Jesus. It may mean many different things.

"We hold that men are lost in sin, and that there is no hope for them except through the redeeming work of Christ. A Church must be a witness bearing church—it must get its doctrine straight—it must tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. The important thing is that the Church will so maintain itself so that the accredited representatives will tell the truth as it really is—so that no one will be misled."

CENTRAL LEAGUE OPENS TO-MORROW

Petes Meet Ponies in First Game of the Season at Kingston.

The Central Ontario League season opens to-morrow when Manager Shiner Johnston will lead his Petes into action against the Kingston Ponies, at the Richardson Memorial Stadium, Kingston. Queen's famous football grounds is being used for the first time as a ball grounds on this occasion and the Kingston club expects a record crowd out at the new park. The Ponies will have Cairns and Arniel as their battery to-morrow, with Purvis, Halbert, Britton and Batstone in the infield, and Cherry, Thompson and Teegel in the outfield. Thompson is the Kingston boy who formerly played with Cobourg. The only new comer is "Bubs" Britton, a Toronto boy, who is a fine all round ball player.

The Petes will use either Jeff Hardill or Lefty Lennox against the Ponies. The team will motor to Kingston.

SWIMMER GIVES FINE EXHIBITION

G. H. Corsan Demonstrates His Skill in Aquatic Events.

LADIES ASSIST HIM.

G. H. Corsan, expert swimmer and possessor of the enviable record of having negotiated the English Channel in a swim that brought him within a short distance of his objective, who will be at the Young Men's Christian Association for the next fortnight, giving lessons in swimming, gave an interesting demonstration of his skill last evening in the pool at the Young Women's Christian Association. He was assisted by five members of the swimming classes at the Y.W.C.A., the Misses Sadie Levine, Grace Allen, Mary Dunlop, Mathilde Dunlop and Ina Terrace. The young ladies and Miss Littlefield were presented with boxes of chocolates by Mr. D. A. Loomis, in the name of the Y.M.C.A. at the conclusion of the programme. Mr. G. H. Roper acted as chairman.

Mr. Corsan did some remarkably fine work in the water, illustrating his ability in various ways. Some of his stunts were particularly good. He did the "Houdini" sack stunt, in which he emerges under water from a sack in which he is tied; the crawl on the back, the waltzing or rolling crawl, the Australian crawl, using the same stroke in use during his Channel swim; the American speed crawl, with overarm effect; sculling on the back, head first, hands only; then feet first, hands only; the "porpoise"; an imitation of a submarine; imitation of a crab and of an otter, diving stunts, the English trudgeon and the "half-paralyzed' stroke. His various contributions to the programme were greeted with much applause from an interested gallery.

The young ladies assisting in the demonstration, members of Miss Littlefield's swimming classes, did some stunt work in sculling, diving, swimming under water, and in life-saving work. They also had a number of well-contested races. Mary Dunlop won the open race, Ina Terrace the marching in water, Mary Dunlop swimming under the water, and Sadie Levine the candle race.

Mr. Roper announced that Mr. Corsan would be at the Y.M.C.A. during the next two weeks giving swimming lessons.

WESTWOOD NEWS.

WESTWOOD, May 17.—A business meeting in connection with the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon. There was a good attendance of members of the congregation, as well as representatives from Cottesloe, South Dummer, Bethel and Keene. Rev. MacIntosh, of Lindsay, acted as chairman, and Rev. Edmison, of Little Britain, was present as secretary of the commission.

The meeting was opened by a hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," after which Rev. R. F. Stillman, of Norwood, led in prayer. A very instructive talk by Rev. MacIntosh followed, after which Rev. Edmison presented the re-arrangement by the commission of the Keene and Dummer area. After a lengthy discussion, the views of the congregations concerned were submitted to the Presbytery for further consideration. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. T. M. Wesley of Norwood.

Fred White, who is attending Kingston University, is spending the vacation at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brackenridge motored to Peterboro' on Monday.

The Charm of Soft Fabric

New frocks are soft and fluttery with flowered materials and flares. The frock presented here is sure to take the eye of the miss and little woman. First, because of its arresting simplicity of line, and second, because of the loveliness of its material. A wide ribbon sash is tied at the low waistline, where rippling skirt joins slender bodice. The batteau neck is finished with a narrow binding of the same plain material as the flaring sleeves. No. 1254 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 4¾ yards 36-inch figured crêpe, and ⅝ yard plain georgette crêpe; ribbon for sash 2¾ yards 5 inches wide. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

HOUSEKEEPING BY INDEX.

Housekeeping by index is a new idea. A file is kept for the contents of each room, its location noted, and the index tells what it contains.

For the linen room or closet, every item is recorded, even the shelves upon which the things rest is noted. The library is catalogued after the manner of public libraries, so that it is a simple matter to find anything wanted. The music is cared for in the same fashion.

In the pantries, everything is listed and a card is on the inside of the door. This card notes all breakages or losses that are in turn copied in the index.

When it comes to the kitchen, there will be closets and drawers to index, but they will each be numbered and cards tacked inside so that one need not hunt long for a needed article. Even the cellar and the attic have numbers and cards.

Screens, awnings and windows are all numbered so that the fittings are never misplaced. Every door or closet key is tagged and will be found in a basket on the household desk. In the housekeeping ledger, the system is fully explained so that it may be grasped in all its details by any newcomer who is to take part in the household.

No matter how small the house, the same motions are required to do the work as in a large house, only not as many of them. The woman who lacks system will have trouble in following the indexed plans. The orderly woman will love it and profit by the plan. Children will like it because it is definite and final, they don't like guessing or wondering about the location of necessities.

A St. Paul girl has a new idea for applying face paints. She uses a painter's airbrush, the liquid colors being blown on her face. The method is said to result in a more delicate blending of tints.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A STRIKING SPORTS ENSEMBLE

This has been a busy season at Madame's shop. We had no sooner supplied bridges with entire outfits than we began doing costumes of various kinds for those who were going abroad for the Summer.

Madame finished the very prettiest one in the shop today, and while it was fresh in my mind, I have done a sketch here to preserve in my diary.

In the first place, it was done for a beautiful young movie actress to wear on the boat. She is just my size, so I did a lot of the standing to be fitted when she was too busy to come in.

Today she came for her last fitting, and was so enthusiastic about the outfit that she says she simply can't wait for the boat to sail next week.

"My favorite color. I'm so glad it has come back into the height of fashion," she observed, as the fitter lowered the first part of the costume on over her head.

This consisted of a pale gray wool jersey skirt, finely pleated and finished at the bottom with a band of tomato colored jersey.

Then came the overblouse, snugly fitted, long enough to cover the hipline, and embroidered at the lower edge with a striking border design done in wool of deeper gray, black and tomato.

"This collar pleases me beyond all else," the young actress exclaimed, as she buttoned the cross tabs of the deep V neck across just below the throat, and fastened them at each side with small buttons of tomato color.

"Wait till you see the coat," I admonished.

The coat is a dashing, rather full affair, lined with deeper gray chiffon, and with a border of the wool embroidery in colors running up a short distance of the closing side in front.

Gray Wool Jersey Is Banded With Wool Embroidery in Colors.

The hat is pale gray felt, very soft, and folded into the most becoming shape possible. The girl has an adorable retrousse nose, and the tiny brim of the hat is just right for her.

She plans to wear gray stockings and slippers, and to carry a gray suede pouch bag.

darin influence is seen in gay summer silk print bathing suits, too.

WOMEN MEN MARRY.

"There can be no general, and hardly a particular, idea of what a wife ought to be. Not only are the needs of most men, there, different, but the individual masculine ideal changes with age." So writes Joseph Herges heimer. But the one woman he himself would like to marry must be tranquil, content, full of fidelity, charmingly feminine, undomestic, unefficient, not masculine-minded, cool, charitable, not too devout, of good lineage, occasionally bad-tempered, playful, coquettish.

NOT A COOK!

Perhaps the most unusual of all Joe's demands is that the wife be not a cook. He says, "I would rather have a paid cook than a wife in my kitchen. A bright creature in a crisp apron bringing, however delicately browned, my eggs and bacon in from the stove is not my idea of a wife."

BUT, JOE—!

Suppose you came home from the theater late with that coquettish, feminine wife of yours, and you were hungry, and the cook had gone to bed, and you wanted food, would you mind so much if she, the undomestic wife, went unto the kitchen and hied her hence with some fruit cheese sandwiches?

MADE LIKE THIS!

Half cup minced candied cherries added to a mashed cream cheese, also 3 tablespoons chopped nuts, 3 minced figs, all moistened with thick cream and spread between lightly buttered slices of graham bread.

The Woman's Day

Written by a Woman for Women.

Touching brightly on woman's every major interest in life from books and babies to politics and psycho analysis.

(By Allene Sumner)

SO MUCH A WEEK!

Today's family on a $50 income lives like yesterday's rich man, thanks to the great national game of installment-paying. Three-fourths of all washing machines, autos, vacuum cleaners and phonographs, and almost one-half of all pianos, a fourth of all jewelry, and a seventh of all radios, are bought on the installment plan. Some gloom-birds say it's terrible. President Coolidge opines "installment buying is better than the old custom of running up big bills with no plan or thought of payment."

GROWING OLD!

Fountains of youth have been sought by men of all colors since time began. Perhaps the very fact it is never found gives the search zest. One of the year's best plays, "The Makropoulous Secret," is the tale of a woman who has the secret of eternal youth, has had it throughout five or six generations, and is ready to die. Seeing her misery, her boredom, her ennui, no one, not even a young joy-hearted girl, will take the secret as a gift from her.

BUT—

Cleansing cream patted into the skin every night of your life, and rubbed out with absorbent paper, then a good scrubbing with warm water and soap, and an ice rub-down, will keep you young many welcome years, even if eternal youth and life is a doubtful boon.

WHY MEN STEAL.

"Keeping up with Lizzie" is why most men steal, according to claim agents of insurance companies. They explain that young married men, especially, are apt to steal and default books because they have not properly reckoned the cost of a wife, and the wife takes it for granted that she shall have what Mrs. Next-Door has.

The audience sees only the junior graduate, appropriately bouqueted, proudly diplomaed, beautifully gowned. It knows little of the waves of excitement dashing high beneath the outward and visible signs of poise that emanate from a French frock. White is the color, crêpe de Chine, silk voile, Georgette or taffeta are the silks, and cotton voile, cotton Georgette or organdy the cottons appropriate for a commencement dress. If the school allows colors, the pastel shades or sweet-pea tints are exquisite for this dress with frills of Valenciennes lace following the outline of the gathered skirt and ribbon rosettes, bow and ends.

HER OWN WAY by A GIRL of TODAY

A GIFT OF SELF.

"Judy dear, perhaps it was the commonness that was born in me for, after a man had said what I have just told you, I should have believed in him, shouldn't I? He had opened up his heart to me. No man could have said those things and not believe them and yet the first words I said, were

"'Did you not say these same things to Lola Lawrence? She told me that you said she also had a voice, and you paid for its training for over a year.'

"At first Buddy was so angry that he was on the point of leaving me then and there, and then he said 'That doesn't mean anything. A man spends his money on a lot of foolish things. I was inexpressibly bored with life.'

"For the first time in his life he spoke about his wife to me. He told me how impossible she was to live with, and yet she would not divorce him. She had told him frankly that she would not care how many mistresses he had but she had determined that no other woman should take away the honor and fame that wept with the name of Mrs. Tremaine.

"Everyone knows, Judy, that he was drifting when he met me, and I believed him, dear, when he said to me today that he had never in all his life met a woman who was not always saying "Gimme,' that he had never met a woman who was ambitious for anything but luxury and leisure. He told me he had always been honest in all of his affairs. The woman always knew what he would do for her and what he was willing to pay and almost always she was the one that proposed it.

"Everyone knew that Lola Lawrence ran after him until he probably took her to get rid of her.

"'But with you Mamie,' he said, 'it's different. You have a voice, you have a disinterested ambition and you have a real code by which you live.'

"He told me that he had determined for once in his life to do an honest and honorable thing, but the world would not let him and that Lola Lawrence and her jealousy had spoiled the one decent thing that he had tried to do in all his life.

"Judy, I did not say a word all the time he was telling me this story, but oh, how ashamed I was that I had so doubted him that I ran away from him without giving him a chance.

"When he had finished tears were running down my checks and off the end of my nose.

"'Buddy,' I said brokenly, 'take me on your own terms. I am yours. I have always been yours in my heart.'"

TISSUE TONE.

Just what does the term imply? Well, doubtless, at some time or other, you have had your doctor advise "that the system needed a general toning up." This should afford a clue as to the meaning.

Under conditions of normal life, as the tissues grow and perform their functions, worn-out cells die. As bone grows, it is absorbed little by little to make room for the remodelling, and growth of the larger structure. Also, bacteria, ever present in the oral cavity, gains access beneath the protective covering of the mouth tissues.

However, Nature has made provision for the disposal of these worn-out fragments and foreign intruders, by the activities of certain lowly organized cells known as phagocytes.

In health, these little warriors are able to perform their functions of waste disposal and, as well, the more militant duties of combating and destroying the invading organisms.

But with a lowered resistance of the body cells, through local or general disturbances, the defence is weakened, permitting in the one case, a poisoning of the body tissues by the waste materials, and, in the other, the securing of a foot-hold by such bacteria as may have gained access to the tissues.

Among those factors tending towards this lowered vitality of the body cells, or, in other words "loss of tissue tone," may be cited, systemic diseases: influences exerted through nerve channels: and a poorly nourished blood supply.

But, possibly, in the mouth, the factors are more frequently local in nature, and generally result from oral neglect. These include irritations and injuries from wedging foods, deposits of tartar and food debris, and the purely negative factor, the lack of proper masticatory exercise.

Corrective measures such as the use of harder foods requiring more vigorous chewing, and more careful attention to mouth toilet, will, in most cases, effectively restore the tissues to a healthy tone.

England Raising Fund as Testimonial.

LONDON, May 18—In connection with the proposed national testimonial to the police for their good work during the general strike £38,000 (approximately $189,000) has been subscribed already. The home secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, in forwarding a personal contribution to the fund, says: "Overworked, some times assaulted, as the police were, I never heard a single complaint of them throughout the crisis."

The purpose to which the fund is to be devoted has not yet been decided.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A TOTEM-POLE CONVERSATION.

"Oh, my poor, poor shadow!" cried the little Whiffet. "It didn't get lost at all! It was stolen. And now it has to work for old Snoopsy. It will be all worn out, my poor shadow will."

"Don't cry," said Nancy. "Shadows can stand a good bit. But come along. We'd better be moving."

Pretty soon they came to a Totem Pole.

The Totem Pole had six faces and when the three travelers came along, all the faces opened their mouths and said, "How do you do?" at once.

The Twins and the Whiffet were too surprised to answer for a minute, but finally Nancy got out, "We're pretty well, thank you." And dropped a curtsy.

"That's fine," said the first face on the Totem Pole. "And now what can we do for you?"

"I lost my shadow and Mister Snoopsy stole it," said the Whiffet. "Do you know where he is?"

"I'll ask my next neighbor," said the first face. So he asked the second face and the second face said, "I'll ask my next neighbor." And each face said the same thing until the last face was reached at the top. And it said, "Mister Snoopsy jumped over the moon last night and sprained his leg. He's gone to the doctor's."

The next face passed down the word to the next one, and so on down the pole to the bottom. Then the bottom face said to the Whiffet, 'He's gone to the doctor's."

What doctor's?" asked the Whiffet. And all the faces asked, "What doctor's?" on up until it came to the last face.

"Let me see," said that one. "I think it was his peg leg he sprained, so likely it was the carpenter instead of the doctor."

"Likely it was the Carpenter instead of the Doctor," went on down the line until the answer got to the bottom.

"Where does the carpenter live?" asked the Whiffet.

Up went the question from one mouth to the other until it came to the ears of the face at the top of the Totem Pole. Then down came the answer again a step at a time, "Three leagues and a goose step from the saw-mill."

"Thank you!" said the Whiffet. "We'd better be going."

And as they left, the Twins and the little rag-bag boy heard the answer stepping down, saying at each step, "You're welcome!"

"Three leagues and a goose step!" said Nick. "What's a goose-step?"

"I'll show you," said a big brown and black goose. "Follow me."

So they followed the goose and came at last to the saw-mill. Then he turned to the right and they followed him some more.

"Three leagues," he said stopping. "Here we are."

The Carpenter had been out riding on his saw-horse. But when he saw that company had come, he got off and tipped his hat.

"Did Master Snoopsy come here?" asked Nick. "And if so, has he gone? And if he's gone, when, and where to?"

"My goodness! You sound like a school-board," said the Carpenter.

"I suppose he always thinks 'boards,'" whispered Nancy, "being a carpenter."

"But," went on the Carpenter, "I'll answer everything. Yes, Mister Snoopsy was here and I made him a new leg. He just left for the South Pole."

"Poles too!" whispered Nancy. "That's what being a carpenter does to one. Turns him into a wooden head."

"I want my shadow!" whimpered the Whiffet. "Is the South Pole far?"

WEDNESDAY, MAY 19.

According to the major lunar transits this may prove to be a day of trials and perplexities, since planets occupy angles of opposition. In order to circumvent any malefic and hostile forces, either in employment, industry or pertaining to the finances or investment of funds in new undertakings, a conservative, and delinquent attitude is strongly recommended. All important ventures that may well be postponed should be thus handled. A similar critical state of affairs may obtain in all personal affiliatiops.

Those whose birthday it is should lay out a campaign of conservatism and postponements for the year, since hostile and undermining forces rule in employment, industry and finances. Heart and home affairs are also aspected by negative forces. A child born on this day should be given the benefit of education and training which will best enable it to overcome obstacles and meet trials with fortitude and philosophy.

BALD HEAD SIGN OF VIRILITY, IS THEORY

Dandruff and Derby Hats Discarded as Causes, Says Doctor.

A choice niche in the Hall of Fame is reserved for the scientist who will show us how to grow hair on a bald man's head. And it probably will have to be held in reserve for a great many years to come.

Such at least is the opinion of Dr. Frederic Damrau, New York physician. In Popular Science Monthly he declares that the bald head is "the medical battlefield on which the doctor must inevitably meet his Waterloo."

"The usual form of baldness," he says, "goes under the high sounding designation of 'idiopathic premature alopecia.' The word 'idiopathic' has quite a dignified definition in the medical dictionary, but the truth of the matter is that it means nothing more than 'cause unknown.'

"The medical grab-bag is full of discarded theories about the cause of baldness. The 'derby hat' theory, for example, had considerable vogue for many years. This conception was that the hat presses upon the arteries that nourish the scalp and thus gives rise to an undernourished state of the hair follicles. The answer to this explanation is that long before the derby hat swam into our ken the smooth, shiny dome was quite the thing.

"Another theory held that alopecia is an affliction of the intellectual classes, and that it results from excessive brain work. This view is exceedingly grateful and consoling. The only trouble is that it has no basis in fact.

"Dandruff has been so vehemently denounced by eminent authorities as the cause of baldness that it is about time that a few words be said in its defense. In the first place, dandruff is equally common among men and women, but baldness is very common among men and very uncommon among women. It has been urged that the reason for this disparity is to be found in the much greater care with which women attend to their scalp and hair. But any social worker can tell you that baldness is just as rare among certain classes of female immigrants who would no sooner think of applying soap and water to their scalps than of bathing in concentrated sulphuric acid.

"The latest theory of baldness, and the one which seems most consistent with demonstrable facts, ought to spread joy among the countless thousands of bald-headed men. In brief, this view holds that baldness is a normal attribute of manhood. Women seldom become bald. Only masculine men are permitted to develop the alopecic insignia of their virility."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is pleasing to me that these articles are read, not only by laymen, but also by physicians and dentists. One of the things recompensing me for the labor involved in their preparation is the letters I get from the profession.

You have noticed among the questions one which is repeated many itmes. It relates to that annoying symptom some persons have—a "popping" or "jumping" in the joint of the lower jaw. On chewing food, the jaw acts as if it became partially dislocated and then slipped back into place.

A dentist of Roanoke, Virginia, has just written me his views regarding this ailment and its treatment. He begins with a description of how the jaw acts when it is behaving properly, both at rest and in movement.

While the mouth is quietly closed, the cutting edges of the lower front teeth should remain just back of, but not in contact with, the upper teeth. If they fit this way and the large back teeth are present, the chewing process is likely to be normal.

Now I must give you another point in anatomy as pointed out to me by my dentist friend. This relates to the jaw joints.

How the Lower Jaw Works.

At some time or other you have probably examined the skull of an animal. The lower jaw is entirely detached in the bony specimen, the rounded ends resting in shallow depressions in the skull. When the upper and lower teeth are shut together, with the lower front teeth back of the upper, as I said they should be, each rounded end of the jaw presses against the back part of its bony cup.

When all the teeth are present and the act of chewing is being done properly, the jaw swings to one side. Suppose it swings to the right, the end of the jaw on that side continues to press against the back of its socket. At the same time the other end of the jaw slides forward.

So it goes, the paw sliding back and forth. The chewing is done easily, without noise or friction.

If you have no back teeth and must chew your food with the front teeth, the normal process is distutbed. You push the lower jaw forward so as to bring in contact the cutting edges of your upper and lower front teeth. This causes the ends of the jaw on both sides to move forward at the same time. Then they drop back, returning to position with a popping or a cracking noise.

The muscles and ligaments lose their control, or they accustom themselves to the new condition. In any event, the symptom may become so common as to accompany every movement of the jaws, even when the mouth is empty.

Cause of a Popping Noise.

Improperly constructed bridgework or an improperly shaped crown or filling may accomplish the same thing, causing the jaw to be thrown forward. This produces the mechanical adjustment which will cause the popping noise. In every case, my friend tells me, this symptom is caused by wrong position and wrong use of the lower jaw.

I thank the doctor for the scientific explanation of a disagreeable symptom which he has relieved so frequently in his practice. Hereafter my answer to this question will be

"Popping or jumping in the jaw joint is the result of faulty position and faulty movement of the lower jaw. In most instances this is due to loss or disuse of the back teeth, resulting in the use of the front teeth for chewing, or it may be due to the presence of faultily constructed bridges, crowns or fillings, which cause the jaw to be thrown forward too far. Consult your dentist for correction."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT you should boost your city morning, noon and night.

THAT the growth of your city is the personal responsibility of every citizen in it.

THAT a city all wrapped up in itself never gets anywhere.

THAT a city full of quitters always loses in the race of progress.

THAT your city is the best in every way. You should tell the world about it, not once in a while but all the while.

THAT all citizens should be proud that they are privileged to live there. They should all be go-getters and get everything they go after.

THAT your city is a self-starter. Your citizens should never let it become a self-stopper.

THAT most communities need increased co-operation to make them better.

Too many cities have obstinate men, the fellows who do not hold opinions—opinions hold them.

Narrowness of mind is the cause of obstinacy. Narrow minded people are never open to conviction. They just growl all the while.

Be an optimist! An optimist is the fellow who sees the good in the home city and respects the opinions of his neighbors—he believes that every cloud has a silver lining, and is always ready to help his neighbors and his city.

(Copyright, 192-.

Edson R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT the development of a mutual understanding and co-operation between the cities and the rural sections will do much toward the up-building of both.

THAT it would soon show the city man that the farmer is a business man who is planning and working at all times to develop the business of farming. He is a real neighbor and does his own share for the betterment of the whole community.

THAT it should show the farmer that the city man does not wear horns and is always willing to do his share.

THAT the cities and the country face the same big problem—that of building up their community.

THAT the city man should realize that the problem of converting idle acres into productive farms is as much his as it is that of the farmer.

The enlightened men should cooperate together to success, not a selfish success but a success that ignores selfishness and works only to the common good of the whole community.

There are very many cases of infant prodigies on record, but cases of very early muscular development are much rarer. Russia has a wonder child born at Vladivostok six years ago, who has already the size and muscular strength of a full-grown man. He has a deep bass voice and a full grown moustache and beard. In mind, however, he is still a child.

Why have corns

Why suffer the throbbing, shooting pain of corns, when to remove them with Radox Bath Salts is as simple as A B C? What happens when you dip your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts is simply this. The dead skin (of the corn) combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in the water like ordinary salt, and so loosens the corn that it can be removed bodily. Radox does not affect the living skin. It is only the dead skin—the corn which it dissolves. Your druggist stocks Radox Bath Salts. Half pound Pink Pkg.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BETTY LEARNS SOMETHING WORTH WHILE.

"My!" cried Betty, when she and Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin once more touched the ground. "Where in the world are we, anyway, Gocomeback?"

"In China, the home of the wonderland bamboo," replied the elfin. "Come, now, I want you to meet Little Lee-Fung," and he led Betty down a narrow street to a wee house, with its walls all open to the passer-by.

Gocomeback rapped on the side of the house and a little Chinese girl came running out to shake hands.

She doubled her little fists up and pressing her hands together shook them.

"How funny!" whispered Betty.

"That's the way we shake hands in China," said Gocomeback. "Betty, this is Lee-Fung. Betty wanted to see your wonderful bamboo."

"You are right, Gocomeback, when you say wonderful bamboo," replied Lee-Fung. "For China would not be China without the bamboo grass. It is one of the most precious possessions of China."

"What do they use it for mostly?" Betty asked.

Lee-Fung showed Betty and Gocomeback the hedge of bamboo in her yard.

"They make pencil-handles out of bamboo," replied Lee-Fung. "I use one in school. Masts for sail boats are fashioned out of bamboo. The heavier stalks are used for joists in houses, ribs for sails, shafts for spears, buckets for water."

"Fishing rods," suggested Gocomeback. "Yes and the great bamboo makes the roof of your Daddy's house."

"Sure enough, I'd almost forgotten," declared Lee-Fung. "They make toys from the roots as well as canes for old people. Oh, yes, and mother takes the leaves, sews them upon strings and they make a lovely rain coat. Daddy has a raft made of bamboo, which is fastened to a post by a cable that is also made from bamboo. Mother has lovely baskets woven from bamboo and the very mats we sit on in the house are made from bamboo, too."

"Yes, we have a set on the porch made of bamboo," Betty laughed. "Mother said the chairs and table are all made of bamboo."

"Then when the bamboo shoots are tender we stew them with rice and eat them with bamboo chop-sticks," added Lee-Fung. "Then after our meal, mother spreads bamboo preserves on our wee cakes. I could go on and tell you ever so many more uses of this wonderful bamboo, but I must go now and help my mama." Then bidding Gocomeback and Betty goodby, she trotted into the house.

"Well, Gocomeback, you're right, Bamboo is a wonderful grass," said Betty, when they once more reached America. "I just wish we could raise it in our country. Perhaps we could if we lived in the warmer part of our country."

Then Betty thanked Gocomeback for her lovely visit to China and ran into the house to tell her mother what Lee-Fung had told her about bamboo.

DAILY BREAD.

The great wheels of industry spin on around, and give an impression that everything's sound. The whistle that calls men will toot every morn, announcing a new day of hard toil is born.

The maelstrom of menfolk who work to create, turn in, and turn out things the whole world calls great. We boast of achievement, of progress and power. We marvel at new things created each hour.

We look to the side that the world moves along, and fights its way through things that, mayhap, go wrong. We take it for granted that progress can't stop. We say that through work, men can come out on top.

But—come down to earth—what's the fight all about? What interest has man in the things he turns out? In truth, if you face it, the average man's led to toil on and toil on—for what?—daily bread!

THE HOME KITCHEN

SOME DELICIOUS OLD ENGLISH RECIPES.

English homes and cookery have always been of keen interest. The following are some delicious old English recipes.

Shoulder of Mutton Stuffed with Oysters.

Grate enough dry bread to make a cupful and a half, chop fine a quarter pound of beef suet, mince an onion fine, and chop three hard-boiled eggs. Mix the ingredients, adding salt, pepper, a tablespoonful of powdered mixed sweet herbs, and a dozen raw oysters. Add two beaten raw eggs to bind the mixture, and work in three anchovies. Stuff the shoulder where the bone was removed, sew up the vent and truss the meat. Dust with pepper and salt, after rubbing over with soft butter. Place the roast in the pan, turn over a little stock made from the bones and roast. When done, lift to a hot dish. Turn the oyster liquor into the dish gravy with a cupful more stock, a minced onion, an anchovy, and cook for five minutes. Then add a half cupful of hot cream and thicken to the right consistency with a little browned flour roux. Strain into a hot gravy boat. Garnish the roast with potatoes that were roasted with the meat and sprays of fresh watercress.

Florentine of Veal.

Take a veal kidney, fat and all, and mince it very fine. Add a half cupful of fresh sweet herbs chopped fine, or a tablespoonful of powdered dried sweet herbs, a half cupful of well-washed dried currants, salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of sugar, a finely chopped tart apple, a saltspoonful each of cloves, nutmeg and mace, a cupful of very fine crumbs, a tablespoonful of chopped candied lemon peel, the yolks of three beaten eggs, a wineglass of orange-flower water, and the same of home-made wine. Line a deep dish with good pie crust, put in the mixture, cover with a thin top crust with vents in it and bake for an hour. When done, sprinkle with a little sugar and serve hot.

Rose Crepe and Ochre Lace Make This Charming Scalloped Frock.

Scallops have been used to great advantage in numbers of the new frocks. Some of them are devoid of other trimming, and have skirts simply arranged in tiers of deep scallops.

The dress above exploits more shallow scallops and adds ochre lace for further variety. The material is crepe in a lovely soft rose. The only visible fastening is a gold and pearl clasp at the low waistline.

This frock would also be effective in all-white.

When chronic, is best relieved by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments.

What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easy by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

ONE BIG INNING

NEW YORK, May 18 (Canadian Press).—The Yanks clicked off their sixth straight victory yesterday, beating the White Sox, 5 to 3, in the second of the series.

Ruth failed to get a homer, crossing the opposition with a bunt, which he laid down coyly in the sixth. Ted Blankenship was so amazed at this that he forgot himself and grooved one for the next batter, Bob Meusel, and Bob converted it into his fifth homer of the season. Score:

DEMPSEY-WILLS MILLION OFFER

New York Syndicate Bids For Championship Bout.

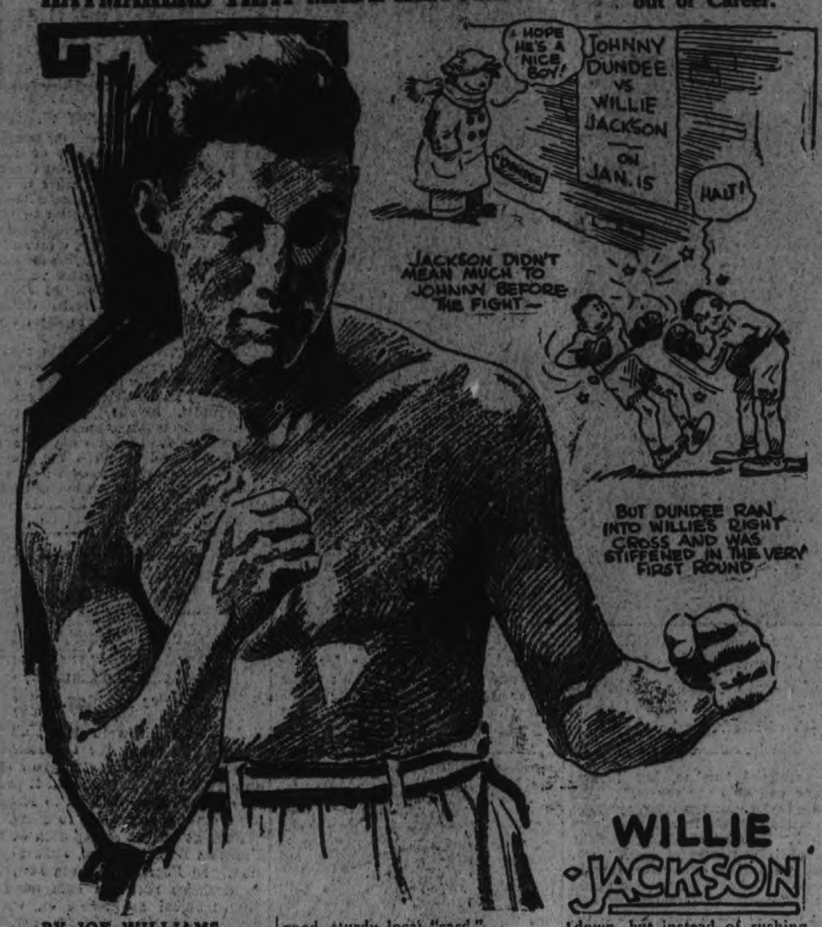
NEW YORK, May 18. — Canadian Press. — An offer of $1,000,000 for a championship fight with Harry Wills was made to Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, by Tom O'Rourke Monday. O'Rourke acted on behalf of a New York syndicate.

O'Rourke declared that $250,000 of this sum would be posted in Dempsey's name, with any holding agent as soon as the champion signed articles to meet the negro challenger, and be forfeited in case the fight failed to come off. The remainder, he said, would be posted 48 hours before the fight. In addition Dempsey would be guaranteed 50 per cent. of all the gate receipts in excess of $2,000,000.

O'Rourke declined to identify his backers in the syndicate, which proposes to erect a stadium in Long Island City, but insisted that it was a bonafide offer, aimed at determining whether "Dempsey is sincere in his expression of readiness to fight Wills." The bout would be staged in September or October, O'Rourke added.

HAYMAKERS THAT MADE HISTORY

Dundee Suffers Only Knock-out of Career.



BY JOE WILLIAMS

The most memorable episode in the pugilistic career of Johnny Dundee is one of which he remembers nothing.

On the night of Jan. 15, 1917, he stepped into the ring in Philadelphia against Willie Jackson, a product of the local cauliflower circles, and a performer of limited skill. ..

Dundee had heard of him in a vague way, in much the same sort of way that the Barrymores of the stage hear incidental and off-hand reports of stock actors out in the hinterlands.

"All he can do is hit," Dundee was advised.

Subsequently Dundee had cause to reflect that all a mule can do is kick, but HOW!

Jackson, whose real name was Oscar Tobler, had sprung up from the newsboy ranks; he had fought his way through the "mobs," had come out on top in the hundred and one "jams" that crowd the vigorous, every-day routine of the little merchants of metropolitan streets, and had finally established himself, as a good, sturdy local "card."

Everybody agreed he would never get anywhere. Working out as a sparring partner with George Knock out Chaney, the Baltimore, terror, he had been punched goofy. On top of that Johnny Kilbane had knocked him out. It seemed entirely reasonable to expect the fast-stepping, cagey, elusive Dundee to win as he pleased.

But he didn't. Instead he was knocked out for the first and only time in his career, and he was knocked out in less than one round. And added curiosity is that the knockout came after Dundee had landed the HARDEST BLOW he had ever hit a man with in the ring.

Jackson was in the center of the ring, and, after sending in two stinging lefts to the body, he took a right to the head and terrific left to the waistline that sent him flying backward and into the ropes. (Dundee later said this was the hardest blow he ever struck in the ring.)

Dundee kept coming in, his head down, but instead of rushing into Jackson he ran into the ropes, blind-like, and, as he bounded back, Jackson, already in the open, caught him unawares with a right cross to the jaw and Dundee tumbled like a wounded eagle.

He lay on his side with his arms outstretched and remained motionless until Referee "Pop" O'Brien chanted "eight." Then he shook himself, like a water spaniel emerging from the waves; his hands opened and closed spasmodically as if he were trying to grasp something to pull himself up. He partly rose and fell back breathing heavily at "10."

It was, of course, a lucky punch, one of those dooming penalties that come to combative men, either as a consequence of carelessness or the whim of a mocking fate.

Dundee and Jackson fought eight or ten times later, a total of nearly 100 rounds, and not once was Dundee on the floor again.

Yet in the very first fight they had he was down and out in exactly two minutes and 35 seconds.

NEW MARK FOR RUTH POSSIBLE

Millionaire Contract Expires This Year and He Must Make Good.

HAS COME BACK.

NEW YORK, May 18—If at any time within his next four games Babe Ruth gets another four-base blow, he will have forged ahead of the pace he set in 1921, when, it will be recalled, the Yankees' big boy made 59 homers before the season had run its course.

Five years ago the Babe got his thirteenth circuit clout in the Yanks' thirty-third game. This year he has 12 in 29 games. Thus, without recourse to higher mathematics, it is evident that he stands in a fair way to outdo his former mark.

The return of Babe Ruth is complete. Last year he was a pale and interesting invalid with a penchant for staying out long after the curfew had sounded its warning blasts This year he is in splendid condition and has adopted regular hours.

Artie McGovern's gymnasium, which was haunted by the Babe during the winter, seems to have done its work. The hours that he spent on the wrestling mat and on the hand-ball courts are more than repaying him.

Thus it is to be discovered by the baseball student that not only has he acquired 12 homers, but that he is the leading run scorer in both leagues, the second leading hitter in the American league, and the leader in runs batted in.

Then, too, he has never fielded better than during this season. Besides several startling catches he has cut off runners at the plate with perfect throws from the outfield. Add to the record his base stealing and you find a new sport mode Babe that is packing the Yankee Stadium as never before.

To turn attention to the commercial aspect of the Babe's sensational comeback, it is well known that his $52,000 annual salary, which came in a five-year contract, expires after this season. Then will come some negotiations between the Babe and Col. Ruppert, the Yanks' treasury in which the Bambino's 1926 record is bound to figure largely.

The Babe has built Ruppert a stadium and has caused the brewer to be a little less testy about prohibition than might have been expected. But baseball magnates are not noted for their generosity and it is certain the Babe's annual wage would have been cut drastically had he not improved this year.

As things are going on now, however, the Ruthian person will not be a candidate for philanthropy.

LEAFS CAPTURE BUFFALO FINAL

Three Toronto Circuit Clouts Featured Victory—Birds Beat Newark.

ROCHESTER WIN

TORONTO, Ont., May 17 (Canadian Press) — Home runs by O'Neill, Satterfield and Heath enabled the Leafs to capture the final game of the series with the hard hitting Bisons today 8 to 5. Satterfield, after being nicked for three runs in the first two innings settled down and pitched fine ball blanking the opposition for the final seven frames. Score:

TWO SULTANS OF SWAT

TONY LAZZERI, LEFT, AND BABE RUTH

Manager Miller Huggins and his Yankees boast two Sultans of Swat this season in Tony Lazzeri and Babe Ruth. Lazzeri was the home run king of the Pacific Coast League last season, smashing out 60 circuit clouts. Ruth, as you know, has been the leading fence buster of the majors for several years, his 59 homers in 192- being the big league record. Lazzeri and Ruth, obviously, form a combination any pilot would be glad to have on his team.

PRINCE JOINED CRICKET CROWD

Australia's Star Batsman Turned Back With a Duck Egg.

RESUME TO-DAY.

LONDON, May 18. Canadian Press—Ten thousand spectators gathered at Lord's on Monday, among them the Prince of Wales, to see the visiting Australian cricketers resume batting against the Marylebone cricket club. At the end of the day on Saturday, the M.C.C. had rung up a score of 199 all out, and with only 5 minutes of play left, the Australians had sent in Oldfield and Mailey to commence their first innings.

Yesterday Oldfield and Mailey resumed on a hard wicket in extremely dull weather. The light was bad and visibility low. Two stoppages were necessitated, one at 3.45 p.m., and another at 4.30. In spite of these disadvantages, however, the visitors batted vigorously, with Macartney, Ponsford, Collins and Gregory staging a fine exhibition. Macartney was brilliant all round and hit five boundaries en route to the 61-run score which stood to his credit before Franklin caught him out of his ground.

Oldfield and Mailey started off and both were dismissed at 21 runs each, Oldfield falling to a catch by the M. C. C. skipper, A. W. Carr, off Haig's bowling and Mailey succumbing to a catch behind the wicket by Franklin off Haig. Bardsley added a few more runs, but was rapidly dismissed and the way was paved for a fine partnership by Collins and Macartney. They batted steadily and had added 82 runs in 55 minutes when Collins' stumps were taken by Astill. Woodfull entered on the scene, and it was expected that this hard-slugging Victorian would stay with Macartney. Woodfull has become famous for his centuries—210 against Essex and 118 against Surrey. The crowd gasped when Haig got his wicket beautifully and Woodfull was returned to the pavilion with a duck egg.

Taylor, another powerful run-getter, whose last two turn-outs against Hampshire and Surrey had seen him break over the seventy-mark, fell to Flagon before reaching double figures.

Ponsford and Ryder restored the Australians' hopes and they staged a good rally with Ponsford standing at 46 not out when the stumps were drawn. Ryder fell to Haig and paved the way for Gregory.

Gregory on two occasions against Leicester nad Hants has sailed away over the century mark with his wicket intact, but he had no such luck on Monday. Kennedy caught him off Astill's bowling when the Australian had arrived at the 30 point. With a few minutes to play, Richardson, the last of the team, went to bat, but had not begun to score when the day was called.

Ponsford and Richardson resume to-day for the Australians.

JUVENILE SOCCER LEAGUE FORMED

First Game Takes Place Saturday at Oval—Kick-off at 2 O'clock.

The Juveniles, under the age of 19 and under 20 years formed a Juvenile League last evening when the Young Vets, Auburns and De Lavals, last year's champions, constituted a three-team league. The next three Saturday games are as follows:

Young Vets versus Auburn, at Nicholls Oval, on Saturday, May 22, kick off at 2 o'clock. J. Buchan, referee.

Auburn versus De Laval at Oval on Saturday, May 29.

Young Vets versus De Laval at King Edward Park, Saturday, June 5.

There is no official soccer game in the city on Saturday afternoon, but the Phelan Cup tie between the Thistle and Masseys has been arranged to take place on King Edward Park on Thursday evening. Kick off at 6 o'clock prompt. Referee, J. C. Russell.

De Laval Seniors travel to Campbellford on Saturday afternoon, to play the Trent Valley boys in the Phelan Cup, first round. The local boys intend travelling in buses.

The Thistle are contemplating making arrangements with Omemee so as to play a friendly game here on Saturday afternoon. Definite information will be given later.

"Wag Hotston, Masseys, is the only player that is now in the game who took part in the Church Soccer League for the Burnham Shield. He has still the goods, but his best days were with Manders on the C.G.E. right wing.

A special practice game of the Quaker Oats will take place tonight at the Oval.

The Thistle players are requested to met tonight on King Edward Park for a special practice and make arrangements for Saturday.

It is well worth recording the scoring abilities of Hugh Richmond during the 1924 season. He headed the goal scorers' list with 36 goals in all competitions, and 2 in the Plenty Cup game—38 in all. In the league 25, Gordon Cup 4, Phelan Cup 4, Peck Cup 3. Mitchell (Canadian Woollens) now with the Quakers, was runner-up with 15 goals. The local fans wish "Hughie" every success and settle an argument.

H. Richmond and J. Rae were formally struck off the Thistle list in accordance with the law.

The Quaker Oats travel to Omemee on Empire Day, May 24, to play Omemee in a friendly game, when they hold a fiel. day. Any person wishing to take in that trip, please phone 1636M.

An old favorite, A. Edwards of the De Laval, tried out in the game last Saturday, but found himself unfit and requested to be released, which was granted at his own request through injuries.

TO GRANT LICENSE TO FRONTIER POWER

New York State Board To Ignore Governor's Threat.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—Licenses for the development of water power on the St. Lawrence River involving an expenditure of more than $200,000,000 will be granted soon to the Frontier Power Corporation of America, the Herald Tribune learns. Although no official announcement has been made the paper says that the members of state power commission have decided to ignore the threat of Governor Smith to make public development of water power the greatest issue in the state and are ready to support the project of the Frontier Corporation which is a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of America, the Dupont de Nemours Co. and the General Electric Company The Frontier Corporation now has two plans before the commission, one for a joint development of the project with the Province of Ontario and another for an all United States development. The commission is said to favor the latter scheme.

HELPFUL HINTS FROM GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

FRANCIS OUIMET—PLAYING WIND.

There are some things, though, that give the best of golfers much concern, the most prominent of which is the wind. Many a professional star will tell you that golf's real hazards are in the air, meaning, of course, the wind. And what is there about the wind that makes it so troublesome? Many things. Foremost is the fact that it is ever so much more difficult to control an iron shot on a windy day than otherwise. No doubt this is due to the tremendous effect the wind has upon the flight of a ball, for many a well-intended shot has been swept yards off the line by a powerful gust and, whereas one shot may come off perfectly, the very next might meet with disaster.

The great English masters, golfers like Varden, Hilton, Taylor or Braid, all made their marks through their uncanny ability at combating high winds.

These men, I have been told, seldom tried to do the impossible when the wind blew hardest. Sometimes they actually sacrificed a stroke and played away from a green. A direct shot may find a sand trap.

Diamond Disputes Decided

By BILLY EVANS

Would it be possible for a fair hit ball to strike the umpire on foul territory and what would be the ruling?

* * *

On first reading it might seem that a fair ball couldn't possibly strike an umpire on foul territory, yet it occasionally happens, even in the major leagues.

The first base umpire, with no one on the bases, invariably takes a position 10 to 15 feet back of first base, slightly in foul territory.

It is possible for a hard hit ball down the first base line to so "English" after it passes that base in fair territory to cause it to come into contact with the umpire who is standing in foul territory and is unable to avoid being ahit

When such a thing happens the ball is considered in play, no attention being paid to the fact that it did strike the umpire.

HOLLYWOOD, May 18.—Jazz is the Omnipotent tune now rushing sinners down the sawdust trail in Hollywood and Los Angeles. Most of the so-called up-to-date churches have replaced their old-fashioned pipe organs with Charlestoning Jazz Orchestras. Rev. Few motion picture stars ever accumulate wealth despite the fabulous salaries they receive. With few exceptions most of them die on the verge of pauperism. Barbara La Marr, who during her life-time enjoyed all luxuries, left only a few hundred dollars when death came.

And why? Because nearly all of them live far beyond their salaries. It is the common fallacy to spend just a few hundred above the pay limit. Thus, movie marionettes are forever keeping their feet wet in debt.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Versatile.

At the close of the football season Glenn Warner pronounced Ernie Nevers of Stanford University the greatest football player he ever coached.

Some compliment when you recall that Warner developed Jim Thorpe, as well as a host of other stars.

This spring finds Ernie Nevers a member of the St. Louis Browns as a pitcher. No less a person than George Sisler pronounces him one of the best college twirling prospects that has broken into the majors in years.

As I saw Nevers step under the shower and observed his powerful physique it caused me to think that he would have been a greater success as a wrestler had he taken the mat game up in preference to the diamond or gridiron.

One look at him and I venture some of these highly touted pro wrestlers would call for the smelling salts.

* * *

Super-Athlete.

Speaking of Jim Thorpe, I saw the once super-athlete a few weeks ago while attending the whippet races at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Jim looked almost the same as the first time I met him some 16 years ago. A trifle heavier, of course, for he has passed the 40 mark; yet he still looked every inch the athlete.

Thorpe had been one of the football players who tried to make Florida enthuse over the game long after the camphor balls had been tucked away with the grid suits up north.

As I gave Jim the once over, I made a comparison of him with the latest athletic sensation, Charley Hoff. I asked Jim if he thought he could have trimmed Hoff in a series of 10 athletic events.

"I'm pretty sure I could," was Jim's modest reply. "Certainly would like to go back about 15 years and make the test."

To me Jim Thorpe will always be the greatest football player, the super-athlete, of all time.

Condition.

What part does weight play in the career of a big league pitcher?

That question will be definitely settled this year by the showing of Joe Shaute of the Cleveland Indans and Waite Hoyt of the New York Yankees.

Last year Shaute reported 35 pounds overweight, tipping the scales at 225. This year he is a few pounds under 190.

Waite Hoyt, who went something like eight games last season before he could win one, despite the fact he had a world of stuff, is exactly 20 pounds lighter.

A too large waistline is fatal to a pitcher. It not only cuts down on his stuff but makes him a sucker on fielding bunts.

I look for both Shaute and Hoyt to better their record from 25 to 50 per cent this year.

* * *

Superstition.

Charley Jamieson of the Cleveland club had a bad year at the bat last season.

Ball players are supersitious. When off their game they grope about for a logical reason.

Just before the season opened last year Jamieson changed his style of bat, going to a heavier one. Not having much success he began to experiment and throughout the year used perhaps a dozen different models.

The result, a very poor season at the bat. This year he has reformed, going back to the old model.

Several years ago, when Ken Williams gave Babe Ruth such a healthy chase for home run honors, he made up his mind if his bat was a trifle heavier it would cause a lot of fly balls that were being caught to sail over the fence.

He made the experiment but it failed. Not only did he fall off in his home runs but his general batting style suffered.

THEATRE

"LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN."

It is not often that a play or story of Oscar Wilde's is offered on the silver sheet. "Lady Windermere's Fan," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week, offered an opportunity of studying the literary art of a man who, though greatly erring, was also greatly gifted. Whether it is owing to the writer or the producer, "Lady Windermere's Fan" is one of the most artistically screened pictures seen here in some time. A great deal is owing, probably to Ernst Lubitch, the producer and director. In other producing hands, this picture might have been made extremely suggestive and crude in its situations, but the art of Lubitsch makes it satisfyingly clever, but never risque.

"Lady Windermere's Fan" is a society drama, pure and simple, and the story revolves about the efforts of Lord Windermere to keep from his wife the knowledge that her mother is living, and is an adventuress. There is no attempt to gloss over the history of the lady with a past who plays the main part in the picture, but there are many evidences of her goodness of heart and plenty of scope to delineate in telling manner the burden of guilt that is cast upon her without mercy by the gossips of the social set. This delineation of the trio of sharp-tongued females of high society is extremely good. One scene shows the huge feathered hat of the Duchess shadowing most of her face, but the sharp teeth, prominently displayed, illustrate very well indeed the manner of conversation she is indulging in. The way in which Mrs. Erlynne, the adventuress, gets around this lady and makes her like it, is only one of the many subtle and interesting bits of a delicately-handled picture.

The theme may be tragic in its underlying meaning, but the producer criss-crosses it with touches of comedy that make it very likeable and there is, on the whole, a distinctive type of treatment of "Lady Windermere's Fan" that sets it apart from most productions of the type. Clever suggestions, rather than bold strokes, is used for many of the effects, and there is a curious quirk to the finale which sends the audience away quite satisfied with the outcome. "Clever and unusual" might be the way to sum up the atmosphere of the big picture, which has an excellent cast in May McAvoy, Bert Lytell, Ronald Colman and Irene Rich, the latter doing some great work as the lady with a past.

There is also an entertaining comedy with plenty of real laughs in its makeup, and entitled "For Sadie's Sake," also a good deal of interest in the Grantland-Rice Sportlight films. —Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

SENTED WITH GREAT CAST.

"The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted" Is Distinctly Worth While.

For a dramatic story, for a brilliant cast, for excellent direction, there is a decided worth while photoplay at the Regent Theatre. It is "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted,' a Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, picturized from the popular novel by Gerie Wentworth-James.

It is a story of a mother's sacrifice of her happiness, her husband, and her reputation to save her son who has been convicted of manslaughter. Her husband's honor means more to him than his son, and the dramatic situations in which the mother finds herself compromised, as a result of scheming with her old-time sweetheart, lead up to an unexpected climax.

Irene Rich gives one of her very finest performances as the charming and self-sacrificing mother, playing with sympathy and understanding. Huntly Gordon makes a convincing district attorney, who puts honor above all else and makes John Mannering an impressive figure. John Harron (as in "My Wife and I") plays the son of Miss Rich and Huntly Gordon, and pretty Elinor Fair is a vivacious young thing for whose crime Bob is almost punished.

June Marlowe is the lovely sweetheart who greets Bob with a wedding ring when he is released from prison, and Gertrude Astor appears as a scheming and beautiful woman of the world. Gayne Whitman plays the erstwhile sweetheart of Mrs. Mannering, who deceives her and involves her in a frightful scandal. The remainder of the cast includes George Pearce, Edward Piel, George Kuwa, Wilfred Lucas, Don Alvardo and Jimmie Quinn.

James Flood, director of such Warner successes as "The Tenth Woman," "The Man Without a Conscience," and "The Woman Hater," has made a fine job of "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted." Bess Meredyth adapted the story to the screen and John Mescall photographed the production.

PADDOCK ON SPRINTING

CHARLEY PADDOCK TEACHI NG PAIR OF ATHLETICALLY INCLINED BOYS PROPER STARTING METHODS.

By CHARLEY PADDOCK.

Charles H. Sherrill of Yale University, back in the late '80s, crouched in his holes at the start of a 100-yard dash.

The papers the following day said that "although Sherrill seemed to stumble at the beginning of the race, he nevertheless recovered himself and won."

Over night it was realized that the crouch position was a distinct advantage over the old standing method. And there came to be various varieties of crouch starting, which were really never definitely standardized until Arthur Duffey became the champion sprinter of the world at the beginning of the 20th century. He was the fastest man from his holes of his time.

Howard Drew, the next really great sprinter in track history, who began starring some 10 years later, used the same style, and Loren Murchison, generally conceded to be the best starter of the present, begins his race in the same fashion, as does also the writer.

It consists of digging the holes behind the starting line, one behind the other in such a way that when you take your marks, on the first command, the knee of your right leg will be opposite the instep of your left foot. The hands on the line should be far enough apart to allow an easy passage of the body. The position should be one of complete relaxation.

At the command "Set," however, the body immediately raises to the correct set position and is coiled like a rattler ready to spring. The weight is far forward on the hands and the front foot, and, when the gun is fired, the hands are lifted, throwing the body forward.

A man would fall if it was not for his first two strides, which consist of jabbing steps that have so much weight and force behind them that they fairly throw the runner into his stride. The body is kept low during those first few steps.

The co-ordination of the arms and legs is important, but the essential is the position of the weight, far forward when in the set position. There is the secret of the successful start.

And it means a great deal to get away fast. The man who can do it has both a mental and physical advantage hard indeed to overcome, and almost anyone by patience and work can become a creditable starter.

MARITIME MEMBERS OF COMMONS MONOPOLIZE DEBATE ON BUDGET

Only Six of Seventeen Blast Furnaces in Canada Operating, Declares Col. Cantley Urging Protection for Steel Industry.

LIBERALS SUPPORT THE BUDGET

OTTAWA, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Resuming the debate on the Budget in the House of Commons Monday, A. E. Maclean (Liberal Prince Edward Island), said the Budget was meeting with approval in Canada. He hoped that the reduced tariffs on automobiles would result in an increase in the sale of automobiles, that the reduction in postage would mean increased postal revenue, and that there would be no reduction in the income tax revenue. The Opposition amendment was a direct vote against the Budget in every particular. Conservative members were loud in their demand that the automobile tariff should be reviewed by the tariff board before there was any change. But, said Mr. Maclean, if the tariff board and not the government had been responsible for the reduction in duties, these same members would be blaming the Government for having permitted the board to deal with this matter.

Mr. Maclean denied the statement by Conservative speakers that the King Government had broken its pledges to the electorate. The present administration had, he declared, carried out all its promises made to the people in 1921.

Unkind to Conservatives

If Providence had been kind to the Government last year, then Providence had certainly been most unkind to the Conservatives from 1911 to 1921. The regime of the Opposition had been marked in those years by a continuation of deficits, as contrasted with the surplus shown by the present Budget.

Prince Edward Island was an agricultural province dependent upon the United States for its market and the people there realized that Free Trade would benefit that province but they were moderate in their demands and were willing to bear their share of the Protection which certain interests demanded.

Prince Edward Island, said Mr. Maclean, must sell its products in competition with the world. Growers of potatoes in Prince Edward Island were required to pay a duty of 50 cents a bushel before they could enter the United States market. He suggested that the Canadian tariff board interview the United States tariff board and see if some exchange could not be effected whereby Prince Edward Island potatoes could enter the United States without such a handicap. He opposed a tariff war with the United States on the ground that such a war would shut the Maritime Provinces out of the only market they had.

Mr. Maclean supported the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, but thought it might be well to wait for further developments before expending money on the grain route. He did not believe that this route would be successful for the grain and cattle trade. There was, however, considerable mineral, timber and other wealth in the district; and the line should be completed so as to afford full opportunity to get these mineral products out of that country.

He urged the placing of a second car ferry on the service between Prince Edward Island and the mainland.

An Election Budget

T. Cantley (Conservative, Pictou) spoke of the Budget as an election Budget, but it contained, he said, no relief for the major industries of Nova Scotia, iron and steel.

In passing, Col. Cantley urged the Minister of Customs and Excise to have the duties on liquor reduced. Col. Cantley was satisfied that one hundred armed vessels and a thousand coastguards could not stop the rum running while the duty on Scotch whiskies was more than 150 per cent. He advocated that the duty be cut by one-third and then perhaps four-fifths of the smuggling difficulty in regard to liquor and tobacco would vanish overnight.

Col. Cantley read to the House extracts from what he described as a shorthand report of a speech made in 1921 by the Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of Defence, in which the minister was reported as saying that he was in favor of an increased duty on iron and steel.

The Minister of Defence rose at once to a question of privilege, stating that the speaker was endeavoring to put on Hansard statements which he had never made. "This speech was never uttered by me," declared Mr. Macdonald, who quoted from a ruling made in 1925 by Speaker Lemieux when Mr. Baxter, then a member of the House, had also endeavored to read from a shorthand report of an alleged speech. The Speaker had then ruled that it was out of order to read anything written by someone whose name was not known.

Fabricated Report

On Colonel Cantley proceeding with his speech, Mr. Macdonald again protested that the member was quoting from a "fabricated" report of a speech which had not been made.

Deputy Speaker Duff informed Colonel Cantley that Mr. Macdonald denied positively that the speech quoted from had been made. "I must ask that the honorable member accept the word of the Minister of National Defence," said the Deputy Speaker.

"I bow to your ruling," replied Colonel Cantley. "I am surprised however, at the attitude taken by the minister. "I thought he had more courage."

Mr. Macdonald retorted that Colonel Cantley had not had sufficient courage to meet him an any platform during the 1921 election campaign.

Colonel Cantley replied that Mr. Macdonald had not had the courage to meet him in the 1925 campaign. The Minister had been so wanting stituency of Pictou and retired to Antigonish Guysboro. He had deserted his friends of thirty years and turned to seek support in a new riding. "He talks about courage. It's for him to explain it, not me," concluded Colonel Cantley.

Adopt U. S. Methods

Why not [illegible] the tariff of Canada on that of the United States, Colonel Cantley said. In the United States the iron and steel industry received adequate protection. In Canada, out of seventeen blast furnaces, but six were in operation. The Town of Sydney Mines, with a population of ten thousand, had two thousand men out of work and not a wheel turning in the iron and steel plants. Colonel Cantley said that he knew what he was talking about. He had been through a most exhaustive training in the iron and steel industry. "I left school under fifteen years," he told the House. "I had a difference with the school master. He's now in heaven, and I have only got as far as the House of Commons which certainly isn't the gate of heaven."

Canada Turns Corner

P. L. Hatfield (Liberal, Shelbourne-Yarmouth) stated that Canada was on the road to prosperity. The Budget had revealed that the Dominion had turned 'the corner of 'hard times." The attitude of the Conservative party had been to thank Providence for the good crop of last year, while the Prime Minister was blamed by the Opposition for the poor crops.

Mr. Hatfield attacked the Conservative members from Nova Scotia by saying that before the election these candidates had declared that partisan politics were dead in that province and the people were asked to "Put province before party" and "To vote as a people, not as a party." But when these gentlemen were elected and came to Otawa one of their first acts was to declare their strict adherence to the Conservative party, although in the campaign they had announced they were going to break away from the old party lines.

"We did not," called out a Conservative member, but the rest of his sentence was lost in applause and shouts of "Order! Order!" from the Government side.

Mr. Hatfield informed the House that he would certainly oppose legislation which he considered injurious to the Maritime Provinces. He declared, however, that this Government had done the only thing that had been done by any government thus far. It had appointed a Royal Commission.

There was some derisive applause from the Conservative side of the House, and cries of "Another commission."

Demand is Granted

Mr. Hatfield responded that both Liberal and Conservative parties in Nova Scotia had declared that the question of Maritime rights should be dealt with by an impartial and independent commission. The Government was giving them just what they desired. For himself, he proposed, like the Prime Minister, to ask what are Maritime rights. After having listened to the exhaustive speeches of the Conservative members, from Nova Scotia, he did not believe that there was a single independent gentleman in the House who could write down a clear-cut statement of what Maritime rights were.

Referring to some remarks made by Hon. George Perley (Conservative, Argenteuil) recently to the effect that Canada needed to level her tariff on certain fruits to that levied by the United States, Mr. Hatfield said that he had discovered that in the case of strawberries and peaches the Canadian tariff was higher than the American. If there was to be any levelling process it would consist in cutting down the Canadian tariff

GIBBONS PICKS DEMPSEY TO WIN

JACK DEMPSEY.

By JOE WILLIAMS.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Before the summer season is ended Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and Gene Tunney, foremost white challenger, will step into the ring and start firing loaded punches at each other.

Who'll win?

I'll let Eddie Kane answer that one for you. Kane managed Tommy Gibbons until the St. Paul heavyweight retired some months ago. Kane is closer to Gibbons than a recalcitrant bunion and when he speaks on matters touching on, and appertaining to, the nose-busting racket he is reflecting Gibbons' mind.

If any one in the world is qualified through actual experience to tell whether Dempsey is better than Tunney, or vice versa, that one man is Gibbons.

Three years ago, out in the little cow town of Shelby, Mont., Gibbons fought 15 rounds with Dempsey and was on his feet, in pretty good shape, when the contest ended.

Last summer, at one of the ball parks here, Gibbons went on against Tunney and was knocked out for the first time in his long career; not only knocked out but outclassed. The bout was actually one-sided.

Consider the facts: Dempsey couldn't stop Gibbons. What's more he couldn't even score a knockdown. (And don't let anybody tell you he wasn't trying, either.) On the other hand, Tunney stretched the Irishman and did so with comparative ease.

You'd think, then, that Gibbons' pick would be Tunney. But it isn't. Kane says Gibbons is stringing along with Dempsey and not because of any prejudicial feelings. If anything Gibbons has a somewhat higher personal regard for Tunney than for the champion.

"Gibbons simply has an honest conviction that Dempsey is a greater fighter than Tunney," says Kane, "and he believes that if the two ever fight, which appears likely now, Dempsey will win. Gibbons concedes Tunney's fine points as a ringman, but prefers to believe Dempsey has finer ones."

Whether the bout goes the limit or ends by a knockout, Gibbons predicts Dempsey will be the winner. This is a rather unusual slant on the situation, for most critics argue the longer the bout lasts the brighter Tunney's chances of winning. This on the presumption Tunney is the better boxer.

Kane says Dempsey is a much harder puncher than Tunney, despite the fact that Tunney stopped Gibbons and Dempsey didn't. "Anybody could have knocked Gibbons out that night," admits Kane. "He was dead on his feet an hour before he entered the ring."

Being a more dynamic puncher, Dempsey will rule a logical favorite to land the knockout if one is landed.

Kane says Gibbons questions the widespread belief Tunney is a better boxer than the champion. "Gibbons found Dempsey a better than average boxer in their Montana fight. Gibbons went into that fight called the cleverest heavyweight since Jim Corbett's time. Few expected him to last the limit. If he did it seemed reasonable enough to expect him to win on points.

"You know what happened. It was a close fight for 10 rounds. Even Dempsey's own hand-picked referee admitted he would have had to give the decision to Gibbons on points if the fight had been limited to 10 sessions.

"Unfortunately for us it went 15, and during the last five rounds Dempsey out-boxed Gibbons—yes out-boxed him is the word—and went on to win the decision."

There you have, mates, the low-down on Tunney and Dempsey by the one man who has battled them both.

And the low down, as he sees it, is this: Dempsey to win by a knock-out if there is one, or on points if the bout goes the limit.

COMMITTEE ON CURBING MEETS

Citizens To Be Given Privilege of Having Curbing Laid.

AT OWN EXPENSE.

The committee appointed by the City Council to consider the curbing of the different streets, met last night, with the Mayor in the chair. It was suggested by Alderman Fife, the other member of the committee, that a by-law be drawn up, so that any person asking for the curbing would pay for the cost of laying the same, which would be at the rate of 30 cents a foot and that the cost of the said work may either be applied to owner's tax bill or be paid for by him at the time of laying. The curbing is to be laid under the supervision of the engineer's department.

The local lodges of the I.O.O.F. have decided on Sunday, June 27, for their annual decoration service. Further announcements will be made later.

John R. Corkery has been appointed by the Ontario Government to look after prosecutions under the Fishery Act in this district.

IN MEMORIAM

ARMSTRONG—In loving memory of George Armstrong who died May 18, 1925.

The month of May again is here,
The saddest month of the year.
It is just one year ago today
Our dear one passed away.

In life we loved him dearly
In death we do the same.
We oftentimes do think of him
And wish him here again.

We think of him in silence,
No eyes may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.

Happy were the hours we spent together.
Lonely are our hearts today.
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever past away.

In thought we see his dear sweet face
And kiss his tender brow;
But in our aching heart we know
We have no father now.

We loved him; yes, no tongue can tell
How deep, how dearly and how well
Christ loved him too and thought it best
To take him home with Him to rest.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

Likely To Be the Opposing Moundsmen For Tomorow's Game.

KINGSTON, May 18. — (Special). —Cairns and Hardill are more than likely to be the opposing pitchers in the Peterboro-Kingston clash at the George Richardson Memorial Stadium on Wednesday evening, when the schedule of the Central Ontario League opens. Everything is set for the big opening. Mayor Angrove has his arm in shape to start the season and the Kingston players are aching for a chance to get into action. The only thing that can stop it now is bad weather, and the weatherman this afternoon predicts rain.

Umpire George Sullivan is keen to answer the call of the diamond again and the fans are just as anxious to see the seniors go to it again. There will be a crowded house for the opening performance.

HOUSE SPLITS ON PARTY LINES PASSING BUDGET BY A VOTE OF 121 TO 108; END OF LONG DEBATE COMES EARLY TO-DAY AFTER ALL NIGHT SESSION

Premier King and Hon. H. B. Bennett Wind Up Five Weeks' Debate For Respective Parties — King and Meighen Paired and Don't Vote.

CONSERVATIVE AMENDMENT DEFEATED.

Dr. Manion's Amendment Is Described By Premier As Milk and Water Affair—Conservatives Not United on Tariff, Charges Mr. King.

OTTAWA, May 19 (Canadian Press)—Nearly five weeks of debate on the budget ended at four o'clock this morning with the defeat of the Conservative amendment by a majority of thirteen and the adoption of the Robb budget proposals by a like majority. There were no party splits. The Liberals and Progressives lined up against the amendment and for the main budget motion, while the Conservatives voted for the amendment and against the budget. The division was 121 for the budget motion and 108 against, the strength of the House having been divided in the same proportion on the Conservative amendment.

The amendment, which was by the Hon. Dr. Manion, mainly condemned the government for making the tariff changes without waiting for an inquiry by the new tariff advisory board, and for failure to carry out the assurances in this respect given by Premier King prior to the last election and also in the speech from the throne.

An unusual feature of the division was that neither Premier King nor the Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Opposition leader, cast a vote. Mr. Meighen was absent through illness. Mr. King was paired with Mr. Meighen. In the two divisions, the government received the largest majority of the session on a major measure.

Following the adoption of the budget motion the House resolved into a committee of ways and means hu only to report progress. The House then adjourned. Shortly before the House divided, F. P. Quinn, Conservative member for Halifax, explained that he had an amendment which he would have moved had he been in order. The unmoved amendment was read to the House and expressed disappointment that nothing in the budget had provided for the relief of industries in the Maritime provinces.

Yesterday's debate was marked by an oratorical battle between Premier King and Hon. R. B. Bennett. The Premier spoke for three hours and undertook to discredit the Conservative amendment, describing it as a "milk and water" affair. He charged the Conservatives with being unable to bring in an amendment expressing their united views upon the question of a higher tariff all around. Mr. Meighen had apparently found a sharp division in his own party on this subject. Mr. Bennett charged that the national debt was even greater than when the government took office and that every trade treaty which the government had entered into had worked adversely to Canadian trade.

The Budget had been brought down on a Tuesday and the amendment had been moved the following Tuesday. No doubt between these two days a Conservative caucus was held, said Mr. King, and in all probability the Conservative leader expressed himself to his followers in favor of the protective tariff. Mr. Meighen was at least always consistent in this matter, but when he came to look around he found that members from the Maritimes did not include in their claims of Maritime right an all round protective tariff. He also found that members of his party from Manitoba also shied away from the consistently maintained protective tariff. Mr. King said he would go further and estimate that some of the Conservative members from the Ontario constituencies were not in favor of the policy of Mr. Meighen.

Quotes Mr. Meighen

Premier King quoted from several of Mr. Meighen's election campaign speeches. In Toronto, Mr. Meighen had advocated "A revision of the tariff on a definite and consistently protective basis." This notation was greeted in the House by Conservative applause.

"Honorable gentlemen opposite are prepared to applaud a sentiment of that kind but they are not prepared to bring in an amendment to that effect," interjected the Prime Minister, and the statement was followed by Government applause.

Mr. King proceeded to quote further statements regarding the tariff made by Mr. Meighen, in which the leader of the Opposition expressed his belief in the need for increased duties on coal and agricultural products. The Prime Minister pointed out that none of these matters had been touched in the Conservative amendment to the Budget.

The Prime Minister declared that Mr. Meighen had stated in the course of the campaign, at Kitchener, Ont., that the British preference was wrong in principle and unjust to the workers of Canada. Mr. King was surprised at such an expression in a constituency in Canada which had the largest number of German citizens in it. He wondered what would have been said if he had made a similar statement under such conditions.

Opposition Not United

Conservatives had made declarations from one end of Canada to the other of their intention to put a protective tariff into force, if elected. In view of these statements, it was very remarkable when an opportunity was afforded to give expression to their belief in a protective policy that no such amendment was proposed. It indicated that all the Opposition members were not united on this point.

The action of the Opposition in evading the whole question in the amendment before the House was all the more extraordinary and remarkable, said Premier King, when one considered the professed solicitude of the Conservative party for the manufacturing interests of this country, and more particularly the automobile manufacturers. If Conservatives had been sincere, they could havemoved an amendment expressing regret that the tariff on motor cars had been reduced. Not a word to this effect was mentioned in their amendment; the Opposition sought to escape and avoid altogether an expression of view in the matter.

In 1921, continued the Prime Minister, Conservative leaders had told the electorate that the all important question was that of a protective tariff. In the session of 1922, however, when the present Government had introduced its first Budget, Conservatives had only moved a "milk and water" amendment. This amendment had avoided the question of a protective tarif, and had merely

Short Skirts and Violet Bloomers Shock Villagers

OTTAWA, Ont., May 19 (Canadian Press)—Short skirts and pretty violet bloomers shocked the good people of Gatineau Point, Que., Monday. As a result, Sheriff Ste. Pierre, of Hull, was instructed to lay a charge of "indecent exposure of persons" against Bertha Cayer of Gatineau Point. Tuesday she appeared in the Hull police court before Judge Honore Achim and was acquitted after His Worship had satisfied himself by personal observation that the skirts were not exceptionally short and that observers of the bloomers had apparently been color blind.

"To avert a repetition of this you might be better advised to lengthen your skirts," smiled the judge, as he peered through his heavy rimmed glasses.

FIRE THREATENS SEVERAL LIVES IN LUNDY BLOCK

Destroys Stock in Sukloff Store—Nine Families Overhead.

DAMAGE BY SMOKE.

Furniture Of Tenants Upstairs Is Damaged—Chief Investigating.

A fire which might have been the cause of lives being lost, broke out in the rear of the clothing store of Norman Sukloff, at 293 George street, last night, shortly after six o'clock, the cause being unknown. Over this store and the adjoining stores, is the Lundy Block, where nine families live.

The fire alarm was sent in by M. Abramson, who lives in the rooms directly above the store, at 6.20 p.m. Mr. Abramson along with J. F. Coursey, who also lives in the apartments, were the first to notice the fire. Mr. Coursey says that he was on the verandah at the back of the apartment, when he heard the sound of breaking glass down below, and when he rushed into his dining room it was filled with smoke, and the smoke seemed to be coming through every crack in the floor.

Mr. Coursey shouted to his wife to run and leave everything behind, as the building was on fire. Mrs. Cour-

Break For Liberty Futile Policewoman Wins Race

NEW YORK, May 19 (United News).—Arrested by two policewomen on a charge of flirting in the subway, John Rohorer, a baker, decided to make a break for liberty. He knocked down one of the police women and kicked her in the face as he wrenched free and dodged into the crowd. After he had run for a block and a half, Rohorer felt a heavy hand on his shoulder. It was Officer Sarah Baker, the other policewoman, who had been at his heels and who took him by the collar to the nearest station house.

AVIATOR KILLED DURING STORM

Forced Landing Fatal To Pilot of Ford Air Freighter.

OTHER DAMAGE.

CHICAGO, May 19 (Canadian Press).—Ross Kirkpatrick, 30-year-old aviator of the freighter Maiden Dearborn of the Ford Motor Co. Air Service, was killed at Summit on the southern city limits during a storm last evening, which caused a forced landing. His plane on landing struck soft ground, causing it to nose dive into the earth. Damage estimated from $100,000 to $200,000 was caused by the storm which extended east from Summit to Harvey, where more than 300 homes were destroyed.

THINK IT OVER.

Canada's meat exports had an approximate increase of $12,000,000 in the past twelve months. Notable gains have been made in the exportation of fresh beef, mutton and lamb. During the twelve months ended November, the total value of the export meat trade was $36,536,310, while in the twelve months ended November, 1925, the value of meat exported was $24,325,025.

Woman Leaves Jury To Save Pot Of Beans

DETROIT, Mich., May 19 (Canadian Press)—When Circuit Court jury on which Mrs. Nina B. Smith was serving resumed after luncheon she remembered that she had left a pot of beans on the fire. The judge excused her and the court went on with the trial for 50 minutes without her. The beans were saved.

FOREST FIRES BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL BY AID OF AIRPLANES

Damage Not Serious in Ontario, Manitoba and Minnesota.

RAIN IS NEEDED.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., May 19 (Canadian Press).— Although the forest fire situation in the district was reported by the Chief Ranger, Max Rabbits, to be somewhat easier last night, the flames which were raging at considerable ferocity on Monday afternoon and during the night in the Cloud Bay section were not got under control until they had destroyed at least two lumber camps and a considerable quantity of wood.

One of the camps burned was that of Gus Gustafson, working for the Hammermill Paper Company during the past winter. This camp, however, had been abandoned for the season and the equipment taken out, so that the loss will not be heavy.

Ben Renshaw, a resident of the Cloud Bay section, who operated camps, was a heavier loser. He lost his camps, together with about 200 cords of wood and 1,000 logs.

Planes Prove Value.

A much larger quantity of wood was saved by the efforts of the men working under the direction of the Department. The hydroplanes were used freely in carrying emergency crews to this district, and their speed was the means of effecting a large saving in property.

Air Patrol's Value.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 19 (Canadian Press).—No serious damage has been done by the bush fires which have been burning in the eastern portion of the province, declared Col. H. I. Stevenson, in charge of the Manitoba district of the Dominion Forestry Department, Tuesday.

The area affected has been that of Lac Du Bonnet, where no less than 66 outbreaks have occurred so far this season, 42 of which have been entirely extinguished, while the remaining 14 are under control.

Showing the value of the patrol work carried out by the Royal Canadian Air Force, Col. Stevenson said that no less than 47 fires were discovered on the first scouting trip.

The force, which consists of about 80 officers and men, patrolling the province has an area of 60,000,000 acres to cover and protest from devastation from its base at present located at Tuxedo Barracks, but

Companions-In-Arms Honor Colonel Mills

"My Friend and My Comrade" Says Archdeacon Davidson in Touching Reference—Spontaneous Tribute of Peterborough To Well Loved Soldier-Citizen.

BEAUTIFUL MILITARY SERVICE.

Slowly the funeral train crept up the slopes of Little Lake Cemetery toward the place where Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph Mills was laid to rest. It had moved through the centre and then, through the southern environs of the busy city at its busiest hour, probably the largest military funeral that has taken place in Peterborough. All along the route it had been saluted by raised hats, and many men, whose deportment under their civilian dress showed that they had been soldiers, paused to pay their respects.

An hour earlier there had come to pass as strange, as beautiful, and as solemn a touching back to life of the splendor and dignity of medievalism as the ceremonial annals of Canada can show. The scene was the beautiful St. John's Anglican Church, sitting in its old-world dignity on the eminence that commands the city. Rapidly but quietly the chapel began to fill as three o'clock approached. The setting was perfect medievalism in its repose and in its spirit of beauty for beauty's sake and for religion's sake.

The contrast between this picture, where the flag of the 57th Regiment drooped down from the wall to meet the drooping flag that draped the casket, and the scenes of eleven years ago when were buried those other men who had served their country in the Ypres salient was as inevitable as it was impressive. That battle picture was the picture of soldiers hastily buried where they fell, their blood-stained uniforms their only, their glorious, shrouds; the shrieking shells their firing party; the canopy of heaven their sanctuary; and the din of battle their only requiem.

But yesterday all was stateliness and that majestic repose which proceeds from good taste so impeccable that an ancient church has made it a kind of religion in itself, and a heart-stirring military display that has grown up through the centuries while British arms have been the world's most glorious defenders of the world's freedom. Many thousands of men who gave their lives on many fields for liberty and empire have been borne to their last bivouacs with just such impressive ceremony, and it is the inalienable right of every man who has served his country in war to have this homage paid.

Red sun filtering through stained windows; stately pillars that melted in the dimness into the graceful groined roof; a single light in the sanctuary where a lamp burned red; and behind all a gleaming cross—this was the setting in which officers and men of Canada's army and militia and citizens of Peterborough joined in the funeral service over the body of a man who had been prominent in the service of his King, his Church, and his City.

* * *

Strains of music stole into the church. They came as softly as the message of the incense-breathing flowers, then grew in volume until the chapel semed to tremble with the melody of the Dead March from Saul—the march of pity and triumph for the dead. The soul-stirring beat of the muffled drum sank into remote echoes and into silence.

There was a stir by the doorway. The firing party with arms reversed formed an avenue through which the flag-draped casket was borne, to be received by the officiating clergy.

More Than Fifty Detained Following Bomb Explosion.

AT U. S. EMBASSY.

BUENOS AIRES, May 19 (Canadian Press).—More than fifty persons of alleged Radical leanings are reported to have been detained by the police in raids on Communist and anarchist centres during the past 36 hours. The raids were a direct consequence of a bomb explosion outside the United States Embassy on Saturday night.

VISITS OLD REGIMENT.

Ven. Archdeacon Davidson Watches 57th on Parade and Speaks.

Ven. Archdeacon Davidson last night paid a visit to his old Regiment where the men were training in the Armouries. He was, while in Peterborough, Major and Chaplain in the 57th.

On invitation of Lieut.-Col. Gordon Hall, the Archdeacon addressed the assembled battalion, recalling the glories of the past and predicting a splendid future for the militia in Peterborough.

After telling of the worth of the militia training to young men, mentally, morally, and physically, he remarked on the regret with which he saw the annual government allowance cut down. "It is a great loss to the country," he said. "Just how great a loss people do not yet realize."

The Archdeacon urged the men on parade to keep in mind the records of the Regiment in peace and in war, and on these traditions to build well and strongly.

Tiger Of France Shows Shrewdness In Business

PARIS, May 19.— (United Press.)—The reputation of ex-Premier Clemeanceau as a shrewd business man has been further enhanced by a real estate deal just completed.

"The Tiger" yesterday sold his home for 915,000 francs. But under French law he cannot be evicted, although the house is sold, and he is remaining in the house at the modest annual rental of 3,400 francs a year, less than $100 at current exchange. He will occupy the entire ground floor and has the use of the grounds.

FIVE GRADUATES AT ST. JOSEPH'S NURSING SCHOOL

Annual Exercises Take Place in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum.

PRIZES PRESENTED.

Young Nurses Are Congratulated By Doctors and Other Speakers.

The Graduating Exercises of St. Joseph's Hospital Training School for Nurses, held last evening in the assembly hall of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, were among the most successful exercises of the kind in the history of the institution. The big hall held a crowd that filled it comfortably, the programme was interesting and of a pleasing length, and the decorations of the stage and of the rooms upstairs where refreshments were served, were exceptionally pretty. Some of the Sisters of St. Joseph, who also trained the children taking part in the musical programme, arranged the stage, which made a perfect bower of floral loveliness for the girl graduates of the Training School. Draperies of black and silver at the sides were festooned with garlands of artificial foliage and clusters of golden grapes. The arch, with its folded white draperies and colored electric lights, was also decorated with artificial flowers. The front of the stage was banked with palms and ferns and a great profusion of lovely pink roses, in baskets tied with rose pink tulle. The hothouse blooms alternated with big bowls of white trilliums, and the general effect was extraordinarily attractive.

The programme opened with the entrance of the girl graduates, preceded by the two ushers: Messrs. Gerald McFadden and William Mac-

BYRD PLANNING FLIGHT IN FALL TO SOUTH POLE

Leaves Spitzbergen To-day To Prepare For New Feat.

IN SEPTEMER.

U. S. N. Aviator Hopes To Fly From Amundsen's Former Base.

(By Arthur Lewn, United Press Staff Correspondent)

GREEN HARBOR, Spitzbergen, May 19—Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd, U.S.N., who flew from Spitzbergen to the North Pole and back by airplane, will attempt a flight to the South Pole, he announced here today.

He will start from New York by ship in the middle of September. Byrd will use two Fokker planes for the flight.

He will attempt to reach Framheim, which was used by Captain Roald Amundsen as a base for his expedition when he visited the South Pole and will start his flight from there.

If he reaches the South Pole, he plans to return north next Spring, and fly from Etah, Greenland, exploring the sector of the Arctic in that section west of Spitzbergen which he had hoped to visit this year.

Byrd's ship, The Chantier, was scheduled to leave King's Bay today for London.

MAIL CARRIER BADLY BURNED

Robert Logie's Clothing Ignited By Sparks From His Pipe.

FANNED BY WIND.

LINDSAY, May 19—Robert Logie, rural mail carrier on Route No. 4, was seriously burned yesterday afternoon while delivering mail. It is thought that while driving along the road he lit his pipe and sparks ignited his clothes. There was a stiff wind blowing at the time and his clothes were soon a mass of flames. Mr. Bert Courtney happened along in an auto and rushed the unfortunate man to the Ross Hospital. He is badly burned about the body and his clothes were nearly consumed by the flames.

PILSUDSKI'S STAR WANES WITH HIS REFUSAL TO SEIZE CONTROL OF POLAND ON FRIENDS' DEMAND

Deserted By Socialists Because He Declined To Become Dictator.

HAS NO PROGRAMME.

Revolution Denounced as Needless Shedding of Blood Assembly Meets May 28.

WARSAW, Poland, May 19 (Canadian Press).—Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, who overthrew the Witos Government, ousted the president of the republic after a military rising, and took control of the power, is suffering from exhaustion. Those close to him declare that all he needs is rest, and he himself, after several sleepless days and nights while fighting was going on in the streets of the capital, rather pathetically on Monday said that he could "sleep and sleep."

Pilsudski's star, for the moment at least, appears to be waning. The military hero, who by a swift stroke overthrew the government and captured the city, is too modest to allow his name to stand as a candidate for the presidency, to say nothing of listening to the demands of his friends and supporters that he declare himself dictator.

Deserted by Socialists

The Socialists and Radicals have deserted Poland's idol because their appeals for the dissolution of parliament and the establishment of Pilsudski in a dictatorship have failed. By reason of this failure to display the iron hand, the Socialists and Radicals are denouncing the revolution as a needless shedding of blood, something Pilsudski endeavored to avoid and over which he is most regretful. They argue that leadership from him can no longer be expected and it is becoming apparent that he has no political or economic programme prepared.

Assembly at Cracow

After an all day conference between acting President Rataj and the party leaders of the various factions, Cracow seems to have the best chance as the seat of the national assembly, to meet May 28, as tentatively agreed. A meeting at Cracow of the Populist Piast party, of which M. Witos is chairman, decided to join the opponents of Warsaw as the seat of the assembly, and M. Rataj, who is also leader of this party, is inclined to accept the wish of the majority of the deputies and senators.

The choice of Cracow represents a compromise between Warsaw and Posen, but it is thought to indicate that Pilsudski's position has not been improved. It is the national assembly which will elect the new president.

DETAILS OF ARMS LIMITATIONS ARE UNDER DISCUSSION TODAY BY PREPARATORY COMMISSION

Britain Urges Consideration of Peace Time Armies Only.

FRENCH VIEWPOINT.

Rapidity of Aid From Allies Must Be Reckoned With Say French.

GENEVA, May 19. — (United Press.)—The preparatory commission of disarmament meeting here under the auspices of the League of Nations to-day discuss the point where arms limitation should stop.

Viscount Cecil, representing Great Britain, urged that peace time standing armies only should be considered.

France insisted that in limiting peace time effectives, the armed strength of potential enemies and the ease of attack of each nation should be considered.

A committee was named to draw up a formula embracing the British and the French viewpoints.

Viscount Cecil maintained that the only armament capable of limitation was that which could be placed in the field immediately on a declaration of war.

France urged also consideration of the rapidity with which other States could come to the assistance of a nation attacked, in ordering reduction of standing forces.

Hugh Gibson, American representative, supported a proposal that a technical sub-committee establish what questions the commission as a whole could discuss and what were partly technical questions.

Gibson also pointed out the necessity of separating political and military aspects of all questions.

FALL OF FRANC TUESDAY TO NEW LOW PRICE MENACE TO CABINET AND AFFECTS DEBT SETTLEMENT

No Possibility of Payments on Present Basis Says Banker.

HEAVY SELLING.

Franc 35.35 to the Dollar—Worth Less Than Three Cents.

PARIS, May 19 (Canadian Press) The French franc, which has been falling steadily, slumped to a new prospect of a vigorous attack on low Tuesday and brought with it the the Briand cabinet when Parliament reconvenes on May 27.

The franc, it is felt in financial circles, is bearing the brunt of the general derangement of European finances, and is being affected by the uncertain political situation everywhere. The return of Finance Minister Peret from London today, when he had been expected to remain until Thursday, also had a discouraging effect since it was taken as indicating that nothing serious has been accomplished toward a debt settlement with Great Britain.

After the close of the bourse the franc was quoted at 35.35 to the dollar, a new low. The official quotation at the closing of the bourse had been 34.70 to the dolalr. The slump has caused a sensation since the French people feel that there is no real reason for the decline.

Foreign Selling

Foreign brokers are using all the French francs available to protect their own exchange and it is now suspected that some interests are selling francs short to a considerable extent in the expectation of making profits out of a movement which began in Amsterdam, Brussels and Rome to protect the Belgian franc and the lire by throwing the French franc on the market.

The actual requirements of French importers also has entered into the situation. A great many houses with obligations maturing in New York and London neglected to cover themselves in the hope that the Washington debt settlement would strengthen the franc. They are now finding it prudent to cover as quickly as possible.

The record slump of the franc, however, was not accompanied by signs of panic, since most brokers and financiers still cling to the belief that the franc will react.

No Debt Payment

"The franc must react, not only for our interest but in the interest of those to whom we owe money." a leading banker said. "There is no possibility of France paying off any war debts on the basis of 35 francs to the dollar or 172 to the pound."

The reaction in parliamentary circles is decidedly menacing to the Briand government. The Socialists and Radicals, always lukewarm to the present ministry, are loud in their criticisms of the Washington settlement and declare that the negotiations for payment of war debts with the franc at its present low rate is stupid.

Peret's Parleys

LONDON, May 19 — Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, and M. Peret, French minister of finance, yesterday continued their conversations on the French debt. It was announced that the ground had been thoroughly gone over in a spirit of cordiality, but that all points had not been settled.

M. Peret is returning to Paris today for a meeting of the French cabinet and hopes to return to London soon. In the meanwhile French and British financial experts are continuing their deliberations.

Coolidge Wants Action

WASHINGTON, May 19—While President Coolidge apparently wants the French debt agreement ratified at this session of Congress, it was stated Tuesday at the White House that his understanding was that leaders in both houses expected action by the French parliament at least before the senate acted.

The agreement is to be taken up in Paris on May 27 and some Republican congressional leaders indicated that final plans for consideration here would await developments there. They conceded that if the agreement is pressed in the Senate it would provoke lengthy debate and force postponement of Congress, first talked of for May 15, then for June 1, and now for June 15.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE OPENS ON SATURDAY

Double Header Will Be Played at Riverside Park For Opener.

James Stevenson (Riverside) Park has been secured for the opening game of the Peterboro Soft Ball League, and on Saturday afternoon at 2.30, Alec Kay, umpire-in-chief, will start the teams away. A double-header has been arranged for the opening day, but the teams participating will not be known until after a league meeting to-night. To-night's meeting is very important and all the teams are asked to be represented as the schedule for next week will be drawn up.

Secretary Walter Fitzgerald is still willing to receive another entry to round out a 12-team league, and any team contemplating entry is urged to have a representative present to-night at the Belmont Club at 7.30.

CRICKET NEWS

The executive of the Peterboro Cricket Club met last night and elected C. V. Elliott as vice-captain in succession to C. Conor-Fenton, who has now left the city.

The team for the match against Upper Canaad College Casuals in the Exhibition Grounds next Monday (Victoria Day) will be chosen from the following players, who are asked to notify the secretary as soon as possible if they are unable to play: F Dyer, R. Dyer, C. Thorpe, G. Coutts, J. Dunkerley, D. M. Hammond, C. V. Elliott, Dr. Hewett, G. R. Langley, R. N. Stuart, G. Monkman, W. E. Massey-Cooke, P. Manning.

Practice on Friday evening and a hard work out on Saturday afternoon.

4,000 Men Engaged.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 19 (Canadian Press). — Widely scattered forest and brush fires in Northern Minnesota were reported generally under control Tuesday. The State Executive Council voted an additional $15,000 for fire fighting.

Overnight efforts of a thousand men, most of them volunteers, coupled with a lessening of the wind's velocity, temporarily removed much of the north woods menace, but only a heavy rain can eliminate it completely.

HOUSE SPLITS

expressed regret that the Liberal party had not put into effect all its pledges at once. Premier King said that the Conservatives had found then that they could not unite their party on a consistently protective tariff. In 1923, the Conservative party had not moved any amendment to the Budget, although an opportunity to do so had been afforded. Instead they had left it to the Progressive party to put forward an amendment.

No Amendment in 1924

In 1924, there was again no amendment moved by the Conservatives. This time an amendment respecting the cost of living had been moved by the member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Woodsworth). The following day the Conservatives proposed an amendment, for a protective tariff, knowing full well that the Speaker could not accept it. In 1925, the Conservatives had moved another "milk and water affair," in the form of an amendment, expressing regret that taxation had not been reduced.

"There was not much milk and water in that," interjected a Conservative member.

"I should think there was," retorted the Prime Minister. "It was very thin milk and very poor water."

Tariff Advisory Board

Dealing with the tariff advisory board, Mr. King said that the Government had promised its appointment. But every time it had been mentioned it had been made quite clear that tariff in the last analysis had to be settled on the floor of Parliament and that the appointment of the board would in no way tie the hands of the Government. In its appointment of the board, the Government fulfilled its pledge.

"I would have preferred that before the changes were made in the automobile tariff that it could have been referred to the tariff board," stated Premier King.

"Who drove you? Who is Prime Minister?" were among the shouts and derisive applause from the Conservative benches.

It was not, Premier King continued, the fault of the Government that the board was unable to consider the automobile tariff. It tried for a month and a half to secure the strongest possible board and was unsuccessful in endeavoring to get a certain gentleman as chairman but was able later to secure the services of a gentleman who was held equally high in the public esteem "The Government did everything possible to get the board constituted in time to refer the automobile tariff to it. But when it couldn't we had to decide whether or not we should wait another year before making the changes in the automobile and motor truck duties."

The motor industry was different from other industries in that it had been the subject of debate in the House of Commons on several occasions. "It was generaly understood that there was to be a reduction in the motor duties. It was in the air, so to speak.

If we were to refer to the board it would mean that there could be no reduction in tariff for another year," said Mr. King.

Auto Sales Increase

If the Government had let the matter stand that way with the general knowledge that there was to be a reduction the people would have acted as they did before the agricultural implement duty was cut when they refused to buy til the announcement of the reduction was made. When it was made the sales were better than ever before and the industry had prospered. By acting promptly in respect to the motor tariff the industry itself as well as the country would prosper through the immediate sales. "We took the course which we believed to be in the interests of the motor industry and the country as a whole," said Mr. King. "Let it be understood that we are prepared to take the full responsibility for our actions."

There could be no mistake but that public opinion must govern in the long run and certainly no single act had ever been received with the same general popularity as the automobile tariff reduction.

Mr. King reviewed what he called the extravagant language of the honorable gentlemen opposite when the cut in argicultural implement duty was made. "It was the same kind of talk exactly as we have had to listen to in the last month." In 1922, the Conservatives had declared the Government was going to ruin the industry. Not much weight should be attached to the extreme statement now being made about the motor industry when everyone knew that the agricultural implement industry about which similar statements were made was now in a better position than ever before.

Mr. Meighen had then said that "Depression, alarm and dismay" were everywhere throughout the country, and there was "An anxious enervating suspense." This was when the last tariff changes were before the House.

Implement Prices Cut

Five months after the reduction in the tariff on agricultural implements, farm implements which had cost $928.50 at the time of the decrease had been reduced to $880.50. In January 1, 1926, these implements had been further reduced to $860.00.

A. De Witt Foster (Conservative, Hants-Kings) arose to ask a question, when he was interrupted from the Liberal side by cries of "Whoa, Whoa."

Finally Mr. Foster proceeded and asked the Prime Minister if he would give a comparison of prices in 1921 with those of 1925.

Premier King continued his speech, and declared that notwithstanding the prophecy of Conservatives when the tariff was reduced on farm implements, the number of employees had been increase from 5,206 in April 1, 1922, to 8,257 on April 1, 1926. Surely then the statement of Conservatives that farm implements employees would be thrown out of work, as a result of the tariff reduction, was unjustified.

More Implements Exported

The export trade of this Canadian industry had also increased considerably. While in the fiscal year 1923-24 these exports had totalled only $9,335,519, they increased to $13,628,342.

Premier King read the annual reports of several farm implement concerns, which, he stated, showed the prosperous condition of this country. After it had become apparent that the agricultural implement companies were going to improve, following the tariff reduction, Conservatives had expressed their concern for subsidiary concerns, especially the steel interests. He would like to point out, however, that following this decrease in duty common stock in this industry had increased in value. These whole facts, he declared, showed the incorrectness of the complaints and objections of Conservatives at the time that the reduction in tariff on farm implements was announced.

Better Trade Balance

Premier King expressed the belief it should be found that the same prosperous effect which had occurred following the reduction in tariff on agricultural implements would follow the cut in duty on motor cars.

Replying to statements made by Conservative members regarding the deterrent effect of the Government upon Canadian industries, Mr. King said that for the first time in the history of Canada the exports of manufactured goods exceeded the imports during the year 1925 by some $15,000,000.

Conservatives were fond of comparing conditions in United States and Canada to the detriment of the Dominion. "I would like to make it clear that we are in a better position than they are."

"Why do people go there" called out a Conservative.

"Because honorable gentlemen opposite advise them to and I will go further and say that hundreds of thousands would have come to this country instead of going elsewhere if it had not been for utterances of honorable gentlemen opposite. Mr. King declared that Canada had actually a better trade balance than the United States.

The Government, said Mr. King, had been sustained in its present policy on several divisions in the House. After tonight's vote, he predicted, "the country will take very little stock in any talk about this Government not functioning, not having the support of the House, and not having the right to carry on."

The Prime Minister went on to review the Budget and the financial result of the Government's administration during the past year.

Income Tax Cut

He gave the details of the actual tariff reductions, the reductions in the income tax and the excise taxes. It was pointed out that a man with an income of $4,000 a year with a wife and three children paid in 1921 $76 income tax. Last year he would pay $40, but with the reductions announced in the Budget he was entirely exempt from Federal income tax. In all, it was estimated that the people of Canada had been relieved of $25,000,000 of taxation.

In view of what were the facts regarding Canada's present prosperity, Mr. King asked the House to see if there was any justification for the statements made by the leader of the Opposition. Mr. King proceeded to quote expressions from his speeches such as that Canada was "stalemated and semi-paralyzed" and that "Our life blood is leaking out." Members of the Conservative party, said the Premier, had got into the habit of making assertions which were not correct and were doing infinite harm to the country. Most of these statements were mere words. A typical example was the declaration that the Canadian National Railway was in "the mire and the swamp."

BAY CONFERENCE MEETS NEXT WEEK

Clergy From Large District To Meet in Kingston Church.

KINGSTON, May 19.—The Bay of Quinte conference will open in Sydenham St. church May 26th, and it is stated that one of the unique features in connection with the conference is the large percentage of former Methodist congregations incorporated in this conference. It is stated that this is about the only case where there are so many Methodist charges in a conference.

The conference takes a great amount of territory. The western boundary is just west of Whitby, and close to Scarboro and extends up as far as Peterboro; the eastern boundary is Leeds county. It is estimated that 550 delegates will be there.

The records show 260 pastoral charges in the conference and of that number there are fifty former Presbyterian and three Congregational churches which have entered union.

WORK ON ROADS.

Grader and Roller Put in Use on Campbellford Streets.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19.—The road machinery was put to work Monday for the first time this season and the surface of Front street is being repaired. The same men are in charge of the machinery as last year, Robert Haig being engineer and George Whittam fireman of the road roller and George Third operating the grader.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

LIBERALS OF NORTH HASTINGS RE-ORGANIZED FOR CAMPAIGN

No Candidate Nominated as Election Date Not Yet Known.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Hon. Nelson Parliament Is Chief Speaker at Madoc Meeting.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

MADOC, May 19.—Whenever the next Provincial election is held the Liberals of the North Riding of Hastings wil be found ready and their rank will not be weakened by the defection of a faction known either as the U.F.O. or Progressives. There wil be no more triangular contests if the programme that was arranged here Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Liberal party in the Legislative riding is carried out.

It is so long since that organization has had an annual meeting prior to the gathering of Tuesday that the brightest memory in the gathering could not more than approximate the date, which was variously placed at eight or nine years Liberals of—Take One .... ago. But yesterday the stalwarts of the party emerged from their long sleep infused with their former vigor and their reviving spirits were fanned into enthusiasm by the eloquent address that was delivered by Nelson Parliament, party organizer for the province, who held out all kinds of hope for better political days to come.

Officers Elected

The annual gathering was divided into two sections. At one o'clock a meeting of the leaders was held and re-organization completed. E. C. Tufts of Madoc, who has held the presidency all these years without challenge, occupying the chair. In a brief opening address, he stated that he had called the meeting for the purpose of discussing the question as to whether or not a legislative candidate should be selected at this time. Whoever that candidate might be, or whenever he was nominated, Mr. Tufts said he should be heartily supported. The Liberals would do well to take a leaf from the book of their opponents, who might disagree in the interval between elections, but once their man was fairly in the field they forgot all their differences and rallied to his aid.

The following officers were then chosen:

President—E. C. Tufts of Madoc.

Secretary—W. N. Gilroy of Coe Hill.

Treasurer — John McKenzie of Madoc.

First Vice-President—Lorne Read of Bancroft.

Second Vice-President—John Marshall of Stirling.

Third Vice-President—Tom Laycock of Marmora.

The above officers were chosen from different sections of the riding so that every part is represented. They will constitute the executive and were given power to select a vice-president for every municipality in the riding.

No Candidate Nominated

When the question of nominating a candidate was taken up there was a wide difference of opinion manifested. John Marshall of Stirling, who is a brother of Hon. D. A. Marshall, the Liberal organizer for the Dominion, said that he believed it would be a mistake to put up a man at this time. It was not known whether the election would be held this year or next, and it was better not to have a candidate too long in the field before he knew anything about the policy of the Opposition.

Fraser Aylesworth of Madoc was in favor of a nomination. The next should be a straight party fight. There are Liberals who wil not vote a Progressive and Progressives who will not vote Liberal now, but there are Conservatives who will do so. Premier Ferguson is afraid to announce his policy on the important questions of the day, and Mr. Aylesworth believes that the Conservatives are ashamed of him, and ought to be.

Mr. Parliament's Advice .

Nelson Parliament advocated the nomination of a candidate at once. Two or three weeks is not long enough for a campaign. A nominee should be in the field for months and busy all the time. Mr. Parliament made it clear that it was useless to put up a man unless the organization got out and worked for him.

Secretary Gilray and B. O. Lott, the latter of Rawdon Township, were opposed to a nomination; their chief reason was that the meeting was not sufficiently large and representative. It had in the first place not been widely enough advertised and at such a busy season the farmers could not turn out.

President Tufts was in favor of putting up a candidate. The time is all too short and an election may be sprung on the people at any time, on a month's notice, even if it was not this year.

Put it to a Vote.

In order to get the question before the meeting Mr. Marshall moved, seconded by C. Bedel of Rawdon, that the nomination of a candidate be deferred until the call of a general convention by the president and secretary. This carried without dissent.

Mr. Parliament's Address

This concluded the business session and a mass meeting was then held with Mr. Parliament as the chief speaker. He started out by offering an explanation of the defeat of the party in this riding at the last election. The number of votes polled was 6120 and 4417 were unpolled. The majority of those who stayed at home were Liberals. Put in an organization that will get out all the votes and the Conservatives can be defeated. The Liberal party does not lack leaders or policies but what it does need is more work.

The Government at Toronto with 77 members is 2500 votes short of a majority. Three cornered fights weakened the forces of the Liberals in 1923 and now the Redistribution Bill has increased the urban and reduced the rural constituencies.

Premier Ferguson never makes a move until he assures himself how it will affect the vote of the Conservative party and this is one reason why he should be defeated.

Other Reasons

Other reasons why the present Provincial government should be opposed, as given by Mr. Parliament, was first of all their extravagance. The total expenditure for the Province in 1905 was $6,000,000 and last year it was $151,000,000. The timber limits were sold not by competition but by selection. The grants to New Ontario were not budgetted.

Too Many Jobs.

Mr. Parliament declared that Premier Ferguson holds too many jobs. The office of Prime Minister of Ontario should be enough for any one man, but Mr. Ferguson is Minister of Education and of late Minister of Forests and Mines as well. Neither of these departments can receive the proper attention under such an arrangement. The Educational system is not getting the thought and care it should and the shortening of the University course without consulting the leading educationists of the country was a mistake. Mr. Parliament blamed the voters for the misgovernment of the province, as he told them they did not take sufficient interest in politics. The only way in which it was possible to secure the best public service was by electing good men.

Mr. Parliament said that the Government was now trying to deceive the voters by telling them that a start was to be made in paying off the public debt. This was the Government that had in three years a total deficit of $128,000,000 and had in that time been more extravagant than the U.F.O. Administration had ever been. There are only two ways in which the debt can be paid off—by increasing the taxes or by reducing the expenditure. The taxes are now higher than they ever were and there is little hope of the Government ever growing economical.

Liberals Are Trustworthy.

Mr. Parliament believes that if the Liberals of Ontario are returned to power they can be trusted to reduce the expenditure, for they are the same as the Liberals at Ottawa who are giving the Dominion an economical and business-like administration. If the extravagance at Toronto does not stop taxes will rise still higher and unless the people rise in their might and call a halt things will go from bad to worse.

Mr. Parliament praised the Liberals as shown by thier record in England and in Canada. He agreed with what had been said by a former speaker, that the Conservatives were becoming less bitterly partisan, but this was true only of the rank and file. The leaders are more fanatic than ever. The Premier did not make an announcement at London last week because he was not sure how the people felt.

Mr. Parliament gave the people some practical advice on how to organize for a campaign and explained how, by the use of specially prepared blank books and forms, a close record is to be kept of the standing of every polling sub-division in Ontario so that when a candidate visits these he will know just what is required of him. He concluded with an eloquent tribute to Canada as a nation and urged his hearers to rouse themselves and by electing a Liberal government in Ontario do thier duty to their country, to their province, to their nation and to themselves.

West Durham Representative.

W. J. Bragg, M.L.A., West Durham, a position that he has held since 1919, also made a brief address, advising the Liberals of North Hastings to organize every corner of the riding.

Represented By Minister.

The present representative for North Hastings is Hon. J. R. Cooke, Minister without portfolio in the Ferguson cabinet, and member of the Hydro Commission. There was a rumor in circulation yesterday that Mr. Cooke, who has been in office for the past 13 years, will retire at the end of his present term on account of his private affairs.

In the Federal field, North Hastings finds itself a part of the Peterboro-Hastings riding now represented at Ottawa by Dr. Embury, of Bancroft.

PADLOCK THEATRES.

Neglected Collection of Amusement Tax.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 19.—(Canadian Press.)— Acting under orders from the provincial authorities in Toronto, Inspector Tom McLaughlin, head of the City Police Morality Department, yesterday revoked the license of the Capitol Theatre, Queen street, near Bank, and ordered the place closed.

At noon on Saturday the same action was taken by the inspector against the Francais Theatre. The action has grown out of the neglect of the theatre managements to properly collect amusement tax, the police state.

Provincial officers of the Cinematograph Department of Toronto, have been in Ottawa recently.

OBITUARY.

MRS. CHARLES MOSHER.

STIRLING, May 19.—The death of Mrs. Lena Mosher, widow of the late Charles Mosher, occurred on Sunday morning. The deceased suffered a stroke last Monday, and never regained consciousness after. Two daughters, Mrs. Ferguson of Oshawa and Mrs. Bird of Smithfield are left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother. There are also several brothers and sisters to mourn.

The funeral was held on Tuesday from her late residence, John street. The Rev. C. W. Barrett of St. Paul's United church assisted by Rev. R. Simpson of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church had charge.

LEVI PAYNE.

LAKEFIELD, May 19.— The death occurred suddenly yesterday afternoon of Levi Payne, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Payne of Dummer, at the advanced age of 83 years. Mr. Payne was born in the township of Dummer where he resided until about 35 years ago, when he retired and built a home in Douro on the outskirts of the village. He was well known and highly respected throughout the entire community, being affectionately known as Uncle Levi to an immense circle of friends.

He was of a remarkably genial disposition and was an ardent and successful fisherman, being a familiar figure on Stoney Lake, where he was often seen in his canoe trolling for lunge, having a unique record for successful catches. Up to the end he scorned a skiff preferring to paddle his canoe. He was devoted to hunting also and until the past few years was an active and zealous curler, being one of the keenest members of the club. For the past three years he had been an honorary member only, but retained his interest to the last. He was the oldest member of the colts' rink which figured so prominently in the Peterborough bonspiel of 1922.

Mr. Payne was a charter member of the Lakefield Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters. He was a Bible Christian in his youth but entered the union with the Methodist church in 1884. He was a staunch Conservative in politics.

His wife, who was Mary Anne Bickell, predeceased him about four months ago. One daughter, Mrs. Arthur Jory of Ottawa, survives. His younger daughter, Mrs. John Batteril, passed away 16 months ago. He is also survived by three brothers, Joseph of Lakefield, Paul of Dummer and Nathan of Lakefield, and four sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Hamblin of Peterboro, Mrs. Sarah Hamblin of Dummer, Mrs. Mary Rowley of Paisley, and Mrs. Sam Spence of Lakefield. A brother George and a sister, Mrs. Caroline White predeceased him.

The Payne family holds a unique record for longevity and the five sons and five daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Payne were all alive when the youngest member of the family, Mrs. Spence, was more than sixty years of age.

The funeral will be held at 2.00 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, leaving at 2.30 for Lakefield cemetery where interment will be made The Rev. S. A. Kemp will conduct the service.

BURNBRAE Y.P.S.

Members of Stirling Branch Guests at Society Meeting.

BURNBRAE, May 19.—On Friday evening of last week the Young Peoples' Society of the Presbyterian church, Stirling, visited the Y.P.S. of St. Andrew's church, Burnbrae. There was a large attendance of both societies, the basement being filled. M. Grant Thain, the president of Burnbrae Society, welcomed the visitors in short address.

Mr. William Anderson of Stirling presided. A splendid programme was given as follows:

Devotional exercises— Rev. R. Simpson.

Solo—Miss Ruth Gibson.

Musical reading — Miss Thelma Green.

Solo—Mr. Arthur Duncan.

Choruses—By a number of young men.

Topic—"The Value of the Christian Church", by Miss Frieda Matthews.

Piano duet—Miss Alice Hume and Miss Spencer.

Closing remarks by Mrs. Rollins.

Hymn and Mizpah Benediction.

Burnbrae Y.P.S. arranged for a contest after which refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour was spent.

NAME IS CHANGED.

Dominion Rubber Co., Ltd. New Name of Canadian Consolidated.

By Supplementay Letters Patent, issued by the Secretary of State for Canada, May 11, 1926, the name of the "Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company Limited,' 'Montreal, was changed to "Dominion Rubber Company Limited." This change of name does not change the personnel or policy of the Company but it brings the operations of the parent company and its General Purchasing, Manufacturing and Selling Departments under the common name, "Dominion Rubber Company Limited."

A coresponding change of name will be made in the Sales Divisions of the Company, the "Dominion Rubber System (Ontario) Limited" being changed to "Dominion Rubber Company (Ontario) Limited," thus linking the parent company more directly with the selling and distribution of the "Dominion" Rubber Products.

HIKE ON NEW DIET.

From Winnipeg to Vancouver on Foot.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 19 (Canadian Press). — The value of uncooked fruit and nuts as a human diet and the health-giving qualities of life in the open will be demonstrated by Frank R. Turnley of Winnipeg, who has started on a "hike" for Vancouver, B.C. On his tramp to the coast, Turnley proposes to sleep outdoors and eat nothing but fruits and nuts.

C.N.R. EARNINGS.

MONTREAL, Que., May 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ended May 14. 1926 were $4,966,583 as compared with $4,133,287 for the same week of 1926, an increase of $833,296 or twenty per cent.

DOURO TRUCKER KEPT VERY BUSY

Prophecies of Failure in His Enterprise Are Not Borne Out.

ALWAYS WORKING.

DOURO, May 19.—When Bart Allen purchased a four-speed, 1½ ton truck in the spring of 1925 there were many who said he was making a mistake and that with trucks aplenty in Peterborough and two or three in Warsaw a local truck would get nothing to do. Such prophecies are always made of any one who sets out to blaze new trails. But the summer and autumn of 1925 proved that there is more than enough work to keep a truck busy. Although his charges are moderate Mr. Allen made a financial success and is seriously considering the purchase of a large truck later in the season.

Starting at 5.30 in the morning Mr. Allen draws two milk routes of twenty-three patrons to the Warsaw cheese factory, the last load unloaded and was starting on his second at 7 o'clock. In the evening he covers one route again, bringing whey to the patrons.

A day's work he mentions was drawing the two milk routes, then going to Campbellford for a load of furniture and taking it to Peterboro for a family moving there, then going to Norwood for a load of wood for the same family and winding up with hauling the load of whey.

On another day after finishing his two milk routes he took a load of hogs to the Peterborough packing plant, took three loads of wheat from a farmer's place eight or nine miles from Peterborough to Peterborough, then a load of peas from the same place to Indian River, then a load of grain from near Indian River to Warsaw to be ground into chop and finished off with delivering his whey and then he called it a day.

He hauled shingle bolts from Dummer to the Staples shingle mill, and hauled cement from Lakefield for the new dam at the mill.

On one occasion he took two loads of calves from Burleigh to Roseneath, a long trip with roads near Roseneath hard to travel on account of deep sand.

He took huckleberry pickers to Kosh Lake. Any one who has ever ventured a car over the ten or twelve miles from the main road towards the lake knows the trip it would be for a truck. Of this trip he says "never again!"

He has been four days and three nights without sleep and had to take an hour of sleep on the fourth night before he could continue to carry on. He has unloaded hogs at midnight at the packing plant in Peterborough.

He took loads of hunters to the point of Long Lake from whence they paddled to their hunting grounds.

In all his travellling last season Mr. Allen was fortunate in never having an accident.

This season Mr. Allen is again drawing his two routes to Warsaw factory and will no doubt be buster than ever. Much credit is due Mr. Allen for his enterprise.

On a great many occasions jolly loads of young people have been carried on the truck to ball games, dances, etc., so it furnishes a source of fun to the young people.

WEDNESDA, MAY 19, 1926.

THE DATE OF THE ELECTION.

It is argued by the St. Catharines Standard that the fact that Premier Ferguson did not announce during his London speech last week that by-elections are to be called in the seven constituencies now unrepresented is proof that there will be a general election in the autumn.

That does not necessarily follow.

The Government having deprived these ridings of a voice in the proceedings of the last session, may not hesitate to allow them to go through another session without representation.

The failure of Mr. Ferguson to even mention these constituencies indicates that he was well aware of the fact that any explanation he might make of the Government's failure to bring on the by-elections before the last session would necessarily be regarded by the electors of the Province generally as a decidedly lame one.

However, the opinion that the Government will go to the country in October continues to gain weight, and the political opponents of the administration, judging by the preparations they are making for a campaign, are not going to be caught napping should the official announcement be held back until late in the summer.

TONIGHT'S BROADCAST.

The fact that the concert to be given by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir tonight has been selected by the United Press as one of the five best offerings in the whole continental broadcast this evening, will give Peterboro even more publicity out of the broadcasting of the choir's programme than was hoped for when the matter was first broached.

The Male Voice Choir and those citizens who have subscribed to the fund for meeting the expenses involved in putting tonight's concert "on the air" deserve community thanks for their enterprise in seeking this modern method of publicity.

The broadcasting of this programme may give weight to a demand that has already been voiced by a number of citizens who believe that the time is ripe for the establishment in Peterboro of a broadcasting station that will put the city before the vast invisible audience that nightly "listens in."

Most Canadian cities now have such stations and are gaining thereby a splendid amount of advertising, and among a number of local radio enthusiasts there is a feeling that Peterboro should be represented among among the cities which "take the air" at regular intervals.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR OUTINGS.

Following up the Examiner's plea of yesterday for Peterboro people to take more advantage of the opportunities for delightful outings offered to them at their very doors, it may be said that a surprisingly large proportion of the city's population has seldom or never visited some of these nearby beauty spots.

There are many citizens who haven't visited Chemong Park or Stoney Lake in years; there may be not a few who have never seen either of these famous resorts to which visitors from distant points flock by the thousands each summer.

Both points are easily accessible; transportation facilities are excellent, and there is no reason why many more of the people of Peterboro should not get some benefit from the proximity of such splendid summer resorts.

In visiting Stoney Lake, for instance, a daily round trip by rail and steamer is possible throughout the summer months, giving visitors an unusual opportunity to see all parts of the lake and secure a close-up view of many of the summer homes, inasmuch as the steamer makes many calls during the day's run.

This is a trip Peterboro people should know more about, and there are many other chances of getting acquainted with the lake country in this district that should not be allowed to slip away this summer.

CANADIANS IN GRAND OPERA.

The recent participation in a recital in Montreal of five members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, all of them native Canadians, must attract attention to the ever-mounting list of singers, originally of this Dominion, who have made their marks in grand opera and upon the concert platform throughout the world, says the Brockville Recorder and Times.

It is not so very many years since little Emma Lajeunesse, the "Chambly Nightingale," became almost overnight Madame Albani, the favorite of the British and Continental opera houses and the protegee of at least one of the crowned heads of Europe. She it was who, by blazing a new trail for Canadian singers and by proving that this country can produce artists the equal of those contributed by older and more cultured lands, prepared the way for the young compatriots who have followed in her footsteps in such amazingly large numbers.

Until Albani's triumph Canada had not given to the world of music a single outstanding artist. Since then many of her sons and daughters have won deserved recognition in Europe, Great Britain and the United States and have brought added fame to their native land. Besides the names with which Canadians are more familiar in this connection, those of Edmund Burke, Edward Johnson, Jeanne Gordon and Florence Easton, all of them belonging to the Metropolitan Opera Company, there are many others, both upon this continent and abroad, who have risen to assume leading places in grand opera and still others who are rapidly forging ahead.

We are constantly hearing of further additions to the list. Canadian boys and girls go to Europe for study. Except by their immediate friends, they are soon forgotten. But after a few months have passed, the word comes from London or from Paris or from Barcelona that they have found small parts in a grand opera company and before many more months have elapsed they have risen to leading roles with established reputations as singers. The fact that grand opera is one of the most difficult of all professions in which to succeed, that the qualifications demanded of a singer are of the most exacting order, makes their success all the more meritorious and all the more gratifying to their fellow-countrymen.

A PATRIOTIC JOB FOR CANADIAN NEWSPAPERS.

If Canadian newspapers so willed it they could transfer the Florida boom to New Ontario.

How?

By printing the actual facts.

Here it would rest on something more stable than climate and bathing beaches—1,500 miles of mineral lands with many potential Hollingers, coal finds, apparently extensive oil finds, Kaolin mountains, unlimited quantities of potash in our pegmatites, iron ore ranges, iron ore sands, nearly all the world's nickel—not to speak of the expansion of the print paper industry made possible by unrivalled water powers and vast quantities of raw material—if the Government's figures are right.

In five years the world will assuredly talk of New Ontario's developed wealth. New Ontario "the Canadian barrier," will come into its own as the richest part of the Dominion.

The New York Times is to get its newsprint in 1928 from Smoky Falls—$25,000,000 is to be spent in development there and at Devil's Rapids. The picture of Smoky Falls used by Dr. Goodwin in his mining lectures was taken by a Port Arthur man last year—the place is so out of the way the Government didn't have a picture of its own.

The New Helen Mine at Michipicoten is the biggest deposit of iron in Canada. Its first tunnel is 900 feet long and the Sault Star is informed by the Algoma Steel Co. the ore in sight now amounts to 100,000,000 tons.

A mining man who has read the manuscript of the Government's geological report on the silver area north of the Soo, tells the Star it will prove a "big boost" for Algoma. It is now being printed. Our capable Minister of Mines writes the Star that he is sending out two geological parties to Algoma, and several others elsewhere. Also the Government will explore the Mattagami and Moose Rivers for coal.

An engineer for one of the most successful of the big companies tells the Star that "it is the feeling of mining engineers that north-western Ontario will see great mining activity inside of two years.' New Ontario is only listening now to trained men.

Of course, it sounds far fetched to say that $2,000,000 in options have been given in the Michipicoten-Goudreau area, an unknown new field, in less than a year;

Or to record that a Chicago syndicate is to spend $4,000,000 in developing power at Michipicoten Falls without having a contract to deliver a horse power. What do these astute Americans know that makes them so confident?

New Ontario, six times the size of Old Ontario, only needs to be known to get the money that will make it the rich uncle of the Dominion.

New Ontario prays that our own Canadian people will wake up to the opportunities now wide open for them in the North.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

"KNOW UNTO GOD."

It is announced that a number of great blocks of Canadian granite are about to be shipped from Canada to France to take their place in the eight monuments that are to be erected on the French and Belgian battle fields to commemorate the work of the Canadian troops during the war. These monuments will be erected on sites in the localities where the Canadian forces did their most arduous fighting. The sites have already been carefully prepared, and are impressive even as they exist, without the monuments.

Nothing is more impressive now to the visitor to the French battle fields than the intelligence and liberality which are being shown on the British side, (by which term we include not only the Mother Country but all the overseas dominions) in the care of memorial places and cemeteries in France and Belgium. The number of the British cemeteries on the battle fields of Europe is almost incredible. In the Ypres sector alone, namely within twenty or thirty miles of that shell-shattered city, there are 245 British cemeteries, and some of them are extensive. The largest contains 12,000 British graves. One-quarter of a million British soldiers were killed in the fighting around Ypres. The British cemeteries there and throughout France are all laid out and maintained with the utmost care. The treatment is uniform. Each cemetery is surrounded by a handsome low wall or curb, is traversed by well-kept gravelled walks, and the spaces between the graves are well turfed. The head stones over the graves are uniform, and equally spaced apart. Each is a white stone about three feet in height, and a foot in width. No distinction is made between officer and private, identified soldier or unidentified body. Each body has its own head stone. Where the name of the officer or soldier was known, it is engraved on the head stone, together with the name of his regiment; and the regimental crest is also engraved on the stone. In the case of a Canadian, the Maple Leaf is engraved. Where the body of the fallen man was not identified, the head stone bears at the top the words: "A Soldier of the Great War." Beneath that a cross, and beneath the cross the three words, "Known Unto God."

It is a terribly pathetic thing that in many of the cemeteries in France a majority of the head stones rise over the bodies of those who are "Known Unto God" only.

But it is a very fine thing to note the reverence which has been shown throughout all France and Belgium by the representatives of the British people in taking up and burying reverently the bodies of all British soldiers, whether known or unidentified.

The stones which are now being shipped from Canada are being sent there to complete the fine work of paying tribute to the efforts which were made in France by the British peoples for the vindication of the freedom of civilization. They help to consummate the noble work which is being done in the cemeteries in memory of the men who fell.—Ottawa Journal.

STATE-OWNERSHIP—A MENACE.

Sir: It is customary for people to suppose that there is something magical about a government's borrowing power and this anodyne is used to quiet the fears of those who do not know any better. Now the facts are these. A government borrows money, and invests it in state enterprises which may include, as in Ontario, what were formerly private enterprises. It pays the interest on the borrowed capital whether the undertaking is successful or not. There is no liquidation risk to the lenders to a government. If the undertaking is not a success, the taxpayers of the province have to go on paying interest and sinking fund on the borrowed capital all the same. There is no compromise with creditors. In private enterprises conducted by limited liability companies; if the undertaking does not pay it ends in a liquidation proceeding between the company and the creditors. The loss is nothing to the taxpayers of the province, to the consumers or to those who have no direct or indirect connection with the undertaking at all. The assumption, therefore, that a government's power to borrow removes all difficulties, liabilities and uncertainties, is just the reverse of the truth. It perpetuates them. And further—if for one unforeseen reason or another the contract made is not a fair or workable one, it is often possible in the case of a contract with a private company, to have that contract revised and made workable. But not with Hydro or with any other form of State-ownership.

Hydro has an all-powerful monopoly and you will pay what you are told to pay or go to the wall. This is, I think, the real reason why State-ownership, except for military or other special emergency reasons, has proven a harassing burden as in the case of the railways of Australia and, for that matter, of our own Canada, too. If the C.P.R. cannot pay its creditors that is its own look-out, but if our National railway system is millions and millions behind the people of Canada have got to pay it, and even every child in the Dominion has got to suffer as a consequence. And, when in the face of deficits the unfortunate public have to go on and build other railways, etc., they can only be likened to the ass that finally broke down under the last straw and not being able to liquidate its difficulties had to give up the ghost or, in the case of a nation, to go night on working and sweating, without hope of relief. And the little power which the people have in the face of these inescapable liabilities, as a sort of ironic recompense for their mistake, is seen in the case of Alberta coal transportation to Ontario.

I will not dilate upon the fact that a large and entirely innocent part of the hard-working public may be mulcted to pay for railways and extensions, for sections which suddenly develope great political power. For we all know that any government and any political party will sacrifice a people if it is necessary to do so in order to retain, or to obtain power. Unfortunately for the taxpayer, he finds that while he is expected to run his own business, state-ownership depends on him, and makes him pay taxes for general state-ownership purposes, which cripple him. It must appear strange, even to the least reflecting mind that with all the enthusiasm for collective or state-ownership and management, it is the individual and not the state—that has to pay for it all. A good scheme ought to be able to at least run itself and not to depend in the last analysis wholly, as in the case of state-ownership, upon everything but state-ownership.

—J. H. Burnham.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, May 18.—The usual slowing down a little in Tuesday's market, but prices steady. Export buyers filled all orders for this week's shipment from yesterday's market, shipping 1,100 cattle for Liverpool, and 200 for Manchester. About the same number will be required for next week.

Domestic butcher demand was a little slower, following yesterday's heavy run, but a good clean-up is in sight for the week-end markets.

Calves firm with this week's lighter run.

Sheep and lambs steady to firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices made a quick rally to-day on account of news of widespread unfavorable European crop conditions. Previously the wheat market here was showing a decided downward trend.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish, to 3-8c higher, with corn ¼c to 5-8c up; oats at ¼c decline to ¼c gain, and provisions showing five to 15 cents advance.

Word of disastrous floods in the agricultural regions of France and Italy received particular attention here on the part of wheat traders and did much to reverse an early decline in quotations. General deterioration of European crops was also indicated owing to long continued abnormal weather. Enlargement of export demand for North American wheat accompanied the advices of the unfavorable crop outlook abroad, purchases for trans-Atlantic shipment to-day being estimated at 500,000 bushels.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices reached new low levels during the early trading to-day, when the May future touched $1.50 and the July $1.47, but part of the loss was made up before the close, which ranged from unchanged to 7-8c lower. May, showing the heaviest decline, closed at $1.51 1-8; July at $1.48 5-8, and October at $1.30 3-4.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK.

WINNIPEG, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Arrivals, 760 sale cattle and calves and 665 hogs. Six cars of stock are due to arrive to-day.

Trading was fairly active and prices steady. Desirable yearling steers and heifers sold around $8. Stockers and feeders were scarce and prices were firm.

Hogs continued on an upward trend. Thick smooths sold at $14. There were no receipts of sheep and lambs.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, May 18 (Canadian Press). — There is no change in Canadian egg markets to-day.

CURB CHEESE PRICES.

MONTREAL, May 18 (Canadian Press).—On the local curb market to-day there were 1,000 packages of creamery butter and 700 boxes cheese offered. All the No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter sold at 32½c per lb.; No. 2 at 31½c per lb., and No. 3at 30½c, while the cheese brought 17½c per lb., delivered here.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, May 18 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.85 7-8.
Sterling cables, $4.86 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 18 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for all lines of grain on the Montreal market to-day was of a very limited character. There was an improvement in the demand for Manitoba spring wheat and sales of 80,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern were made at 14c per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, and several loads of No. 3 Northern at 5¼c over, c.i.f. Montreal. Sales of 25,000 bushels of No. 2 Canadian Western oats were made at 10c per bushel over the Winnipeg May option. Prices for undergrade Canadian Western oats were reduced ½ cent per bushel.

The butter market was without any new feature to note, business being quiet and prices unchanged. The receipts were 1,277 packages.

The export trade in cheese continued slow, but prices were fully maintained. Receipts were 6,422 boxes.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BABSON'S ADVICE

(From a letter "to the sons and daughters of my clients," by Roger W. Babson.)

"The fun of life is in growing rather than in possessing. Every successful man will tell you this. We really enjoy only the things which we ourselves make or earn.

When you get married be content to start in a humble way, as your parents did. Don't try to start where your parents now are.

Honesty is not only the best policy, but it is the foundation of civilization.

The time to save money is when you are making it.

Keep out of debt. Be generous in giving; but avoid accommodation loans, and never endorse.

Boost the other fellow and he will boost you, as we are usually repaid with our own coin—and judge not.

Don't try to buck either the Ten Commandments or the Multiplication Table."

NORGE SEVERELY DAMAGED WHILE SETTLING ON ICE

Almost Wrecked According To Reports of Some of Her Crew.

HAD LOST HER WAY.

Blimp Was Coated With Ton of Ice—Radio Muffled.

NOME, Alaska, May 19 (Canadian Press).—While word came from Seattle Tuesday that the first steamship of the season to navigate Bering Sea will come north a week earlier than usual, dismantling of the dirigible Norge was reported proceeding apace at Teller, 75 miles from this city.

The Norge, persons visiting Teller said, was so badly damaged in landing there after she arrived Thursday from a trip over the North Pole, that some of her crew declared she had been wrecked.

Crew Slid Down Ropes.

The dirigible, these informants declared, had lost her way when she sighted Port Clarence, on which Teller is situated. A wind, called a funnel formation, caught her and she was carried toward the mountains. Some gas was released, and as the dirigible settled, some of the crew slid down ropes to the ice of Grantley harbor, an arm on Point Clarence, and held her.

Most of the damage done, it was stated, was caused by a gust that caught her just as she was beginning to rest upon the ice.

The radio, which the airship carried, was coated with ice and did not work for some time after the Norge was brought down.

Carried Ton of Ice.

The Norge carried about a ton of ice when she reached Teller, more than a hundred pounds of this weight, caught from the Arctic atmosphere, clinging to the antennae of her wireless.

The ice of Port Clarence, just beginning to let go for the summer, was rugged, but soft. Over this surface the Norge was pushed and bumped by the wind for 350 feet, it was said. This occurred after deflation was well advanced and while the men were hanging as heavily as they could to the ropes.

The snow on the beach hard by was eight feet deep.

Predictions that the Norge would be shipped to the States within a fortnight were heard yesterday.

Rushing Films.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 19 (Canadian Press). — The airship Norge, A. A. Bennett and A. J. Hufford, aviators, declared here yesterday, was badly damaged when brought to anchor at Teller, Alaska, Thursday night.

Bennett and Hufford, in two planes, each with a picture party, arrived here Monday with Norge films that are being rushed to the States.

Bought Accident Policy After Dream Of Accident

LINDSAY, May 19—The condition of Roy Sandercock, the C. N.R. brakeman, who lost his left foot in a railway accident on Saturday, remains about the same. He is at present in the Ross Hospital, but is too weak at present to enable an X-ray to be taken in order to ascertain the exact nature of the injuries in the right leg. It is understood that he sustained a compound fracture of the limb, and the heel is crushed.

Some time ago the injured man had a dream that he was in an accident and suffered the loss of both feet. He worried considerably over the dream, and finally decided to take out an accident policy for $5,000.

FIVE YEARS FOR THEFT.

MONTREAL, May 19 (Canadian Press). — Mike Miller, alias Elcovitch, who was arrested in Edmonton, Alta., on a warrant issued in Montreal, charging him with the theft of $4,600 from Stephen Lecovitch, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by Judge Cusson here Tuesday.

WIFE MAY QUIT HOME ANY TIME

Court Says Husband Always Obliged To Take Her Back.

COURT DIVIDED.

TORONTO, May 19—It was a divided court that gave decision yesterday when the first divisional court dismissed with costs the appeal of Roy Fizzell from an order of Mr. Justice Rose under which he must pay $40 a month toward the support of his two children, Lucile and Wanda ,aged three-and-a-half and two-and-a-half years.

Mr. Justice Ferguson declared: "I would not affirm the order as I hold that a man has first and prima facie right to the custody of his children unless he has done something to forfeit that right."

In the argument of the appeal a great deal of the history of the case was reviewed. Mrs. Meryl Fizzell was alleged to have left her husband's home, which was also that of his mother, taking her children with her. She later offered to return, but the husband definitely refused to have her.

Sir William Mulock pointed out: "One court has decided that she is not compelled to go back and live with her mother-in-law. The court has said that she has a right to live apart from her husband and we cannot change that."

It was argued that Mrs. Fizzell was quite able to support the children without aid from her husband and that her father and brother had in previous actions in the matter made affidavits that they would see that she was provided with a proper home for herself and the children.

Sir William: "Oh, the best you can make out of that is that her ability in this regard is a qualified one, at any rate."

Mr. Justice Hodgins held that the existing order was no bar to an application for change of custody.

Mr. Justice Smith: "Are you now willing to take back the wife and children?" "No," replied counsel for Mr. Fizzell, "we are not making that offer as far as the wife is concerned."

Mr. Justice Smith: "As long as you refuse to give this wife a home you must abide by the effect of the law. You are not entitled to take such a stand unless you can show reason why she should not be taken back, and that is not the case, I understand."

Counsel argued that Fizzell had offered on two ocassions to take her back, but not strictly in compliance with the court order to provide a home separate from that of his mother.

"Can a wife desert her husband at any time, and is he compelled to stand ready to take her back?" asked counsel.

The court was of the opinion that he was.

"If a wife has a right to desert her husband as often as she likes and he must always receive her back uncomplainingly, I think that is putting an awful onus on husbands in general," declared the lawyer.

Sir William Mulock: "Oh, I don't know! He is relieved of certain duties as long as she stays away."

Mr. Justice Smith held that the double refusal of the husband to provide a separate home for his wife and to take her back even when she had offered some degree of compromise altered the situation in the case very materially, and that the husband was only within his duty in contributing to the support of the children.

With Mr. Justice Ferguson dissenting Sir William declared the appeal dismissed with costs. "It is not necessary to me to add anything to what has been said or to make any further comment," he concluded.

Truck Hits Street Car Both Drivers Injured

OTTAWA, May 19 (Canadian Press).—F. Going, driver of a four-ton truck loaded with gravel, and C. A. Miller, motorman on a city street car, were injured here Tuesday when the two vehicles collided. Neither, however, were seriously hurt, although the impact was so great as to demolish the vestibule of the street car, hurling the motorman several feet, and the truck was also badly smashed up.

FLOODS ABATE IN NORTH ITALY

Inhabitants of Inundated District Living in Improvised Camps.

THREE DAYS' RAIN.

ROME, May 19 (Canadian Press) —The rivers and streams in Northern Italy, which were transformed into raging torrents by the heavy rains, lasting in some places for seventy-two consecutive hours, are beginning to fall. This is indicated in reports from Turin, Piacenza and other sections of the northwest.

Flood conditions in the northeast, however, have not abated, while hundreds of square miles from Piedmont to Istria are still under water, with the inhabitants living in improvised camps. The River Po was dropping slowly yesterday afternoon.

While the general situation is still grave, even worst than in the floods of 1907 and 1917, public services are being resumed. Most of the railway lines are able to operate on what are known as "bad storm" schedules and in some places by re-routings.

Thousands of soldiers and Red Cross workers are engaged in relief, food and clothing being supplied to the sufferers from various relief stations which have been established.

MILK MEN PROTEST PURE MILK BY-LAW

Montreal Delegation Against Tuberculin Test.

MONTREAL, Que., May 19 (Canadian Press) — A delegation of fifty milk dealers, accompanied by several members of the provincial legislature petitioned Premier Taschereau here Tuesday for the cancellation or postponement of Montreal's new pure milk by-law. The delegation said the law bade fair to ruin them through the slaughter of cattle which reacted to the tuberculin test imposed under the new act.

The Premier said that while he felt the dairymen had a serious problem to face and merited every consideration when it came to sacrifice of their stock, Montreal had some rights as to seeing that the children of the city got pure milk to drink, and the municipality, in his opinion, was fuly entitled to enact such local legislation as would ensure this.

VENUE CHANGED IN LIBEL SUIT TRIAL

From Nanaimo To Avoid Injustice Judge Decides.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 19. — (Canadian Press). — Because he found that there would be serious injury and injustice to General A. D. McRae if the $50,000 libel suit brought against him by Hon. Wm. Sloan, Minister of Mines in the Provincial Government, were tried by a jury composed of the latter's fellow townsmen of Nanaimo, Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald Tuesday considered a change of venue from there to either Victoria or New Westminster.

The action arose following publication in an organ of the Provincial party, of which General McRae was leader, of an allegedly libellous article dealing with the activities of Mr. Sloan.

MUSSOLINI LAUDS POLE CONQUERORS

Says Only Superior Men Could Have Accomplished It.

ROME, May 19. — (Canadian Press.)—The Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile aerial navigation across the North Pole came in for much praise from Premier Mussolini and Tomaso Tittoni, president of the Senate, when they addressed the Senate Tuesday.

"Only superior men could accomplish the conquest of the North Pole by airship," declared the Fascist Premier, "and to them goes out my fervent salute."

He then told of the misgivings and skepticism in certain quarters about the feasibility of the venture, and added: "The excellent quality of the Italian airship and the experience of her crew proved that these misgivings were not justified."

Signor Tittoni characterized the feat as a great moral victory for Italy, the United States and Norway. He congratulated Premier Mussolini on his miraculous escape from death when he was shot and wounded early in March. Mussolini thanked him and added the matter had long been forgotten.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Harry Morton, attractive to women, middle-aged, wealthy, unmarried, maintains a home in Peterborough and an apartment in Toronto. His adopted daughter, Audrey, loves him. So does Nona, a Toronto stage girl.

To learn how stage girls manage to attract Morton, Audrey hires a male dancing partner, who tries to extort $1,000 from her. Morton confronts the man, who is called "Joe" and drives him away. Nona accepts Morton's proposal that she leave the show for which she is rehearsing and be Audrey's dancing partner. With Morton and John Parrish, Morton's secretary (who is in love with Audrey) they go to a Russian tea room. Nona calls attention to the people at another table.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

When the party was reassembled, there developed a short argument as to where they should eat. Audrey cast the deciding vote.

"Let's go to some queer place," she said. "I like to look at funny people—people who act outlandishly. Let's not go to one of the big places where you're bored!"

Morton gave brief directions to the chauffeur, and ten minutes later they arrived at a basement establishment, its doorway illumined by a lamp in a huge blue shade.

"This is a Russian tea room," Morton said, helping the girls to alight.

The four of them descended the stair, and were greeted by a youth in a yellow smock. His cheek-bones were high, and his blond hair was erect in a stiff pompadour. They handed him their wraps, and followed him through a noisy throng to a table, at the far end of the room.

Another man in a smock brought tea, and placed it before them.

Nona, while Morton ordered food, idly looked over the diners. Their party had attracted attention. They were the only guests in evening clothes, and Audrey dropped her eyes as she saw the stares directed her way.

Nona reached across the table and tapped her on the hand.

"Don't look now," she said, quietly, "but in a moment, turn and see who is there at the second table. I'll tell you when!"

CHAPTER XXX

A moment or two later, Nona said: "Look now! Quick!"

Audrey looked, in the direction that Nona indicated. She saw a fat, heavy-faced man, sitting with a thin girl, who was lighting a cigaret.

"Who are they?" Audrey said, turning back to Nona. "I never saw them before."

"Why," Nona said, "I thought you met that girl! Anyhow, she's the girl from whom Joe gets his money. Joe's the fellow who tried to hold you up for a thousand dollars."

With a sharp exclamation, Audrey turned and looked again. This time, the other girl's eyes were fixed on her, and there was a glint in them that was not to be mistaken. Audrey shivered.

"I believe that girl would stab me!" she gasped. "But how does she know who I am?"

Morton had been watching the little drama. "Not so hard to guess," he said. "You are with me, and with Nona. She knows us, and she has found out from Joe that I am your guardian. It's like adding two and two."

Nona was arising. "Wait here a minute," she said.

She walked to where the girl and fat man were sitting, and in a moment was leaning over their table. The girl looked up at her, in cold hostility Nona began a rapid speech, motioning towards Morton's table. The girl shook her head. Nona stooped down, and whispered to her. The fat man, after a moment's attempt to listen, philosophically poured himself a glass of liquor, and gulped it, with an emphatic smack of his lips.

Evidently Nona gained her point. With a few words of excuse to the portly man, the girl arose and followed Nona to Morton's table. Parrish arose, and offered his chair. The girl refused it.

"Nona says you've got some explanations to make, and I want them!" the girl said. "I'm willing listen to what you have to say."

"She's coo-coo," Nona confided to her companions, "but I brought her over anyway. Sit down!"

She pushed the girl into the chair, and herself sat down alongside. "She has the idea that Audrey is trying to take her Joe away from her!" she explained.

Parrish, who had brought another chair for himself, let out a quick exclamation. "That is an absolute outrage," he said.

"Keep quiet, Parrish," Morton ordered. Turning to the girl, he went on: Did this young man of yours tell you that he had tried to extort a thousand dollars from Miss Morton?"

"It's a lie!" the girl cried. "She just tried to frame him! He wouldn't fall for her, and she was trying to get even!"

Audrey was crushed. She buried her face in her open hands, and moaned: "This is terrible! It's awful!"

Morton touched her on the arm and again addressed the girl.

"I see your point of view better than Miss Morton does, or Parrish here. No doubt Nona understands, though. You are very fond of this man, and believe that other women want him. You let him have your money, because you are attached to him, and want to believe what he says. Anybody that does anything against him, is your enemy, too. Is that right?"

"You said something!" the girl returned. Her hostile eyes still were inspecting Audrey.

"I think you will agree," Morton continued, "that I have been pretty good to you, in a way."

"Good!" There was a bitter sneer on the girl's lips. "You prenteded to be getting me a good job, in the show, because you were sorry for me! But I know! You were trying to get square with me for what happened in Nona's apartment, that time. You wanted to separate me from Joe, so this girl here could have him!" She pointed at Audrey.

Morton sighed, and shook his head. "It's hopeless, I suppose," he said. "You are so infatuated with this young fellow, that you twist everything to suit what he says. We'll make a fresh start on this."

He leaned over, with his face close to hers, and tapped slowly on the table to emphasize his words.

"If you do anything to disturb Miss Morton, here, in any way, this man Joe of yours goes to jail."

The girl pushed back her chair with a jerk. "You wouldn't do that!"

"Certainly," Morton said. "He ought to be in jail anyway. But I'm simply giving you this warning—don't molest Miss Morton. You'd better go, now."

The girl arose, and, agitated, returned to her own table. The fat man greeted her indifferently, as she sat down beside him.

"The female of the species is more deadly than the male," Nona quoted. "Aren't girls crazy?"

"Poor little thing!" Morton said, thoughtfully. "That fellow misuses her, and robs her, and still she loves him! But if I hadn't made a threat against her young man's safety, I think she would have attacked Audrey at the first chance. Heaven knows what she would have done!"

Parrish, since Morton had adjured him to be quiet, had been restlessly moving his plate and silverware about, on the cloth before him. Now he spoke again. "We had no business to bring Miss Morton to a place like this!"

"My dear boy," Morton said, wearily, "we are going to meet people, no matter where we go. We can't wrap ourselves, or our daughters—or our secretaries—in cotton-wool, and expect to protect them that way from the world. Our only real protection is our own common sense."

"I would like to go away from here, though," said Audrey. "That girl over there, and the man with her, keep looking at me. Who do you suppose he is?"

"Oh, some mutt from out of town," Nona surmised. "She's being hostess this evening. He'll probably give her twenty dollars, for going out to dinner with him, and dancing with him afterward."

Morton paid for the tea that they had consumed, and told the waiter they would not want the borsch that he was placing before them.

"Let's go to a theater, and find something to laugh about," Morton proposed, as his party filed up to the street level from the restaurant.

"Set's not," Audrey protested. "I've been so scared, and worried, by that girl and by her dancing partner, that I'd like to go home." She turned to Parrish and Nona. "You folks won't mind coming up to the apartment, will you? We can have some music, and play cards or something. You'll forgive me, won't you, for not going to the theater?"

"All right," Morton said. "We'll walk—it's a fine night, and we ought to enjoy it."

Nona had swung to Parrish's side. The young man turned, as if to accompany Audrey, but the latter had placed her hand under her guardian's arm. Reluctantly, Parrish moved forward, with Nona beside him. He held his head stiffly erect, and studiously avoided brushing her arm with his sleeve. She looked sidewise at him, between narrowed lids. Then, deliberately, she thrust her arm through his. "Mr. Parrish, why do you hate me so?" she asked, softly.

He shook his head. She waited for an answer, but he strode steadily on. "I've never done anything to you," she told him, clinging a little closer.

"It's something I do not want to talk about," he said, austerely.

Morton, behind, had caught the words, and so had Audrey. He slackened his pace, so the other two could go ahead. "Let's let them talk it out," he suggested.

Audrey nodded, and they remained several paces in the rear, for the remainder of the walk. They could see the little, quick motions of Nona's right hand, as she talked earnestly to the young man beside her. Parrish kept his face straight forward, and protruded his elbow, so the girl who clung to his arm would be as far from him as possible. In this order, they arrived at the Morton apartment, and together went up the elevator. Parrish gave an audible sigh of relief when he turned to Audrey, and shook Nona's hand from his arm.

"I have a golf suit, now," he said. "Would you like to play tomorrow, before your rehearse?"

"Is it necessary to have a special suit to play golf in?" she asked, innocently.

Morton laughed. "That's my fault," he said. "I suggested that he get those clothes, and he has been waiting for his first golf game until the knickerbockers were ready. Can you show him how to hold the clubs?"

"I'm afraid I'm too busy," Audrey said. "Nona and I are working every afternoon, and I get so tired, I don't think I can play."

Parrish's face fell. "I just thought it might amuse you," he said.

Audrey compressed her lips, and was about to make a retort, but Morton interrupted. "Suppose you sing," he proposed, "and I'll play for you."

He looked significantly at Nona, and smiled. Nona herself was surveying Parrish, speculatively. "I'd love to hear Miss Morton sing," she said.

They gave their wraps to the servant, and Morton, rubbing his wrists and flexing his fingers, to limber them, went over to the organ. Audrey followed him.

Nona stood looking at a picture until Parrish had found a chair, and stood beside it waiting for her to find her own seat. Then she moved across the room, and bringing a chair, sat beside him. He glanced around, as if seeking a way to escape.

"Sit down, Mr. Parrish," Nona said, patting the chair with her hand.

Surrendering, Parrish disconsolately obeyed. She leaned toward him, until her shoulder touched his. He drew away, and turned so he could see Audrey and Morton in the organ alcove. Nona's body retained its droop in his direction.

Audrey, leafing over a book of music, glanced at them, and interested, watched them for a moment. As she turned back to her music, there was a half-smile of satisfaction on Nona's face.

As Audrey began to sing, Nona carelessly dropped her arm across the back of her chair, and rested her hand lightly on Parrish's shoulder.

"Please let me alone!" he hissed, turning his head.

She leaned closer, and answered, softly: "Come down to the other end of the room! I want to tell you something."

He did not move, until she took him by the arm, and drew him to his feet. Hanging back, he followed her to the window, where they stood looking into the street below, as if listening to the music.

"Listen here, you fool!" Nona said to him, "I know that you want to marry Miss Morton. Do you want to know how to win her?"

PIONEER LADY OF NORWOOD DIES AT ADVANCED AGE OF 102

Mrs. Mary Gardner Came to Norwood With Parents in 1831.

RECALLED OLD DAYS

NORWOOD, May 18.—The oldest pioneer of this district, in the person of Mary Ross, widow of the late Henry Gardner, passed into the Great Beyond from which no traveller returns, on Monday morning, May 10, at the advanced age of one hundred and two years.

The deceased, who had lived under five sovereigns, was born in Ross-shire, Scotland, during the reign of George IV. In 1831, at the age of seven years, she, with her parents, John Ross and Elizabeth Hossack, came to Canada, and were among the first settlers of the township of Dummer. Needless to say, she was therefore able to relate many interesting and exciting stories of pioneer life in the backwoods of Canada, and had lived to see many changes and improvements made in both rural and urban districts.

Leaving their homes in "Bonnie Scotland," Mr. and Mrs. Ross and their daughter (the late Mrs. Gardner), with the McLeans, McPhersons, Nicols, McKenzies and Kempts, and other well-known pioneers of this district, after a stormy ocean voyage which lasted seven weeks, landed at Cobourg, and made their way by wagon to Peterborough, at that time, a small village with only a few log huts. Here, there was a Government station build of logs, and two log cabins being constructed. In these the women and children were asked to make their home while the men went out to locate their homesteads. While the men were away a woman died, and Mrs. Gardner's mother and another woman dug a grave and buried the remains, as there were no men left in the place to do it. After having located their farms the men came back for their families and took them to their first home in Canada, which was on the Eighth Line of Dummer, afterwards called the Scotch Line. The Ross family settled on the farm now occupied by Messrs. Alex and George Ross, nephews of the deceased.

Mrs. Gardner would often tell of the hardships and privations endured by these stalwart sons of Scotland, but with pride would relate how in spite of these hardships, they set diligently to work and cut down the trees from which they built log shanties for their families to live in. There were no chimneys on these cabins and the smoke from the rude fire-places was forced to escape through a hole in the roof, but after a time chimneys were built. There were no stoves, and for baking purposes they used large kettles and buried them in the coals of the fire-place. The lights in the homes were obtained from the fire place and also from rags dipped in grease but later they made tallow candles.

The settlers who came a few years earlier than these and settled near Peterborough were much better provided for by the Government, being supplied with seed and food to last till they had time to provide for themselves. Bears and wolves and other wild animals used to come right up to their dwellings, and many a young pig or a sheep was destroyed by them. It was a rather serious thing to lose a sheep at that time, as they were to a great extent the source from which their food, light and clothing were obtained. Mrs. Gardner remembered distinctly an incident which happened when she was a girl of seven years. She and her mother walked to Peterborough, a distance of twenty miles through the woods, and with only a blazed trail to guide them. On this trip her mother carried a large roll of wool, which they were going to have carded. They waited for two days while a spinning whee' was being made for them, and then started on the return trip, the mother carrying the spinning wheel and the little girl the bundle of carded wool. Mrs. Gardner's mother had on several occasions walked to Toronto to visit her people, the Hossacks and the Mustards, who lived in that locality, some in Scott township and some at Green River, the latter place now being called Markham.

In those days the taxes on a hundred acre farm were seventy-five cents and Mrs. Gardner has told of one woman who had travelled for several days trying to sell some wool to secure the seventy-five cents that would save her farm from being sold for taxes. She also told of a woman who had become lost in the forest and had not been found for three days during which time she had had nothing to eat.

Having been trained in old Scottish homes, these people did not forget the faith of their fathers, and before they had a church, they held services in the home of one of the residents of the neighborhood, and these were in charge of ministers who travelled from place to place, ministering to the spiritual needs of the people. These ministers were called circuit riders.

The first church was built at Norwood, and after it was built there was no money left to pay for putty to put the glass in the windows, so it had to be put in without the putty.

Mrs. Gardner's father-in-law, the late William Gardner, who lived with her and her husband for many years until his death, was a veteran of the British Navy, and served under King George III. in the wars with Napoleon. He was on duty on the Bellerophon, when in 1815, after the Battle of Waterloo, that ship carried Napoleon to the island of St. Helena, to be placed in exile.

Mrs. Gardner's father, the late John Ross, was one of the volunteers who were called to go to Toronto to fight for their country. A report had reached Peterborough that Toronto had been taken, and every man of those Scottish settlers was called from his bed to go and help defend their country. They gladly obeyed, although they knew they would have to supply their own board and get no pay for their labors. When about half way on their journey they received word that there had been a settlement, so they returned to their homes.

The Late Mrs. Mary Gardner.

Mrs. Gardner was a cousin of the Allens of the Allen Steamship Line. Sir Hugh Allen, accompanied by the Ramseys, of Scotland, who were also relatives, visited at her father's home on several occasions.

After the death of her husband thirty years ago, Mrs. Gardner resided with her daughter, the late Mrs. Hamilton Humphries and later with another daughter, Mrs. William Humphries. A few years ago she and Mrs. Humphries went to live with Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott, the latter being her grand-daughter. It was at their home she passed peacefully away after a long, well-spent life. She was in possession of her faculties up until a few weeks ago, and so well preserved was she in looks, that, until about a year ago she would not be thought to be more than eighty-five years of age.

Two sons, Alexander Gardner of Norwood, and John Gardner of Chicago, predeceased her. A family of five, three sons and two daughters are left to mourn the loss of an unselfish and loving mother, who had been the light of the home for so many years. The sons are James Gardner of Asphodel and George and Joseph Gardner of Norwood. The daughters are Mrs. William Humphries of Dummer and Mrs. Ebenezer Jenkins of Asphodel, all of whom live within three miles of the old homestead. One sister, Mrs. John Stewart of Stewart Valley, Saskatchewan, also survives her.

There are twenty grand-children and sixteen great grand-children. The grand-children are—Mrs. Rork Ferguson, Asphodel; Mrs. George Buchanan, Dummer; Miss Rosie Gardner, Mr. Ross Gardner, Mr. Gerald Gardner, Mr. Evan Gardner, Miss Edith Gardner, Miss Ruby Gardner and Mrs. Joseph Humphries of Norwood; Misses Vera Gardner and Nellie Gardner, of Los Angeles, California; Miss Eva Gardner, of Asphodel; Fred Gardner, of Chicago; William Gardner, Harry Gardner, Mrs. Robert Gardner, Mrs. George Elliott, Dummer; Mr. Joseph Humphries, Norwood; Mr. George Humphries, Asphodel and Mrs. Oliver Sexsmith, of Trenton, Ontario.

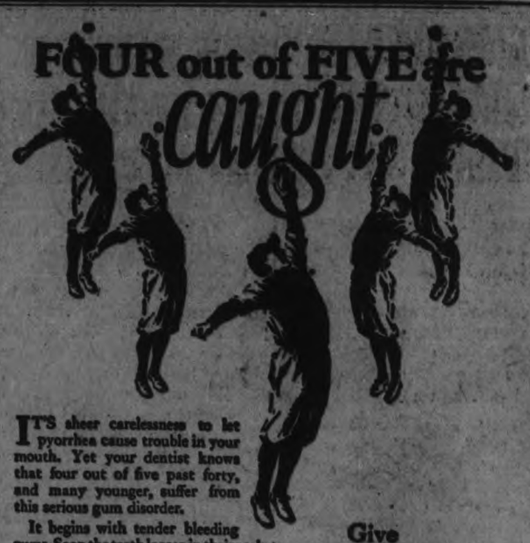
The great grand-children are—Una Elliott, Irene Jenkins, Cecil Jenkins, Rev. Gordon Gardner, Russel Gardner, Maitland Gardner, Gertrude Gardner, Evelyn Gardner, Verna Gardner, Margaret Gardner, Eileen Elliott, Hamilton Humphries, Leail Humphries, Reta Ferguson, Everett Buchanan and Donald Gardner.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from the residence of Mr. George Elliott, Lot 1, Con. 6, Dummer, and was very largely attended.

Rev. T. M. Wesley, pastor of the South Dummer United Church, had charge of the services, and was assisted by four other ministers of the United Church, namely: her great grand-son, Rev. Gordon Gardner, of Victoria Rd.; Rev. R. F. Stillman, of Norwood; Rev. E. W. Cafley, of Flintin and Rev. Mr. Jones, of Warkworth. The deceased, who had been a Presbyterian all her life, went with her church when it entered the union a year ago. She had deep religious convictions and was a God-fearing character and was ready when the call "Come Up Higher" came to her. A solo, entitled, "I shall wear a crown when I get Home," was sung during the service by Mrs. B. W. Squire. This hymn was a favorite of the departed one. The pall-bearers were six nephews of the deceased, namely—Messrs. Alex. Ross, George Ross, Fred Stewart, Adam, Jacob and Fred Gardner.

The bell on the United Church, Norwood, tolled as the remains were being borne to their last resting place in the Norwood Cemetery, where midst the mortal remains of many, many of our honored ancestors and their children, she now sleeps the sleep of the just. Until the day-break and the shadows flee away.

"God calls our loved ones, but we lose not wholly
What He has given;
They live on earth in thought and deed, as truly,
As in His heaven."



IT'S sheer carelessness to let pyorrhea cause trouble in your mouth. Yet your dentist knows that four out of five past forty, and many younger, suffer from this serious gum disorder.

It begins with tender bleeding gums. Soon the teeth loosen in their sockets and the poison spreads through the system, causing rheumatism, neuritis, and other similar diseases.

Forhan's for the Gums is the simple, easy way to keep you out of pyorrhea's clutches. It's a pleasant dentifrice that firms the gums and gives the teeth a thorough cleansing. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea.

If used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents or checks pyorrhea and so is an important safeguard to health. Begin today to use Forhan's night and morning as a wise precaution. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

Give Your Dentist a chance

Too many wait until an aching tooth forces them into the dentist's chair. It is folly to suffer this needless pain when all you have to do is to give your dentist a chance to prevent trouble in your mouth by visiting him at least twice a year for a thorough teeth and gum inspection.

Forhan's FOR THE GUMS

More than a tooth paste—it checks Pyorrhea

Mrs. Geo. Jones (nee Maggie Nicol) left on Saturday for her home in Saskatchewan, after spending several months with her mother, Mrs. Richard Nicol.

Mrs. Samuel Wildman is visiting her daughters in Toronto.

Mr. Roy Bertrand and Mr. Stanley McMillan motored down from Toronto and spent Sunday with friends in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Giffin were in Havelock on Friday evening.

Miss Katie Edwards and Miss Viola Rusau spent Thursday in Toronto.

Mr. Russel Gardner has again been successful in his examinations at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto. This time Russel passed with honors.

Mrs. Charlie Ballard (nee Etta Moffatt), of Kingston, arrived in the village on Friday to see her mother, Mrs. B. Moffatt, who was very ill. Friends will be pleased to hear that Mrs. Moffatt is a great deal better and will soon be all right again.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Barton and Mr. T. A. Barton attended the funeral of the former's sister, Mrs. Sexsmith, whose death occurred at her home near Trenton on Wednesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Sexsmith, of Trenton attended the funeral of the latter's grandmother, the late Mrs. Henry Gardner, on Wednesday. While here Mr. Sexsmith received the sad news of the death of his mother who passed away rather suddenly at her home near Trenton, on Wednesday, May 12th.

FAMOUS FEET

..how they're kept free from corns..

FLORENCE O'DENISHAWN'S Famous Dancing Feet

"Keeping fit, to a dancer, means first of all keeping the feet in trim. Tight ballet shoes and strenuous dancing are apt to irritate the tender cuticle of the toes." So writes the well-known dancer, Florence O'Denishawn.

"Blue-jay is an indispensable friend. It keeps corns and calluses away."

And what a delightful way to end a corn! A cool and velvety cushion fits over the corn and stops the pain at once. Usually one plaster conquers the corn in 48 hours. But, if obstinate, a second plaster vanquishes the most stubborn offender. At all drug stores.

MANUFACTURER OF SHIRTS MUST PRODUCE MISSING BOOKS WITHIN 48 HOURS FOR CUSTOMS ENQUIRY

J. H. Gauthier Not Permitted To Leave Ottawa in Meantime.

CHEQUES SOUGHT.

Witness Annoys Committee —Senators Gift For Premier Was Passed.

OTTAWA, May 19 (Canadian Press).—J. H. Gauthier, a partner in the R. and G. Company of Rock Island, Que., manufacturers of overalls and shirts, was yesterday given forty-eight hours to produce books and documents which the auditors of the Customs Inquiry Committee have been unable to locate. In addition, he must report daily in the room where the committee holds its sittings. Chairman Paul Mercier first suggested that Gauthier go down to Rock Island and endeavor to locate these books and documents. Other members of the committee, however, objected to his leaving Ottawa and conferring with his partner in the business. It was then decided that Mr. Gauthier would remain here.

At one point Hon. H. H. Stevens protested that Mr. Gauthier was "just trifling with the committee." This was when the witness answered "I do not remember" to the question whether or not he had ever smuggled goods into Canada. Later the witness admitted that his firm had been required to make a settlement of $1,656 with the Customs in connection with a seizure of smuggled goods. The witness said this amount was paid to J. E. A. Bisaillon, former Customs preventive officer at Montreal.

Gauthier was called to tell where the committee might locate the missing books and documents of the firm which the auditors have been unable to find. He was unable to shed any light on the mystery of the books and documents which have disappeared, but he was sure that they were no longer on the premises of the company. Neither could he tell where the cancelled cheques of the company for 1924 and previous to that year were to be found. He could not remember positively whether or not they had been destroyed.

Suspected of Smuggling.

"Is there anything that you do know positively?" asked R. L. Calder, committee counsel, with impatience, at one point. Hon. H. H. Stevens informed the witness that his firm was suspected of engaging in smuggling. Auditors had visited the offices of the company, had gone away for a time and had returned to find books and documents missing.

He pressed to find if the witness had destroyed or hidden the missing books and papers, but Gauthier persisted in his statement that he could not remember.

"Don't pull that silly stuff here," retorted Mr. Stevens with some heat but the witness would admit nothing.

"Do you often engage in smuggling?" he was asked.

"It is not my custom to do that," replied Gauthier. He could not say whether or not his employees smuggled or if goods were smuggled into his factory at night.

Would Order Prosecution.

At the end of his examination Mr. Calder said he thought the witness was in contempt of the committee which would test its power to demand production of the books and papers.

"Unless this man is insane, he has been laughing at the committee and at counsel all afternoon," he added.

"I think it is about time the committee took up a flagrant case of this kind," commented Mr. Stevens. "Make an example of it and report to the House for an order to prosecute."

Collector Released Trunks.

W. S. Weldon, collector of Customs at Montreal, was called to the witness stand. R. L. Calder, K.C., committee counsel, asked him under what authority he had issued the orders for release of goods and trunks, which were produced by Customs Officer Balthazar Tuesday morning.

"Under the conscientious belief that I was doing what was right as collector of Customs at Montreal," said the witness. He had never released articles which were to be used for commercial purposes. When the dispute arose over the entry of some article of baggage at the Windsor Station there was only one appeal, to the collector, or, in his absence, to the Surveyor of Customs. The Customs officer at the station was always at liberty to send the goods up to be examined by the collector if he saw fit.

"I am not ashamed of anything that I put my signature to," declared Collector Weldon. When he took over the position of collector at Montreal he found that these orders were usually telephoned. He had been told that it was better never to put your name to any document of the kind.

"If I had wanted to be crooked I would never have written anything," said Collector Weldon. He said that he was glad that Officer Balthazar had preserved the memoranda and he hoped that not a single document which he had signed had been mislaid.

Trust to Honesty.

Questioned by Mr. Donaghy, a member of the committee, the witness said that he gave instructions to release trunks sometimes without examining them. He would ask the people who desired to pass them whether they contained nothing but personal effects, and he would trust to their honesty. A person soon got so that they could tell the crooks from the honest people.

Mr. Donaghy asked how 14 yards of silk could be considered "necessary for the comfort of a traveller" and dutiable."

Mr. Weldon said this tourist had several children and she could easily work up that amount of material into clothes for the family during a visit. He was not aware that there was a silk length in that trunk.

Mr. Donaghy asked why he "trusted" these tourists to declare accurately.

Opinion of Good Faith.

Mr. Weldon said that the appraiser or inspector could use his judgment concerning the good faith of the party. If he could prove that a tourist was not deserving of trust, the inspector could disregard the order for free entry "and I would take it like a man."

"You issued these orders to be disobeyed?" asked Mr. Donaghy.

"It is not unusual to get an order from Ottawa to facilitate the passage of baggage," said Mr. Weldon to another point, when Mr. Donaghy wanted to know why some people could get favors which were denied to the average citizen. The collector said that sometimes he got requests for special consideration and sometimes these requests were granted. It was a matter of judgment.

"I wish they wouldn't bother me all the time," he added bitterly, apropos of these requests for special consideration.

Present For Premier.

Mr. Donaghy asked the witness whether or not he passed trunks for young women coming to Canada from the United States to be married, and intending to return to the United States. The witness replied that some such trunks had been passed. Mr. Donaghy read a number of Mr. Weldon's memoranda to Customs officers, among them one relating to two articles, brought in by Senator Beaubien. The memorandum stated that one of these articles was a present for the Prime Minister.

"Why did you interfere with the Customs examiners in the performance of their duties?" asked Mr. Donaghy.

The witness replied that every Customs examiner was at liberty to disagree with him in his decisions. He had not interfered with the examiners.

"Every memorandum I've read has been an interference with the duties of an examiner," contradicted Mr. Donaghy.

There was some jocular suggestion that the Prime Minister and Senator Beaubien be called to tell the committe about this present.

DESIGN COMPLETED OF HUGE DIRIGIBLE

Ship To Have Stateroom and Accommodation For Hundred Passengers.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 19 (Canadian Press)—The completion of the design of the largest dirigible ever attempted was announced in an address here yesterday by Karl Arnstein, chief engineer of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation plants at Akron. It will contain state rooms and accommodations for carrying 100 passengers. Dr. Arnstein said that the house of representatives has approved the construction of two dirigibles of this type for military purposes.

CONFERENCE USELESS?

Opinion in Japan is That Geneva Disarmament Talk is Abortive.

TOKIO, May 19. — (Canadian Press.)—The opinion is growing in Japan that the present Geneva disarmament conference probably is abortive, although the government reiterated its intention of approving any reasonable and equitable proposition agreed upon. The Government also expresses willingness to take up navy disarmament separate from that of land forces or to consider them together.

WHERE HANDICAP OF BLINDNESS IS AT LEAST PARTIALLY OVERCOME

"Stitch, stitch, stitch." Not, however, "in poverty, hunger and dirt," as the old song says, but in a spacious, sanitary workroom, under the supervision of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The workers shown above are all sightless, but, thanks to the C.N.I.B., they are able to earn a good living in the whitewear factory in Baldwin street. There were 21 blind women employed in the factory during last year, and they made 30 styles of porch dresses and 16 styles of aprons. Each month they manufactured 1,200 to 1,500 dozen garments.

To help this splendid undertaking the Turnbull Store are making a large exhibit of these goods, and they will be on sale for the last three days of this week.

The vested choir advanced up the central aisle, followed by Venerable Archdeacon Davidson and Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, their vestments of black and white and purple and red only a little less brilliant than the decorations of officers and men who followed.

As the slow advance to the altar progressed, the clergymen uttered the sentences of consolation contained in the verses from St. John and from the Book of Job which open the Church of England order for the burial of the dead.

The casket was covered with dark cloth, partly hidden by the Union Jack, and on it was laid the dead officer's sword. The bearers were six officers of the rank of Lieutenant Colonel: F. L. Bradburn, M.C.; A. W. McPherson; E. B. Clegg; C. H. Ackerman; W. G. Hall, and E. Birdsall, men who had served overseas and through the same battles as had Colonel Mills.

On the casket were flowers; only a few of the wreaths. In a carriage outside the church were heaped shields and clusters and sprays of flowers whose glory spelled out the homage of a city, their broad bands of silk gleaming like the ribbons of Field Marshals. Here one said "Second Battalion"; another, "Officers of the Second Battalion, Ottawa"; a third, "Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A."; a fourth, "Peterborough Rangers", and then tributes from the Liberal-Conservative Association, St. John's Church, Peterborough Hardware Company, the Female Voice Choir, Lavoie Knitting Company, and scores from friends in private life and from members of the family. Given a place of honor on the casket was a simple, but wordlessly eloquent, wreath of poppies, sent by the Great War Veterans' Association.

* * *

The bearers rested their burden before the altar, and the clergymen took up the ancient harmonies of the service. The exultant "Onward, Christian Soldiers" was sung by the congregation, and Archdeacon Davidson read the Psalm in a voice full and melodious, giving every word its value and its caress. Dr. Blagrave read the long excerpt from the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians —the chapter which draws to a close on "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"

"My Friend, and My Comrade"

Then Archdeacon Davidson told simply, sincerely, but with a depth of feeling that showed in his occasionally faltering voice, of the associations which could not be broken by death. "I appreciate deeply," he said, "the part that has been given me in this service in which we commemorate and honor the late Colonel Mills, my friend and my comrade of long years, as he has been yours. He has been absolutely devoted, loyal, and faithful to his Church, and to his country, more particularly as his country was represented in the militia and in the army. He was one of the very first, if not the first, to respond to the great call which came to us all on August 4, 1914, and many besides myself were envious of his name having gone in ahead of ours and his being accepted for service.

There are many men who live in a community quiet and unobtrusive lives, and who do not show their value and importance to gain acclaim, but at least their value is evident after they pass to rest. Today we thank God for this our comrade, and pray for grace to follow his example and the example of many more like him. I find in Peterborough today that the citizens are pervaded by the sorrow thrown upon them through the death of our brother and comrade."

Scenes from the Past

Gazing down on the flower and flag decked casket which rested at his feet, Archdeacon Davidson recalled scenes in which Colonel Mills had taken part. "I see the 57th Regiment paraded for orders in the old wooden armouries which some of us knew so well," he said, "and I see standing in his place before Number Three Company our brother, Colonel Mills; before Number Five Company, George W. Bennett; before Number Six Company, Lou Hayes; and others who have done their duty and have passed on.

I see again the old officers' quarters, where hearts beat warmly and shared the wonderful comradeship of the active militia, men devoted to God and the country. I see him there. In this comradeship, which still endures, we take part in a service that is not of sorrow, but of cheer and hope, a new confidence we feel in ourselves. We who went overseas have it. There is some distinct personality in us all—the comradeship and pride in which we—and he—carried on."

* * *

The hymn beginning, "On the Resurrection Morn," the Apostles' Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and five other prayers from the "Order for Burial" followed, with the exhortation, "I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, From henceforth blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." The Recessional was the familiar "Nunc Dimittis", "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace."

* * *

Once again the flag-decked casket was raised. Out on Hunter Street the procession reformed, the bell tolling high in the ivy-covered tower its monotony of mourning. Leading all was the firing party of twenty men, under Lieutentant Ernest E. Nicholls, M.C., D.C.M. Nearly all were veterans of the Great War, and not a few had served with the "Iron Seconds." Then, in order, came the band of the Peterborough Rangers, the ministers' carriage and flowers, the hearse and pall bearers, a riderless horse, the chief mourners, war veterans with their decorations glittering, Peterborough Rangers, Cavalry, Artillery, and Machine Gun details, representatives of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and many officers of many fighting units.

Down George Street the funeral train passed, where hundreds gathered to pay respect to the passing of the man who, at sixty-three years of age, was one of Peterborough's first volunteers when the Great War broke out, and at sixty-four years of age was with his battalion in the grim struggle to hold Ypres during the German drive to gain the Channel ports. The flag on J. J. Turner and Sons' factory dropped to half-mast, and blinds on store windows were lowered. Everywhere bared heads saluted the cortege. It was a great, touching, spontaneous, tribute to one who had gained the admiration of the city.

* * *

And now, at the graveside, such portions of the burial service as are more strictly the service of committal were read. Day was waning. The sun sent long streamers of shadows along the ground. Three volleys rang out from the rifles of the firing party, directed over the grave. The little children had no need to cry out as they did, for these men—and the man whose body was slowly sinking into the ground—had helped to save their childish ears from such sounds which might have accompanied the grim advance of an invading foe. This was but the salute of soldiers to soldier.

Faint wailing strains, their sweetness hard to bear, floated upward from a little distance off, bayonets flashed as they were affixed, and the war-like weapons came to a peaceful "Present." It was the music of "taps."

For a moment the mourners and the clergy stood in silent prayer. On the slopes of the cemetery and on the flats lingered the hundreds that had come to do homage. They lingered because heavy upon them lay the spell of a ceremonial which, with all its military pomp, was a service essentially noble, dignified, beautiful, and deeply affecting.

It did not move men to tears. It moved them to awe. It was gracious and it was eloquent, and its final note was its supreme note. When the bugles spoke from near the grave, "Well done, and rest in peace," from the heights another bugle sang through the Spring laden air its message of resurrection and a new day.

Height had spoken unto height, and to the heights from whence cometh aid was the gaze of the mourners directed. A soldier had entered into rest.

McCOY'S HELPS OLD FOLKS FEEL YOUNGER

Try This New Cod Liver Preparation To Increase Your Strength, Vitality and Endurance

Why should any old person let feebleness overwhelm them in these enlightened days? Surely everyone knows by this time that the extract taken from the livers of the humble codfish contain more health and weight producing vitamines than anything else on earth and is the greatest body builder in the world.

Any physician will tell you that.

You'll like to take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—they are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy and they do help old people.

Why not try being years younger again, why not grow stronger in body, in mind, in vitality? Why not take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets and drop years from your age in 30 days? We do not believe that a 30 days treatment will make you feel years younger—but at any rate try them for 30 days and if you are not satisfied get your money back — 60 tablets — 60 cents at Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., or any other druggist. Be sure and get McCoy's—the original and genuine.

HOW PROGRAM IS BROADCAST

Male Voice Choir Concert To-night To Use Remote Control.

TELEPHONE LINE.

Remote control in broadcasting —that is where the concert is taking place at some distance from the radio transmitting apparatus—presents some important problems. The connecting link between the performers and the broadcasting mechanism must be of very high quality and efficiency. In the present instance the 65 mile gap Letween Peterboro and Toronto is of some importance. Fortunately, the long distance circuits of the Bell Telephone Company are of the necessary high Standard.

The voice currents are derived from the action on the transmitter of the sound waves caused by the speaker's (or singer's) voice. These sound waves represent an extremely small amount of energy, so that if transformed by the transmitter at 100 per cent. efficiency into electrical energy, it would be less than one-millionth of the electrical power necessary to light an incandescent lamp.

The telephone circuits used for remote control broadcasting—that is to form the connecting link between the singers and the distant transmitting apparatus—must be so constructed and balanced as to be free from crosstalk and interference. They must transmit the notes of the singer at the high, as well as the low, frequencies. The frequency of ordinary speech is around 3200 cycles, whereas the high notes of a soprano singer range as high as 6300 cycles. The high grade long distance circuits of the Bell Telephone Company will take care of frequencies up to 7200.

PLAY PRESENTED.

The interesting play, "The Young Country Schoolmarm," which was offered with much success by the Young People of Knox Church at the George Street Sunday School hall last evening, was greeted with a good audience, who appeared very appreciative of the excellent programme presented. The play was produced under the direction of Miss Annie Crocker, and was presented under the auspices of Mrs. E. W. Coon's Unity Club of the George street church. Before the production, and between acts, selections by the George street Sunday School orchestra, directed by Mr. W. H. Cunningham, were given, also vocal solos by Mrs. Ross Williamson, Miss Isabel Black and Miss Elma Coon, with accompaniments by the Misses K. Buchanan and Pearl Rehill, violin numbers by Mr. H. Robertson and a piano solo by Victor White.

Have You entered the PROTECTO Contest?

$510 in cash prizes to be awarded users of this marvellously superior protective paint

Perhaps it's a shingle roof you've beautified with this new preservative paint, or a wooden siding, a garden fence or, maybe, the wall or roof of your garage or barn.

No shingle stain could ever give you such results. This color brightness, this lasting permanency, cannot be matched by the old-time staining process which, at its best, beautified but temporarily and protected the surface inadequately when it protected it at all. PROTECTO really protects because it is made from Creosote and Pure Linseed Oil, nature's greatest preservatives.

Write and tell us of your experience with PROTECTO. We are giving a first prize of $100 and 54 other cash prizes for the most interesting letters telling how and where PROTECTO has been used and the results secured from its use.

People who have not used PROTECTO and who desire to enter this interesting contest should secure a can at any Hardware store, use it on some unfinished exterior surface and then write us all about the job. Some one letter is going to win that $100 and, remember, there are 54 additional money prizes besides.

Where NOT to use PROTECTO

—for finished surfaces, exterior and interior. (Use CANADA PAINT).

—for Hardwood Floors. (Use SUN VARNISH).

—for Furniture and Woodwork. (Use SUN VARNISH STAIN).

—for Interior Walls and Ceilings. (Use SANITONE.)

For every surface everywhere there is a Canada Paint Product of matchless beauty and durability.

Here are the Contest Regulations

Every resident of Canada and Newfoundland may compete —Canada Paint Company employees excepted.

The Canada Paint Company's executives will be the judges. Their decision will be final.

Letters to be addressed "Contest Department, Canada Paint Co., Limited, Montreal," and mailed on or before June 30th.

According as entry letters are received they will be acknowledged. Every contestant will be notified as to the result of the competition.

DUNNING REFUSED TO MAKE PUBLIC PRICE PAID BY C. N. R.

Not In General Interest To Give Details—Conservatives Aroused.

SQUALL IN HOUSE.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The question of the advisability of disclosing certain information with respect to the Canadian National Railways caused a small sized uproar in the House of Commons Tuesday.

A. De Witt Foster (Cons. Hants Kings) referred to a question which had been placed by him on the order paper enquiring whether the Canadian National Railways had purchased the electric line running from Moreau street to Bout De L'Ile, from the Montreal Tramway Company, and, if so, for what purpose and for what price. The answer given had stated that the management of the railways did not consider it was in the public interest to publish the purchase price. Was it the intention of the Government, asked Mr. Foster, to give the purchase price at a later date?

Follows Custom.

Mr. Dunning replied that it was his practice and that of his predecessors to refer inquiries relating to the Canadian National Railways to the management. Many questions had been asked from time to time on matters concerning which it was considered not in the public interest to give detailed information. A committee on National Railways would shortly function, when an opportunity would be afforded to question the officers of the Canadian National.

Sir Henry Drayton, (Cons. York West), protested. It had never been the practice to refuse information as to capital purchases. Had Mr. Dunning just announced the considered policy of the Government on this point.

Mr. Dunning stated that he thought "a mountain was being made out of a mole hill." He had not announced any general policy.

Another Question.

O. M. Price, (Cons. Westmoreland), then arose to protest against not receiving information in respect to the tonnage handled by the Canadian National at St. John, N. B., and Portland, Me. The reply he had received was to the effect that it would not be in the public interest to make such a disclosure. Dr. Price was proceeding to refer to a speech by Premier King in respect to the tonnage handled by the Canadian National, when he was interrupted by cries of order from the Liberal benches. He persisted, however, until finally Speaker Lemieux intervened, and asked that the member for Westmoreland not make a speech.

Mr. Dunning declared that the Government had no intention to withhold information from the House to which it was entitled. This particular matter had been the subject of difference ever since the country had entered the railway business. He was ready to make public the maximum information that could be disclosed without detriment to the Canadian people and the railways.

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICES

LAKEFIELD, May 19.—At the Regent Street Sunday School observance of Mothers' Day the opening and closing exercises were in accordance with the programme suggested by the General Board for this occasion, and the superintendent, Mr. H. R. Wagar, delivered a thoughtful address on the place of mothers in the world and the duties and responsibilities. The following is the address:

Successful Mothers.

"The greatest human love is that of a mother, and its divine meaning is God. From the moment when motherhood strikes the chords of heavenly music in a woman's heart until the time when darkness holds the closing eyes, a love is manifest, the meaning of which no man can understand, and the like of which finds no analogy except in divine love that always and everywhere embraces His creatures.

"Hers it is to love the child because the child is hers, the life of which she nourishes and cherishes without care or thought of her own. Toil, weariness, privation, suffering, are to her the chords of a chorus of hallowed glory and heavenly joy, when they serve the well being and happiness of the child of her heart.

"She asks no reward, nor expects any, but the privilege of lavishing her affection where the instinct of her heart directs. In the simple word "mother" is a mystery of unselfish and unending affection, which no courser soul nor grosser mind can solve. Men stand amazed at the presence of its manifestations, and angels gaze with admiration upon the outpourings of a mother's love, while only God can fathom the meaning of its sweetness and strength.

"There is an enduring tenderness in the love of a mother for her son that transcends all other affections of the heart. It is neither to be chilled by selfishness, daunted by danger, weakened by worthlessness, nor stifled by ingratitude. She will sacrifice every comfort to his convenience, she will surrender every pleasure to his enjoyment, she will glory in his fame and exult in his prosperity, and if misfortune overtake him he will be the dearer to her for his misfortune, and if disgrace settle upon his name she will still love and cherish him in spite of his disgrace, and if all the world beside cast him off she will be all the world to him.

"What a world of meaning is contained in that one little word "mother." Its magnitude is wonderful. Consider its height and breadth, its duties and obligations. Who can measure its possibility or gauge its meanings.

"Confucius, the great philosopher; Alexander, the victorious general; Moses, the prophet of God; Shakespeare, the author; Scott, the novelist and poet; Washington, McKinley, and scores of others in the world's history, owe a great measure of their success to the teachings of a noble woman, their mother. It is to the early environment of the hearthstone, to the devotion of worthy mothers, that the world is indebted for its great men. Abraham Lincoln, standing on the pinnacle of success as a statesman, declared, 'All that I am or ever expect to be I owe to my angel mother.'

"The mother of Daniel Webster influenced her husband to sell their old homestead, that they might devote the proceeds to the education of their two boys. This act of self-sacrificing love and parental solicitude has already and will forever affect the North American Continent for good and indirectly the entire world.

"How true are the words of Jean Paul Richter, who said: 'To men who have had mothers, all women are sacred for her sake.' In the days of Rome's greatest splendor there stood on one of her seven hills a temple dedicated to 'Fortune' and over its magnificient portal was written the name of 'Volumnia,' for whose honor the temple had been built, to perpetuate the memory of a mother who had saved Rome by her influence over her son. Not far distant from it rose a column on which was inscribed 'Cornelia' in acknowledgement of her worth as the mother of two sons whom she had trained to be defenders of the nation. Such was the respect paid to mothers in pagan Rome.

"'God could not be everywhere,' says a Hebrew proverb. 'Therefore he made mothers.' No language can express the power and heroism and majesty of a mother's love. It shrinks not where man cowers and grows stronger where man faints, and over the wastes of worldly fortune sends the radiance of its quenchless fidelity like a star in heaven.

"There is a supreme moment in the life of a woman when God shows his face, and the divine and human meet and merge. It is the moment when with the miracle of motherhood the depths of human feeling are touched and awakened and the heights of human possibilities are disclosed.

"The birth of a child has often meant the birth of a mother to a higher, better plane of living, with wider understanding, deeper feeling and more positive aim. It is one thing to idle away one's own life, and waste one's own talents. It is quite another thing to neglect the possibilities of a new life entrusted to one's care. After the first rush of joy and pride and gratitude, which are the initial qualities of mother love, comes a realization of a new responsibility which is limitless.

"What is the aim of life? For what purpose are we here in this world? A brief consideration of the course of life answers that question. A child is born, grows up to manhood, marries his chosen mate, children are born to them, they give to these children the benefit of their knowledge and experience of life, train them to take advantage of its opportunities and fulfil its obligations. Generation after generation this process is repeated. We enter the door of life, pass through its educational experiences and make our exit at the other.

"The aim of life is the rearing and training of children into efficient and well-balanced manhood and womanhood. It is the building of character. If you believe in personal immortality, then you will believe that this character-building is for some life of unknown splendor beyond the grave. If you believe with the Positivist, only in a social immortality, still you will believe that this character-building is the aim of life, though its issue be a social order in some unknown future of the earth. In either case the object of life is the development of manhood and womanhood.

"That this process may be carried on, the fathers and mothers and children must be fed and clothed and sheltered. So material industries are organized—agriculture, manufactures, commerce. They must learn the laws of nature and human nature, with which they have to deal; for this purpose the higher institutions of learning are organized. Questions of mutual right and mutual obligation will arise between them, which must be peaceably settled by arbitration, hence laws and courts of justice exist. They will be threatened at times by wrong-doers within the community or by other communities foreign to their own, hence domestic government, armies and navies. They must not only be equipped with intelligence, but inspired with noble motives, hence the institutions of religion. But all institutions, religious, military, political, judicial, educational, are tributary to the work of character-building, to the education and development of children into a complete manhood and womanhood.

"In this work of character-building the mother takes the first place. The child in this plastic condition is given to her to mould, to fashion, to instruct and to inspire. The teacher in the primary and secondary schools takes the second place; she is a kind of second mother, supplementing and continuing the mother's work. If in this great complex organization, which we call life, in which every function is essential to the completed result, one work can be called more important than another, then the most important work in life is that of the mother in the home.

"The mother of a family has her mind and hands full; but her heart is also full of happiness, and her life is filled with all that makes life worth while.

"Her task is not easy. The successful mother requires to be so much. She requires not only patience, but poise; not only justice, but judgment; not only energy, but properly applied energy; not only tenderness, but firmness; not only desire to form character in her children, but the character in herself which shall be a living example.

"It is not sufficient for a mother to say to her children, 'Be truthful,' if she herself is not truthful. She must not discipline her children for misrepresenting facts, while she frightens them into good behaviour with the terrors of bugaboos, else she looses the point, not only by shaking their faith in herself when they learn better, but by conditioning their tendency to goodness upon a wrong and therefore temporary motive. She should rather teach them the advantages of truth according to the law of compensation, setting forth that every good thought or act has its harvest in kind, just as every evil, thought or sinister act has a certain return in misery.

"The children of a real mother are not incidents in her life—they are her life. Her interest in them does not vary with her moods. The unfolding of their natural tendencies day by day is the text book from which she studies. Therein she finds the derivatives around which she builds to form their character. She keeps her heart young. Her sympathies are keen for the things that interest youth. She is their friend, the one in whom they confide their joys and sorrows. She is one of them, a superior one with the knowledge of her years and the spirit of theirs.

"These are the mothers we need. If the women who yearn to accomplish something would cease straining their eyes toward the distant horizon for a life work and look to the field in which they stand, we might have more of them.

"The economics of home and nation are closely allied. The government of our country depends upon the men who rule it. The character of these men has its origon in the home. The character of the home is made and enlarged by the woman who is the mother of that home.

"A mother's love is like unto a well—sealed and kept secret, a deep hidden fount, that flows when every other spring is dry. It is a noble, pure and tender flame, enkindled from above."

Come from Constipation

Your doctor will tell you that nine times out of ten dizziness and headaches mean that your body is being poisoned by constipation. Nujol prevents them by removing the cause.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit, and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

Begum of Bhopal Resigns Power In Favor Of Son

LONDON, May 19 (Canadian Press). — India's only woman ruler, Her Highness the Begum of Bhopal, has abdicated her throne in favor of her son, Newab Jada Hamidulla.

The abdication of the Begum brings to an end a period of eighty years of female rule in the little state of Central India of 6,902 square miles, with a population of about 700,000. She had ruled Bhopal for a quarter of a century, and although now 68 years old, she still is mentally and physically vigorous. She long had wished to see her only son established as successor before her power failed.

FARMERS BUSY NEAR STIRLING

Fine Weather Has Aided Them in Work—Roadmen at Work.

STIRLING NEWS.

STIRLING, May 19.—The past two weeks of fine weather have enabled the farmers to keep busy at their seeding and in a good many cases the work is completed, and what is needed now is a warm rain to start and promote the growth of the seed sown.

The county road men, under Mr. H. Dafoe were busy during the past week repairing the bad places in the roads leading into the village and all the roads are in good condition now.

The summer water system is in operation again, and the lawns are being benefitted by it. Many beautiful beds of tulips are in bloom.

Rev. R. Simpson of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, received a call to the Presbyterian church at Ashburn in the Toronto Presbytery, and as he left the matter in the hands of the Kingston Presbytery to settle, a strong deputation from here and West Huntingdon attended a special meeting of the Presbytery held in St. Andrew's church, Belleville, on Tuesday last to give reasons why Mr. Simpson should not be transferred to Ashburn. After hearing the matter debated the Presbytery decided by a close vote not to allow the change to take place.

Last Wednesday was inspection day for the High school Cadets. The inspecting officer was Captain Heron of the Cadet Service of Kingston. He gave the boys great praise for the manner in which they did the various movements and drill they were called upon to do, saying that they did as well as any corps of cadets he had inspected. He upheld the cadet training system, stating that its main missions are giving boys suitable physical and moral training that will be beneficial for the ordinary affairs of life.

At the request of Captain Heron the school board granted a half holiday on Friday to the school. On Friday night the pupils entertained the members of the school board and their wives to a social time in the assembly room of the school, and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

The resignations of Miss V. Moyer, Miss E. Weese and Miss H. Findlay of the high school staff have been received by the Board of Education.

The village council has purchased a piece of land from the Agricultural Society off the south end of its property for a dumping ground for the village and the one on Henry street will be closed as it was becoming an annual trouble to the Council and a nuisance to the residents of that vicinity.

The annual meeting of the Stirling Womens' Institute was held last week with a good attendance. The work of the past year, as given by the secretary, was along the line of community service. Twenty-seven shares were taken in the new skating and curling association. A donation was given towards the swimming pool; prizes were donated for exhibits at Stirling Fair for pupils of the public school; a baseball outfit for the boys and two croquet sets for the use of the girls of the Public school were presented. Grants were also given to the Christie street hospital, Toronto; the Navy League; and the Beck Memorial fund.

The following are the officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. H. Tullock; first vice, Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn; second vice, Miss E. Donnan; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Clinton McGee; district director, Ms. J. M. McGee; directors: Mrs. F. A. MacDonnell, Mrs. Clifford Baker, Mrs. Geo. Bailey, Mrs. Geo. COMMISSION ON ARMS MEETING

Dutch Statesman Chosen President of Group Preparing For Conference.

TWENTY NATIONS.

GENEVA, May 19 (Canadian Press).—The preparatory commission on disarmament, called to arrange the agenda for an eventual international disarmament conference, held its first meeting to-day. The delegates of twenty nations participated. Jonkheer J. Loudon, former Foreign Minister of the Netherlands, was elected president. M. Paul Boncour of France was nominated by Lord Cecil and warmly supported by the spokesmen of a dozen other countries, but he declined the honor. After the commission has concluded its labors the technical problems will be given into the hands of experts for study, and it is probable the commission will not meet again until after the September session of the Assembly of the League of Nations.

Asbestos Roofings are not expensive

BECAUSE asbestos shingles are used on the finest houses some people have the idea that they are necessarily expensive.

That is not true. You can get the beauty, durability, and fire-safety, of asbestos shingles at a very moderate price.

And remember what you get. A better shingle—beautiful, permanent, fire-safe—far more for your money than with ordinary shingles. Cheap shingles are the expensive ones. Asbestos shingles will cost you less.

Evening Examiner "Ideal Fashions" by Jean Duffy Hamilton

Simple and Conservative in Line

Another proof of the popularity of "prints" is seen in this simple model, ideal for morning or street wear. The frock with a crossover effect is always as fashionable as it is becoming, and in this design the fronts overlap each other well, and are held in place by narrow string belts tying at the center back. There are patch pockets of plain contrasting-color material to match the convertible collar, and facing of long revers. The long set-in sleeves are gathered into little bands at the wrists, and may be cut short for house wear. No. 1345 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3¾ yards 36-inch bordered material, with ¾ yard plain contrasting. Price 20 cents.

Every woman's desire is to achieve that smart different appearance which draws favorable comment from the observing public. The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are originated in the heart of the style centers and will help you to acquire that much desired air of individuality. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

THE HOUSEHOLD SCRAP BOOK.

The household scrap book is one of the most aviuable possessions of the accomplished housewife. In the book she keeps all records of the name and use of certain materials used in her different lines of endeavor. For instance, if she has discovered a preparation to clean porcelain perfectly, another for marble, still another for brasses, and so on down the list, it should be a matter of record.

There are may spice mixtures, curry and other savory things that are the result of study and experience. They are lost if not written down, and we often hear people say, "I would like to make so and so if I could only remember how mother did it."

How we mended rare china or doals, how we cleaned a rare bronze vase, how we brightened our cut glass and cleaned our water bottles, how we took ink stains out of a valuable rug, and grease out of an evening dress, shoe blackening from blankets, strained oil to look limpid and clear in a glass lamp, made a sick bed afresh without moving the patient, or made a wedding cake are all matters worth handing down. Start your scrap book now and keep it going.

KINGSTON EIGHTY.

City Was Incorporated on May 18, 1846—John Counter First Mayor.

KINGSTON, May 19.—Yesterday was a notable day in the history of Kingston, as it marked eighty years since Kingston was incorporated as a city. John Counter was the first Mayor of the city. At this time there were but five wards in the city, while at the present time there are seven. The salary of the Mayor was placed at a sum not to exceed 100 pounds.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

THE GINGIVAE OR GUMS.

Nature is a watchful Mother, and so it is that she has clothed the teeth about with tissues that fit and wind about each tooth snugly like a protective garment.

These tissues, then, that so ably protect the delicate tooth membrane and supporting structures from exposure, and injury, are spoken of as the gingivae or gums.

Among the tissues of the mouth, the gingivae stand out in importance because of the fact that, while in health they are barriers to disease, yet when injured, they become the portals of intry to infective processes that are ever assailing the body defences.

For this reason the maintenance of thee gingivae in health, is of utmost mport ance.

These tissues have no direct attachment to the tooth at its neck, being simply fitted around closely; and they are so designed that food crushed between the teeth glide along their sloping surfaces to either side of the arch. Thus, all lodgements of debris which, in their decomposition, would give rise to offensive and disease producing compounds, are prevented.

Countless numbers of tiny fibres, embedded in the gingivae, pass to and fro in all directions and give them their firmness and elasticity. Where suffering through injury, or other cause, these fibres become weakened with consequent flabbiness of the gingivae exhibiting a lack of tissue tone.

The gingivae are particularly rich in blood supply as is evidenced by their color. By this means there is provided the rapid repair of tissue, following upon the frequent minor injuries and scraping that, they are subjected to in the chewing of food.

Firm and resistant as are the gingivae to minor injuries, yet where subjected to long-continued and repeated irritations, a mile inflammation is set up, which, progressing, leads to more serious disease that at once becomes a menace both to the teeth, and to the health of the individual.

EAR RINGS AGAIN!

Murmurings and whisperings of the come-back of the ear-ring have been abroad in the land for some time. Ear-rings have dripped from the heads of pretty girls on magazine covers, and adorned the fashion models—but that was all! Now it seems they are really being worn—long, bizarre ones of beaten brass and gold, pearl and onyx, jade and lapis.

BIG HATS!

They're really here and we don't mean maybe! Big, droopy black ones of hemp and milan with one or two bands of grosgrain or snakeskin. And bags to match the bandings on the hat! And shoes to match the bag! Thus, grey straw hat with black and white calfskin band, black and white calfskin bag and shoes!

ICED TEA DIVINE!

About one-half hour before serving tea, squeeze the juice of 3 lemons and 1 orange. Fill kettle with fresh cold water. Place 8 tea balls in a pot, labels cut off. When kettle is boiling well pour 1 quart boiling water on tea balls. Let steep 8 minutes, pressing balls into water. Drain into pitcher filled with cracked ice. Let stand 3 minutes, then pour into pitcher in which has been placed orange and lemon juice over cracked ice. Sweeten to taste and add garnishes of lemon, orange, pineapple slices and maraschino cherries.

ON BEING A PARENT.

"Providing cod liver oil or orange juice and right habits of bathing and behaving are not enough," according to a little volume now put out by the Child Study Association of America, called "Concerning Parents." The association stresses affection, serenity, order, continuity, justice, sympathy and freedom. It is inclined to list the trait of serenity first.

Sick Stomach Teaches Her a Lesson

Brooklyn, Mrs. Alfred Fie writes:—"I had become accustomed to arising each day with a heavy head, dizzy, and bad taste in my mouth. My bowels were frequently clogged. One day I became so sick I had to go home. A friend advised Carter's Little Liver Pills. I feel like a made over person since using them. Whenever my stomach goes bad again I'll certainly know what to do."

Carter's Little Liver Pills relieve the constipated condition by cleansing the intestines of their waste matter. Their action is gentle. Druggists 25 and 75c red packages.

THE FARMER..

My hands are rugged, calloused, worn; my muscles hard and labor torn. It seems that I was one man born to plant of oats and wheat and corn.

My face is reddened by the sun. At dawn, each day, my toil's begun. I have my daily row to run, and grimly is my living won.

I pit my strength against the soil. It's hard and bitter tedious toil. The sweat of brow is muscle oil, that flows, forbidding crops to spoil.

By turn of mind, and turn of hand, I am the one who feeds the land. My "gold," though not the kind that's panned, is, by a world of hungry, scanned.

There's little else of life I see, than just the land that looks to me, to raise things as they ought to be. A slave—and yet, a slave that's free.

The Border Line Is Smart in Sleeve and Skirt

The border puts its highly decorative edge on so many materials that modes have been especially designed to put them in their best place. The full sleeve and the straight skirt turn them to good account. The two-piece frock shown here can be used advantageously either for wide or narrow bordered silks. The border not only furnishes the trimming, but its straight edges are easy to handle. They are to be had in the most exquisite colors—pale salmon pink with soft blue, snuff brown with yellow, apple green with lavender and canary and many other delightful combinations.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

Women Use

Then dispose of this new hygienic help easily as tissue—no laundry

WOMEN by the millions are discarding the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new and scientific way.

A way that offers protection unknown before. A way, too, that solves the old embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Eight in 10 better-class women now employ it.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

HER OWN WAY by A GIRL of TODAY

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

"And now—," I asked Mamie quite calmly after she had told me that she was going to Buddy Tremaine on his own terms—"what are you going to do now? What did he ask you to do?"

"I don't know. He said he wanted me to go back to Toronto and take up my singing lessons again. What do you advise me to do about it, Judy?"

"What good is my advice, Mamie dear? You have already decided. You don't want my advice. You want confirmation, and honestly, I don't know what to tell you."

I said this, for in my own soul I knew I had encountered a bigger question than I could answer for anyone other than myself. It was one of those questions that each individual must decide and does decide in spite of any and all advice.

Was what Mamie Riley had to give to the world of greater value than what she had to keep for herself? Is a person's accomplishment a bigger thing than the one who accomplishes it? I did not know.

The one thing I did know, however, was that I was inexpressibly tired and, looking into Mamie's face I saw that it was as drawn and weary as I felt my own to be.

Putting my arms about her I said: "Come on, Mamie. Let's go to bed. I don't believe in all this city there are two girls who have had such an exciting day."

As we started out the doorway, Mrs. Riley almost fell upon us. It seems that she had been awakened and had come down to the little sitting room and had listened. She had just got the last of the conversation. She had heard enough to know that her daughter had again met Buddy Tremaine.

Very dramatically she barred our way and started to harangue us, especially me, with all the venom of a virtuous Irish woman whose one idea in life is the chastity of her daughters.

She laid all the blame upon me for this interview with Buddy, although the first I had heard of it was when Mamie had told me of it about twenty minutes before.

"You get out of the house, Julia Dean, immediately. "I'll not have the likes of you talking to my daughter."

"Mother, mother," remonstrated Mamie. "You mustn't say that. You can't turn her out this time of night. Judy has done nothing except get nearly murdered today."

TOMORROW: A Woman's Great Virtue.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, MAY 20.

An interesting and possibly exciting day is the forecast from the important lunar and mutual transits. It is probable there may be opportunity for a radical change or journey and this may be turned to good account only if the strong tendency to hasty, rash and impulsive actions be held in check. The mental equipment for large and courageous ventures will not be found wanting, should cool judgment and proper initiative be exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of excellent opportunity, with probable important change with travel, provided they refrain from hasty and impulsive acts and ill-guarded words. The judgment should be good and the spirit for large undertakings stimulated. But move cautiously. A child born on this day may have splendid judgment and qualities of initiative but it should be given early training and discipline in the matter of putting a curb on its tongue and its temper. Rash and impulsive deeds may be the cause of self-undoing.

YOUR HEALTH

Pretty soon it will be hay-fever time. "June colds" will be here and then, as the Summer progresses, the old-fashioned attacks will be made upon the perennial victims of a very disagreeable affliction.

Ragweed and goldenrod are the plants usually regarded as the evil ones, but one of the great authorities has said recently that golden rod is wrongly accused. He does not excuse ragweed, however. Neither does he overlook timothy hay and similar grasses as possible culprits.

Hay fever and asthma are near relatives. Indeed, it is rare for the hay-fever victim to escape an occasional attack of asthma. Most research workers regard both diseases as having a common origin.

It is interesting to find what a number of agents must be included among the things capable of producing asthmatic attacks. For instance, the dandruff of the horse may excite violent spasms of asthma.

I read of such a case recently. The doctor who reported it said: "We had one patient who failed to react to a large number of test serums, but reacted positively to horse dandruff. She declared she did not come in contact with horses, but a search of the neighborhood discovered a stable back of the house in which she lived. She had not known it was there, but the animal dust was carried to her through the air."

The dust from feathers in a pillow may excite the symptoms. Sleeping in one particular bed may bring on an attack of asthma. That particular bed has a pillow filled with feathers possessing the peculiar property which disturbs the susceptible person.

Not every asthmatic person is susceptible to the unfortunate effects I have described. There must be that individuality, or what the doctors call an "idiosyncrasy," permitting the particular agent to do its disturbing work.

There are various sorts of fiber rugs in common use. Some of them are made from materials capable of producing these evil symptoms.

There are other forms or attacks of asthma which come from food poisoning. Eggs, cream or some food stuff may possess qualities which produce asthmatic symptoms in susceptible persons. Just as they may cause hives in some, they cause asthma in others.

Of course, it may well be that other factors are quite as important as those I have mentioned. But in every case of hay fever or asthma, you must give it a lot of study to see if some external agent or favorite food may not be responsible for the trying symptoms.

NEW EARRINGS

A new example of the popular long earrings are these of the aristocratic Empress Josephine jewelry mode. They have pearl drops and sterling petals set with rhinestones.

SHAWLS FOR DAY.

An unusual note in this spring's style is that of a frock accompanied by a matching shawl of plain crepe, very lavishly fringed. This, incidentally, is a day costume.

Five thousand business and professional women from all sections of the United States are expected to attend the annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which is to meet in Des Moines in July.

A woman employed in the New York offices of one of the large tourist agencies is known as the "human guide book." Through close study and long experience she is able to give off hand the railway and steamship connections throughout a large part of the world.

The first 100 years were the hardest, declares Mrs. Isabel Vasquez, a resident of Brady, Texas, who in July next will celebrate her 110th birthday.

FOOTBALL MATCH THURSDAY EVENING

Masseys Vs. Thistles at King Edward Park.

The first cup tie of the local soccer season takes place tomorrow (Thursday) evening on King Edward Park, when last year's cupholders (The Thistle), meet the new aggregation (the Masseys), in the first round of the Father Phelan Charity Cup.

All soccer fans should take advantage of this evening game, because the schedule that has been drawn up does not contain any twilight matches This change was created through a number of the Masseys players requesting a change of date so that they may be able to enjoy a vacation of longer duration, hence the reason of the evening encounter, which The Thistle agreed to right away.

Kick off is scheduled for 6 o'clock prompt. Referee J. C. Russell will be in charge. All collections go to charity.

NEW ANTI-FREEZE COMPOUND.

A member of the research staff of a large chemical laboratory in Long Island City, N. Y., Dr. G. O. Curme, Jr., claims he has discovered an anti-freeze compound for motor cars that combines the advantages of alcohol and glycerine, according to Popular Science Monthly. The new compound is called ethylene glycol.

What do you spend on shoe shines?

Ever figure it out? If only three a week, you spend 30c., plus 15c. in tips—45c.—or about $2.00 per month. Costly shines!

Ever figure out what a 15c. tin of "Nugget" will do? There are 100 shines in each tin—and "Nugget" not only gives a brilliant waterproof shine, but softens, feeds and preserves the leather as no other shoe polish can do. And, it takes but a few minutes to shine one's own shoes with "Nugget".

HELPFUL HINTS GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

CECIL LEITCH—PLAYING IRONS.

Beginners must never try to use a full swing when playing an iron.

This is most important, as should they do so, they will be almost certain to overswing. Something between the perpendicular and horizontal will be found sufficient.

In iron club play the ball is hit just before the clubhead reached the point at the bottom of the circle it describes.

This means that a full follow-through will be impossible, and that, instead, the club-head will take a divot just in front of where the ball lay. In order to achieve this result the weight must be chiefly on the left leg, the stance must be firm, the club must be gripped very firmly with both hands, the backward swing must be well-controlled and not too full, and the body must be slightly in advance of the club-head on the downward swing.

Throughout the stroke the left arm should be as straight as possible. The whole shot is a hit rather than a sweep.

In golf, as in everything else, a very little makes a great difference.

CLOCK ROBBED AUZZIES TEAM

Forced To Draw With Marleybone—Attendance Shrinks.

5,000 AT LORD'S.

LONDON, May 19 (Canadian Press Cable).—The visiting Australian cricketers allowed too little time for the second innings of the Marylebone Cricket Club Tuesday, and as a result they were unable to force a victory, the game being drawn. The score was Australians, 383 for 9 wickets, innings declared; M.C.C., 119 in the first innings and 83 for 5 wickets in the second.

The attendance at Lord's had again dwindled yesterday. Only 5,000 spectators attending the famouscricket ground for the third day's play. The sky was overcast and the pitch was soft and easy.

At the close of Monday's play, the Australians were at bat with nine wickets down and the score standing at 264. W. Ponsford and A. Richardson were wielding the willow for the visitors when time was called. Tuesday, these players resumed. Their tenth wicket partnership was undefeated throughout.t M.C.C. tried several bowlers, but Ponsford in particular found them at every angle. He batted altogether for three hours and thirty-five minutes and in that time had slammed over eight boundaries. His timing and placing were beautiful features in his driving. Monday, his score stood at 46, and yesterday he reversed the figures, adding 64 to that total. Richardson began at zero and attained the half-century.

In one hour and forty minutes of their partnership they contributed 119 runs, and with the board registering 383 they retired with their wickets intact.

It was not until five minutes to four that the M.C.C. went in for the second time. Nevertheless the Australian bowlers immediately settled down to business and their deliveries evidenced that they were all out to compell a win. The M.C.C.'s wickets went cheaply. MacBryan duplicated his first innings' performance when he was dismissed once more by Woodfull's catch for the same count of two. Ryder, however, was the bowler. G. T. B. Stevens was even less fortunate, for he had just managed to break zero when Ryder took his wicket. This was a marked contrast to his 77 in the first frame.

Hendren also fell on an evil day, for he was caught out by Oldfield at 14. A stand was staged by A. W. Carr, the Notts captain, registering 34 before he was caught and bowled by Mailey, while Chapman had exceeded the score mark before the day was called.

The M.C.C. had still one hundred and one runs to get to break even with the Australians first innings, and their exhibition today was a manifestation of clear inability to do so. The visitors were robbed of their victory by the clock.

FARMERS ON LAND.

Busy With Spring Work at Cavan—Auction Sale Held.

CAVAN, May 19.—This last week has seen nearly all the farmers at work on the land. There has not been seeding done yet.

The auction sale of farm stock and implements of the late Richard Howden on Wednesday last was largely attended. Horses sold well, the highest price being $180, and cows averaged around $40. The farm has been sold to Robert Hooton.

Mrs. B. F. Carley of Toronto visited friends here last week and attended the bazaar in Cavan on Friday evening.

William Nill and J. C. Swan were visitors to Roseneath on Friday.

Mr. M. Staples of Orono visited Mr. and Mrs. H. Seymour last week.

Mrs. Chas. Marshall of Toronto has returned home, having been called here on account of the illness and death of her father, William Kinyon.

LEAGUE OPENER

The Examiner Softball League will commence schedule games this evening, at the Oval, 6 o'clock, when Max Swanston's Senators meet Roy Taylor's Yankees. Alex. Kay, the C.O.B.L. umpire, has kindly consented to be official arbiter.

Gerald L. Patterson, the celebrated Australian tennis star and Davis Cup player, has accepted a position as manager of the Australian branch of one of the big American sporting goods houses.

Diamond Disputes Decided

BY BILLY EVANS

What are the rights of baserunners to advance on an infield fly?

* * *

As far as it concerns the advancement of baserunners, the infield fly is no different than any other fly ball that is caught or dropped.

In other words, the baserunner can advance at his peril.

If the infield fly is caught he must return to his base or make himself liable to be put out.

If it is dropped and he seeks to advance, it is up to him; he does so at his own peril.

Thus the infield fly that is caught other fly ball so handled, as far as the runners are concerned.

BILLY EVANS Says

Fighting Spirit.

Ty Cobb broke into the American League in 1905. He is the oldest active ball player in the league as to service and years.

Cobb has seen a flock of athletes come and go during his 20 years of campaigning in the big show. He has mingled with the stars of the past and present.

Recently in discussing the failure of several highly touted phenoms to deliver, I asked Tyrus how he sized up the game of 20 years ago with the 1926 vintage.

"It's better in some ways, perhaps not so good in others. It's an entirely different style but the fans like it and that is all that is necessary.

"The hitting for several years has dominated the game and with that condition existing inside baseball has suffered."

When I asked him if there was any feature of play in which he noted a decided difference, he answered thusly, almost before I had finished my question:

"There was more fight in the old days. A majority of the players were more aggressive and this made for keener competition."

I must agree with Ty on that angle, but have no solution to offer for such a condition.

* * *

Master Pitcher.

Grover Cleveland Alexander has lost some of the "zip" on the fast ball that once made him the greatest rival of Walter Johnson, but he is still some pitcher.

Ordinarily, when I have an off day the ball park is one place I shun. I was in Chicago recently with the afternoon off and the Cubs were scheduled to play the Cardinals.

I really had no intention of going to the ball game until I learned that Alexander was slated to pitch. I hadn't seen him in action since the 1915 world series between the Philadelphia Nationals and Boston Red Sox, in which I was one of the umpires.

* * *

Big Attraction.

At that time Alexander was at the height of his career. He had everything, including a side-arm fast ball that fairly whistled as it sped to the plate.

Incidentally, there was the great Rogers Hornsby as an extra incentive to take in the game. Here was the champion batsman arrayed against the old master. Some attraction.

It didn't take but a few balls to convince me that the good old right arm of Alexander had suffered from the wear and tear of many hard seasons. There was a bit of effort rather than smoothness to his delivery, but it was easy to see that he was still a master pitcher.

He won his game, 3-2, and gave a fine exhibition of pitching, in which his brain served to better purpose than his arm.

* * *

Slow Ball Asset.

Discussing pitching with Alexander and the changes that have crept into the game since he made his debut 15 years back, he remarked:

"The lively ball has made quite a difference in the art of pitching. I might say the lively ball made a slow ball a necessary part of every pitchter's repertoire.

"The fast one and the curve is all I used for years and was pretty successful but when they slipped the 'rabbit' ball into the game I was forced to develop a slow one.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE IN SECOND SEASON

Constitution Adopted and Committees Appointed—Officers Re-elected.

DOURO, May 19.—The second annual meeting of the North Peterborough Softball League was held in the school building of S.S. No. 7 on May 14.

It was moved by Alex. Carlow, seconded by R. Tedford, that the minutes of the last annual meeting be adopted as read. Carried.

Moved by M. Coughlin, seconded by Alex. Carlow, that clause 1 of the constitution, viz.: That Spalding's official 12-inch soft ball be used, the home team to furnish balls; and Spalding's official rules govern all games, be adopted.

Moved by M. Coughlin, seconded by R. Tedford, that the financial report be adopted as read.

Moved by Ed. Allen (North), seconded by Alex Carlow that Clause 2 be amended to read as June 1 and entrance fee, $1.00. Clause 2 read: All teams wishing to enter pay a fee of $2.00 to League secretary to help defray expenses, not later than May 1. Regulation 3 read: That the visiting team always appoint a competent umpire. Moved by Alex Carlow, seconded by Martin Coughlin, that James Foley, Frederick Walsh, William Hayes and R. Allen be appointed as umpires and that they umpire in the order named.

Regulation 4 read: All games must be played on schedule dates, unless both managers agree to a postponement. The secretary to be notified twenty-four hours before scheduled time for game. Moved by M. Coughlin, seconded by Leo Moher, that regulation 4 be adopted. Carried.

Regulation 5 read: A dispute committee consisting of Frederick Fitzgerald, Martin Coughlin and Frederick Walsh. Moved in amendment by Martin Coughlin, seconded by Alexander Carlow, that the four umpires and Cecil Bolton be a dispute committee. Regulation 6 read: All protests must be in writing, accompanied by a deposit of five dollars, which will be returned in case protest is sustained. Protest must be made within forty-eight hours of game, to secretary of League. Moved by Martin Coughlin, seconded by Edward Allen (North), that regulation 6 be adopted. Carried.

Regulation 7 read: In case of disteams in protest appoint a representative to meet committee, whose decision must be final. Moved by Leo Coughlin, seconded by R. Tedford, that regulation 7 read: "That both teams inprotest appoint a representative, etc."

Regulation 8 read: Any player receiving money, betting or conspiring, or attempting to lose game or showing improper conduct during the game, shall be suspended from League by dispute committee for such length of time as they may see fit. Moved by Alex Carlow, seconded by R. Tedford, that regulation 8 be adopted. Carried.

Regulation 9 read: No team shall play any player who was not residing in this community at the beginning of the year 1925. Moved in amendment by M. Coughlin, seconded by Edward Allen (North) (a) that each team sign 15 players residing in the country (no players residing in the city will be allowed to play); (b): Line up must be in the hands of the secretary by June 1; (c): Any player not signed by June 1 will not be allowed to play. Carried.

The draws for the first two games are as follows:

Lakefield vs Centre Douro at Centre Douro, June 4; Burns' Bridge vs North Douro at Burns' Bridge, June 8.

Moved by M. Coughlin, seconded by Alexander Carlow, that all the officers for 1925 carry on this season, namely:

President, C. Bolton; Vice-President, Joseph O'Connor; Secretary-Treasurer, Bart Allen.

The president, Cecil Bolton, pointed out that the league had been a good thing for the district. Not only had it provided sport and amusement for both young and old, but it had also helped to keep boys on the farm and to make them more satisfied with rural conditions.

Debate missions —.—a(?H

The Young People's Union of Park Street Baptist Church met on Monday evening to hear the pros and cons of a debate "Resolved that foreign missions offer greater opportunities for life service than home missions." Mr. A. Thomson and Miss A. Wright spoke on behalf of the affirmative, while Mr. G. Nicholls and Mrs. Dixon sustained the negative. All four addresses contained much information presented in interesting fashion. The judge gave his decision in favor of the negative. The Rev. N. R. McLeod, minister of the church, occupied the chair.

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

Important question before two-family house is whether Dempsey shall stage his comeback at the expense of Gene Tunney, Harry Wills, Jo-Jo, the yodeling ape, or Mr. Cook's four Hawaiians.

Large-stomached individuals, who constitute scrambled evils of New York boxing commission, spent three years coaxing Dempsey to sign on jagged line.

Now they are all worn out like community toothbrush in family of 18 to learn that what Dempsey signed was not a freckled line but a color line.

Wills has been fluttering around championship candle like legalized booch-sniffer around mountaineer's still ever since Willie Hoppe was boy wonder.

Still there is some question whether Wills is entitled to first shot at Dempsey or last shot at bally-hoo boys, who originally presented him to dizzy public as man-eating, God-fearing Brown Panther.

Things have cracked so badly for Wills during his exile on the isle of busted beaks that he hasn't more than $300,000 to his name right now, not including his town house and the new gas-eater from France.

It's not easy to pump up roaring gusher of sympathy for the poor harassed heroine who takes the stand wearing shimmering satins and glittering rocks.

Most of the unemployed citizenry who subscribe to fights in grave, judicial manner, don't care who or what Dempsey fights as long as he fights.

As we interpret addled brain of great fight-loving public, chief interest lies in learning whether Dempsey's block can be knocked loose or whether he can knock somebody else's block spinning.

This will be authentic indication he has substituted the kid glove for the boxing glove and there is existing suspicion champ has been kidding the customers too long anyway.

FORTY LOVE (G-R-R!)

Golf and tennis are two charming pastimes. They attract the better class of sportsmen. Mr. Heinz, put that pickle down!

Unlike the more boisterous and vulgar sports, there is no personal venom in golf and tennis. There is, on the other hand, a fine warm feeling of genuine comradeship. More power to you, Mr. Edison!

You go to a rowdy prizefight, for instance, and you hear one of the bums, beg pardon, one of the contestants, snarl at the other: "Take that, you bow-legged son of a sea cow!"

You go to a ball game and what do you hee? Besides Altrock and Schacht, we mean. Yes, what do you see—and what do you hear?

You hear a swaggering left-hander from the cornfields calling the umpire dirty-dirty and awful-awful and doubling it in spades. Is that nize? Dunt eesk!

It is different in golf and tennis. Quite different, my dear. Indeed, it is vastly different. One might even go so far as to say it is supremely different.

What does a tennis player say when his opponent, or vis-a-vis, as we on the verandah term it, drives out of bounds, or nets his ball or does something equally silly? He says—and loud enough for all to hear—"tut, tut, old fruit! It was bally hard luck. I'm actually distressed."

And what does the golfer say when his vis-a-vis, or opponent, as we in the lounge room term it, tops his approach shot and the ball rolls into a sand trap? Quick now, what does he say?

Just as we imagined. You, being obviously a vulgarian, or perhaps even a vegetarian, do not know. Well, he says, "Tut, tut, old fruit! It was bally hard luck. I'm actually distressed."

And what does the high-minded tennis player REALLY mean to say when the other guy catches up with misery in gross quantities? And the gorgeous golfer, too? What does he REALLY say?

"Well, it's time you were booting one. You've had all the luck since the match began. It's a fine howdy-do when a star like me has to take a pasting from a dub who is all broken out with horse shoes."

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—In "Sparrows," an original screen story soon to be presented, Mary Pickford not only tops her previous efforts but adds as well a powerfully moving drama of adolescent terrors and courage to the masterpieces of film.

Here is the very Pickford essence, represented in the oldest of a group of orphan children enslaved by a sinister and heartless "baby farmer" in a fetid swamp retreat.

Here is the ragged, buffeted but indomitable girl character in whom Mary has so often identified herself on the screen, but shadowed forth with new and poignant vigor, blazing with fiercely sacrificing maternal concern for her more helpless companions.

Beauty in Misery.

"Sparrows" is in no sense a mere movie. It quivers with life and radiates a somber beauty in action and design. Against the setting of foul and melancholy swamp, and the character of its abominable keeper, the naivete and faith of Mary and the children glows in breath-taking poignancy.

It is a very simple story of the most loathsome and the most gracious human emotions, dominated by the active faith of a girl who believes that the power which marks each sparrow's fall will surely liberate the orphan band from peril and misery—a faith which does not remain lax, but uses its own desperate ingenuity.

A kidnapping which brings the outside world furiously into the abysmal baby farm serves as answer to the prayers for salvation.

Deli-erance From Ogre.

For sheer emotional power and suspense no scene has been filmed which outmatches Mary's deliverance of her baby comrades from the swamp ogre and his brutal wife. Fearful for life itself, Mary braves the treacherous bayous, laive with alligators; dragging, pushing, carrying and cajoling the terrified little ones to safety. Frequently they are to their arm-pits in the sucking mire, and no little real terror accompanied the making of these scenes, as one may see by watching the faces of the little players.

One superb vista shows the tykes crawling along a precariously sagging limb, just beyond the yawning gullets of a twisting knot of reptiles—with all the powers of evil beneath them and only a shaky branch to support their faith. This is a perfect bit of symbolism, contrasting the abysmal and the sublime.

These more forbidding elements however, are balanced by tender pathos and lighter moods of humor, blending ears and laughter. Romantic love, always negligible in Miss Pickford's pictures, is almost entirely absent from this. And rightly so, for it would be an intrusion.

William Beaudine directed "Sparrows," and Gustav von Seyferpitz and Roy Stewart as principals share with Mary and the talented children the creation of a truly fine and moving drama, beautifully pictured.

SPECIAL MEETING MONAGHAN COUNCIL

By-laws Passed and Road Expenditure Decided On.

The North Monaghan Council held a special meeting on Monday evening at the Court House. The following by-laws were introduced, read and passed:

By-law 882, for the abolition of statute labor.

By-law No. 883, appointing Archie Patterson, township road superintendent for the year 1926.

By-law 884, setting aside a special area for road purposes.

By-law 885, making provisions for expenditure in township roads for the year 1926.

The estimated expenditure on the township roads for the current year, as set by the Council, is as follows:

Bridge construction	$1,000.00
Machinery	500.00
Superintendents	500.00
Repairs	4,000.00

The Clerk was instructed to close out all the present road accounts and to open up a new general road account in place thereof. The present road and bridge account is to be continued.

A resolution was passed that the Council of the Township of North Monaghan meet as a Court of Revision at the Court House, Peterborough, on Saturday, May 29, at 2 p.m.

The Clerk was instructed to advise Mr. T. E. Bradburn taht the Council wishes him to renew the policy with the Globe Indemnity Co. of Toronto.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Y.W.C.A. Activities

The following is the report given at the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association, held last week, by the secretary, Miss Leta Brownscombe. Miss Brownscombe prefaced her report with a charming little story, illustrative of the four-fold aims of the 'Y' in the training and assistance given the girls in its charge, which centers about the efforts of a Princess of the olden times to procure jewels fit for her wedding. After much wandering, she returns home without jewels, but with only wayside stones gathered by the road, on the journey. These were ordered made into ornaments by the king, her father, who, at the conclusion of the story, "clasped about the waist of the princess a girdle of glittering rubies, placed on her brow a coronet of diamonds, fastened about her throat a necklace of pearls, and slipped on her wrists bracelets of opals. "For," he said, "no queen could have fairer jewels than these, the girdle of health, the coronet of knowledge, the necklace of purity, and the bracelets of loving service."

The report follows:

Now let us turn our thoughts to the girls who come to the Young Women's Christian Association in a quest for health, for education, to learn more of God and to be of service in the world, and let us travel through the past year with them.

First of all we come to the swimming pool, where we see a crowd of happy girls, big and little and in between, splashing and laughing in the pool, learning to swim and dive, studying how to save people's lives and having a perfect time together. Here under the direction of Miss Littlefield they are finding the jewels of health. During last summer 1,438 lessons were given and 1,336 swims recorded. Each month special swimming meets were held and at the close of the season a Big Swimming Exhibition was enjoyed by 200 enthusiastic spectators as well as by the 50 or more girls taking part. Three championship cups donated by Hon. G. N. Gordon, W. G. Morrow and Mrs. Fenton were competed for and won by Mary Dunlop, Sadie Levine, and Mary Kingsburry. Numerous other prizes donated by members of the swimming pool committee were much appreciated and well earned by the winners. Examinations for the R. L. S. certificates were tried by 23 pupils and all passed successfully. Seven girls in all now hold the silver medal Award of Merit, one of the highest recognitions of the R. L. S. In order to help cover the large expenses envolved in operating the pool, the girls, board, and committee members and friends united in putting on a garden party in June and thus supplemented the funds by $100.00.

Through spring and summer days we find the 'Y' girls on hikes, picnics down the river, camp cooked suppers, here in the open air finding jewels of health, added knowledge and a love of Gods out of doors. In the Autumn due to the kindness of Mrs. Dr. Morrison in loaning their cottage at Kawartha Park, 20 of our girl leaders enjoyed a happy and worth while week end conference, where together away from busy city life, we talked and planned ways and means of making out Y.W.C.A. with its four-fold program, physical intellectual, spiritual and service help more girls in their quest for the abundant life.

With the brisk, bracing days of fall and the road leads us back to our Association building and past a regular round of activities. We come to the girls who are taking the gymnasium work, exercises of all kinds that will make and keep them well and strong. Here 514 through the regular gym classes are seeking first the jewels of health, but find that also are added some jewels of knowledge, jewels which mean God, and jewels won in serving others. The gym aggregate attendance for October to May was 11,582. Gymnasium classes include general and corrective gymnastics, Swedish, light apparatus, reed club, wand, and dumbell exercises folk, interpretive an classic dancing and athletic games. 56 girls representing 8 Association, factory and school teams played each week in the Basketball league. The three winning teams were presented trophies donated by Hon. G. N. Gordon, Mrs. E. E. Harvey and the Westclox, Bonner and De Laval factories Eighty-one new members joined the gymnasium during the campaign in January. Special parties arranged by this department were Hallowe'en, Christmas, Valentine, and St. Patricks for Junior and Senior members, over 300 being present at some of these parties. The Gym. Pageant, showing 500 girls in regular class work makes one realize the splendid help Miss Littlefield is to the girls of Peterboro in their quest for health.

And now we turn to watch the classes and groups of girls seeking the jewels of knowledge. Because Peterboro has such a plendid technical school many of these girls are referred there for classes in cooking, sewing, millinery, art, etc. Here in the Association we see several pupils studying elocution with Mrs. F. McNeeley, as teacher, and here once a week a group of 19 members learning to play harmoniously the ukelele under the direction of Miss G. Glover. In the basketry class 22 members learned the art of weaving and making beautiful handicraft, and found Mrs. Dobson a wonderful instructor. Here too we find a junior and senior Red Cross Home Nursing Class learning under the instruction of Miss G. Colbourne to relieve the suffering of those ill in our homes. The junior members successfully passed the Red Cross examinations and were presented diplomas and the members in the Senior class for regular attendance won certificates.

Pehaps one of the most enjoyed classes was the English Literature class conducted by Miss Margaret Hamilton. The 15 members met regularly all winter and studied, St. Joan, Hamlet and Browning's poems and had a good time along with their study.

The Junior cooking classes of 42 members met once a week all season and were taught by Miss Marion Harvey to make all kinds of delicious eatables.

And here on Saturday mornings we see 50 or more children grouped together listening eagerly to stories which will help them gow intellectually and here in the library every hour of the day seeking knowledge from books and magazines we find our members, 183 members in all, through definite classes, finding the jewels which make the coronet of knowledge.

On we go and come to a small group gathered around Miss E. Thomlinson learning from God's book his way of life for us, and here of a Sunday evening a group of 40 or 50 girls and boys joining in a service of song and praise. During the week of November 8 to 14 every class in the Association joined in simple services of World Fellowship and again during our Foreign Work Campaign each member learned something of Japan and God's part in Y.W.C. Work there. And in the Green Room each night after supper we find Mrs. Morrison and the girls of our residence gatheed for prayers. The white jewels of purity are found in abundance by those who take the quiet times to look for them.

On we hurry watching for a moment 100 children of the Ever Bright and Sunshine clubs gathered around Miss Storey working and playing, learning to cook and do all sorts of things that will make them better women when they grow up. We pass to three clubs of 50 Senior girls with their leaders finding in the Association fun and friendship and opportunities for all round development and taking back to other girls in factory, shop and school, jewels they have found in the Y.W.C.A.

Another group of girls who are finding jewels of health, knowledge purity and service are ten 100 girls who, with Mrs. Morrison, their Y.W.C.A. mother, live and work and play together all year.

They find health through regular hours and appetizing, nourishing meals, 76,860 of which were served last year in our dining room. Though associating together and taking advantage of many opportunities offered for growth an all round home life is developed. Special parties arranged by Mrs. Morrison for all the House girls were held at Halowe'en, Christmas, Valentine, St. Patricks, Easter, etc., when members of the Board were guests. Many little evening parties in the girls' rooms at nights make the Y.W.C.A. residence a happy place to live. Mrs. Morrison is interested in every thing that interests every girl who makes her home here and whether girls are ill or well she willingly gives of her time and energy. In our residence beside regular boarders over 300 transients were glad of a temporary home and frequently spoke in deepest appreciation of the service and courtesy received at our Y.W.C.A.

The bracelets of loving service are found all along the way. In every group there are many ways of serving others. The House girls packed Christmas boxes of cheer the gymnasium members donated toys and entertained the children of the shelter and orphanage to a Christmas party and the various clubs also sent boxes to hospitals and homes. All members united in raising $150.00 to send to the Japanese Y.W.C.A. work. Frequent membership suppers and programs have meant greater unity and service to each other. In the office Miss Storey has found calls for service of all kinds and has willingly and kindly responded.

Besides its program of service to members the Y.W.C.A. served through its employment bureau, travellers aid and immigration 630 and through noon hour meetings at factories, public reading room, and use of Association for outside organizations many hundred each week of the year.

The jewels of service I know have been found too by our Board of Directors and various committees who all through the years have given wonderful service to girl of Peterboro through guiding and directing this big Association. Members of the staff, leaders of clubs, teachers of classes, subscribers to our finances, all who have freely given of their talents in so many ways whether members or interested friends have found too a joy in service that makes it possible to face another year confident of help along the way.

"HANDS UP!" NEWEST RAY GRIFFITH VEHICLE

Silk Hat Comedian Has Novel Role as Confederate Spy in Thrilling Comedy Directed by Clarence Badger.

The thrilling adventures of Raymond Griffith as a rollicking, carefree Confederate spy and a member of General Robert E. Lee's staff, ending in his effort to find a way out of his greatest quandary, that of deciding between the loves of two beautiful girls—these are the highlights of the silk hat comedian's newest starring picture for Paramount, "Hands Up!"

The story begins in spirited fashion when General Lee dispatches

Griffith to Nevada to attempt to divert to the south the supply of gold from the fabulously rich "Molly" mine which has been the source of the Union's financial strengt.

Griffith meets the Union agent, Montagu Love, and the the owner of the mine, Mack Swain, while traveling westward on the stage coach. He also meets Swain's beautiful nieces, Marion Nixon and Virginia Lee Corbin, and promptly falls in love with both.

Griffith wins the confidence of Swain and is made superintendent of the mine. However, his duplicity is discovered and the townspeople are about to hang him when Miss Nixon and Miss Corbin save him.

His subsequent experiences in getting the gold through to the Confederate army only to discover that the war is over, and the outcome of his romance with the two girls are amusingly set forth and vividly depicted.

Besides those players already mentioned, the cast includes several prominent actors who portray the historical characters that enter into the background of the story. George Billings appears as "Abraham Lincoln," Noble Johnson as "Sitting Bull" and Charles K. French as "Brigham Young."

"Hands Up!" was directed by Clarence Badger from the screen adaptation by Monty Brice and Lloyd Corrigan of the original story by Reginald Morris. The picture opens at the Capitol tomorrow.

AT THE REGENT

A PHOTOPLAY THAT GETS AWAY FROM ALL ARTIFICIALITY.

"The Wife who Wasn't Wanted" is a Picture of Vivid Realism.

Audiences at the Regent Theatre yesterday found "the Wife Who Wasn't Wanted," a delightful change from some of the artificial screen entertainment the public is offered. They followed this Warner Bros. Classic of the screeen with ager interest.

Not only has the production a brilliant cast headed by Irene Rich and Huntly Gordon, but the direction of James Flood makes the picturization of Gertie Wentworth-James' novel a photoplay of realism.

The story concerns the affairs of John Mannering, district attorney (Huntly Gordon), his wife (Irene Rich) and their son (John Harron). Bob has always been a model son, and when he is arrested for speeding and for killing a woman his parents are distraught. Mannering refuses to use the power of his office to save his boy, having already refused to do so to save another man's son; and his wife pleads frantically that no sacrifice is too great to save him.

ST. GEORGE'S A.Y.P.A. HAS SOCIAL EVENING

Address on Aims of Association Is Most Interesting.

On Monday evening, May 17th, St. George's A.Y.P.A. held a social evening to which all young members of the church were invited, their being about 30 present.

During the evening Mr. Bert Graham of St. John's gave a very interestlng talk on the Aims and Work of the A.Y.P.A. He started by telling the history of it which he thought necessary to make the meaning of such an association really known. He then outlined the fourfold platform which is Worship, Work, Fellowship and Edification. He also stressed the importance of attendance at divine worship by each member and of bringing others.

Mr. Graham also gave ways to carry on the other three aims which were very interesting as well as educational. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Graham by the president, Miss E. Parkes.

A few games were then played After which refreshments were served.

The evening was brought to a close by a little dancing.

FIRE THREATENS

sey shouted to the other families on her way out as the smoke had not as yet reached their apartments, but before these people could get out of their rooms the halls were full of smoke, and they were unable to find their way down the stairs.

When the fire department arrived the flames were leaping out the back window which had been blown out a few moments before, and running along the entire ceiling on the inside. The plate glass at the front window was beginning to crack with the heat, the work shop at the back of the store was nothing but a mass of red coals, and smoke and gas from the burning clothing was being emitted so that it stifled the men who entered. A line of hose was soon put on the blaze and in a short time the fire was reduced to steam and smoke. When the door of the Leader Shoe Store (which is next door) was opened, the smoke came out of that store in regular clouds.

When Chief Gimblett arrived he and some of his men went upstairs to help out the residents who were trapped in their rooms with the smoke. Some of them had their heads out of the windows in order to get fresh air while others were groping around in the smoke-filled rooms. The chief found one woman and her child almost exhausted in one of the back rooms and he helped her to the fire escape at the end of one of the halls. Another old man was found stumbling around in the corridor and he was helped down the stairs. Women were running around with canaries, which had been smothered by the smoke, unable to find their way down stairs.

The store itself and the stock is a total ruin, the plaster has dropped off the walls, the shelves are partly burned, and the work shop is completely gutted. The stock is either a mass of black coals or badly damaged by water and smoke or scorched by the flames.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but the store is locked with a padlock and chain by Chief Gimblett and will remain so until a thorough investigation is held.

Mr. Sukloff went to Toronto on the afternoon train and his son claims that he left the store at 6.10 p.m., and everything was all right.

The fire by the time the department arrived had got a great start, and if this had occurred at night there might have been a serious loss of life to the people living above.

The rooms above are badly smoked, the carpets and rugs on the first floor have been reduced to a crisp, the floors are badly marked in places by the heat and some of the furniture is badly loosened by the heat.

Chief Gimblett was unable to estimate the loss, but he said that it would run into a few thousand dollars. Mr. Sukloff stated this morning that he carried $7,500 insurance.

Just Turn the Tap

At the turn of the faucet an abundant supply of hot water always ready! Such a convenience would be worth infinitely more to you than the few cents daily required to operate the Hotpoint Water Heater. The famous Calrod (sheathed wire) heating element, used only in Hotpoint Water Heaters, is practically indestructible. The Immersion type Hotpoint Water Heater is bringing the comfort and luxury of hot water to thousands of homes and apartment houses.

There is also the Circulation type of Hotpoint Water Heater which will supply hot water almost instantly. This may be attached to any domestic tank, the switch located in the most convenient part of the house.

Pherson. The young ladies graduating this year, in their spotless white uniforms, their arms filled with pink roses, were four: Miss Edith Audrey Cox of Peterborough, Miss Mary Margaret Noonan of Mount Forest, Miss Mary Catherine Bergin of Manotick, and Miss Mary Elizabeth O'Brien of Ottawa. A member of the St. Joseph Order, Sister Mary Melanie, who did not take part in last night's exercises, also graduated this year.

Included in the audience were several of the priests of the diocese, physicians of the city and their wives, and nineteen of the pupil nurses from St. Joseph's Hospital in trim uniforms.

Dr. G. S. Cameron acted as chairman of the evening, discharging his duties in a very acceptable manner. His brief address to the graduates was full of interest. Congratulating them of the attainment of their goal, he went on to enumerate the two prime requisites of a successful nurse as being tact and adaptability. "Tact and resourcefulness and knowledge of human nature are necessary to all, but particularly necessary to the successful nurse." Tact was required, not only in handling the patient, but the family, the friends and the neighbors of the sick person. In speaking of well-intentioned but tactless visitors, he referred to the practice of callers who took a delight in retailing to the sufferer the symptoms and sorrowful end of those who had been afflicted with similar diseases.

Adaptability to the conditions in which a nurse might find herself placed at various times was the second necessary factor for success in her chosen calling.

The address by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien to the graduating class was, like all of last evening's speeches, very brief. His Lordship mentioned with pride the fact that the inclusion of Sister Mary Melanie on last evening's list of graduates brought the total of graduate nurses at present actively engaged at St. Joseph's Hospital, and in charge of various departments, up to the total of fifteen.

The Bishop spoke of the necessity for discipline in preparation for any career in life, and particularly for self-discipline to attain strength of character. The nurse's training involved a good deal of such discipline. He adjured the graduates to be true to the spirit which they had imbibed during their three years of training. Every factor at work in the hospital has its aim in the healing of the patient, no matter who that patient may be. Even the man who fires the furnace works with this idea in his mind at all times. And the graduates should remember this ideal which had been instilled into their minds during their training. "I hope that God will bless the efforts and the work of these graduate nurses," concluded His Lordship.

Mayor Holloway, who occupied a seat on the platform, also spoke a few congratulatory words to the graduating class, and Dr. H. M. Yelland, chairman of the medical staff of the Hospital, presented to the graduates their diplomas, tied with the gold and white ribbons that form the Hospital colors. "We all have ideals when we start out to train for work in any particular sphere of life," said Dr. Yelland. "If these young ladies remain true to the ideals they possess, we will all be proud of them in the nursing profession."

Prizes were then presented by Dr. F. P. McNulty, who repeated the congratulations of the previous speakers, and said that he regarded this year's graduating class as one of exceptional excellence.

To Miss Mary Catherine Bergin, the Valedictorian of last evening, went the honor of two prizes, the first award for General Proficiency in a ten-dollar gold piece, presented by St. Joseph's Hospital, also the prize for Bandaging, a necklace presented by the Medical staff of the Hospital. Miss Edith Audrey Cox received the second prize for General Proficiency, a gold fountain pen presented by St. Joseph's Hospital Alumni Association.

The Valedictory Address, delivered by Miss Mary Catherine Bergin, was exceptionally pleasing. In well-modulated tones, Miss Bergin gave, almost entirely from memory, a beautifully-worded address that was listened to with intense interest. In it the Valedictorian referred with deep gratitude to the many factors at work in St. Joseph's Hospital, combining toward the successful training of the pupil nurses, mentioning with much feeling the untiring efforts of His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, in this regard, the work of "our beloved chaplain," Rev. Father Peter McGuire, and of the spiritual director, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, also the doctors and the sisters of the staff and the doctors who had charge of their instruction. "To all of these we express our gratitude for their untiring and patient and ceaseless endeavors in moulding us to the highest ideals of nursing. The essence of Christianity is service to God and one's fellow men, and a religious motive is an essential to the highest type of nursing service."

Dr. Cameron congratulated Miss Bergin on her exceptionally fine address.

During the evening, an attractive musical programme added much to the enjoyment of the graduating exercises. An opening number was played by St. Peter's High School Orchestra, composed of the following members: the Misses Mary Reynolds, piano, Noreen McPherson and Mildred Quinlan, violins, Veronica Scollard, guitar, Eleanor Grisdale and Hilda Sullivan, mandolins, Frank Grant, Joseph Nolan and John Burke, violins, George Reynolds, mandolin, Eugene Snider, mandolin, Roderick McKenzie, cornet, and John Garden, drum.

A chorus of girls, singing in sweet voice "Joys of Spring," with piano accompaniment by Miss Olive O'Connell, was composed of the Misse Helen Archambault, Madeline Henry, Marion Fitzpatrick, Isabel Flint, Mary Buchanan, Veronica Scollard, Hilda Sullivan and Mary Reynolds.

The Misses Lucille Nolan and Alma Archambault played a bright piano duett, entitled "Qui Vive," and a violin duett, entitled "Barcarolle," was played in excellent tone by Frank Grant and Joseph Nolan, with piano accompaniment by Miss Lucille Nolan.

Miss Mary Reynolds gave a fetching little recitation, "A Verse with a Moral," and an encore in "How One Got In," and then played piano accompaniments for Mr. A. J. Reynolds' two vocal solos, delivered in fine voice and with characteristic vigorous rendition of the pleasing Irish melody of his numbers, the pretty old "Mountains of Morn" song and its encore, "You'd Better Ask Me."

At the conclusion of the programme in the assembly hall, refreshments were served in the upper hall. Arrangements for these were in charge of the Catholic Women's League, who took charge of the service and the decoration of the upper rooms. Mrs. N. E. Phelan, the president, was assisted by an energetic group of members, with Mrs. H. Owen acting as general convenor. Assistants in serving were members of the Knights of Columbus' Bowling League.

The upper rooms were charmingly arranged, the outer room with tall piano lamps, large bowls of artificial flowers and a vase of pink roses. In the long inner room, the tables, from which a buffet luncheon was served, were centred with flowers. At the small head table, with its central large silver basket filled with large trilliums and daffodils, tea was poured by Mrs. B. Law, Mrs. W. J. Young, Mrs. Thos. Lane and Mrs. J. Crowley. A silver basket of gay red and yellow tulips, with flame-colored candles, decorated another table, and there was a unique arrangement on the long section, which was centred by a huge yellow artificial chrysanthemum, holding tiny yellow roses. These were flanked by bon-bon boxes of rose-pink paper, vases of tulips and red candles in silver holders. The table was crossed with crinkly streamers of yellow and white.

In the downstair hall there was dancing until midnight. Excellent music was furnished by the Woodbine Serenade Orchestra, with the following members: Messrs. Joe Kearns, Arnold Smith, Jim McCormick, Lex McCormick and H. Vinette.

STRIKE POSITION.

Is Deadlock, Says Secretary Cook of Miners' Federation.

LONDON, May 19. Canadian Press. — "The position is a deadlock," said Secretary A. J. Cook of the Miners 'Federation to-day, in speaking of the government's proposals which come before the miners' national delegate conference here to-morrow. The miners, he asserted, would not agree to any alteration of the hours or the wages.

WEDDING BELLS.

CROUGH—O'KEEFE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock yesterday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, by Rev. P. Costello, when Ada M. O'Keefe of this city, became the bride of Basil J. Crough of Detroit, also formerly of this city, and son of Mrs. Wilfred Dwyer and the late Philip Crough.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was charmingly attired in a dress of fawn georgette, with hat and shoes to match, and fox fur neckpiece, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Lila O'Keefe of Ottawa, sister of the bride, acted as her attendant, wearing a poudre blue dress of flat crepe, with hat to match, and bouquet of carnations.

The bridegroom was supported by his brother, Mr. Leo Crough of Detroit.

Miss Josephine O'Keefe, cousin of the bride, sang very sweetly during the ceremony.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a gold-linked pearl rosary, to the best man a tie pin set with pearls, and to the soloist a bar pin.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding repast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Messrs. T. H. Hooper and Sons catering.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Crough left on the afternoon train for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, en route to Detroit, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a suit of navy blue.

The young people were recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts.

AROUND THE CITY.

Miss Estelle Hewson, who was in the city last year, in charge of the special exhibit put on by the Social Hygiene Council, was in the city yesterday for a brief visit, and gave an interesting, brief talk in the afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. to heads of various women's organizations in the city. Miss Hewson left today for Lindsay, where she will later on put on an exhibit similar to the one shown in this city last year, folowing it up with exhibits in Belleville and Kingston.

At 11.45 a.m. on Monday the fire department received a call to 3 Crescent street, caused by papers catching fire in a box on the balcony. There was a slight damage caused. Yesterday at 11.14 a.m. they were called to a grass fire on 32 Benson street.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

ARMOUR TROOP

On Friday, May 14th, the Armour Troop held its weekly meeting. The meeting opened with patrol inspection, followed by a period of games. Then an investure followed, in which Everett Peters was invested and entered the Raven Patrol.

Four Scouts — Neil Gemmell, Howard Pammett, Morgan Perry and Alistair Adam—received their second-class badges. These four are the first of the troop to emerge from the ranks of the "Tenderfeet." It is expected that several more will soon be sporting the coveted second-class badge. The present "second-classers," however, are keeping well ahead of the rest, and are going on their first-class hike on Saturday, May 22nd.

The meeting closed with a sing-song and "God Save the King."

CHARGED WITH RAPE.

Four Married Men Face Serious Counts in St. Catharines.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 19.—(Canadian Press.)— The preliminary hearing of the case of four married men held in connection with an attack upon Eleanor MacDonald, 20 year old stenographer, a mile north of the city on a lonely road, on Saturday night was this morning postponed for one week because of the inability of the young woman to appear, according to a statement by her doctor. Until to-day the men were in jail on a nominal charge of vagrancy, which this morning was changed to rape in the case of each prisoner. The ages of the men range from 34 to 40. They are Frank De Young, Grantham township; Richard Darling, John Robert Gough and Walter Liddiard, of St. Catharines. De Young is the father of four children.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Miss Coons, Returned Missionary, Addresses Ladies on Work.

The W. M. S. of St. Andrew's church held its monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon, which was quite largely attended. Devotional exercises marked the opening of the meeting, Mrs. A. Moore giving the Scripture reading followed by prayer by Mrs. Leslie.

After routine business Miss Dixon gave a very fine report on the Provincial convention held recently in Lindsay.

Mrs. Ford Turner contributed a vocal solo, which was much appreciated by the ladies.

The outstanding feature of the meeting was an address by Miss Coons a returned missionary from West China. This was a source of great pleasure to the ladies who always enjoy hearing of the work carried on in foreign fields. Miss Craw moved a vote of thanks to Miss Coons for her splendid address.

Mrs. Brown repeated the offertory prayer, thus bringing the meeting to a close.

VOL. LVII., No. 118 PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, MAY 20, 1926 PRICE THREE CENTS

MAJORITY OF 15 FOR GOVERNMENT ON DUNNING MOTION APPOINTING COMMITTEE FOR C. N. R. ESTIMATES

Conservatives Demanded Larger Representation Than Equality With Liberals.

MEIGHEN ABSENT.

House Divided 107 To 92—Two More Than Budget Majority.

OTTAWA, May 20 (Canadian Press).—A division shortly before the House adjourned at six o'clock Wednesday gave the Government a majority of fifteen, or two more than was secured on the main budget resolution. Yesterday's division stood:

For	107
Against	92
Majority	15

As in the budget divisions, Progressive, Independent and Labor members voted with the Government. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was absent from the division through illness. Premier King did not vote. He announced subsequently that, although he had not been paired for yesterday's division, he had refrained from voting, as continued illness was obviously the cause of Mr. Meighen's absence.

This division came on a motion for appointment of a special committee of the House to consider Canadian National Railway estimates. Under the motion, the committee is to consist of six Liberals, six Conservatives, two Progressives and one Labor. It was against this composition that Conservative opposition was mainly directed. Conservatives wanted a membership of seven Liberals, seven Conservatives and one Progressive.

The motion was carried in its original form of 6-6-3. W. A. Boys, Chief Conservative Whip, suggested that the unanimous consent of the House be obtained to increase the membership of the committee by one; and that the additional member be appointed from Nova Scotia Conservatives. Premier King thought the resolution should pass in its existing form. Whips might hold a conference afterwards and make any recommendations to the House subsequently which they thought desirable.

Moved By Dunning.

Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways, said that he had moved for the appointment of this committee because he had been informed by members on both sides of the House that this was the usual machinery for handling C.N.R. estimates and that the arrangement had proved satisfactory in previous years. The scope of the members of Parliament was not narrowed by this arrangement, but rather was widened, because the committee could summon officers of the railway who could not be heard in the House itself.

T. L. Church interrupted to ask if the committee would be told about the "Montreal tramways deal" and also get a list of passes issued by the road "in contravention of the Railway Act."

Mr. Dunning replied that these were the questions which the committee could go into more fully. Personally, he was in favor of the widest publicity consistent with the interests of the road.

Information Problem.

Sir Henry Drayton (Conservative, West York) said that the committee in previous years had got a lot of useful information "but we did not get it all. It may be that we ought not to get it all." He thought, however, that some definition should be given as to what constituted the drawn line in a matter of withholding information. It should be made clear what information Sir Henry Thornton could refuse to give. The transaction with the Montreal tramways was one which many people wanted to know about. Information as to salaries, in some cases, could be given. Members of the House were in some sort directors of a railway of which the Canadian public were the shareholders, and had the right to know how their money is being spent. Information concerning pending business deals was withheld by the former Conservative Government and that was right and proper. But there was other information which ought to be given.

Sir Henry objected to the committee as constituted. The Opposition was entitled to seven out of a majority of eight and it was given six out of nine.

P. Casgrain, Liberal Whip, said that the Conservatives on the striking committee had not objected to the present arrangement.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Conservative, South Wellington) remarked that by the rules of the House matters being discussed in a committee were out of order in the House. Thus if the committee report was delayed Canadian National Railway matters could not be brought up in the House.

Conservative Demand.

W. A. Boys, Conservative Whip, said he was in favor of a representation of seven from the Government, seven from the Conservatives and one from the Progressives. The Government had to admit that equal representation with the Conservatives, who had sixteen more members than the Government, was a very generous concession.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William) said it was usual to create the committees on a numerical basis, but somehow numbers had been disregarded in striking this committee.

F. P. Quinn (Halifax, Conservative) remarked that "Nova Scotia had been ignored again" and there was no representative from that province on the committee.

Premier King stated that all the special committees of the House had been appointed at the same time. It was only proper that all the committees should stand or fall together. Most of the other committees were now functioning.

Agreed on Committee.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, said that the appointment of the committee had been a matter of agreement. For this reason it should be accepted, as arrangements of this nature were supposed to be honorable and gentlemen's agreements.

W. D. Euler (Liberal, Waterloo North) stated that as chairman of the Committee on National Railways for the last two sessions, he would assure the House that no member of the committee had ever been refused proper information from the officials of the railways. Furthermore, members who were not on the committee had been permitted to ask questions in several instances.

Hon. S. C. Mewburn (Conservative, Hamilton East) believed that all estimates should be referred to special committees of the House. In this way a great deal of time could be saved in the Commons, and considerable more information could be obtained by having various officials of the departments appear and furnish intimate data on each appropriation.

MacLean Gives Reason.

W. F. MacLean (Conservative) South York, who with R. S. White, Conservative member for Mount Royal, voted with the Government in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, stated last night: "I voted for the motion proposed by the Minister of Railways to appoint a special committee dealing with the administration of the Canadian National Railways because the composition thereof had been agreed upon at a conference of whips and members representing the several parties recognized in the House. Speaking for myself, I am anxious to keep politics out of the administration of Canada's greatest public owned service, the National Railways."

Cancer Kills Thousands Most Of Deaths Needless

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—More than forty thousand persons, most of them at the period of their greatest usefulness, die needlessly of cancer in the United States annually, Dr. Geo. A. Soper, managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, told the American Health Congress today. The old belief that "nobody knows anything about cancer," he branded as false.

More accurate diagnosis in the early stages of the disease he accredited as one of the most outstanding advances in cancer research. Dr. Soper said it has become fairly definitely established that cancer is not caused by a parasite and that it is neither communicable nor hereditary, although pre-disposition toward it may be inherited. The best way to ward off cancer, he asserted, "is to prevent chronic irritations which lead to it."

Aged Woman Spoils Funeral Declared Dead, She Sits Up

NEW YORK, May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Celia Milstein, aged 82, who was pronounced dead by a doctor, following a heart attack, startled her weeping relatives when she sat up nine hours later and asked the reason for all the tears. She could hardly believe she had been pronounced dead, and chuckled gleefully over the situation. All arrangements for the funeral had been made.

MINERS REJECT BALDWIN PLAN WITH WAGE CUT

Delegates Refuse Proposals Embodying Reduction of Wages.

STANDARD LOW NOW.

Meanwhile Children in South Wales Coal Fields Eat at Soup Kitchens.

LONDON, May 20 (Canadian Press).—The National Conference of Miners' Delegates to-day rejected the Government's proposals for a settlement of the miners' strike. The delegates adopted a resolution saying, "We are unable to recommend that the mine workers accept Premier Baldwin's proposals for a reduction of wages which do not at present provide for a decent standard of living."

It is understood that the Executive Committee of the Miners' Federation recommended the endorsement of the mine re-organization proposals suggested in the report of the Royal Commission, but the rejection of any immediate wage reduction as implied in the proposals of Premier Baldwin and the Royal Commission's report.

Eat at Soup Kitchens.

CARDIFF, Wales, May 20 (Canadian Press).—While negotiations are going forward in dignified Downing Street, London, for the settlement of the lockout and strike in the coal mines, thousands of children of miners are being fed in soup kitchens in the little towns dotting the grim valleys of the South Wales coal fields. The number of kitchens is being increased daily as the prolonged struggle between the miners and mine owners necessitates town after town being added to the number where a large proportion of the youngsters receive daily meals at the children's manses. School houses and chapels serve one or two meals daily under the supervision of education committees. The county councils pay the bills under the Necessitous School Children Act.

AWAKENING ASIATIC PROGRESS IS DAWN OF WORLD'S STRUGGLE DECLARES EX-CROWN PRINCE

Future of World and of Western Civilization Depends Upon Development Now Going On in Asia and on Pacific—Watch Indies.

MALAY STATES TO START ONSLAUGHT.

Son of Ex-Kaiser Says He Is Training His Children To Quiet and Unobtrusive Ways—'Kindliness' is Also Included in Curriculum.

(By Baron Axel Von Gertzen, Written for the United Press. Copyright, 1926, by United Press).

LOCARNO, May 20.—Asiatic awakening and progress, especially in China and India, constitutes the most important and possibly the gravest development now facing the world, Friederich Wilhelm, former Crown Prince of Germany, declared in an exclusive interview just before he left Locarno for Silesia.

He first denied the rumors that he had purchased the villas here for either himself or his father, the ex-Kaiser of Germany.

German ministers visiting here added that probably neither the former Crown Prince, nor the former Kaiser would be able to make any foreign investments.

"I am convinced," the Crown Prince said, "that the future of the world, and especially of Western civilization, depends on the development now going on in Asia and the Pacific. What the outcome will be depends much an the way Christianity is presented to China."

He was especially interested, he said, in the development of nationalism in the Dutch East Indies and the other Indies.

"I feel certain," he continued, "that the final onslaught against the Domination of Anglo-Saxon civilization, should it ever come, will start from the Malay States. In that event, America would play a paramount role in the struggle and it is to be hoped she will be aided and strengthened by Europe with her older human experience.

But whether Europe will be able to help will depend on whether peace finally comes to Europe and humanity can prevail over the instincts of the struggling brute."

The former Prince spent two months here and became a familiar figure. His hair has turned grey. He spent much time walking through the hills and vineyards or on the streets and often stopped to chat with flower shop or fruit stand girls.

On the day of the annual camelia flower fete parade the former Crown Prince applauded every decorated car as it passed by until one almost toppled over in ruin.

The former Prince smiled, but did not applaud.

In his interview the Prince took time to refer to a letter his grandmother, the Empress Freiderich, wrote to her chamberlain. In it, she declared that the rapid development of Bismarkian ideas of a central state gave too little chance for the development of self reliance and individual responsiblity on the part of the citizens.

"Both my wife and myself are devoting ourselves," he said, "to the task of educating our children and those of all classes to decision, kindliness, individual reliance, and responsibility in every day life.

"That these efforts are succeeding is evident at the day school at Potsdam which my oldest boys attend, and where the students are acquiring quiet, unobtrusive, but self-reliant ways."

SEEDING SEASON LATE IN EAST BUT WEST TWO WEEKS EARLIER

Crop Prospects Exceedingly Good, Hon. W. R. Motherwell Reports in Survey.

PRAIRIE WHEAT UP.

Optimistic Outlook in West From Manitoba to the Coast.

OTTAWA, May 20. Canadian Press. — Crop prospects in general are exceedingly good, although the season is a little late in some parts of Eastern Canada, says Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, in a statement on the crop situation issued on Wednesday.

"Advices from the Maritime Provinces indicate that the season is from ten days to three weeks late, which means that very little seeding has yet been done," continues the statement.

"Forage crops and pastures came through the winter in excellent shape while live stock wintered fairly well, and are in good condition to go out to grass.

"In Quebec also, the season is late, and but little seeding has yet been done in the western and southern parts of the province and none in the eastern and northern areas. Forage crops of all kinds show an average stand, with apparently no killing out.

Late in Ontario, Too.

"In Eastern Ontario, seeding is well under way, but the season is quite two weeks late, while in western Ontario, seeding was finished only a week ago, much later than usual. Fall wheat came through just a little weak in some parts of the province, but it is picking up. Oats are making an excellent showing. In spite of the scarcity of hay in some parts live stock wintered well, but unfortunately pastures are slow. In northern Ontario, although seeding is late, a general spirit of optimism prevails. All livestock in the north came through the winter in good shape and is in very good demand by farmers for stocking up as there is plenty of food on hand in the north country. Clover wintered well and there is every prospect of a good stand on all meadows.

Seeding Completed.

"Wheat seeding has been completed in Manitoba and good progress is being made with the coarse grains. Comparatively little re-seeding was necessary, although heavy winds caused considerable soil drifting in certain areas this spring. Grain appears to be germinating well this spring, however, and promises an excellent stand. There is plenty of feed on hand, hay and clover stands, as well as pastures, are in good condition, and live stock wintered well.

"Excellent prospects are reported from Saskatchewan where wheat seeding is practically completed, and good progress is being made with the seeding of other crops. The season is ahead of last year, and early wheat is already above the ground, promising an excellent stand. Good rains at the end of last week are giving things a great start. Ranch and farm live stock wintered well and are in good condition, going on to good pastures about two weeks earlier than usual.

Earlier in Alberta.

"Following an open winter in Alberta, spring work is well advanced, and is much earlier than usual. At Grande Prairie, some 300 miles northwest of Edmonton, Saragana is already in full bloom, wheat is practically all seeded as far north even as Fort Vermillion, and the recent general rains have ensured good germination. There is some increase in the grain acreage throughout the province. Forage crops show an almost perfect stand. Live stock wintered extraordinarily well and went on pasture two weeks earlier than usual.

B. C. Outlook Good.

"Seeding is completed in British Columbia, and in this province as on the prairies mild weather has ensured fall wheat and pastures coming through without any winter killing. Throughout the province the fruit crop is unusually advanced and prospects are the best in years, while on Vancouver Islands prospects are the best ever known.

The rainfall has been slightly below the average in the irrigated areas and there is some possibility of a shortage of irrigation water later on. All live stock is in good condition, with a good demand. On Vancouver Island the fall sown grains are already in head and alfalfa is ready to cut."

THINK IT OVER.

There was an increase last year in imports of $82,122,775 over 1924, mainly in the following divisions: Agricultural and vegetable products, $19,986,150; animal products, $4,721,182; fibres and textiles, $13,878,983; iron and its products, $28,593,605. While the agricultural products would doubtless be foodstuffs, the iron importations would be in great measure raw materials for Canadian industries, now more in demand with the industrial revival.

Newsboy Saves Three From Death In Flames

LONDON, Ont., May 20. — (Canadian Press). — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards and their small daughter, Frances, aged 7, were saved from death as flames swept through their home early this morning, through the opportune arrival of Alfred Grant, a newspaper boy, who had sufficient presence of mind to force his way into the burning house and awaken the occupants before turning in an alarm.

UNABLE TO STOP RUSSIAN MONEY SENT TO MINERS

Home Secretary Says Strike Is Now Genuine Trade Dispute.

STOPPED CHEQUE.

Hundred Thousand Pounds For General Strike Was Turned Back.

LONDON, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary, disclosed to the House of Commons to-day, in answer to questions that during the general strike he stopped a cheque for £100,000 which, he said, was sent by the Russian trades unions to the Trades Union Congress here for furtherance of the strike.

He admitted, however, that he was powerless to bar further sums now being sent from Russia to the British Miners' Federation. He explained that, under the emergency powers act, he could prevent the admission of foreign money for the furtherance of the general strike, but "the case of payments in aid of a miner engaged in the genuine trade dispute clearly stands on a different footing."

July 5 Is Mentioned As Alberta Polling Day

EDMONTON, May 20 (Canadian Press).—An all-day caucus of U.F.A. supporters of the Alberta Government came to a close last night, but beyond the fact that Monday, July 5, was the date generally favored by the private members for the Provincial elections, nothing leaked out as to the decisions reached. The adjourned session of the Legislature opens to-day and it is expected that prorogation will take place by Saturday. A definite announcement as to the date of the election will probably be made immediately after prorogation.

IRISH RAILWAY STRIKE FEARED

No Hopes Entertained of Avoiding Big Walkout.

17,000 MEN.

DUBLIN, May 20. Canadian Press. —Hopes are not entertained that the strike of 17,000 Irish railwaymen scheduled for June 1st to protest against a reduction of wages will be avoided. They are affiliated with the British National Union of Railwaymen which has also decided to hold a conference here on May 27th, to consider the matter.

THE WEATHER.

Rapid changes in weather conditions are now occurring, and after the rain of yesterday, cooler conditions have set in. Rain yesterday, .35 of an inch. Highest temperature 63 degrees; lowest last night, 38 degrees. "Fair and warmer for Friday" was announced by the U.S. Weather Bureau for most places east of the Mississippi River by radio last night. —W.P.

FURTHER NAVAL CONFERENCE TO EXTEND ARMS LIMITATIONS TO SMALL SHIPS SUGGESTED

Brides From Germany For Winnipeg Weddings

WINNIPEG, May 20. Canadian Press. — Two old world romances, one of which saw its beginning in Germany, back in the 80's, ended in wedding bells shortly after the settlers' special reached Winnipeg yesterday.

The elder bride, Mrs. Johanna Nonnenacher, aged 65, had not seen her fiance, Gottlieb Wiesner, for forty two years. Gottlieb had emigrated to Canada twenty five years ago and married.

Johanna, during the interval, had also found herself a husband. The spouse of each having died the sweethearts of long ago decided to finish the long trail together.

The other bride, also from Germany, had never set eyes on her fiance. She had answered an advertisement, and greeted her husband-to-be for the first time on the station platform.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE FREED KING'S WITNESS

Gave Evidence For Crown On Agreement That He Pay Fine.

JAILED BY JUDGE.

Was Liberated Pending Appeal From Judge's Penalty in Quebec.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 20.—(Canadian Press.)— The story of the seizure of a still which was being operated in Quebec city, was told to the Customs Inquiry committee Wednesday. Richard Alleyn, barrister of Quebec, was the witness. The seizure took place in the summer of 1920 and the arrest of half a dozen implicated in the operation of this illicit still followed. The point brought out yesterday was that Oliver Plamondon, the proprietor of the still, escaped imprisonment by turning King's evidence and revealing the names of several of his employees. Plamondon turned King's evidence on the understanding that he would be allowed to go on payment of a fine. Judge Choquette, before whom he appeared, took the ground, however, that he must give this man a jail sentence.

The case was appealed by Plamondon and while hearing of the appeal was pending, the remission branch of the Justice Department decided that Plamondon should not be required to serve the jail sentence. Plamondon paid his $200 fine and was released. The application for remission of jail sentence was made, it was stated, by Sevigny and Sirois, barristers of Quebec.

A letter from the Assistant Deputy Minister of Inland Revnue, accepting an offer by Plamondon to turn King's evidence if given the minimum penalty of $200 fine was read by R. L. Calder, K.C., committee counsel.

Witness said that Plamondon pleaded guilty, turned King's evidence and gave evidence against men who were employed by him in connection with the operation of the stills. There were 7 arrests in the case and 6 convictions.

Judge Choquette, who presided at the trial of Plamondon, took the ground that he must sentence the prisoner to imprisonment as well as imposing a fine. The department then tried to withdraw the complaint and substitute another for which the penalty would be a fine. Judge Choquette objected to this. Then the case was appealed.

Japan Favors Curtailing Cruisers, Destroyers and Submarines.

WOULD SCRAP KEELS.

Only Spending Small Part Now of Naval Estimates, Pending Agreement.

GENEVA, May 20 (Canadian Press).—The calling of a Washington conference to extend naval disarmament to cruisers, destroyers and submarines, if the League of Nations effort is unproductive, or if the Geneva preliminary conference becomes lost in a maze of psychological and political technicalities will be favored and probably suggested by the Japanese. These facts were obtained from an authoritative source.

Baron Sugimura, the most active representative of Tokio in Europe, authorized the statement that the Japanese Government is favorably inclined toward the immediate extension of the Washington treaty, and will gladly attend a conference at Washington between the United States, England and Japan, as the most important sea powers.

"Japan's naval programme for the next four years calls for an expenditure of $200,000,000 for cruisers of 10,000 tons displacement," he declared.

"However, Japan is only spending $2,000,000 at present for laying keels which it is hoped can be scrapped at any time. Japan is very desirous of reaching an agreement with England and the United States, whereby she could discontinue naval building."

500 CIVILIANS DIE IN BATTLE

Despatch Says Women and Children Killed By Bombardment.

AT DAMASCUS.

LONDON, May 20 (Canadian Press).—More than 500 civilians, including women and children, and about 100 rebels and twenty French, have been killed and 300 houses destroyed in the bombardment by the French forces of the Midan quarter of the city of Damascus, says a despatch to the Daily Express. While there has been no confirmation of the report from Damascus, which was dated May 9, it has occasioned considerable surprise, it having been thought that troubles in the ancient city between the French and the Druse tribesmen had calmed down under civilian administration.

MASQUERADE AT 'Y.'

Ladies' Gym Classes and Friends Enjoy Jolly Party.

The ladies' gymnasium classes and their friends enjoyed a jolly masquerade party at the Y.W.C.A. last night. This party marked the close of gymnasium classes for this term, but not the breaking up of the class, as special arrangements have been made for a class on swimming onight each week.

The first part of the evening consisted of a programme of games, races, stunts and contests in the gymnasium. Mrs. T. Loudon, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson and Mrs. H. Snelgrove won prizes in the balloon race, Mrs. L. Yeotes the prize for the best stunt, Mrs. J. A. Robinson the candle race, and Miss M. Jory, Mrs. S. Hetherington, Miss M. Mitchell and Mrs. R. Turner prizes for best costumes.

Refreshments were then served in the green room, around a chcery fire.

FOREIGN POLICY OF GERMANY IS CONTINUED BY NEW CHANCELLOR

Reichstag Expresses Approval of Course Announced By Luther's Successor—Government Proposes a Compromise Flag—Republicans Opposed

SOCIALISTS SUPPORT CABINET.

BERLIN, May 20.— (Canadian Press).—Chancellor Marx, who has succeeded Dr. Hans Luther as head of the German ministry, yesterday received approval of his policies from a tolerant Reichstag.

It is likely, however, that Chancellor Marx' revamped cabinet will be forced to look alternately to the Socialists and the Nationalists for support to ensure its parliamentary existence.

In a brief official declaration, Chancellor Marx said that Germany's foreign policies would continue to be guided by the London reparation agreements and the Locarno security pacts. Inasmuch as the personnel of his cabinet, except for the retirement of Dr. Luther, has not been changed, the chancellor said that its program would continue unaltered.

He appealed to the Reichstag for assistance in furthering the government's desire "to promote the political and economic welfare of the German people within the scope of the Republican constitution of Weimar without which national unity is impossible."

Supported By Chamber.

After a brief debate, which was singularly free of controversy, the Reichstag voted the cabinet its approval by a liberal display of hands. The Socialists supported the coalition parties in the vote, while the Nationalists abstained from voting.

Laying emphasis on the Government's determination to pursue the foreign policy which was initiated by the adoption of the London reparation agreement and the Locarno pacts, the chancellor made only a fleeting reference to the flag issue which caused the downfall of Chancellor Luther. Chancellor Marx said that the original order, directing the display of the German merchant flag, which contains monarchial colors with the Republican flag would be continued in force. He added, however, that the new Government proposed to take action immediately to carry out President Von Hindenburg's suggestion that a new compromise flag be adopted.

Royalist Property.

Discussing the property claims of the former ruling houses in Germany, the chancellor said that the government shortly will submit a compromise bill which is now under consideration by the cabinet. He said that this bill would be independent of the national referendum confiscation of the former ruler's property which will be held on June 20.

In the ensuing debate the Socialists announced that they would move for the adoption of a law compelling German foreign missions to hoist only the republican colors. The radicals also will demand that whenever the flag of one of the federated states is displayed with the national standard, the latter must be the larger of the two.

The Reichstag adjourned until June 7.

CONDITION SERIOUS.

Rural Mail Carrier Was Burned From Head To Foot.

LINDSAY, May 20.—The condition of M. Robert Logie, the aged rural route carrier, who was severely burned in his buggy while delivering mail, is reported to be serious this morning. He is burned from head to foot. A portion of the mail was burned and the buggy practically destroyed. It is thought that Mr. Logie fell asleep in the buggy and that a spark from his pipe caused the fire.

TAILLESS CALF A FREAK FOR FARMER

Percy Oddie, of Burnbrae, Has Side Show Entry.

BURNBRAE, May 19.— Mr. Percy Oddie, a prominent Burnbrae farmer, received a real surprise when he visited his stable on Sunday morning. There awaited him the latest freak in local bovine line, nothing less than a calf minus a tail. Of this useful appendage to the spinal column there is absolutely no sign, so that the animal is indeed a good candidate for a freak side-show. The calf was purchased by Mr. John Thomson, who lives on the town line east of Menie, and it is his intention to feed the calf for veal. However, it would undoubtedly be worth more as a side-show attraction in a circus.

Several farmers from this distirct attended the sale held by Mr. Archie Langford, Trent Bridge, on Tuesday afternoon. Dairy cows were in great demand and good to fair price were received with a range of $75 to $89 each for grades and pure breds up to $92, which was considered low for registered animals. Pigs, about 85 pounds each, sold for $15.50 each.

On Friday evening last the Young People of St. Andrew's, Stirling, visited the society at Burnbrae. With about fifty present from the eastern town, local attendance filled the basement to capacity. An enjoyable programme was presented by the visitors, while the refreshments were served by the home society and a most profitable evening was spent by all.

Mrs. Alex. Oddie and daughter, Viola, Mrs. Alton, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Foster, all of St. Catharines, visited Mrs. Thos. Oddie, who is seriously ill, also other relatives and friends, on Monday of this week.

October has the highest record for colds, while June has the lowest.

Wives and daughters of many large farmers in the middle west now take courses in bookkeeping to fit themselves for keeping the farm accounts.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES NEEDED IN WORLD ODDFELLOWS ARE TOLD

Lakefield Lodge Attended Service at United Church on Sunday.

CADETS PARADE.

LAKEFIELD, May 20.—Lakefield Lodge 358 I.O.O.F. paraded to the United (Presbyterian) church on Sunday evening for their annual church service as a corporate body. Between forty and fifty brethren attended the service. The choir rendered two anthems suitable to the occasion and Rev. P. L. Jull delivered an inspiring sermon taking his text from the gospel according to St. Matthew 23rd chapter, 8th verse: "One is your Master, even Christ, and all ye are brethren." The speaker divided his discourse into three heads. First—What is a fraternal society?

It is not merely for meetings or the ritual but for fellowship, justice, co-operation, charity, sympathy and mutual helpfulness and sense of responsibility.

The speaker illustrated by taking the parable of the good Samaritan The traveller first met the robbers, who exploited him, taking all he possessed, then he met the Priest representing the official church and he ignored the problem, the innkeeper took care of the wayfarer but he was paid for it, but it was the good Samaritan who manifested the spirit of brotherhood, the spirit of fraternity.

The fraternal society is not a substitute for the church but it is one of its strongest arms and it has an advantage over the church in its broad creed, "the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man", which unites and does not divide as too many creeds in church do The lodge has its practical work, helping those in trouble and that is a gospel the whole world understands.

Sir Walter Scott once said that the most beautiful scenery in Scotland was not to be found in the Highlands or in the Lowlands but where the Highlands and the Lowlands joined. Thus it is the most beautiful life is where earth and heaven meet, where the Christ life as Christ lived it, is the rule and relations are interpreted in terms of brotherhood.

Secondly—Why the fraternal Society.

What is needed more than fraternity in the world as we look at the events of the past years, the World War, the economic troubles in Britain; and here in Canada, our land of avst spaces and immense divisions we have our racial, social and religious strife. What a pity if these divisions should breed little hearted men and women. It is one of the obligations of the Oddfellows to promote the spirit of brotherhood among men and to make the fraternal spirit efficient. This is the age of efficiency, the bow and arrow of the primitive days is replaced by the modern machine gun, the farm machinery has gone a long way with its modern threshers, mowers, etc. since the days of the flail and threshing floor. The spirit of brotherhood in the early church was demonstrated in alms giving to beggars, now we have hospitals, the Red Cross, workmen's compensation, the mother's allowance and fraternal societies. He who would keep company with God must run at full speed.

Thirdly—How are the fraternal societies living up to their obligations?

At the national congress of the Fraternal Societies of America held in 1922, nine millions members spent one hundred and thirteen million dollars in helping the needy and distressed. The Masonic society is the oldest fraternal society and the Oddfellows with two and a half million members is one of her lustiest daughters. The watchword of the order is, "Friendship, love and truth." To be a good oddfellow is to be a good citizen and a good Christian. In closing the speaker quoted a little verse appropriate to the occasion and taken from the Elks society which is a large fraternal society of the United States.

'Speak a bit more kindly than the year before,
Pray a little oftener, love a little more,
Cling a little closer to the Father's love,
Life below shall liker grow to the life above."

Cadets at Church.

The annual church parade of The Grove school cadets was held in Sunday morning to St. John's church. The cadets about fifty strong presented a splendid appearance as they marched down with the Union Jack carried in the forefront of the parade. The boys had a bugler and drummer and attracted a considerable crowd of admiring spectators.

Rev. W. Cox gave a special sermon taken from the text, "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit ye like men, be strong," taken from the 16th chapter of the first epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians, verse 13.

Sunday next is the Feast of Pentecost know commonly in the Anglican branch of the church as Whit-Sunday and as one of the great feasts of the church will be observed specially. There will be a celebration of Holy Communion at the 11 o'clock service.

A.Y.P.A. Banquet.

The members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. held their banquet on Monday evening in the school room with about forty present. The night was "ladies' night" and a committee of five ladies were in charge and provided a very liberal programme. The invitations announced 7 o'clock as the hour at which the banquet would commence and about that time the guests and members gathered round two long tables laden with "goodies" and prettily decorated with the A.Y.P.A. colors, blue and white, gold being used with white in the window decoration and lamp shades. After the conclusion of the meal, Miss Graham, on behalf of the committee, spoke a few words of appreciation of the entertainment arranged by the men for the previous meeting. The ladies felt that the evening's entertainment deserved greater recognition than mere thanks and each member of the committee was presented with a medal as a token of regard and hearty appreciation. The men thus honored were Rev. W. Cox, Messrs. B. Blewett, W. Bullied, C. C. Stenner, W. Chappell, L. J. Charlton, M. Hampton, E. Robertson T. A. Simpson and A. E. Webster. The gentlemen all responded gallantly in brief speeches testifying their thanks and their enjoyment of the bounty of the ladies. The other members of the ladies' committee were Mesdames Cox, Chapell, Stenner and Waldon. After the supper tables had been cleared away the remainder of the evening was spent in games and contests. A musical contest for men caused a great deal of amusement, there were three groups captained respectively by C. C. Stenner, B. Blewett and A. E. Webster. The prize was won by the last named group. A contest for eating covered bartlets was entered by twelve of the gentlemen and was won by C. F. Webster. Mr. Webster reports that the tartlet was a novelty with its "marshmellow" filling. A peanut contest in which salted peanuts and chop sticks played a part was a unique and difficult competition.

Rev. W. Cox, on behalf of the gentlemen, thanked the ladies for the evening's fun, and, feeling that the hearty hand clap was hardly sufficient, three lusty cheers and a tiger were given.

A jolly little dance brought the evening to a close.

The annual busines meeting of the society will be held on Tuesday evening, May 25th, at which the president especially wants a good attendance.

AUTO STARTED AND FELL INTO RIVER

A. E. Wragge's Car Dragged Dog To Death.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 20. — A. E. Wragge, who is engaged in the maintenance department of the civic power plant, when ready to leave for home Tuesday night, backed his car out of the garage and then stepped out to close the door, leaving the engine running. While Mr. Wragge's back was turned the car started, making straight for the river, and before the owner could stop it, the auto was over the bank into 20 feet of water.

There was a tragedy connected with the accident. A valuable deerhound belonging to Harry Abernethy, another employee at the plant, was tied up near the scene, and in some way the truant auto became entangled in the chain with which the dog was fastened in his kennel. The unfortunate canine was dragged from his lair and into the water with the car. The animal's neck must have been broken, for although it was quickly rescued it was dead when brought to land again.

Mr. Wragge, by means of a long pike pole, managed to salvage a bag of tools and other articles from the car, but at last accounts the vehicle was still under the surface.

VICTORIA DAY IN CAMPBELLFORD.

Do not hesitate over the question of where you will spend Victoria Day. Come to Campbellford, where the members of the Seymour Agricultural Society are putting on another of their always popular celebrations. The sum of $400 is offered in purses for the three horse races on the bill, the track has been put in excellent condition, and all of the best horses in the district will be here.

A team made up of players from Peterborough and Hastings will play the Campbellford lacrosse team for the silver cup donated by A. J. Meyers, and there will be softball games between local teams, the winner of the home games to play off with a bunch of all stars from Warkworth. These games will start at 1 p.m., and the horse races at 1.30 sharp. The Northumberland Band will furnish music. 1d-119-1626

All Labor Disputes Must Be Settled By Arbitration.

ROME, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—Fascism's system for the solution of class war, which is intended to sound the death knell of strike and lockout, was approved Tuesday by the Cabinet after nearly a year of intense study. The basic principle of the tremendously complicated syatem is the right and power of the Government to control directly through the new Ministry of corporations and an elaborate machinery of subsidary organizations, the entire productive life of the nation.

Under the new law, anti-Fascist labor employees, unions and organizations will be derived of their power. Thirteen national associations supplanting the old unions, including all classes of workers and employees, will be controlled. All labor disputes must be submitted to compulsory arbitration. Special courts for the settlement of labor disputes will be created with an entirely new labor code, added to the other legal codes, providing for penalties, appeals, methods of handling jurors, qualication of jurors, and other matters.

OBITUARY.

JOHN GLASSFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 20—John Glassford, a retired farmer, whose home for the past 23 years had been in this town, died early Wednesday morning, in his sixty-seventh year. The deceased was a native of Kingston, but in his early years he moved to the vicinity of Burnbrae, where he carried on the business of farming up to the time of his removal to Campbellford. He was first married to Mary Jane Stewart, who died many years ago. Later he was married to Miss Henrietta Benor of town, who survives him. One son, Ross, by his first wife, also survives and is manager of the branch of the Standard Bank at Arkona, in Western Ontario. The son was with his father when the latter passed away.

The funeral will be held this afternoon to the cemetery at Burnbrae. Rev. James Grier, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, will hold service at the home at 2 p.m.

MRS. ALEX. NICHOLAS.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 20. — Annie Atkinson, wife of Alex. Nicholas, died at her home near Healey Falls on Tuesday, after a short illness. The deceased was born at Crow Bay 69 years ago, and had been married for the past 12 years. She is survived by her husband and eight brothers, the latter being Thomas of town, Alfred, George, Nathan and William of Seymour Township, John and James of Rome, N.Y., and Fred of the American Soo.

The funeral will leave the family residence to-day at 3 p.m. for Mount Pleasant Cemetery, after religious services by Rev. G. C. Clarke, rector of Christ Church.

DR. D. J. ROONEY.

(The Mercury, Estevan.)

A distinct loss is suffered by Estevan and the district in the passing of Dr. Daniel Joseph Rooney, whose death occurred on Monday last.

A victim of the epidemic of influenza that is taking heavy toll of life this spring, Dr. Rooney's illness developed pneumonia immediately, and it was evident from the first that he had little chance for recovery. Within a week from his first illness he had passed away.

The late Daniel Joseph Rooney, son of Edward Rooney sen., was born at Richmond, Ontario, forty-six years ago. As a child he went with his parents to North Dakota in 1883, where they lived until 1891, when they moved to Manitou, Man., and homesteaded. In 1902 the deceased came to Estevan and filed on a homestead north of Bienfait. While performing his settlement duties he served with the Ogilvie Co. as buyer. He took up the study of veterinary surgery and in 1912 graduated with honors at Chicago Veterinary College, being awarded an honorary scholarship. Having established practice of his profession at Estevan, he married Miss Fanny Holmes of Peterboro, Ont. Of the family of six children born to them two died in infancy and their young son, Jimmy, died three years ago. Three daughters, Rose, Gertrude and Doreen, with their mother, survive to mourn the early loss of an unusually kind and devoted husband and father. With his aged father, bereaved by the passing of his life mate three years ago, five brothers are left to mourn the loss of a faithful pal, Mike and Eddie of Estevan, Pete of Swift Current, Anthony of Brandon and Paul of Saskatoon.

Never of really robust physique, the late Dan Rooney was none the less a keen lover of athletics and played on the old Manitou lacrosse team. Since coming to Estevan he linked up with the football team and played a good centre half. With the passing of the age for field sports he turned his interest toward the welfare of the Agricultural Society and was a valued member of the Board of Directors. At the turn of the year he was appointed veterinary inspector for the town under the milk bylaw.

In the practice of his profession, the late Dr. Rooney was known to every one in a radius of fifty miles from Estevan and counted every one his friend. The general sorrow at his early passing was evidenced in the numbers coming from every quarter of the district to pay their last respects to his memory. The funeral service at St. John the Baptist Church, on Wednesday morning, was attended by a gathering that more than filled the edifice. The parish priest, Rev. Fr. Plattier, officiated, assisted by Revs. Gerboux of Forget and Cruvellier of Weyburn. An eloquent and impressive sermon was given by Fr. Cruvellier in which he paid tribute to the sterling character of the departed and voiced his own sense of personal loss. The pallbearers were E. F. Pierce, R Newsome, A. J. O'Connor, J. E. Loughlin, Frank Butler and J. A. Lackey. Floral offerings in numbers and of great beauty testified to the widespread sorrow and sympatny for the suddenly bereaved wife and little family. Interment was at Estevan Cemetery, whence the remains were followed by the largest funeral procession seen here in recent years.

APSLEY, May 20.—The death occurred on Monday afternoon of Bernice, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston, after a short illness. The little girl was only a year and nine months old, and the sympathy of the whole community is extended to the parents in their sorrow. The Rev. J. W. Ogden conducted the funeral service on Wednesday afternoon, interment being made in the cemetery at Apsley.

Smiles while you Wait

Laughter is the finest tonic in the world.

Like mercy, it is twice blessed; it blesseth him that laughs and him that hears.

Many people go through life envying the man who has a smile for everything that comes — a smile of sheer joy for the good things, and a smile of brave hope for the things that just don't come right.

But why envy him? "That Kruschen feeling" is made up of smiles. You, too, can become an artist in smiles if you'll only root out the real cause of optimism. Then you'll discover this — that wherever you find good health you find good spirits.

Buy a bottle of Kruschen Salts, take a pinch in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea every morning and the trick's done. It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

NOT ONE SALT, BUT SIX

Kruschen is not a single salt, but a perfect blend of those six distinct salts which science has established to be essential to healthy life. Hence it has five qualities which a single salt, such as Epsom or Glauber, cannot possess. Kruschen does much more than cleanse your system, besides reminding your eliminating organs gently but surely, of their daily duty, ridding your inside of all its clogging impurities, and sending new refreshed blood coursing vigorously through your veins — it is invaluable for its tonic effect upon your tissues.

In fact, the daily little dimeful completely compensates the physical balance that is disturbed by the unhealthy and unnatural conditions of modern life. Kruschen and Kruschen alone, can counteract the effects of insufficient fresh air and exercise, errors of diet, and the wear and tear of business. Kruschen and Kruschen alone, can free you from all those minor ills — "nerves," depression, sleeplessness, constipation — which are the result of a sedentary occupation. Kruschen and Kruschen alone, can produce that wonderful "Kruschen feeling."

Think what Kruschen will do for you — at a cost of less than a half a cent a day — and you won't hesitate next time you pass a drug store. You'll go in and buy a 75c bottle and begin the Kruschen habit of health at once.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dimeful that does it

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 160 doses—nearly enough for six months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use for adults is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

MAN ATTACKED BY VICIOUS BULL

Superintendent of House of Refuge Has Narrow Escape From Death.

SEVERAL ATTACKS.

LINDSAY, May 20.—F. J. Brass, superintendent of the House of Refuge, had a narrow escape from death on Tuesday when he was attacked by a vicious bull on the grounds of the institution. He was leading the animal to the stable when the snap on the pole became unfastened. The bull immediately attacked the Superintendent, knocking him down with considerable force. He was able to clear himself of the second charge, and called on C. Coughlin to assist him. The bull renewed its attack, threw the Superintendent to the ground and then tossed him up in the air. It attempted to gore the injured man, but Mr. Coughlin beat it off with a club. Mr. Brass sustained several broken ribs, was severely bruised in the right breast and also injured in other parts of the body.

THURSDAY, MAY 20, 1926.

A MERRY LITTLE BATTLE.

Oshawa, which climbed into a prominent position in the public eye a few weeks ago when it moved on Parliament en masse to protest against the slash in the automobile tariff, continues to win publicity.

This time a merry little campaign between the two Toronto evening dailies, with the Oshawa Reformer taking a nip at both, is supplying the advertising.

One Toronto journal interviews some of the leading Conservatives in the Motor City and declares the place is going to the dogs.

The other interviews well-known Liberals and naturally secures the information that the present depression in Oshawa was largely inspired by the campaign against the tariff changes.

The Oshawa paper, on the other hand, says that both the Toronto journals are only out after circulation in Oshawa, and that neither considers the welfare of that community in anything it may print.

And looking at it from this distance, the Reformer comes closer to being right than the other contestants in the three-cornered argument.

THE ROTARY CAMP.

The announcement made recently by the Peterboro Rotary Club that arrangements have been made to keep Camp Rotary at Clear Lake open for ten weeks during the summer means the usefulness of this splendidly equipped and beautifully located camp will be considerably extended.

With the camp in operation during the whole of the vacation season, it should be possible for many more boys than usual to enjoy a holiday under most desirable auspices.

The camp fee of $4.00 a week is so low that the problem of where to spend a summer vacation is solved for many a Peterboro youngster, while in the case of those for whom even this fee is prohibitory the generosity of individual Rotarians and of other citizens will make a sojourn at Camp Rotary a possibility.

Those who have seen this splendid camp will be glad to learn that more use is to be made of it this year, and the Rotary Club will have the support of the public in this very laudable effort to provide an outing for many youngsters who would otherwise be without any opportunity to get away from the city during the hot weather.

60,000 ACCIDENTS A YEAR.

The report just issued by the Workmen's Compensation Board covering the operations of the board last year, indicates that there was plenty of justification for the Safety Convention held recently in Toronto.

It is true that the total amount of benefits paid under the Act in 1925 was less than in the proceeding year by about half a million dollars, yet at the same time there was an increase in the number of accidents, the total last year being 60,012, as compared with 58,675 in 1924.

With a record of nearly 120,000 accidents in Ontario in two years, it will be readily admitted that there is every need to continually preach safety first doctrine in every industrial plant in the Province.

Is there any need to have such a large number of accidents?

The experience of several companies which have given serious attention to this matter and conducted a systematic and persistent safety campaign in their plants would seem to warrant an emphatic "No" in answer to this question.

These companies have succeeded in practically eliminating accidents among their employees, and what has been done in two or three factories can be done in them all if the same sincere effort is made.

60,000 accidents a year is too terrible a record to be allowed to continue.

A WORD FOR THE MILITIA.

Venerable Archdeacon Davidson's address to the members of the Peterboro Rangers on Tuesday night was the sort of speech that should be heard more often in this country.

The militia of Canada justified its existence in the Great War.

Not only did militia officers and men cover themselves with glory in their overseas service, but it is undoubtedly true that without the machinery provided by the existence of a well organized militia Canada could not have taken such a prominent part in the war.

It seems a strange development that after the usefulness of the militia had been so strikingly demonstrated the tendency since the war has been to scrap the machine that served so well, until today but a skeleton remains.

All honour to the officers who in the face of national indifference and parsimonious treatment at the hands of the powers that be struggle to hold their units together and to preserve at least a semblance of preparedness in the event of an emergency.

The Woodsworths and the MacPhails have short memories and shorter vision.

It would be a sorry day for Canada if their propaganda against Boy Scouts, school cadets, the militia and war pictures in the schools was to be successful, and it is fortunate that there are still left a few men like Archdeacon Davidson who are not afraid to say a word for the militia system that has so well served this country.

GIVES FALSE IMPRESSION.

A popular American weekly with a large circulation in Canada had in a recent number the story of a woman who attained success as a writer after a terrific struggle against poverty induced by the complete breakdown of her husband through shell-shock in the Great War. He was physically helpless for years, all their savings were expended on specialists and treatments, and the end was in sight for both apparently when money began to come in as the result of her work. It is a good story in many respects, and it is not written as fiction, but as fact, only for any one in this country who reads it intelligently it has a serious flaw. The man in the case is pictured as having gone to the war with the Canadian army in 1918, being brought back a year later with no hope of recovery within fifteen years, and simply left on his wife's hands, to do the best she could with him. He had the rank of captain, too.

The wife took him to specialists in New York and elsewhere without results, and finally the two settled in a little village in the United States, in which country they had lived before the war, and the woman began her struggle for existence for both. From beginning to end of the story there is not a single suggestion of any step to get the treatment in Canada nor the pension and allowances, which under the circumstances would have been forthcoming. If the facts as the writer claims are true, then she has still a good case to lay before the Pension Board and hospital authorities in Canada. A case like this would not be lightly dismissed if properly presented to the right authorities.

The woman who wrote the story must have been badly advised, if advised at all, as to the steps to be taken for recognition of her husband's condition and the allowances and compensations to which he would be entitled. It is more likely that, even though the story may have a foundation of fact, it is very largely imaginary. It will, however, give an unfortunate and utterly erroneous impression of the treatment accorded by Canada to the men who fought against the German menace. The fact that the publication has several million readers will only serve to magnify the injustice that is done to this country in this story of the treatment of one of its own sons who served it in the Great War.—Brantford Expositor.

BEATING THE BOOKIES.

Among the many qualities of the brilliant and versatile Winston Churchill none are more unchallengeable than his courage and resourcefulness. In war and in peace, on the battlefield as in the political arena, in facing public criticism, defying popular opinion, pursuing perilous courses and risking political fortunes he has displayed a dauntlessness equalled only by his ingenuity in meeting emergencies and surmounting difficult and, sometimes, seemingly impossible situations.

Of these precious qualities, so desirable in a Chancellor of the Exchequer, he has given fresh proof in his latest Budget proposals, and particularly in the provision of a tax upon betting. What in most countries is denounced as a popular vice is in Britain regarded as something in the nature of a national virtue. To follow the races, to back one's fancy by putting "a little bit on," is as natural to an Englishman as playing cricket or football, and, in his view, as harmless as either of these pastimes which, equally with horse-racing, dog-racing and sports of all kinds, appeal to the instinct that finds a thrill in picking a winner.

It is a habit, or as the moralists would say, an evil which finds its addicts in every rank of British life, from the street sweeper and laborer up through the various grades of society to the circles of titled aristocracy, and even to Royalty itself. Nor is it by any means confined to the male sex. In recent years, it is said, betting has become almost as rife among the women as it is among the men, with results that are all too evident in some of the Midland factory towns. What is good for the squire and the parson cannot be altogether bad for the miner or the factory worker is the philosophy which finds popular expression, and since the emancipation of the female involves active participation in sport, the "laying on of a bob" now and again is viewed as a necessary corollary.

To such a point has this form of gambling attained in Britain that, according to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the estimated turn-over of what is termed legal betting amounted last year to the enormous sum of £170,000,000, or roughly 850,000,000 dollars. And if, in addition to that, it were possible to estimate the turn-over of the illegal street bookmakers, whose activities in spite of the law's restrictions, are immense, the extent of the wagering operations, and the amount of money involved, would be much more impressive.

At first sight, nothing would seem more natural and proper than a proposal to make use of that huge turn-over as a source of national revenue. Obviously, a people that can afford to gamble away its money by the hundreds of millions ought to be able to pay a tax that would at once tend to curb a growing evil and to some extent relieve the nation's heavy burden of debt. But they little know of England who think the proposition is as easy as it may appear.

Two years ago, Philip Snowden, as Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Labor Government, nibbled at the bait, only to decide ultimately that "it would not be in the public interest" to impose a tax on betting, the real reason being, of course, that the masses supporting the MacDonald Government would not stand for such an impost. Nor was it from the bettors and the bookmakers only that the opposition came. The curious spectacle was witnessed of the Church and the "Noncomformist conscience" joining with the "bookies" and the backers in indignant protest against a proposal which the former claimed would imply State recognition of betting, and the latter asserted would drive them out of business and interfere with the public enjoyment of sport.

It was also objected that the breeding of horses would suffer, some critics forecasting the extinction of the English thoroughbred. Farmers complained that a tax on betting would result in a reduction of the demand for British oats, the man in the street resented it as an attack upon horse racing and an interference with his liberty, and it was freely predicted that it would favor illegal bookmakers and thereby increase surreptitious street betting.

All these objections, and others, have been urged against the tax on the present occasion, creating a situation which required both courage and resourcefulness on the part of the Chancellor of the Exchequer to meet. And, as was to be expected, the bold and ingenious Churchill has not been found wanting. It was once said of a Victorian statesman that he "backed the wrong horse." To Winston belongs the rare distinction of "beating the bookies."—Ottawa Journal.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

EAST BUFFALO, May 19.—Cattle, receipts 350; butcher grades, slow and steady.

Calves, receipts, 3,000 active; choice steady; culls 50c higher; choice, $12.50 to $13; fair to good, $11 to $12; culls, $7 to $10.50; heavy, $6 to $8; grassers, $4 to $6.

Hogs, receipts, 800; active, steady to 25c higher; heavy, $13.50 to $14.50; medium, $14.50 to $15; mixed $15 to $15.50; yorkers, $15.75; pigs, $15.75 to $16; roughs, $12.25 to $12.50; stags, $7 to $9.50.

Sheep and lambs, receipts, 1,400; active; lambs and yearlings, 50c higher; lambs, $9 to $15.25; yearlings $9 to $12.50; others, unchanged.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, May 19 (Canadian Press).—Receipts 1,320 cattle and calves, 2,320 hogs, and 18 sheep and lambs.

There was a good demand for all offerings on the cattle market and a clearance was made on a reasonably steady basis. Stockers and feeders were unchanged in price.

The hog market was unsettled, with prospects of thick smooths selling at $13.75, a decline of 25c. A handful of real good spring lambs sold at 16 cents per pound, while a few sheep went at $9.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 19 (Canadian Press).—Lack of good buying power, with continued pressure from "longs," in the final hour brought a slump in wheat prices here today, the May future dropping to a low of $1.49 3-4, and closing at $1.49 7-8, an overnight decline of 1 1-4c, July closed at $1.47 5-8, off 1 cent, and October at $1.30 5-8, a drop of 1-8c.

Unless the export demand increases shortly, there is every possibility of considerable reserves being left in this country at the end of July. Crop conditions continue generally favorable in Western Canada.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, May 20 (Canadian Press)—Western offerings are lighter in the East. A sale of a car of seconds was made at 23 1-2 f.o.b. Edmonton. A car of extras at 30 1-4, firsts 28 1-4, seconds 25 1-4 f.o.b. Saskatoon.

ONTARIO CHEESE AUCTION

MONTREAL, May 19 (Canadian Press).—At the United Dairymen Co-operative auction sale of Ontario cheese held here today, there were 1,000 boxes offered of which 500 boxes of No. 1 white sold at 18 1-16 cents per lb, and 500 boxes No. 1 colored at 18 cents per lb.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, May 19 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.85 7-8.
Sterling cables $4.86 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 19 (Canadian Press).—With the exception of a little business worked overnight in Manitoba spring wheat with continental buyers, there were no new developments in the condition of the export trade on the Montreal market today. On spot there was some demand for oats and sales of odd lots of tough No. 2 Canadian Western were made at 8 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, and No. 2 feed at 1 1-4 cents per bushel over, c.i.f. Montreal.

The undertone to the egg market was firm and considerable activity took place in Western and Ontario goods. The receipts were 1,619 cases.

The demand from United States sources for potatoes was again good and prices were steady to a shade stronger.

The receipts of butter were 176 packages. The trade was without any new feature to note. The cheese market was moderately active and receipts were 2,458 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 19 (Canadian Press). — Pronounced weakness in the market for new crop deliveries of wheat developed today toward the last. Optimistic advices in regard to the approaching harvest of domestic winter wheat south were largely responsible. May wheat, however, held firm. Closing quotation on wheat were irregular, varying from 1c net decline to 1 1-4c gain, with corn 1-4 to 1-2c off; oats 1-2 to 5-8 to 1c down and provisions unchanged to 17c up.

One of the factors which tended to bring about a setback in the values of July delivery of wheat especially was an estimate from an authority at Kansas City that the Oklahoma wheat crop this season according to present prospects would show a yield of 82,000,000 bushels compared with 28,00,000 bushels last year and 57,000,000 bushels two years ago.

STATE-OWNERSHIP—A MENACE.

Sir: The May strike in England turned on the demand for the nationalization of coal mines which is the taking over and working by the state of all the coal mines just as in this country we have national or governmental railways, and in this province, nationalised water-powers.

To discuss this question fairly it is necessary to give as nearly as possible the views of those who support nationalization. The first prominent support of nationalization came from the Methodist Church of Canada, which, at its 10th General Conference in 1918, drew up and approved as the policy of that Church the following

"Social and Political Program of the Methodist Church of Canada . . . .

1. Nationalization of all natural resources . . . .
2. Nationalization of the means of communication, transportation and public utilities . . . .
3. Condemnation of speculation. . . .
4. Enactment of legislation which shall secure to labour . . . proper standard of living, to business a fair profit . . . and to the public all returns in excess of these.
5. Forms of industrial organization . . . which shall call labour to the management and a share in the profits and risks of business.
6. The obligation under which we live . . . demands that the life interests of the mass of the people must, in every case, transcend the class, or an individual group of individuals, in profits or property. . . ."

It will be observed that this church, now continuing in the United Church entitles its program "political" as well as social. In paragraphs 2 and 6 it condemns private or individual and company enterprise: in 4, it proposes to take from both capital and labour any excess returns and in 5, calls labour to the management of the factory, etc. Surely it does not mean that such legislation will guarantee success of the business itself. This program has been rejected in England, France, Italy, the U.S. and in all the provinces of Canada, except Ontario, and excepting Russia. The Methodist Church is to be congratulated on making a clear, concrete statement of its "social and political program." The program is clear. It is merely an enlargement, however, of state-ownership begun in Hydro.

Is this what we want? If so, let us get to it at the coming election. We have been standing about in Ontario long enough waiting for something to turn up. Is this it? The nationalisation of lands includes, of course, farm lands. Other lands are provided for under the headings of forests, mines, etc.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WHY WINNERS WIN.

"Manly Exercises Are the Foundation of the Spirit Which Puts One Man Ahead of Another."

Why does the Winner in any sport win?

Because he knows how it feels not to win—to see another win. He asks himself: "Why do I not win?" Then he studies his mistakes.

Mistakes are nothing but too little experience.

Too little experience is a trouble which anybody can outgrow by getting more experience.

There are many joys to being a Winner—but "taking it easy" is not one of them.

A Winner works harder than anybody else. But he thinks of his work as sport, not as drudgery. He thinks of his work as "the game."

Perhaps you have noticed that Luck always seems to be the pacemaker for the runner who wins the race.

A Winner stands firm in his shoes.

He has pluck. He eats sparingly.

He works and laughs unsparingly.

He puts a bar of solid sleep between day and day.

He refuses luxuries and enjoys simple living.

He takes pleasure in seeing how this bit more of work, or that bit more of self-denial, advances him toward winning the place he wants.

Do you want to be a Winner in wealth or position—a Winner in "The Game" which is life?

Think of your work as sport—not as drudgery.

Study your mistakes.

A fatal mistake is neglecting to accumulate money in the bank.

You cannot win unless you keep a part of your earnings to use in winning.

BUILDING PERMITS HIGHER IN CANADA

23 Per Cent. Gain Over April Last Year.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press)—According to returns from 60 cities to the Bureau of Statistics the value of the building permits issued during April showed the considerable increase of $8,450,332, or 80.2 per cent over March, 1925, while there was also a gain of $3,545,900 or 23.0 per cent in the more significant comparison with the corresponding month of last year. The building authorized in April was estimated to cost $18,988,755, as compared with $10,538,423 in the preceding month and $15,442,855 in April, 1925. The total for the month was also higher than in April of any year since 1920, with the exception of April, 1923, when it was slightly higher. The index number of wholesale prices of building materials was then, however, 16 points higher than in April, 1926, when at 150.4, it was lower than in any month since 1919, the first year for which records are available on a monthly basis.

Tells How to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots and Have a Beautiful Complexion

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine from any drug or department store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have begun to disappear, ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

POLICEMEN GUARD QUEBEC FACTORY

Six Alleged Trouble Makers In Strike Arrested.

QUEBEC, Que., May 20 (Canadian Press)—A direct result of the strike trouble which broke out Tuesday afternoon in the vicinity of the Marsh Shoe factory on Dorchester street, when six alleged trouble makers were arrested, has been to have a delegation of National and Catholic Union representatives wait upon his worship, Mayor Martin, at the city hall to seek his intervention in the dispute.

The delegation, which was headed by Pierre Beaule, demanded that the chief magistrate of the city force the boot and shoe manufacturers to live up to the clauses of the contract which they entered into with the unions relative to the employment of factory workers, or else withdraw the policemen now on guard in the shoe manufacturing district. In reply to this demand Mayor Martin promised to do all in his power to see that both sides received justice in the matter of policing the neighborhood of the factories.

SECRET PLANS FOR RESTORATION OF FRANC AGREED ON BY FRENCH BANKERS AND NATION'S LEADERS

Conference of Financiers and Ministers With President Doumergue.

FRANC STILL WEAK.

Assurance of British Good Will Shown in London Negotiations.

PARIS, May 20. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Domergue, Premier Briand and M. Peret, the finance minister, together with the governor and all the regents of the Bank of France, have agreed upon measures to restore the franc as soon as possible.

The Finance Minister remarked that naturally the measures in mind must be kept secret but addeed that the whole question of exchange and the causes of fluctuation has been thoroughly examined.

Speaking of the London negotiations, M. Peret said: "The conversations have simply been suspended; we are seeking to make the viewpoints agree. I must return to London as soon as possible but naturally that depends upon political events. The representatives of the Bank of France are remaining in London because a certain number of technical points are to be examined, which they can try to settle, reserving the larger question of agreement in principle."

British Are Friendly.

The minister declared that his conversations with Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, and Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, demonstrated to him that the British statesmen undoubtedly were well disposed to aid France.

He expressed the hope that France and Great Britain would arrive at a common ground as regards such questions as the safeguarding clause, moratorium transfer clause, the deposit of French gold in London—"which," he interjected, "I hold much at heart,"—and the settlement of the Bank of France's debt to the Bank of England, therefore M. Peret wanted disbursements further delayed, saying, "We must not hasten matters."

He concluded by remarking that the British could not understand the fall of the franc; they did not wish it and had nothing to gain thereby—and the British cost of living was formidable.

The fall of the franc which is causing fear for the life of the Briand cabinet, has resulted in strong pressure within the government in favor of prompt radical measures including use of the $80,000,000 available from the Morgan loan.

Franc's Fluctuations.

Intervention by speculators, who are convinced that the franc is now selling at far below its real value, caused a sharp reaction in the exchange yesterday morning and the franc fluctuated as a result. Strong buying of francs when the bourse opened sent the franc from its low position at 36.15 to the dollar up to 34.30 within an hour.

The movement, however, could not be sustained in the absence of official support, and continued demands for dollars and pounds by French importers sent the franc down again to 35.15 to the dollar and 170.80 to the pound.

The Socialist group of the Chamber of Deputies, headed by Leon Blum, yesterday notified Charles Danielou, under-secretary of state to Premier Briand, that they will ask the premier today to reconvene parliament earlier than May 27, its scheduled resumption. The exchange situation is given as the principal reason for their request.

WIFE DREW MONEY AND DISAPPEARED

Missing From London, Ont., Since Last Saturday.

LONDON, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press).—George Hare, 109 Maitland Street, and an employee of the C.N.R. car shops, yesterday sought police aid in a search for his wife, missing from her home since Saturday morning. She was suffering from a nervous breakdown. Information since obtained shows that the woman visited the office of a local financial institution and drew out $300. She then apparently drove to Dorchester, where she purchased a single ticket for Montreal. As far as is known she failed to arrive there, and no trace of her can be found.

DIVORCE MILLS OF CANADA SET RECORD IN 1925

551 Final Decrees, Eight More Than in 1924—121 in Ontario.

B. C. HEADS LIST.

More Divorces Granted To Husbands—None in Prince Edward Island.

OTTAWA, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Canada established a record during 1925 in the number of divorces granted in any year since Confederation. A total of 551 final decrees were issued, 134 by the Federal Parliament to Ontario and Quebec residents and 417 by the courts to citizens of other provinces. In 1924 the total number of divorces obtained in the Dominion was 543.

A remarkable feature, different from those of other countries, was the preponderance of divorces granted to husbands rather than to wives. Final decrees were obtained last year by 279 husbands, while 272 were given to wives.

British Columbia leads the list, according to a report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, 150 divorces having been granted to residents of that province last year. Ontario ranks second with 121; while Alberta is third with 101. In Manitoba 79 domiciled residents obtained final decrees, in Saskatchewan 42, in Nova Scotia 30, and in New Brunswick 15. Thirteen Quebec citizens were granted divorce by the Federal Parliament.

None in P.E.I.

Prince Edward Island holds the distinction of not having had any of its citizens divorced. The record for this province since entering Confederation in 1868 shows only one divorce.

British Columbia and Saskatchewan recorded the largest increases, each having had an increase of 14 over 1924. Ontario and Manitoba showed respective increases of 7 and 2. In Quebec and New Brunswick, the number of divorces granted in 1925 were the same as in the previous year; while Alberta and Nova Scotia registered decreases of 17 and 12 respectively.

Divorces By Courts.

The increase in divorces granted from 1916 to 1921 had been, it is stated, ascribed to the unsettling psychological effects of the war period and the long separations of men from their wives. In addition, there had also been given a decision by the Privy Council, which enabled the courts of Alberta and Saskatchewan to grant divorces.

Decreases in the totals in 1922 and 1923 appeared to indicate a decline in divorces which might be ascribed to the war-time conditions.

The comparatively large increase last year, seven years after the armistice, must, the report states, be attributed to the greater ease with which decrees may now be obtained, and possibly to a more lenient view of such proceedings on the part of the community.

CITIES EXPOSED TO DESTRUCTION BY WAR PLANES

Belgian Senator Urges Restriction on Airplanes and Poison Gas.

GENEVA SPEECH.

Nations Should Follow Example of Scandinavian Countries in Disarming.

GENEVA, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Fire and gas bombs could slay or paralyze the entire population of New York, M. De Brouckere of Belgium asserted in a declaration before the meeting of the Disarmament Commission yesterday, in which he portrayed the horrors of chemical warfare from the air.

To him it was the most vital thing in disarmament to meet this problem immediately and frankly by the nations accepting supervision of all airplane and poison gas equipment.

"For, in the most cowardly and horrible form of warfare of all," he said, "hundreds of thousands of people in the great cities of New York, Paris, London and Berlin would be driven to the cellars and subways, and would be slowly but surely smothered to death."

"Don't talk so much about disarmament; just go ahead and do it," was another of his striking declarations, to which all the delegates listened in rapt attention.

Impressive Figure.

M. De Brouckers, who is a senator and a Socialist, of ponderous build and long beard, was an impressive figure as he pleaded with the world powers to follow the example set by the Scandinavian lands and proceed immediately with the reduction of armaments without awaiting for formal treaties, which might be difficult, if not impossible, of elaboration.

"But," he went on, "nations which take this initiative must not be made to suffer for it when the time comes, if it ever does, to apportion the strength which the various nations may be permitted to possess."

QUEBEC PLANS COMPLETE MAP

Every Yard of the Province To Be Photographed.

A BIG PROJECT.

QUEBEC, Que., May 20—(Canadian Press.)— Arrangements are being made by the Provincial Government for a huge and unusual undertaking which may require about ten years technical and skilled work. Quebec is to be the first province in the Dominion, if present plans fully mature, to be in possession of a complete serial map of the entire territory, lands, forests, waterworks and seaboard lines.

Partial understanding has been reached between the provincial authorities and at least one aviation company for the taking of photographs from the air of the whole province. The first air expedition is expected to start next week and will "cover" the entire Gaspe Peninsula. Later on other fliers will start to soar over other portions of Quebec.

As practically every yard of the entire territory of the province has to be gone over by the aviators and no work can be done when the weather is too hazy or foggy, or when the land is covered with a pall of smoke from forest fires, the work, which might at first be supposed to be speedy owing to the use of airplanes, will take a long itme to carry out. In addition, after the aerial photos have been taken and developed, experts will have to go over them to "make the joints" so that they may form a complete map of the province.

NEW PICNIC GROUND.

Owner of Land at Lock 25 Has Fitted Up Facilities For Outings.

A new camp and picnic ground, convenient to the city, yet with all the facilities for outdoor recreation, is Lone Pine Farm, the property adjacent to Lock 25, which has been fitted up by A. E. Streadwick. With a fine level piece of ground on the river bank, some seven miles north of Peterborough, which provides ample parking and playing space, Mr. Streadwick has arranged to cater to parties of all kinds, having a refreshment booth and tea room, as well as boats, fishing tackle, and swimming suits to aid in the enjoyment of water sports. A pretty creek runs through the grounds, adding to the attractiveness of this natural beauty spot. Signs have been erected at Nassau pointing the way to Lone Pine Farm, which will be opened on Monday, May 24.

OPENING SESSION.

Royal Society of Canada Elects New Fellows.

OTTAWA, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—The Royal Society of Canada at its opening session yesterday adopted the report of its Council, thereby confirming the election of 15 new fellows. It also confirms winners of Flavelle and Lorne Pierce Medals. The Flavelle Medal, given by Sir Joseph Flavelle for meritous achievements in science, is awarded to Professor J. C. McLennan of the University of Toronto. The medal presented by Lorne Pierce of Toronto for achievements in Canadian literature was awarded to Charles G. D. Roberts.

CITIZENS SEARCH ALL NIGHT FOR GIRL

Laura Wilson, 6, Located Asleep Under Hay Stack on Uncle's Farm.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 20—Every able-bodied adult in the vicinity of Harold spent the greater part of Tuesday afternoon and all of that night searching for little Laura Wilson, the six year old niece of Lewis Wilson who resides on the outskirts of the village. The child disapepared about the middle of the afternoon and was not located until 10.30 Wednesday morning by her frantic relatives who found her safe and sound asleep under a haystack.

There is a large number of rabbits on the Wilson farm and the little girl was in the habit of playing with these animals. It so seems that on Tuesday afternoon she tried to catch a favorite bunny and chased it for some distance, following it into a tunnel that had been made under a stack by one of the pigs on the farm. Here she was apparently overcome by fatigue and fell asleep, her slumber lasting all night and well into the forenoon of the following day. To all appearances the child was none the worse of her unusual experience.

All night long the friends and neighbors searched the woods and every possible place where a child could have hidden or come to any harm, but without success. At one time the searching party numbered over 150, and the neighborhood was bright with the lights that they carried from place to place.

ALBERTA ELECTION PROBABLY JULY 5TH

Announcement Expected Before Week Ends.

EDMONTON, Alta., May 20. — (Canadian Press). — The Alberta Provincial election will be held at the earliest possible date in July, the time being Monday, July 5, if the views prevail of private member supporters of the Government, who were in all day caucus at the Parliament buildings Wednesday. More than thirty of the U.F.A. supporters of the administration were at the meeting which was held in the Legislative Council room.

It was stated after the morning meeting that the private members are anxious that the election should be got through with at the earliest possible date and the feeling prevailed that as all the machinery for the holding of the contest was in readiness the announcement should be made by the administration immediately after the prorogation, which is expected to take place by the end of the present week.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified Cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

PRISCILLA DEAN
Famous Screen Star whose beautiful hair has much to do with her fascination

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

TO DEVELOP POWER OF FIVE NIAGARAS

Water To Do the Work of 4,000,000 Horses Southern Project.

Five times as much power as can be generated by the great dynamos on the United States side of Niagara! Enough to convert the South, with its peaceful corn and cotton fields, into a humming industrial centre, and to make of the Tennessee River valley in the southern Appalachian Mountains an American Ruhr.

A system of artificial lakes, and the deepening of the Tennessee River so that ships may travel from Knoxville through the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to the Gulf of Mexico. A ship canal from the Tennessee River to the Tombigbee River to give this vast new industrial country still another port at Mobile, Ala.

All this, says Popular Science Monthly, is included in a vast project announced recently by Major Harold C. Fiske of the United States army, chief of the Tennessee Valley Power Survey. It has been called the most stupendous engineering project in this generation. The plan is to build 100 dams on the 400-mile stretch of the Tennessee River between Paducah, Ky., and Knoxville, Tenn., conserving the heavy rainfall of this region. When all the dams are completed it is estimated that they will be capable of generating, through combined power of falling drops of water, the almost inconceivable total of 4,000,000 horsepower.

One thousand miners working diligently every day in the year for four years might be able to produce the six million tons of coal that would be required to generate such tremendous horsepower.

The War Department has been surveying the Tennessee valley region for the last five years. From the data obtained the officials learned that in this single valley in the South was concentrated 20 per cent. of the entire potential hydro-electrical power in the United States.

Four utility companies already have made applications to the Government to build dams on the river, and 24 of the dams soon will be under construction. The best known dams on the river now are the Muscle Shoals Dams. One of these, the Wilson Dam, begun by the Government during the war to supply electrical power to take nitrates from the air, is virtually completed. It is one of the most magnificent engineering achievements in the country. Eight generators now are being installed, but the power house is big enough so that ten more generators may be added when the dams higher up the river are completed. With these all working, it is estimated that even at the lowest water stage Muscle Shoals will be able to produce 100,000 horsepower.

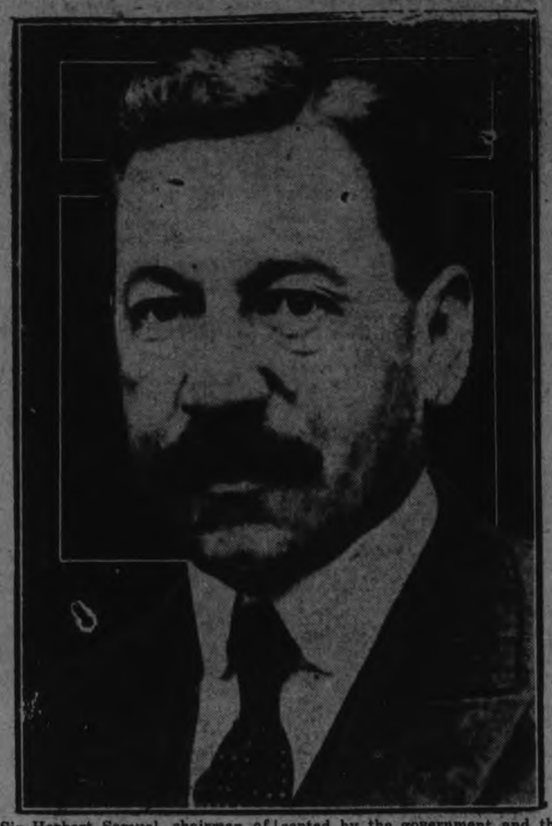
PLAN ACCEPTED



Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the coal commission, whose basis for a resumption of negotiations was accepted by the government and the trades union congress, resulting in the general strike being called off.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

PLAY PRESENTED AT ZION CHURCH

Young People From Garden Hill Put On Clever Performance.

WELL STAGED.

MILLBROOK, May 20—The Amateur Dramatic Club of the Garden Hill Young People's Society, which presented the play, "Turning the Trick" at Zion United church on Friday evening, won for itself laurels and is to be congratulated on the creditable manner in which each character performed his or her part, and also for the way in which difficulties of staging, curtains, etc., were overcome.

The play is centered at the Casey home in New York city. Patrick Casey (Harold Lackey), a retired contractor and a millionaire, looks with much disfavor on the scheming of his wife and eldest daughter, Kathleen (Evelyn Little), who are ambitious to break into society.

Continual quarreling arises between Mrs. Casey (Myrtle Munroe) and her husband because of the plebeian habits to which he clings, and his frequent references to "when I carried a hod"; her decision to be called, not Mary Ann, but "Marie Annette", arouses his especial ire. Paddy (Patrick, his wife determines he must now be named) has no pleasure in his fine home, and is not allowed to even smoke his beloved clay pipe within the doors: "Come out behind the garage," he says to a friend who wishes a private talk, "there's a quiet spot between the ash-pile and garbage can where no one can see us, and where we can smoke in peace."

The youngest daughter, Maggie (Anna Retallick) is her father's comfort. The son, Michael (Laurence Dunbar), led on by the example of his mother and sister, has cultivated extravagant tastes, contracted heavy poker debts, and becomes the go-between for a diamond smuggling gang. He is found hiding a bag of gems valued at $30,000 in a secret place under the library table in the living-room when the play opens.

Madame Anna Bairski (Myrtle Brothwell), posing as a Bolshevik, but in reality a crook known to the police as "Slippery Ann," gains admission to the home as a guest through the foolishness of Mrs. Casey and Kathleen. The real object of "Comrade Anna" as she insists upon being called, is to steal the diamonds, and her accomplice in crime, "Hump" Steele (Dave Munroe), works his way in as the new janitor.

The entrance, and forced stay, of the "He-Dressmaker" as Patrick styles him, Monsieur Armand Francois Boni Aime de Lovier, a French modiste, who brings a dainty gown for Kathleen's approval, creates a great deal of real humor throughout the play. This part was admirably taken by Mr. Markthorne Gardiner.

The plot thickens when Jim Dougherty (P. Bannister), a detective from the U.S. Treasury Department, arrives claiming that he has thrice traced the go-between for the diamond smugglers to the Casey home. No one suspects Michael as yet, but a cordon of police prevents anyone from leaving the house to the indignation of Kathleen and her mother, the Frenchman, and Comrade Anna, none of whom are let into the secret of the detective's arrival.

Patrick, Maggie, George Drake, (Austin Retallick), a friend of the family who is engaged to Kathleen but of late scorned by her because of her soaring social ambitions, Eileen, the maid (Hazel Worr), and the detective plan cleverly for the discovery of the guilty party. None of the others, except Eileen, who is in reality not a maid at all but the daughter of a millionaire friend of Patrick's in California, and who is in love with Michael, have any suspicion that the latter is the party for whom the police are searching.

The climax is reached in the third act, at midnight, when a get-away had been planned for, Anna and her accomplice expecting to have the diamonds, Kathleen and the Frenchman determined to leave the house, Eileen trying to shield Michael who has also slipped downstairs to get the bag of jewels. Dougherty holds up the whole party with a revolver, snapping the handcuffs on Michael, and finally shooting, fatally as is supposed, the hump backed janitor.

The play earns its title, "Turning the Trick" when Steele and "Slippery Ann" in the end get away with the diamonds, Patrick's pocket-book containing $500, Kathleen's travelling bag with her jewellery inside, the costly gown the modiste has brought for her approval, and even the Frenchman's clothes, gold watch and all, Steele, who clevery feigned death but was not really badly hurt by the detctive's shot, wearing the stolen clothing which he "nipped neatly" while the owner was in bed.

However, as threatening calamity leads to a real re-union in the Casey family, restoring love and understanding between Patrick, his erring son who confesses and is forgiven, and his wife and eldest daughter, the money loss is regarded as trivial after all. Maggie and Jim Dougherty are evidently lovers, Kathleen and George smooth out all differences, while Michael delights his father's heart by his determination to marry Eileen.

Music and entertainment between the acts was well supplied by the Ebony Quintette, (Jack Byam, Kenneth Skitch, Lawrence Rowland, Walter Sayles and Piercy Pitt), their selections being "Way Down Upon the Swanee River", "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny" and "Kingdom Coming"; and by Messrs. G. E. and Ernest Burnham who played two cornet duets, "Spring Hope" and "Larboard Watch."

Rev. E. H. Howard was chairman and Misses Kathleen Sutton and Ella Elson the accompanists of the evening. The proceeds of the entertainment were to go towards reshingling the church sheds.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Im.—You have a good deal of poise and self-satisfaction in your makeup, and rather a conservative element, unfavorable to new enterprises, and fond of matters relating to religion or occult science. You are very orderly and methodical in your ways, and, while generous, affectionate and kind-hearted, sometimes spoil these qualities by a certain amount of criticism of others and selfishness. You are extremely exacting in money matters and are fond of accumulating money, while still enjoying life as you go along. You are quite strong and healthy, and seem to grow younger, rather than older, with advancing years. Strive for temperance in eating and drinking, cultivate individuality and self-reliance. Loving service to others should be your watchword in life. February and November are your lucky months, Wednesday your good day. You were born on Monday. Your colors are purple and brick shades.

The day you enquire about, which was a Sunday rather than Monday (that was a Leap Year) was one for quiet meditation and absence from worry.

Em.—You have a fine type of nature, large and true, and well adapted to cope with the circumstances of daily life. You should always try to associate yourself with others in any enterprise, and never try to stand alone. Do not try, either, to control the affairs of those about you. You will not succeed. You have a frank, energetic nature, blessed with much faith in your fellow men, and, although you are easily annoyed and have a quick temper, you do not harbor resentment for long. You are always in a hurry and are usually busy at something. You are apt to have nervous trouble, if you do not seek to acquire repose and calmness and try also to not see those little things which annoy, in daily life. You have very good health and will live to a good old age. You will always be more successful when following out your own inspirations than when listening to the advice of others. February and June are your good months, Thursday your lucky day. You were born on Friday. Your colors are red and brown.

Jim.—Yours is a destiny which points very strongly toward marriage and you should make a very fine home-maker. You will do best in any enterprise by associating yourself with others. Never try to stand alone in any endeavor and do not try, either, to control the affairs of those about you. You will not succeed in such efforts. You are generous, ambitious and talented, but inclined to be rather narrow-minded, especially in matters of religion and to be very careless about money matters and about the returning of borrowed articles. You are impatient of any criticism on this score. You are easily confused, dislike crowds and busy thoroughfares. Follow out your own intuitions, and you will seldom be deceived and strive for habits of order in small as well as large things. Do not worry over anything. Worry will bring on nervous trouble and stomach disorders. And try to control your quick temper. Yes, you were born on Monday. Your colors are orange and grey. August and December are your good months, and Friday your lucky day.

Mrs. M.—I regret that I cannot give you a reading. You have provided me only with your husband's name, not your own. "Mrs." when attached to the name of your husband is not your own name. It is just your married title.

Jem.—Naturally, you have a great deal of physical strength, creative power and tenacity. Your destiny points to success achieved through one way only, that of bringing joy and happiness to the lives of those about you. In this way, you will be happy and successful yourself. As I am not a fortune-teller, I cannot answer the question contained in your letter. I can only tell you of personal characteristics indicated in your reading and of the way in which you can best achieve success, as given above.

Curiously enough, you and your wife have many traits of character in common. You are quick tempered and impulsive, but well-meaning, often antagonizing your friends by saying the first thing that comes into your mind. You have good mechanical ability and large perceptive faculties, with a good deal of skill in your hands. You would make a good surgeon, minister or executive head. The habit of putting things off will do much to hinder your success in life. Although lazy by instinct, your stars are continually pushing you forward to greater fortune and achievement. You are inclined to be a "good fellow," often to your detriment. Stop finding excuses for yourself when you make mistakes, and lay the blame where it belongs. Do not scold or nag. They are small faults in a man. Try above everything else to attain self-control. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are blue and cream.

Jess.—You should be a good wife, if you try at all times to conquer your inclination to scold and nag and to be sarcastic. Your nature is peace-loving and gentle in the main, which is a good thing, considering the type of your husband's character. He has a good disposition, but at times is rather hard to get along with, I should imagine. As you are somewhat alike in essence, do not allow yourself to become angry when he is in that condition or you will have some troublous times. You will have to work hard all your life. Success in anything will come to you only by sticking fast to your job, whatever it may be. Remember that love comes to those who give out love, and not to those who constantly criticize. Make up your mind to control your extreme sensitiveness, and cultivate some hobby for your leisure hours. Do not think so much of praise and flattery, and remember that one true friend is worth a hundred flatterers. Try to overcome suspicion and jealousy at all times. Your lucky months, as in your husband's case also, are January and July, your good day Tuesday. You were born on Saturday. Your colors are orange and gray.

L. T.—Although you have a strong, active nature, that is inclined to be daring and to disregard the rights of others at times, still, as long as you remain unmarried, you must not try to stand alone in any enterprise, but always associate yourself carefully with other people. Do not, either, ever try to control the affairs of your companions or family or friends. You will always fail. Yes, you should have a great deal of success in musical ways, if you resolve to do a good deal of hard work in preparation. But you would make a very good wife and should not let any other career stand in the way of your manifest destiny. It would be better, however, for you to marry later in life, as, being quite emotional, you are apt to blunder in early life in your choice of a mate. You have a congenial disposition and draw others to you unconsciously. You are not especially well suited to your present occupation and would do better in a position with more responsibility attached to it. Try to control your temper at all times, also a tendency to criticize others. Marry a man born in September, October or December. Your lucky months are January and October, your lucky day Sunday. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are the many variations of flame. (Your sister was given a reading some time ago.)

Dave.—You have a personality that is bound to give you much trouble as you go through the world, and yet it has many elements of success in it. The chaff will not over power the wheat, if you are able to take a good look at yourself occasionally and realize your own defects. You will not want to do this, however. Naturally, you are inclined to matters of science and business and might attain much in either way. But to gain success, you will have to ally yourself with others in any enterprise, and this is what you will not want to do. You are determined to think and do things in your own way, and resent fiercely any interference, often being inclined to overthrow everything, rather than fail to prove yourself right. You are large and true, but a child of caprice, which will have a sad effect upon your destiny. You are jealous, sensitive to imaginary slights and changeable to the last degree. You will lose many splendid opportunities through anger and quick temper and you will work too hard, thus sacrificing your health. You are fiery rather than affectionate, and crave most for the affection which eludes you. Remember he who dances must pay the piper, sooner or later. Never touch drink or drugs. Marry a girl born in December. June and July are your good months, Tuesday, the day on which you were born, your lucky day. Your colors are tan and Eve.—You belong to what is styled the strongest and weakest type of people in the world. You have great possibilities, which are not always used to the utmost advantage. You are well-equipped to cope with all the circumstances of daily life and have the power of making others happy. You have a high sense of honor combined with a sensitiveness which sometimes causes you unnecessary worry. You are a natural home-builder and make a good wife, although you have quite a determined attitude in wanting your own way at most times, getting it, however, without much fuss or flurry. Service to others is indicated in your reading. You should make a good nurse in times of illness. You are inclined to be indolent at times and also have the habit of breaking engagements, a very disagreeable trait. Always strive for perfect independence of all outside influences and read good books.

You were born on Friday. Your colors are red and brown.

Na-Fal-Da.—Although you were born with a tendency toward strength of mind and character, still you belong to the class that, while endowed with great possibilities, does not always use them to the best advantage. You will do best by always allying yourself with others in any enterprise and never trying to stand alone nor to control the affairs of those about you. You are a good character reader, are fond of happiness and pleasure, and seem to possess the power of making those around you happy also. Your extreme sensitiveness sometimes causes you much unnecessary worry. You are a natural home-builder and have a great power of inspiration. You are fond of titles and care too much for personal appearance. You sometimes give way to indolence and laziness. Strive to learn how to concentrate and to gain self-reliance. You were born on Friday. Your colors are red and brown.

Esp.—You have quite a lot of self-satisfaction and poise in your makeup, which is a very good thing, if not carried too far. But you have too great a tendency toward reserve and retirement and must strive always to overcome a rather morbid tendency and to fight shyness and introspection. You have a sensitive and poetical nature, and finish most tasks in a careful, competent and conclusive manner. You have strong emotions and pleasant manner of speech, except when angry, when you are liable to be very cutting. You like the beautiful and luxurious things of life and, in matters of buying and selling, have a strong intuitive faculty that should serve you well. You are apt to be lax in money matters and in the returning of borrowed articles. You should resolve to stop worrying and to strive for patience. Marry a man born in February, May, August or March. August and December are your good months, Friday your lucky day. You were born on Monday. Your colors are steel, purple and brick shades.

Lou.—You have an innate leaning toward pleasure and good cheer, and are fond of good times and of the fine arts. As long as you remain unmarried, you will find your success in life in the doing of hard work. You have chosen well in the avocation you now pursue. It is hard, but it will give you adequate returns for your labour. You are generous, kind-hearted and noble, but suffer much from jealousy of your friends and companions, which you should try to control. You are strong in your likes and dislikes, and thrive only when surrounded by those you care for. You should always seek the companionship of pleasant people and things, which your nature demands. You are fond of money and may become miserly in later life. You are apt to have trouble with the throat, lungs and kidneys, but have strong healing powers within yourself. With you, medicine is slow to act. Try to control your tendency to jealousy, and to sensitiveness and look for the good in all people. Marry a man born in November, March or January. February and September are your good months, and Monday your good day. You were born on Friday. Your color is black, not just at present, through necessity, but at all times.

Beth.—Your nature has some odd elements in it. With a tendency at times to peace and gentleness, you combine at other times a very high temper and a quick anger that gets you into trouble. You like to have order and harmony in your home, but are always determined to follow out your own ways of thinking and of doing things, and are very intolerant of any interference. You are large and true in essence, but apt to be very capricious, which does not spell happiness for you or those about you. You are jealous of your husband at times and become enraged over imaginary slights. Since you were married, various circumstances have combined to lead you to a rather retired life and you spend a great deal of time in somewhat morbid thinking. Being alone is good for you to a certain extent, but not when carried to excess. Be careful of money expenditures and try to conquer indecision of character. You were born on Saturday. Your colors are gray and scarlet. The day you ask about, a Friday, is one for quiet meditation and self-communion. Do not worry on this day and let things take their course.

L. R.—You have rather a conflicting personality. Naturally strong, active and creative, with a destiny that points to understanding and sympathy and help to others as your way of success in life, still you have many traits of character that will not tend to your own happiness nor those associated with you. Your chief fault is indecision and you must strive all your days to conquer this failing. Map out the course you wish to pursue in any undertaking and then march forward without swerving. You will find this hard, but it would pay you in the long run. Then you are inclined to indulge your senses to a great extent. "He who dances must pay the fiddler." You should never touch stimulants or drugs. You do not easily forgive your enemies, you are impatient in action and intolerant of any interference, even when well-meant, you are jealous and exacting and you are apt to work too hard. You are large and true, but apt to be a child of caprice, which may have a sad effect on your destiny. Always guard against evil companions and cultivate firmness of character above all things. June and July are your good months, Tuesday your good day. You were born on Sunday. Your color is flame and its many variations.

Aro.—You have plenty of physical force, which, if uncultivated, is apt to be pugnacious, coarse and material. As your way of success in life lies along the path of business, commerce and finance, you should make a happy combination with your bodily strength and your mental bias toward success in these ways. You would be a good teacher, merchant, superintendent, engineer, or would be successful in almost any commercial position. Strive for a good business education, above all things, now while you are quite young. Always avoid the company of scolders and fault-finders, who depress you. Follow out your own original ideas—never copy others. Self-reliance and preparedness in your chosen work should be your aims in life, and you will succeed. You are a tireless worker, but will do better for yourself than when harnessed to others. Try to dress as well as possible at all times. Marry a girl born in May, July, February or November. March and November are your lucky months, Tuesdays and Saturdays your good days. You were born on Thursday. Your colors are green and silver.

Bella.—You have a nature, that, while quite strong physically, with a good deal of creative power and tenacity has also a side that is musical and strongly indicative of success in the married state. Service to others—a service inspired by love—should be your watchword in life and your way of success. You have an inner nature that is receptive and poetical and a way of finishing tasks in a careful, competent manner. You have a pleasant manner of speech, except when you are imitating others, when you are apt to exaggerate. You like the beautiful and luxurious things of life, and have also much foresight, principally in the buying and selling of commodities. Although you like excitement, you are greatly benefited at times by getting away from it and having a complete rest. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are blue and cream.

Fran.—You have a good deal of charm in your makeup, but a disposition that is fickle and changeable, one that will not make for happiness or success, unless you resolve to control it as much as possible. This is particularly necessary in your case, as you will achieve success in life only by keeping at your job, whatever it may be, by constantly plugging away at your task. You are of the lucky type of whom it is said that they have only to try to do great things in order to accomplish them, but you will never do much as long as you allow uncertainty to rule your days. Try to control this element as much as possible. You are apt also to pay too much attention to showy people and things and to live too much in the physical enjoyment of life. You are very adaptable and fit easily into any society or occasion. Try to control your temper and listen to the reasoning of others. You were born on Saturday. Your color is pink. The day you ask about, a Tuesday, is one on which to be patient and agreeable and to make no important purchases.

Len.—With a certain amount of physical strength and vitality, you combine a nature that is inclined to be nervous and fretful. You have the character that is known as a double nature, and must constantly watch that the higher and better is in power, in order to achieve success. You are inclined to be dissatisfied and nervous, always wishing that you were somewhere else or doing something else. Far fields always look very green to you. You are very kind and sympathetic to people in trouble, but when ill yourself are quite disagreeable. Your innate tendency to whine and nag and scold is at its worst then. You are fond of color and flowers and attract birds to you. You are affectionate and self-sacrificing, and your way of happiness in life is to do everything possible to help others and to be lovable at all times. Much will be demanded of you as you go through the world. Do not disappoint those who rely on you forsympathy and understanding. Try to keep your hands and feet still as a starter to the practice of self-control in other ways. You were born on Friday, your colors are blue and cream. The day you ask about, a Thursday, is one for original thought and expression and for taking advantage of every opportunity.

Dimples.—(Your former reading was impossible because you neglected to give your birthdate.) You are of the type that is always busy and that likes to do everything in one individual way. You will suffer from nervous trouble if you do not resolve to try and conquer this restless tendency to do all things in a hurry. Cultivate repose and calmness. No matter what work you are engaged in, it can be done in a way that will not keep you always at a nervous tension. You have naturally a strong, highly developed character, well able to cope with the circumstances of daily life. But there is an element of change and uncertainty in your disposition that is not calculated to make for success, unless you can control it. You have an outspoken frankness of speech that often gets you into difficulties, as, although well-meaning, you are inclined to say the first thing that comes into your mind and thus antagonize others. You must be careful marrying, as an uncongenial union will cause you much trouble. Marry a man born in April, August or November. You were born on Saturday. Your colors are red and brown.

D. R.—As I am not a fortune-teller, I cannot tell you any of the things you ask about in your letter. One thing is certain with you, as with others—your success and happiness lie mainly in your own hands. Your husband will do better when he resolves to stick to one thing and not let disturbing factors influence his life so much.

You make an admirable wife, but you also have a good deal of this fickle tendency in your nature and you are inclined to worry too much about small matters. In your desire to help others, you frequently overdo yourself, and restlessness and anxiety fill your days. Try to learn self-reliance, the value of silence and also the value of money. A certain amount of travel would be good for you. You should not spend all your life in a small place. Try and get out of it into a larger centre. May and June are your good months, Saturday your good day. You were born on Thursday. Your color is pink.

Ann.—You have a strong, active nature, inclined to be logical and daring and to disregard the rights of others. You will find your best way of success in life through the use of cleverness, rather than of force. Tact and diplomacy will get you what you want rather than the use of the mailed fist. You are emotional and have a strong intuitions, which you should mostly follow. You have the bad habit of taking a strong dislike to others without any real cause, and then refusing to alter your opinion in this regard. You like to do things in your own way and make an admirable homekeeper. You will have a long life, but must guard against sudden, violent pains in the head and also be careful of your diet. You have a liking for rich, highly-seasoned foods. You have good judgment and should rely on your own opinions, regardless of what others say, except when you are controlled by your emotions. Try to conquer a tendency to strong anger, and do not waste so much energy in talking about things. You will do best in a city, January and October are your lucky months, Sunday your good day. You were born on Saturday. Your colors are the many variations of flame, from yellow to misty blue. The day you ask about, a Monday, is one for avoiding arguments. Take particular care to remain peaceful and calm on this day and undertake nothing new in social relations.

Pris.—There are few conflicting elements in your disposition. You were born with the ability to face all the circumstances of daily life with unflinching courage and your way of life points to success in im-material paths. That is, although you may not achieve much of material success, you will, if you follow out your destiny, have much influence on your fellows and be able to contribute your share of understanding and sympathy to the world's load of care. The work you do is well suited to you. You like the pleasures and attractions of social life and are quite careless in money matters, also about returning borrowed articles. You are easily confused in busy thoroughfares, and are apt to suffer from worry, anger and impatience. Always follow out your own intuitions. Strive for habits of order and for patience. Marry a man born in February, May, August or March. August and December are your good months, and Friday your lucky day. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are red and brown shades.

M. E. S.—You have a peace-loving, gentle nature, and would have made a very good wife. Possibly the self-sacrificing element in your nature forestalled your manifest destiny, for you should have married long ago. You have always had to work hard, and will always have to do so. Try to make your work as enjoyable as possible. You have great possibilities for good in your nature, and have the power also of making happy those around you. You have a high sense of honor and a degree of sensitiveness that causes you much unnecessary worry at times. You are a natural home builder. Learn how to concentrate and to be self-reliant. You should always study the right of others to have their own point of view. April and August are your good months, Saturday your lucky day. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are orange and grey.

HAD PIMPLES OVER A YEAR

On Arms and Limbs. Lost Rest. Cuticura Healed.

"I was bothered with pimples for over a year which affected my arms and limbs. The pimples were rather large and red and quite hard, and festered and scaled over. They itched and burned causing me to scratch, and I lost rest on account of the irritation.

"A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. There was a difference after using it so I purchased more, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." This Was the Condition of a P.E.I. Woman Before Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"My illness began," says Mrs. M. J. Ahern, R.R. No. 2, Alberton P.E.I., when my husband went overseas and I was left with the care of a farm and stock, with no help but that of a young boy. My health broke down and for the first time in my life I became utterly discouraged. I lost my appetite, had no strength, and was ready to have a crying spell any moment of the day, as the work loomed up ahead of me. A friend happened to speak one day of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done her and urged me to try them. I had not energy enough, or perhaps confidence enough, to try them, but she would not be denied and sent me three boxes, and by the time I had taken them I knew they were helping me and was anxious for more. I continued taking the pills for nearly six months and by that time I had safely passed a critical period in my life, and regained my usual good health. To all overworked, nerve-racked women—and there are a great many of them—I still say, and at all times, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I know you will regain your energy."

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood easily overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the blood, and when that is done all the symptoms of anaemia disappear and good health returns. You can get Dr. Wiliams' Pink Pills from any druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The story centers around Harry Morton (rich, unmarried, middle-aged, much pursued by women); Audrey, his adopted daughter (who is in love with him); Nona, a Toronto stage girl (who also loves Morton) and John Parrish, Morton's secretary (who loves Audrey, and is encouraged by Morton.)

Morton has lived in Peterborough for 15 years, without gossips ever learning about his past or the source of his wealth. He also maintains an expensive apartment in Toronto.

Audrey decides to go on the stage, to learn how stage girls manage to attract Morton. She has become friends with Nona. As this chapter begins, they are all in Morton's Toronto apartment. Nona has just asked Parrish if he knows how to win Audrey.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

Audrey's soprano voice, to the accompaniment of the organ, was trilling an aria from the operatic score that lay open before her. Parrish and Nona could talk without being overheard.

"I think it is my private affair, whether I want to marry Miss Morton or not," he said, coldly.

"Don't be a prune," said Nona, impatiently. "Morton knows, and Audrey knows, and I know, that you are in love with her."

"Does she know it?" he exclaimed, with deepening interest.

Nona shrugged her shoulders. "The cat would know it—if there were a cat around here. Do you suppose we all are deaf and blind?"

The severe lines in his face had smoothed out, and he was smiling a little.

"Don't simper like that!" Nona commanded. "You look too simple for words!"

His smile vanished, and he frowned again.

"I'm not going to be insulted by a woman like you," he said. He started to move away.

She took him by the coat-sleeve. "I'll swallow that—for the moment," she murmured, her face flushed, "but I'm going to tell you what I started out to tell."

The music at the other end of the room stopped, and Nona and Parrish applauded.

"Please sing something else," called Nona.

Audrey assented, and Morton, at the keyboard, began his prelude to another song.

"You don't know anything about women at all," Nona continued, to Parrish. "I'm a woman, and I do know. I think you're a poor specimen, but I'm willing to help you, for reasons of my own."

"But," objected Parrish, "if Miss Morton knows I love her, I don't see how I need any help."

"You don't!" Her tone was scornful. "I suppose that she has fallen into your arms. Huh?"

His face fell.

"Of course not," he confessed, "but nice girls don't do things like that."

"The devil they don't!" was her brisk retort. "Nice girls and un-nice girls are just about alike, when they're in love with a man. The trouble is, she's not in love with you. She isn't even interested in you. And what's more, you don't know how to make her interested."

He drew a design upon the window-pane with his forefinger.

"Well, what am I to do?" he asked, at length.

"I can't give you a course in love-making here," she said. "But you'll have to take me home." He made an involuntary movement. "Yes, you will—you'll have to, as a gentleman—or near-gentleman. I'll tell you what I'm thinking about, then."

* * *

When Parrish and Nona had gone, late that evening, Audrey perched herself on the arm of Morton's chair.

"Nona says she's in love with you," she said, stroking his hair, "but I wonder if she is, so very much?"

"Why?" he inquired.

She twisted a lock of his thick hair about her forefinger.

"Did you notice her tonight, while I was singing, and afterward? She leaned against Mr. Parrish, and once I saw her put her hand on his shoulder, and they were talking a long while together, very low, while you and I were in the alcove."

She considered, as she started twisting another lock of hair.

"I like Nona. But I wonder if she isn't really a flirt!"

Morton turned away, to hide an amused twinkle in his eyes.

"And you feel it is wrong for her to tamper with Parrish's young affections?"

"You're teasing!" She struck him a light pat, on his cheek, and arose. "But he doesn't understand women, and she's experienced, and he might fall seriously in love with her. Any woman can get a mere boy like Mr. Parrish, if she wants him."

Morton laughed outright.

"That's one of the oldest superstitions of womankind," he said. "Every woman believes that she—or any other woman—can vamp any man on earth, and bring him to her feet. That is, except the man they're trying to vamp. He is generally hard to get."

"You're hard to get," she said, tenderly.

"So is any other man—unless he's anxious to be gotten." Morton arose, and stood before her, to emphasize his point.

"Women just naturally have a vein of—well, conceit, in them," he proceeded. "It is universal. They actually believe—you believe, Nona believes, the fat janitress downstairs believes, that all a woman has to do, if she wants a man, is to go out and make eyes. They talk about it. They're utterly frank in thinking that any woman, unless she's crippled or past eighty, is an enchantress. Particularly, each woman thinks that she herself can lure any man whatsoever—except, of course, the one she's trying to lure. She's not so sure of him."

"But that's why women are so jealous. They regard men as a breed of poor weak critters, who fall in worship before any woman who gives them the eye. Pooh!"

He touched her, with his forefinger, on the chin.

"Men fall in love, of course. But they fall in love with the women that they pick out. There'll be men in plenty in love with you, Audrey girl. You're lovely and worth loving. But even you can't vamp a man who doesn't want to be vamped."

She dimpled, and looked into his eyes with a smile.

"I'm going to vamp you—as soon as I learn how it's done," she warned him.

"You've vamped me already—you did that many years ago. But I'll bet you marry Parrish!"

He vanished into his room before she could frame an appropriate retort.

* * *

Audrey's rehearsals with Nona went on, day after day. The work became longer and more arduous, as she became hardened to it.

"She's going to do all right," Nona told Morton, at the end of a week.

In the evening Audrey would return home, almost too tired to eat. More than once she flung herself on her bed, without removing her clothes, and slept until her maid awakened her at bedtime, and urged her into her bath, and into her frilly night dress.

Nona started her own day hours earlier.

"I've reformed," she confided to Morton. "If I'm going to do any serious work, after this little fling of Audrey's, I've got to get into shape to do it. So I get up at eight in the morning instead of at two in the afternoon, and I walk two miles, practice hard for an hour on the dance floor, sing another hour, and then wait for Audrey!"

"Not staying up nights, then?" he suggested.

"Bed at ten o'clock sharp," she said, "except once in a while."

"I'm glad we've all settled down for a bit," he said. "For about two weeks, things were so hectic I was seriously thinking of taking Audrey and running away."

Parrish, still acting as Audrey's escort, patiently sat through the afternoons of practice, solacing himself with a book. His evenings were free now. Audrey's fatigue left him to his own contrivances after six o'clock. He employed his time diligently.

One morning he appeared in Morton's office with his guitar.

"I want you to hear me," he told his employer.

Sitting down, he drew the instrument from its leather case, and with puckered brow, carefully played a tune.

"Shall I let Miss Morton hear me play on it?" he asked, hopefully.

"She will be charmed," Morton gravely assured him.

"I've been taking lessons, and working on it every night," Parrish said. "I've been going to dancing school, too. When Miss Morton isn't so tired, I'm going to ask her out to dance some place."

"Excellent," Morton said. A smile hovered on his lips. "You're only a young kid, after all, aren't you?" he added.

Parrish frowned. "You told me to learn to dance and to play this thing," he returned, reddening.

Morton soothed him. "I didn't mean to offend you. But it really is nice to see an unsophisticated young man, these days!"

With a doubtful stare, Parrish put away his guitar, and withdrew. Morton laughed silently, as he returned to his work.

Before Parrish left the office, for his daily tryst with Audrey, Morton asked him to come to dinner that evening, "with your guitar," he added. "Audrey will want to hear you."

The young man, his spirits restored, assented gladly.

"I'll be there at seven o'clock," he said. "I can play three tunes pretty well, now."

It was nearly six when Audrey entered the apartment, and dropped into a chair. Taking off her hat, she threw it on the floor, and then let her arms hang wearily straight downward.

"I'm so tired I could just die!" she exclaimed.

"Is it too much for you?" Morton asked.

"No—I'm doing better, Nona says. But daddy."

She stopped.

"Yes?" he said, encouragingly.

"Daddy," she resumed, "Mr. Parrish has been seeing Nona. Privately, I mean."

He hid a smile with his hand, but his eyes were grave.

"Yes?" he said, again.

"I don't think it's right." The girl drew up her drooping body, and leaned forward, her elbows on her knees.

"What's wrong about it?" Morton asked. "They're young things, unmarried, carefree. Why shouldn't they meet?"

The girl made a restless movement with her shoulders. "They don't belong together," she explained. "She's millions of years older than he is, in experience. And I've seen them whispering together in that place where Nona and I dance. He's just a nice boy, and he'll be wax in her hands. And by a word he dropped, I know he called on her at least once at her apartment."

Morton waited for her to continue, but she was silent.

"Do you think she's after his fortune?" he asked, amusedly.

"I think she's just practicing on him," she said, "and he may fall seriously in love, and she'll break his heart."

"But what do you care?" he pursued. "You've told me you don't like him."

"Oh, I like him all right," she said "I couldn't love him, of course. But neither does Nona. She's just playing with him, and I don't think she ought to."

She arose, and went upstairs to dress. "I wish you'd do something about it," she called, over the balcony railing, before she entered her room.

Morton waved at her, and then settled back in his chair, an expression of contented mirth upon his face. When Parrish came, armed with his guitar, Morton greeted him with unaccustomed warmth.

"All dolled up," he commented, glancing at Parrish's new evening clothes. "We've been talking about you."

"Daddy! Hush!" It was Audrey, just descending the stairs.

Entering the drawing room, she took the situation into her own hands.

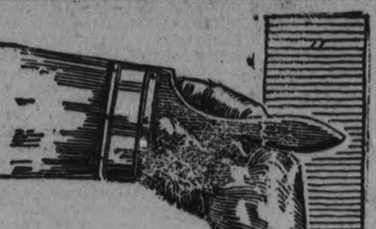
"Save the surface and you save all"—Paint & Varnish



"YES, I agree, the need of this country is development and conservation of its vast wealth.

"The eyes of the world turn to our timber, wheat, mines. Our industrial world is alive with expectation of bigger things. Yet, as you say, near seventy per cent. of Canadian property is perishing for lack of paint and varnish and the yearly losses from such deterioration exceed the losses from fire.

"You'd be surprised at the manifold uses for paint and varnish right in this factory. White paint is our specialty because it reacts like sunshine in every dark corner. My foremen tell me that the working light is greatly improved through painting and not only are accidents less frequent, but our employees are brighter and more cheery. And it's a satisfaction to know that every painted surface will last longer.

"We painted the floors last week. It had become apparent that there was considerable overhead underfoot. No end of saving there!

"I am a firm believer in the slogan of the paint industry:

"'Save the Surface and You Save All.'"

VARE'S VICTORY BOOST FOR BEER

Wet Candidate Won in Pennsylvania Republican Vote.

VOLSTEAD ISSUE.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 — A boost for beer and light wines and a rebuff for the national administration were voted Tuesday by Pennsylvanian Republicans.

Williams S. Vare, political leader of Philadelphia, who tol d his supporters that a Republican congress in 1928 woud modify the Volstead act if he were elected, seemed to have been chosen Republican senatorial candidate by about 75,000 plurality, as the count in the Republican primary stood early today. He ran strong in Philaedlphia with a 226,000 plurality.

With 5,112 districts out of 8,281 in the entire state reported, the vote was: Vare, 497,573; Pepper, 325,586; Gov. Pinchot, 184,481.

Large Plurality

Vare's plurality over the present incumbent, Senator Pepper, was, when that calculation was made early yesterday, 171,987. The remaining districts, however, are strong for Pepper, and Vare's strength was expected to be cut down considerably.

Pepper had made his campaign on support of the Coolidge administration with the most active support Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has ever given a candidate in his home state, but he went down in defeat with Governor Gifford Pinchot, dryest of the drys, and a Rooseveltian figure. Pinchot seemed hopelessly beaten.

Vare made his sole appeal on the beer issue. He claimed the Volstead act had proved a failure. He promised to be a power in the next Republican national convention with the delegation of the state behind him. Office-seekers over the country were watching the result here, he said. Pennsylvania would prove the keystone state in the move for modification. Vare contended.

Mellon's seelction for lieutenant-governor, Ernest G. Smith, was defeated by the Vare man, Arthur E. James.

James F. Woodward, on both tickets, was renominated for secretary of interior affairs.

Vare's Opinion

This complete victory for aVre and the wets may make him the long-sought successor to Boies Penrose, so-called "boss" of the state a few years ago, who wielded so much influence in the selection of presidential candidates and in designation of the policies of the party.

Vare claimed his election about 2.30 a.m. today.

"The people believed in my platform and felt that I am a safe agency for the expression of their will and desire for a return of personal liberty and non-interference with American rights which the constitution granted them," he said.

A record vote of probably 1,500,000 or more was cast, about 100,000 more than in the last presidential election.

NEW MOVE FOR SCOTT.

Report Says Slayer Has Been Found Mentally Sane.

CHICAGO, May 20 (Canadian Press) — The State Commission named to investigate the sanity of Russell Scott, slayer of a Chicago drug clerk has reached its conclusion and while no official announcement was made of the decision, the Herald and Examiner says it was learned from an authoritative source that the former Canadian financier has been found mentally sound and will be returned to Chicago. Under the decision finding Scott sane he will be brought to Chicago to appear before Judge David, who first sentenced him, and who would be asked to re-name an execution date. Scott's lawyers, however, are planning a new fight against such procedure it was learned. Scott, three times saved from the galows in startling legal moves finally was found insane by a jury and sentenced to the hospital for the criminal insane at Chester.

Offers to furnish tractor power for the rock crusher were received as follows: From Lockhart E. Bell, to furnish power and supply oil for 80c per hour, or to furnish power without supply oil for 75c per hour; from W. F. Bell, to furnish power and supply oil at 75c per hour; from Thomas A. Rowan to furnish power and supply oil at 80c per hour, or to furnish power without oil at 75c per hour.

Moved by J. L. Ashmore, seconded by Thomas H. Rice, that the following persons be appointed the fence viewers in this municipality: George B. Fee, Edgar Best, Arthur Jackson, Andrew McCarrell, George C. Franks, Albert Sanderson, William Burgess, Edward Chatten, Daniel Winn, Edward Houlihan, Joseph Flynn, Vincent Perdue, John McMullen, Jas. C. O'Leary, Alexander McGahey.

On motion the offer of W. F. Bell to furnish power for the rock crusher and oil for same at 75c per hour was accepted.

The following accounts were passed and an order on the treasurer for payment of same: Wm. Burgess, sanitary inspector, for placarding dwelling for scarlet fever, $5.00; W. F. Elliott, for wood furnished for rock crusher while being operated on east quarter line in 1925, $22.50; Harry E. Endicott, bonus for 69 rods of wire fence at 40c, $27.60; Charles L. Lucas, bonus on four rods of wire fence at 40c, $1.60.

The council adjourned upon motion to meet on Tuesday, May 25, as a Court of Revision, and thereafter on the same day, should time allow, for the transaction of general municipal business.

BETHANY INSTITUTE OFFICERS ELECTED

Annual Meeting Held and Reports Received—Bethany News.

BETHANY, May 20 — The annual meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Saturday afternoon in the town hall with an average attendance ,Mrs. Jemison, the president in the chair.

It was decided that during the months of June and July the street lamps need not be lighted.

It was also decided to commence the sale of ice cream for the summer on Saturday, May 22nd. A committee of ladies was appointed to arrange for the purchase of the cream and for any other thing necessary for the serving of the cream.

Mrs. Jemison and Mrs. W. H. McCartney were appointed to call upon F. W. Reynolds and see if it could be possible for him to complete the erecting of the fence around the hall before the 24th of May so that Miss Preston the treasurer could pay for the job before the books were closed and audited for the year ending May 31st.

Miss Preston, the treasurer, gave a report of the treasury. There is still a fair balance in the bank, although the Institute has done no active work in the way of raising funds during the winter with the exception of having the young people of Omemee put on their play in January.

The election of officers then followed and resulted as follows:

President: Mrs. S. Jemison.
Vice President: Mrs. J. Sisson.
Secretary: Mrs. W. L. Rowan.
Treasurer: Mrs. Arthur Flack.
Piano committee: Mrs. A. H. Monk and Mrs. W. Davis.
Delegates to district annual: Mrs. W. H. McCartney and Mrs. J. Sisson.

The president sugggested that as many of the members as possible try to attend this meeting.

Look out committee for possible new members: Mrs. Thorndyke, Mrs. Sissons and Mrs. Arnott.

Auditors :Mrs. R. W. Price and Mrs. J. Sisson.

Mrs. W. L. Rowan and Mrs. Thorndyke were appointed by the president to arrange for a program for Friday evening when Mrs. Gordon Cook of Beamsville will address the Institute members on Institute work.

On Friday evening an interesting play entitled "The Handkerchief with the Blue Border," was staged in the town hall under the auspices of the Girls Guild of St. Paul's Anglican church. The spacious hall was filled to its utmost capacity when at 8 o'clock the curtain rolled up. The play was given in four acts and pictured events which were supposed to have happened at a hotel on the southern sea coast where wealthy patrons gathered to enjoy the sea breezes and look for something exciting to happen.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Alonzo Dow, the Mystery, Arthur Jemison.
Michael Cameron, the Detective, Gibson Lowery.
Colonel Jenniver, the manager of the hotel, Charlie Smith.
Reginald Null, a millionaire, Charlie Reynolds.
Doctor Beedle, the professor, William Sisson.
Bunch, the bell boy, Frank Hamilton.
Sadie Brady, the stenographer, May McGill.
Mrs. Christopher Carley, the dowager, Mrs. I. Carscadden.
Harriet Carley, the step daughter, Mary Sisson.
Senora Gonzales, the adventuress, Gladys Fierheller.
Vicky Vaughan, the debutante, Mabel Nesbitt.
Mrs. Quinn, the maid, Laura Morton.

The scenes pictured the lounge of the hotel with its various activities for acts 1, 2 and 4; act 3 pictured Alonzo Dow's room in the hotel with the mystery in his room. The costumes worn by the ladies were very beautiful. Between acts Miss Mary Sisson and Miss Laura Morton sang in their usual pleasing manner accompanied at the piano by Miss Fierheller. Delicious home made candy was also to be had during the intermission between acts. Great credit is given to Mrs. Dr. Hamilton who was the very capable manager and prompter of the play.

MINSTRELS PLEASE MARMORA PEOPLE

Peerless Troupe of Belleville Puts on Good Programme in Town Hall.

MARMORA, May 20.—The Peerless Minstrels, of Belleville, visited Marmora on Friday evening and pleased a large audience at the Town Hall with their varied high class programme. Mr. Harold Armstrong made an ideal interlocutor. The musical accompaniment was in the capable hands of Mrs. Eugene Harkins at the piano and Mr. George Gill with the violin.

Following the opening chorus, Mr. Harry Elvins gave in humorous vein "There Ain't No Flies On Auntie." This was succeeded by a pleasing rendition of "Meet Me By The Water Melon Vine" by Miss Norah Harris. Eddie Turner, the juvenile darkey made a great hit with his song "Help," capturing the audience with his whimsical ways. Mr. Lyle Pringle set the creeps a going, in the troupe and through the audience with his "Big Chief". Young Marie Harkins showed great possibilities as she sang, "Be On The Level With Mother." Mr. Eugene Harkins proved very refreshing with his medley, "It Don't Do Nothing But Rain." Miss Margaret Pratt was heard to good effect in "Smile a Little Bit." Mr. Sam Turner raised many a laugh with his funny song, "Just One More." Miss Beulah Harkins in her sentimental number, "Wandering One," was much enjoyed. To wind up the first half, the most humorous of the colored gents, Mr. Jack Scott made laughter ring with, "The west Wind Blows."

Between the various numbers, many dialogues were carried on with occasional jocular reference to local worthies. The appearance of the diminutive messenger boy, Master William Maxwell Turner created much notice by reason of what was excellent acting for one barely six years old. The death of Uncle Ned (Mr. George Elvins), was also finely acted in the course of the initial half. The second half of the programme was equally entertaining. Specialty acts were put on. Miss Beulah Harris and Mr. George Gill together, played ukelele selections. Master Eddie Turner and Miss Marie Harkins sang very sweetly together and danced very prettily to "How Do You Do, Miss Josephine?" for which they were encored. Little William Turner appeared as the youngest comedian that ever stood before the local footlights, as, with wonderful dramatic power he sang, "O, My Girl, Don't Love Me Any More." Mr. Jack Scott gave a negro preacher's oration in masterly style and appeared with three other duskies in a farcical sketch fitted to the song, "Show Me The Way To Go Home." This was followed by the closing chorus The troupe has been booked for a return visit next fall.

Messrs. Floyd and James Robertson left for Cleveland on Thursday.

AMUNDSEN READY TO LEAVE TELLER

Expect the Norge To Be Sent To Italy.

NOME, Alaska, May 20 (Canadian Press)—It is said here that the Amundsen-Ellsworth trans-polar expedition is endeavoring to obtain a Norwegian freighter to go to Teller and take the dirigible Norge to Italy. Tom Peterson of Teller, related that as Amundsen stepped out of the Norge, he asked "Where are we? What place is this?" and Peterson replied that it was Teller. "Well, so this is Teller," Amundsen was said to have rejoined. Other members of the expedition have declared that the explorers knew their position at all times.

FRENCH SHOULD BE LEARNED BY ALL CANADIANS

Professor MacPhail of Queen's University Urges Bilingualism.

TO SET EXAMPLE.

Will Send His Own Son To Quebec To Learn French.

QUEBEC, Que., May 20. Canadian Press. — "Considering the fact that the French language is the mother tongue of at least one third of the population of Canada, I am not a bit loath to state that if this country is to go ahead it is essential for Canadian parents to see that their sons and daughters are educated bilingually. It is a duty which they owe to the rising generation, and the sooner it comes about the better for Canada."

Such was the expression of opinion given yesterday by Colonel Alexander MacPhail, C.M.G., D.S.O., A.D.C., LL.D., Professor of Civil Engineering at Queens University, Kingston, Ont. Colonel MacPhail is a native of Prince Edward Island. He [illegible] strumental Monday night in forming a local alumni association for this purpose.

Literary Value.

In the course of an interview, Col. MacPhail was firm in his advocacy for bilingualism in Canada. He realized the fact that others had strived to further this cause, but he was inclined to believe that the question, although of great portent, had never perhaps been considered seriously enough. His strong opinion was that it would mean the opening up of a vast realm of literature hitherto practically unknown to the majority. "And French literature," he added, "is recognized the world over as something of a superb naute."

Colonel MacPhail declared that he felt so strongly about this matter that he determined some time ago to have his son go to a Quebec seat of learning. His hope was that other English speaking parents would see their way clear to educate their families in a similar manner.

Quebecs Liquor Law.

Asked as to his general opinion of the Quebec liquor law, Colonel MacPhail said that "whatever may be said in dry provinces, at any rate the Province of Quebec has had the good sense to adopt a law that is capable of enforcement.

"The fruits of a really temperate administration," he said, "are visualized here in good roads, increased efficiency in all branches of education, and the beautification of the cities and towns throughout the entire province."

Wealthy Realty Operator Gained Prominence Through Divorce Suit.

NEW YORK, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)—W. E. D. Stokes died in his home this morning. Mr. Stokes, a wealthy realty operator, and financier, was long in the public eye because of the sensational divorce suit brought by his wife, Helen Elwood Stokes. He was 73 years of age.

SHORTAGE OF HELP.

Over 1,000 Applications From Farmers Have Not Been Filled.

TORONTO, May 20 (Canadian Press)—So serious has the shortage of farm help become in this province that the Ontario Government has sought the aid of the Federal authorities in remedying the situation. Representatives in London of the Dominion were cabled today asking that they cooperate with the Ontario representatives in seeking the necessary help. It is declared there have been more than 1,000 applications sent from the Bureau of Colonization from the farmers in this province desiring helpers. The province was unable to meet any of these requests.

NEW FOREST FIRES NEAR PORT ARTHUR

Men Rushed By Planes To Fight Outbreaks.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press)—Two new forest fires in the district were reported to the headquarters of the forestry service yesterday. One is located in the north po n of Stirling Township and is burning briskly, but the extent of damage is at present unknown. The other is in the Pic river country, north of Heron Bay. This fire was spotted Tuesday night by hydroplane, and yesterday morning men were taken to the scene by planes. To reach the fire it was necessary for the planes to land on White Fish Lake following which they left on an overland trip of three miles.

The fire in Stirling Township has been under observation for some days, but leaped into ferocity Tuesday, fanned by a high wind. Men left Wednesday by plane to combat the blaze. They will go in from Hurkett station.

Forestry service officials said that the situation elsewhere was far better than Tuesday. The fire at Cloud Bay has made no headway since Tuesday afternoon, and the fires at Clavet Point in Sibley township are out.

Chrysler Roadster Will Set Pace at Indianapolis Speedway.

A Chrysler Imperial "80" roadster will set the pace for the thirty-odd contestants entered in the fourteenth annual edition of the nation's greatest speed classics, which will be run this year at the Indianapolis Speedway on Monday, May 31.

To be chosen pacemaker of this field is a signal honor to any car and to its manufacturer and is one that is awarded on the basis of merit and known performance.

To win such an honor only two years after the first car of the name was produced, as the Chrysler has done, is, therefore, a high honor indeed.

As the model number indicates, the Chrysler Imperial "80" is capable of maintaining a speed of 80 and more miles per hour and is, therefore, one of the fastest stock cars in the world. Experience has shown, too, that this fleet beauty of the highways possesses the added advantage of being exceptionally smooth-riding, responsive to the driver's lightest touch, and capable of sustained performance that has

ROSENEATH NEWS

ROSENEATH, May 20.— The lovely weather on Sunday brought out a good attendance to the Anglican church on Sunday morning also to the United church in the village. Next Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m. Rev. Mr. Lovelace will conduct the service in the United church and Mr. W. J. Shean of Toronto will give an address representing the Ontario Prohibition Union. He will speak on the subject of prohibition. Mr. Shean will also address the congregations at Fenella at 10.45 a.m. and Bethany at 2.30 p.m. next Sunday.

The missionary meeting at Centenary on Tuesday last was not so well attended owing to the very busy season. President Mrs. (Rev.) Wylding opened the meeting in the regular way. The business part of the meeting in connection with the Roseneath church was electing a leader for the Mission Band. Mrs. (Rev.) Lovelace was elected, assisted by Miss Jessie J. Johnston, and will meet the first Saturday afternoon in June. Mrs. Lily Turner and Mrs. George Mouncey were appointed to canvass for new members.

The Centenary Sunday school has been re-organized and will start the first Sunday in June.

The vote re pastoral relation for and against present pastor, Rev. Mr. Lovelace, at the different appointments were as follows: Roseneath, for 71, against 29; Fenella, for 32, against 3; Centenary, for 28, against 2; Bethany, for 17, against none, making a total of 83 per cent in favor of Rev. Lovelace.

The officers for the United Sunday school are as follows:
Superintendent—George Ingham.
Assistant—Andrew Brown.
Secretary—Miss Evelyn Turner.
Librarian—Miss Jean Mouncey.
Treasurer—Mrs. George Ingham.
Bible Class teacher— Mr. M. Davey, Rev. Lovelace.
Senior boys—Mr. R. Parker, Mrs. D. Brisbin.
Junior boys—Mr. M. Sherwin, Mr. L. Roberts.
C.G.I.T. girls' class—Mrs. Andrew Brown, Miss Bertha Clarke.
Senior girls—Mrs. G. Ingham, Mrs. A. Campbell.
Junior girls—Mrs. M. Davey, Mrs. C. Vatcoe.
Primary—Mrs. John Curtis, Mrs. J. Brown.
Beginners—Mrs. M. Sherwin, Miss A. Swan.
Missionary Superintendent—Mrs. W. Roberts.
Organist—Miss Gladys Blodgett, Mrs. Davey.
Cradle Roll—Mrs. L. Sherwin, Mrs. Alex Brown.

The Women's Institute are giving an excellent play entitled "Sunshine," on May 24 at 8 p.m. A real treat is being looked for and everybody welcome.

Mr. Milton McMillan, undertaker, had the funeral of the late Mrs. Patrick Fitzpatrick in Hastings on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Leslie Turner and sister of Peterboro motored to Roseneath on Sunday and spent the day with their sister-in-law, Mrs. Lily Turner.

Mr. William Jackson has returned home after spending the winter in Toronto. Mr. Jackson's health is very much improved.

Mr. Ezra Houghtailing and daughter Dema, and Miss Gladys Foster of Cobourg were out on Sunday to see Mrs. McGivern who is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Dunn and family, Trent Bridge, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hogg.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Brisbin and family motored to Peterboro on Sunday and spent the day. Mrs. E. Brisbin returned home with them, her health much improved.

Mrs. Lottie Nichol has returned home after a lengthy stay in Strathroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Thackeray and family, Peterboro, were in the village on Sunday, guests of Mrs. Annie Lapp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Waldie visited friends at Trent Bridge over the week end.

Miss Bertha Clarke spent the week end at her home in Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Davey and son, Mr. Wilfred Davey, visited relatives in Castleton on Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Mouncey has returned home after a few days with her daughter, Mrs. West, in Hastings.

Rev. and Mrs. Lovelace and family visited her sister, Mrs. Wilton, at Gore's Landing, for a few days last week.

OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, May 20.— Division Court was held in Omemee on Friday. Only one case was on the docket. The plaintiff was A. Parker suing R. Reeds for wages, amounting to a little over $9.00. Judge Swayze gave his decision in favor of plaintiff, granting him two thirds of the amount.

Loses Horse.

Mr. Alex Lang, who resides about three miles south of the village, had the misfortune to lose one of a team of working horses last week. Mr. Lang had hauled a load of grain to the grist mill and had returned home with the chop and it was while unloading that the animal gave a lurch and dropped dead. Mr. Lang saw nothing unusual in the beast. In making the journey it drew up the hills as well as ever before.

Ladies' Meeting.

A meeting of the ladies of Trinity United church was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon, one week earlier than the regular date, owing to the Jubilee Garden party being planned for the 14th of June. There were seventeen ladies present.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. W. Henderson. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. E. Braburn followed by short prayers by Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and Mrs. R. Poast.

Letters of appreciation from Miss Ruby Feir for flowers sent to her sister, Miss Olive Feir, and also from Mrs. S. Grandy for flowers at the time of illness, were read by the secretary.

Several bills for curtains, paint and decorating in the parsonage, also flowers, phone, etc., were presented and passed and the treasurer was instructed to pay same.

Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and Mrs. P. Parsons were appointed a flower committee for the church for the month of June.

The business was then directed towards the garden party. A programme committee was first appointed in the persons of Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Lamb, Mrs. Morcombe, Mrs. C. Corneil, Miss L. Parsons and Messrs. H. Lamb, F. G. Sandy and C. R. Corneil.

It was unanimously decided to have a card, announcing the garden party put in the Lindsay and Peterborough papers for three consecutive nights previous to same, as by this means many from a distance had been attracted on previous occasions.

Committees were appointed to purchase meat, to have charge of the tables, the tea room, and ice cream and candy booth, also the gentlemen to handle the gate receipts and all plans as far as possible made to make the garden party of the 50th anniversary a success. The meeting closed with the benediction by the president.

Sacred Cantata.

The sacred cantata "The Challenge of the Cross" was given by the girls of the Wide Awake Mission Band at Bethel on Friday evening. The attendance was not as large as expected, but all who took part as well as those who accompanied the group were delighted with the hospitality shown by the Bethel Young People to their visitors.

NO MORE PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, McDermid & Jury and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today. Advt.

ELEVATOR RENTAL RAISES PROTESTS

Two Year Lease at Vancouver To Wheat Pool.

CALGARY, Alta., May 20 (Canadian Press).—The Calgary grain trade at a representative meeting, decided to send a strongly worded protest to Ottawa against the Alberta wheat pool being allowed to lease one of the terminal elevators at Vancouver controlled by the Vancouver Harbor Commission. They state that the elevator was built with public funds for the benefit of every shipper without discrimination and that if the elevator were leased it would badly handicap the independent farmer. They claim that approximately sixty-five per cent. of the wheat handled at Vancouver during the present season was non-pool wheat.

Discrimination Alleged.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 20 (Canadian Press).—Discrimination against Vancouver by the Dominion Government is the charge made by Louis D. Taylor in entering on behalf of the Western Canada Unity and Development League a vigorous protest against the renting of the Prince Rupert grain elevator to the Alberta wheat pool for two years for one hundred dollars a year.

In a message to Premier King yetserday, Mayor Taylor applies the term "rank discrimination" to the Government's action and declares his strenuous disapproval of any action "that plays into the hands of the wheat pool."

In the same message the Mayor carries out the restrictions of the City Council by protesting also against the leasing of any Government elevator in Vancouver to private interests.

THREE MISHAPS; 36 LIVES LOST

Ferry Boat Sank — Engine Touched Live Wire—Airplane Crashed.

IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, Russia, May 20 (Canadian Press). — Thirty-six persons lost their lives yesterday in three accidents in different parts of Russia. The most serious mishap was the sinking of a ferry boat in the middle of the River Sulsk, near Makhatchkela, formerly Petrovsk. Nineteen persons were drowned and eleven saved.

The second accident occurred while a heavy piece of machinery was being transferred from one position to another in the Pribyl plant near Moscow. The machinery fouled an overhead high tension cable and fifteen workmen were electrocuted and thirteen injured.

Near Kharkov, a passenger airplane on the Moscow-Tiflis route, crashed, killing two men, one of whom was a member of the staff of the newspaper Pravda.

CAR RUNS AWAY BREAKS WINDOW

Plate Glass in Front of Express Office is Demolished.

NOBODY HURT.

The large plate glass window in front of the Dominion Express Company's premises on Hunter street, was almost completely demolished this afternoon when a car backed into it, hitting it with enough force to smash the casing that held the window.

A. J. Reynolds, owner of the car, said that he had parked his car in front of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, as has been his custom every day. The engine was not running, and the brake was on, he said. He had no sooner entered his office than he saw his car careening across the street. It just missed a large truck, and continued its passage until it struck the window. Fortunately no one was in the way of the car, and so the only damage done was to the window.

No reason could be assigned for the car moving, but it is thought that something must have struck it, as the front wheels were in a depression in the road in front of the bank.

CHOIR PROGRAMME GOES THROUGH WELL

Congratulations Received From Toronto on Splendid Broadcast.

An evidence of the success achieved in reception of the broadcasting last night of the concert by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir from St. Paul's Church is afforded in the telegram received from Mr. C. S. Thompson, a member of the Choir, who was in Toronto yesterday on a business trip. "Listening in" on the programme last evening, Mr. Thompson telegraphed half-way through to the Choir at the church:. "Hearty congratulations. Coming through splendidly. Keep it up."

KAMLOOPS CITIZEN FINDS SPANISH COIN

While Digging Well, E. E. Merricks Found Well Preserved Coin.

KAMLOOPS, May 20 (Canadian Press).—While digging a well at North Kamloops on the Thompson River, E. E. Merrick found an excellently preserved Spanish coin dated 1450 A.D., at a depth of seventeen feet. Dr. W. M. Wade, British Columbia historian, had an advanced explanation that the coin was brought to the interior of the province from the coast by an Indian. The spot where it was found was once the site of the Hudson Bay Company fort.

MALE VOICE CHOIR BROADCAST.

(By Jeanette)

Another long step up the musical ladder which citizens of Peterborough have been climbing steadily through the past few years was taken last evening at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when the Peterborough Male Voice Choir's concert was broadcasted, through the agency of The Toronto Star's Broadcasting Station. Although the audience in the church numbered scarcely three hundred people, it is impossible to estimate the numbers that "listened in" on the air. The Choir sang to its largest audience in the history of the organization last night, and it rose to the occasion magnificently. It is doubtful if the organization as a whole ever performed to better advantage than it did last night, and the whole programme was a decided credit to the city, the personnel of the Choir and the untiring, expert direction of the conductor, Mr. M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O. Mr. Chenhall's patient and painstaking training of this group of singers and the manner in which they have responded to his outstanding qualities as a musical director were triumphantly demonstrated in last evening's concert.

The programme chosen for the occasion was varied and calculated to show to the best advantage the many musical resources of the singers. There were three unaccompanied numbers, and in this, the severest test of choral work, was a real demonstration of the intensive training which the members have undergone to enable them to present difficult music in such splendid fashion.

The most effective numbers on the programme were probably "The Trumpeter" and "The Laughing Song." The latter, one of the unaccompanied numbers, impressed one as being outstandingly good. The spontaneous manner in which the chorus laughed as one man, in one large, jolly burst of merriment, set the church audience chuckling in responsive style, and must have brought a smile to many an unseen face in the widespread outer ring of listeners.

An impression that every member of the group of fifty-six men was right up on his individual toes and trying hard to put it over in the best possible manner was manifest in every number of a fine programme, which had a prelude in a rendition of several of the numbers which were given on the broadcasting programme proper, opening with the singing of "O Canada." Following were two numbers of a nautical type, bold and vigorous, "The Song of the Jolly Roger" and "The Song of the Northmen," the latter sung against the accompaniment of two pianos and the organ.

There was a pleasing diversity of treatment in the rendering of the minor-toned number, "The Little Old Garden" and the soft music of its companion piece, "I Know of Two Bright Eyes." The selection which followed, "The Trumpeter," was one of the evening's triumphs. Showy in character, it was done in exceptionally fine style, with loud opening passages that diminished later to soft, pianissimo cadences, always with the brazen note of the trumpet in the background. The trumpet obligato for this selection was well handled by Mr. W. Hughes, and added immensely to the effectiveness of the rendition.

Two numbers of a humorous type were "The Big Brown Bear," with the "woof" of Bruin simulated in jolly style, and "The Laughing Song," with its jolly, staccato measures and the bass note of the laughers echoing through its unaccompanied stanzas.

Handel's "Let Their Celestial Concerts," played with organ and two pianos and trumpet obligato, also by Mr. Hughes, was a full-voiced, majestic number, sung in resonant tones, and was followed by a lovely rendition, in unaccompanied style, of "The Rock of Ages," reverent in atmosphere, with swelling cadences, the limpid, oddly-timbred tenor voice of Mr. Ted Jones taking the solo in splendid style. The arrangement of this selection was by Mr. Chenhall.

Following were the pretty verses of the dainty "Sweet Miss Mary," and the light, airy music of "The Brownies," with an impressive selection in "The Pilgrims' Chorus," with organ accompaniment.

The final, choral number was the favorite "I Passed by Your Window," sung without accompaniment, and making a fitting close to a beautiful choral programme.

An added number that was well calculated to give the unseen audience an idea of the worth and pre-eminence of Peterboro's musicians, as well as of its vocalists, was the trio for two pianos and organ, an arrangement of Schubert's "Marche Militaire," played by the Misses Agnes Logan, Muriel Bridge and Mr. Chenhall. This was a particularly pleasing rendition of the attractive selection, its swinging rhythm accented by the measured beat of the bass, the tinkling brilliance of the clear-cut treble portion and the warm, rich tones of the organ as a background to the descriptive melody played by the pianos.

The Misses Agnes Logan and Muriel Bridge played piano accompaniments for the choral numbers, with Mr. Chenhall at the organ.

Miss Bridge also played accompaniments for the vocal numbers sung by Miss Daisy Murray in the first portion of the programme, before the broadcasting commenced. These were beautifully rendered, Miss Murray's full, soaring, clear soprano being at its best in a series of songs that included "Elsa's Dream" from "Lohengrin," "The Song of the Robin," and Henschel's "Morning Hymn."

Readings by Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland, delivered in characteristic, amusing style, were much enjoyed, and included "Wednesday Morning: Bargain Day" and its encore, "A Pound of Jumps."

The mechanical portion of the broadcasting last evening was invisible to the audience, the operator, Mr. Hewett, of The Star Broadcasting Station, occupying one of the rear parlors of the church. This was the first time in the history of the city that Peterborough found a place "on the air" and was, therefore, a very unique event.

PIANO RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss S. J. Richardson Play Very Creditably.

The following is the programme of a very interesting recital given last evening in the J. M. Greene Music rooms, by the pupils of Mrs. S. J. Richardson, A.T.C.M., assisted by Mrs. Ross Wlliamson in soprano solos. The pupils played splendidly, acquitting themselves in a manner very creditable to the careful tuition of their teacher. The various numbers were all played from memory. The vocal solos by Mrs. Ross Williamson, sung in very sweet voice and very well received, were "The Song of the Robin" and "Love's in my Heart." The instrumental numbers were as follows:

"Waltz" (Schumann—Eva Patterson and Jean Cox.
"Ivy" (Graham)—Dora Beatty.
"Violet" (Graham)—Gladys Gerard.
"The Little Prince" (Krogmann)—Nellie Higdon.
"Guards March" (Krogmann)—Edna Higdon.
"Red Rose" (Graham)—Jack Morrison.
"Bluebeard" (Slater)—Lottie Beatty.
"Pleasures of Youth, No. 3" (Diabelle)—Gerald Routley and Ernest Braund.
"Narcissus" (Slater)—Roland Hill.
"Fairy Whispers" (Krogmann)—Jean Cox.
"Fun and Frolic" (Hirsch)—John Londerville.
"March of the Shadows" (Barth)—Dorothy Routly.
"Marcia" (Weber)—Josephine Arthur and May Pollock.
"Frolics" (Wilm)—Clarence Barnes.
"Musette" (Bach), "Minuet in G" (Bach)—Alice Davis.
"Dance of the Hunters" (Eilenberg)—Garth Braund.
"On the Ice" (Lange)—Eunice Barnes
"Sir Rupert" (Schumann) Clarence Thomas.
"Queen of Roses" (Ducelle)—Leslie French.
"Valse Op. 64, No. 1" (Chopin, "Warrior's Song" (Hiller)—Gerald Routly.
"Air de Ballet" (Chaminade)—Ella Cummings.
"Sonata Op. 13", "Grave". "Allegro du Motto e con brio" (Beethoven)—May Pollock.
"Bravura" (Czerny), "En Automne" (Moszkowski)—Josephine Arthur.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

Property Owners on Reid Street Protest Paving—Booth Permits Discussed.

A delegation of the property owners on Reid street, which consisted of W. F. Johnston and Jas Long, addressed the council last night at a special meeting and asked that the proposed paving proposition on that street be not proceeded with. It was pointed out that the street is in good condition and at the present time it is not desirable to go on with the paving plan. A petition is being prepared, and it is expected that nearly all the property owners are going to sign or have already signed. The matter was left over until the proposed by-law would be brought before the council.

A by-law was passed, providing that owners who desired curbing should pay for it at their own expense.

The question of allowing permits to be issued to tents and other temporary eating houses came up. Alderman Turner stated that it is not fair to the business men of the city to allow these people to run booths and tents on the streets as they were run at a time when there is the most profit in it to the taxed business men. Alderman McDonald agreed with Alderman Turner. The Mayor stated that the general principle of the thing was wrong and that he had always opposed the granting of licenses to this kind of thing, and that he still opposed it. Alderman Phelan pointed out that on special days these tents were an advantage. Alderman Cotton thought the churches looked after the needs of the crowd on a special occasion. Alderman Turner moved and Alderman Fife seconded the motion that this matter be referred to the Mayor and the chairman of the finance committee to report. It was decided to grant a license to T. J. Brooks who runs a grocery store at 332 McDonnel to sell ice cream and soft drinks.

It was left in the hands of the Mayor to look after an address of welcome to the Apostolic Delegate of the Church of Rome, who is coming here in June before he leaves for Rome.

The committee formed last year to look into the traffic question was reappointed.

It was left with the chairman of the finance committee to appoint a dog-catcher for the city.

(Financial News supplied by Stobie Forlong and Company).

A trading situation prevailed in the wheat market during the past week and those who purchased grain at the beginning of the period were enabled to secure quick and fairly substantial profits from their commitments. Outside intere seems to be held severely in restraint, so that just at present no change in conditions is clearly visible. It is therefore quite probable that quotations will fluctuate for some little time longer within the recently established trading range. Purchases are still in order on the setbacks and sales on the succeeding rallies.

News developments seem to exert a negligible influence upon the course of wheat prices. Settlement of the British labor strike produced virtually no effect, although of immeasurable importance in the export situation. On the other hand, crop reports suggest that the new harvest will run somewhat better than early anticipations. However, it is still too soon to draw a definite conclusion in this regard, and so speculative activity is correspondingly promoted.

While the export movement of wheat is still seriously curtailed, there is reason to believe that a substantial improvement is close at hand. It is understood that crop conditions in Europe are decidedly unfavorable and this alone should accelerate foreign bidding for American and Canadian wheat. Doubtless, the renewed demand from this quarter will serve to check the reverse movement within the trading area.

The latest calculation of winter-killed wheat in Canada is 108,000 acres, leaving only 753,073 to be harvested. This represents a loss of 13 per cent. for winter killing, as compared with only 4 per cent. last year. It is the highest figure in any year since 1918, when 52 per cent. was destroyed. However, to offset these discouraging returns, it is declared that even though the drought conditions in the Canadian Northwest are serious, the prospect for the spring wheat crops is decidedly reassuring.

Harvesting in the American southwest is due to start within the next three weeks. A bountiful harvest is expected in Texas especially, although conditions further north are not nearly so propitious. There, a threatening deficiency of rainfall has been experienced, so that dust storms and heat have brought about a considerable amount of damage. It is still too soon to undertake a reasonably accurate estimate of the probable harvest.

The outlook for wheat harvest and consequently, prices, is still so uncertain that only professional interest is at all active. This uncertainty favors the continuance of the present trading market and no pronounced change in the situation may therefore be expected at least until the future becomes more clearly apparent. Under these circumstances, purchases on setbacks are warranted, and sales on succeeding advances, using stop loss orders close by to protect commitments.

Trading in corn is almost entirely local in character. The undertone of the market is surprisingly firm, but this stubborn resistance to pressure may be attributed to the fact that quotations are already on rock bottom. Purchases on a moderate basis may, therefore, bring early profits with minimum risk from reaction.

NEW YORK, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices turned upward today under the leadership of Hudson Motors, which responded to the raising of the quarterly dividend from 75 to 87 1-2 per cent, and the declaration of an extra stock dividend of 20 per cent. The buying of Hudson came largely from an overcrowded short interest. Other motors rallied in sympathy. Trading in the general list was rather dull and featureless. American Tobacco, Tobacco Products, Woolworth, Famous Players, Gulf States Steel, and Freeport Texas recorded moderate gains. Oils were rather quiet despite further extension of the recent gasoline price advances. Rails made little response to the publication of excellent traffic reports. Chicago and Alton Preferred and Kansas City Southern were a point or more higher.

Wheat Prices Rise With Heavy Buying

CHICAGO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Free buying here on the part of houses with eastern connections gave a decided early lift to wheat prices to-day. Starting 3-4c. to 2c. higher, the market soon made a material further advance, with indications pointing to large export business and with Liverpool market displaying unexpected strength. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, Corn opening 1-4 to 3-4c up and scoring additional gains. Foreigners were credited with taking an active hand in buying of future deliveries of wheat to-day here, but cool weather in the north-west tended to exercise somewhat of a moderating influence on general speculative buyers.

Market Becomes Firmer But Trading Is Light

TORONTO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Trading continued very light on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, but the tone was much firmer and stocks generally improved slightly. Arnold common recovered 1 1-4 at 21 3-4 and Canada Steamships preferred 1 1-4 at 70 1-2. Brazilian was unchanged at 94 1-4 and Smelters was hardly dealt in. Mackay preferred firmed 3-8 at 70 7-8 under Consumers Gas rights in which the largest turnover of the season was recorded slightly. Arnold common recovimproved twenty cents at 13.20 and Noranda was ten higher at 15.25.

Hollinger Featured On Depressive Market

TORONTO, May 20, C. P.—This morning's session of the Standard mining exchange, was the quietest for a long period, when trading was light in volume and the changes were few. Most of the stocks remained unchanged but the general tone was depressive. A feature was Barry, Hollinger, which sold up 4½ points at 41½. Mining Corporation firmed 5 at 4.40 and Canadian Lorraine two at 85. Castle Tretheway lost one at 139, Crown Reserve 3-4 at 11¾ and Keeley two at 1.52.

Sharp Improvement Is Shown In Value Of Franc

PARIS, May 20 (Canadian Press) —Sharp improvement in the value of the franc in New York yesterday was reflected here today in earliest unofficial quotations. These were 33.09 to the dollar and 161 to pound sterling as against low quotations yesterday of respectively 35.15 and 170.80.

WOMAN EVANGELIST DROWNED SWIMMING

Scores of Volunteer Workers Find No Trace of Mrs. McPherson.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 20. — C. P.—Scores of volunteer workers who have combed Santa Monica Bay beaches have failed to produce any trace of Mrs. Aime Semple McPherson, widely known evangelist, who is believed to have been drowned on Tuesday while swimming. Mrs. McPherson was a strikingly handsome woman of less than 35 years, with magnetic personality. She was a former resident of Oxford county, Ont.

ITALIANS KILLED.

Two Members of Track Gang Struck By Freight Train.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Seilaggi Wusabi and Frank Sutor, Italians working on an extra gang on the Michigan Central railway tracks, were instantly killed two miles east of Windham when they were struck by a Pere Marquette freight train. Engaged in breaking the bolts off rails, the men failed to notice the approach of the train. They have no relatives in Canada.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, MAY 21.

A day of splendid enterprise and initiative is fostered by the planetary operations, both by lunar and mutual aspects. It is a fortuitous time for pushing on toward new projects and for reaping the returns for industry and application. The mind may be found keen and alert and the insight into fresh ventures subtle. But change or travel should be properly considered. In domestic, social or affectional matters there may be some concern or a melancholy outlook, but this is a passing tendency.

Those whose birthday it is should push forward toward the goal of their ambitions as they may find their minds quickened and penetrating. New ventures are encouraged and an endeavor to exact the rewards of industry and perseverance. Melancholy in personal affiliations is shortlived. A child born on this day may be clever and versatile and have the keen, subtle intellect which should enable it to claim the rewards of industry and trustworthiness.

FIRE DESTROYS SELKIRK PLANT

Foundry Loss Is Estimated at Over $300,000—One Building Saved.

DURING NIGHT.

SELKIRK, Man., May 20 (Canadian Press).—Causing a loss of between $300,000 and $400,000, and throwing about 60 men out of work, fire last night gutted the foundry building of the Manitoba Steel Foundry here. The company is owned at Montreal. The chemical laboratory and stock warehouse were also destroyed as were the generator, transformer and furnaces. Some equipment was saved and the office and pattern building were not touched.

The foundry had been closed for the day, and the only man on hand was a watchman. He noticed the outbreak at 8.30, and immediately telephoned the alarm to the police. About twenty citizens who form the volunteer fire brigade quickly responded, but as the foundry is over a mile south of the town, the fire was beyond control by the time they arrived.

THE PLUMBER.

The bad luck that I call the worst is when pipes in the basement burst, and start the water rushin' round. That's when a plumber must be found.

A man's a fool who tries to mend a tiny hole or broken end in any pipe where water flows. Who's ever tried it, surely knows.

Just get the plumber on the phone and use that coaxing, pleading tone. I tried it once, when I was stuck, The plumber hurried. SAY, that's luck.

He spent no time in looking round, but right away, the trouble found. Now, that's real ervice, if you please. The water flowed up to his knees.

I'll have this fixed in naught," said he, and then there came a shock to me that jolted more than what was wrong—he really brought his tools along.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

GINGIVITIS.

Meaning what?

It is a suffix, implying inflammation and gingiva—the soft tissue immediately encircling the tooth.

This, then, is an inflammatory condition of the gum tissue, adjoining the teeth.

Consult your mirror! Notice how snugly these tissues hug the tooth surfaces in health, filling the interstices and guarding the supporting structures from injury and disease.

Now you will have observed that the gingivae are not attached to the tooth surfaces for a short distance down and hence, are 'free'; also, that their color in health is a lustrous pink.

But the inflammation appearing, you have a rush of blood to the area involved, and the gingivae become red and 'inflamed,' later turning bluish from the congested venous blood within—and soreness develops, so that you readily perceive that they are far from the state of health.

Now what might cause this?

It may be that some body disturbance is accountable. General ill-health, diseases of organs or glands concerned in body welfare, such as diabetes, or run down nervous system may lead to this disorder.

Among the more positive causes, filth and tartar no doubt play a part; the wedging of food between teeth with faulty contacts, injury from misuse of the tooth-pick or of dental floss, faulty occlusion, and disease producing organisms are all held responsible.

If, for any reason, there is a slight opening between two teeth, food which is tough and stringy will be crowded into the space and cause pressure upon the underlying tissue. A single such occurence may do but little harm provided the food is promptly removed, but where there is this repeated pressure and irritation, the tissue is inflamed much of the time. Similarly the crowding of 'tartar' upon these tissues or repeated injuries from whatever source will set up this process.

It is in these gingival tissues then, that the initial injury may occur which, if neglected, frequently leads to the infective process known as pyorrhea. So that any inflammatory condition or tenderness of the gums should receive early recognition, and have prompt remedial treatment at the hands of your dentist.

WOMAN AND INVESTMENT.

"Women have a greater horror of a dependent old age than have men," says someone, which may explain why more than 50 per cent of lots sold on the land contract plan nowadays are to women. Hardly a business woman over 30 exists but who has dabbled in the gentle art of real estating. She explains "it's the only way to work towards an income. I can't do it with savings from salary." And it works! It is no exaggeration to say that it's almost impossible to lose in real estate, and it's the surest route to economically safe middle-age.

HOW'D YA DO IT?

"How did you do it? How did you know what to buy?" I asked a $3000-a-year woman friend the other day who had turned over $2000 extra dollars last year by proper buying. "I read books," she told me. Here's her list: Clay's "Sound Investing," Escher's "Practical Investing. "Henry's "How to Invest Money," Meade's "The Careful Investor." Ask your town librarian or state traveling library.

FOR SWEET GIRL GRADUATES.

"After school, what?" is the present wondering cry of many a girl who receives her diploma in June and wonders what job or profession she shall begin to definitely train. The larger cities with their school or Y.W.C.A. programs of vocational guidance, advise general reading about the work involved in several professions before deciding. If contemplating social service, read "Training for Social Work," by Tufts; Teaching, "The Teacher," by Pearson; Medicine, Nursing, "Opportunities in the Field of Nursing," by Stewart, "Training and Rewards of the Physician," by Cabot; Library, "Training for Librarianship," by Friedel; general, "Careers for Women" by Filene.

IN STRAWBERRY SEASON.

Hot-house strawberries, like orchids, are for the chosen few who can afford them. However, prices drop as the supply grows bountiful.

The large ones washed and left with hulls on are nice dipped in powdered sugar. Berries should always be washed before hulling them.

Old-Fashioned Shortcake.

Wash and hull three baskets of ripe strawberries. If large, halve, or chop coarsely, then put over two cupfuls of sugar. Set in a cool place, but not on ice, and stir frequently with a wooden spoon as the juice draws. Make the shortcake of biscuit dough. When baked, split and butter generously. Lay up the short-cake on a deep dish that will hold the juice. Save a cupful of the juice aside. Then melt a cupful of sugar in a half cupful of boiling water and cook for five minutes gently, then add the cupful of strawberry juice and cool.

Strawberry Salad.

Wash and hull one basket of ripe strawberries. Halve the berries and sprinkle them with a little sugar. Add to them a diced banana, a cupful and a half of diced fresh pineapple and set to chill. When ready to serve, drain the fruit and heap on lettuce leaves, then mask the fruit in white mayonnaise; or use a boiled dressing, or add the juice of a lemon and a tablespoonful of olive oil to the fruit juice, and use that as a dressing. The white mayonnaise is made without mustard and thinned with cream.

Strawberry Pie.

Line a deep pie dish with short pie crust. Wash and hull a basket of strawberries, halve and add a cupful and a half of sugar to them. Fill the pie. Dissolve two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch in a very little water and pour it over the fruit. Dot with butter and put on the top crust. Finish the edge with the floured tines of a fork and put a little funnel of writing paper in one of the vents to carry off the steam and keep the juices from running out. Bake until the crust is done. Serve hot with plain cream or cold with ice cream.

French Frozen Strawberries.

Wash and hull two baskets of fresh ripe berries. Put them into a saucepan with a pint of sugar, melt slowly, stirring often, then cook for about ten minutes. Skim, and if the berries are slightly cooked, remove from the fire. When the fruit is cold, add a pint of heavy cream and a cupful of sugar, turn into the freezer and just before they are frozen, open the freezer and add the stiffly beaten white of a fresh egg. Continue the freezing then let stand an hour to ripen.

Strawberry Sauce.

Wash, hull then squeeze three cupfuls of strawberries through a fruit press. Put a cupful of sugar and a half cupful of water in a saucepan and bring to boiling point, then cook slowly for five minutes. Pour in the strawberry juice, heat, then turn into a small pitcher and keep where it is cool, but do not chill. Serve over vanilla ice cream or over cottage puddin

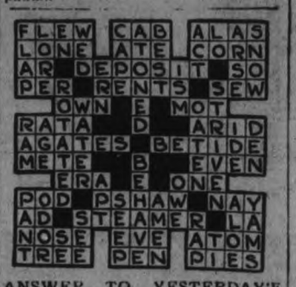
French Frocks Adopt the English Accent of Smocking

A LITTLE-BOY collar and little-girl smocking, masculine pockets and intensely feminine sleeves, a shirt-like yoke and jeune fille fulness in the skirt make what might be called a brother-and-sister frock. Paris, adopting an English trimming, makes these smocked dresses of crêpe de Chine, Georgette and satin crêpe. One has to cross the Channel or the Atlantic to find them in cotton voile or silk-and-cotton crêpe, while pongee is purely an American favorite. In the printed silk and cottons, the dress is quite as charming with gathers or shirring, for the design of the prints rather obscures the smocking.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.



ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'E CROSSWORD PUZZLE

HER OWN WAY by A GIRL of TODAY

WOMAN'S GREAT VIRTUE.

The fact that I had been in danger of being murdered got no sympathy from Mrs. Riley, in fact, subconsciously, I think she would have been glad of it. It would have taken me out of Mamie's sight at least and she was becoming to be rather jealous of my intimacy with Mamie.

"Men don't murder young girls in public parks," she said decidedly. "And if her beautiful bag was stolen I expect it was nothing more than was coming to her. But let her look out for herself. She is altogether too independent for me. I don't want anyone around here that is asking my girl to imperil her immortal soul."

"Mother, mother, Judy did not do that. You don't understand," interrupted Mamie.

"Yes, I think I do understand. I understand too much about this girl that you took into my house against my wishes.

"There is only one of two things a girl can be in this world, and that is either good or bad. There is nothing else.

"All this foolishness about 'voices' and 'checker boards of destiny' is poppycock. I don't know what they mean and I don't want to. But I do know that I am not going to have my daughter running around with that Buddy Tremaine if I can help it. I thought that you had left him and gone to work respectably. You have been bringing your money home like a good girl and we have been very happy. You know that you are all that I have got with your sister at the sanitarium and Tom spending all his money on that sickly wife of his. Where would we be if you went back to Montreal and left us? You have been entirely different since this Dean girl has come into the house, and I don't want you to have anything more to do with her. I don't like her, and I don't like her friends."

"Mother, mother, please stop. I'll talk to you in the morning, but I am so tired now that I feel that I could not stand any more. I will say this to you, however, so that you will sleep better. No one, and this includes both Buddy Tremaine and Judy, is going to imperil my immortal soul for the next twenty-four hours at least."

"Well, say your prayers to the blessed saints and thank God that you have got a mother who can keep you on the straight and narrow path. Tomorrow I will bring Father O'Raferty to see you and he will tell you to think no more about your voice unless you can sing with a pure heart to the glory of God. Good night."

Mrs. Riley shuffled off to bed.

Ruth Hits Two Home Runs Exceeding His 1921 Record

NEW YORK, May 20 (Canadian Press)—Babe Ruth yesterday passed his record home run pace of 1921, when 59 circuit drives were propelled from his mighty club into the stands of American League parks.

By clouting two more round trip hits, his thirteenth and fourteenth of the season, Ruth shot ten days ahead of his mark of five years ago. He had made but twelve homers on May 19, 1921.

Ruth's thirteenth homer, which arrived in the third inning with two runners on the paths, was made against Pitcher Zachary. His second came in the eighth, the first ball tossed to him by Pitcher Ballou. Both drives travelled on a line high into the right field bleachers.

Ruth's thirteenth homer in 1921 was not made until May 25, which was the thirty-third game of the season, as against yesterday's thirty-first of the present campaign. His fourteenth home five years ago arrived on May 29.

TEAM ENTERED IN RIFLE SHOOT

Expect To Have Three Classes in the Rifle Association.

LANDMARK REMOVED.

LAKEFIELD, May 20.—A meeting of the Lakefield Rifle Association was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening, May 12th, with a good attendance present.

Willaim Bickell was re-elected captain, G. H. Spence was elected secretary. and G G. Connell, treasurer.

The executive committee consists of B. Q. Dench, W. A. Payne and A. E. Webster.

The local association will enter a team in the Dominion Rifle League and will also enter the silver competition of the Dominion Rifle Association.

The first shoot of the season will be held on May 24th and the team will be picked for the Rifle League competition.

This year in the club shoots the Club will be divided into Classes A, B and C. A class will be the picked team for the Rifle League; B class will be all others who have belonged to the Club previously and C class will be the beginners' class and first, second and third prizes given in each class at the regular club shoots. Each year the Club has gone ahead and this year's prospects are for greater success than ever. There are about forty members at present and the list closes on May 19th.

An old landmark in the vicinity of Lakefield has been removed—the old hotel at Phelan's Corners has been torn down. For years it has not been occupied as a hotel and had been rented occasionally for short terms to various tenants; the property had fallen into disrepair and was neglected and unsightly. There is a rather persistent rumor that a modern tea house will be built on this site which is very desirable for this purpose as it is at the junction of four roads, all well travelled by motor cars. No doubt the tea room will be appreciated.

LEAD GOLF FIELD

ST. ANDREW'S, Scotland, May 20 (Canadian Press)—George Gadd and Aubrey Boomer, with cards of 148, yesterday led the field in the first day's play of the Daily Mail's £1,200 golf tournament. Abe Mitchell, the veteran British star, was third with 150.

RAIN BROKE UP CRICKET MATCH

Australians Start Game With Cambridge University Wednesday.

UNIVERSITY BAT.

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., May 20. Canadian Press cable. — Rain, an overcast sky and a chilly breeze were factors that made the sixth match of the Australians tour somewhat unpleasant on the opening day when the visitors began the first of their two fixtures with the English universities, Cambridge and Oxford.

While the early part of the game against Cambridge yesterday was carried on with the wicket in good shape, a boisterous downfall at teatime compelled abandonment of play in the late afternoon and the stumps were drawn when Cambridge had lost five wickets.

The Cambridge eleven was captained by H. J. Enthoven (Harrow and Pembroke) and in his team was a sprinkling of old blues who were expected to stage quite a tussle. Enthover beat H. L. Collins, the visiting captain, for the toss, and elected to take the bat. Dawson, one of the strongest batsmen of the light blues, was sent to partner Lowe, and the game began. The start was unfavorable. Dawson was in excellent form, but Lowe was unfortunate. When nine runs had been registered, Lowe was caught out behind the wicket by Ellis and dismissed with zero.

K. S. Dulee Singhi, a nephew of the immortal Prince Rangit Singhi, who wrote cricket history in England a quarter of a century ago, succeeded Lowe and in company with Dawson, the Indian started off on what looked like a fine rally. When the score had reached 40. however, Dulcep Singhi's stumps were neatly taken by Richardson.

Ingle was sent to bat but he was retired after having contributed 8 runs. In the meantime. however, Dawson had been hitting heavily, and when he third wicket went down the light blues had soared to 63.

The way was then opened for the big rally of the day when Enthoven went in to keep company with Dawson, playing steadily and defying all the wiles of Ryder and Mailey.

These two forced the score higher and the century was hoisted after an hour and a half's partnership. The spell was broken however when Dawson fell to a beautiful catch by Collins off Ryder. Dawson had had an excellent innings, outlasting three batsmen and staying at the wicket for three hours. The score stood at 128 when he was retired to the pavilion.

Nothing was added by Turnbull, whose fate was an exact duplication of that suffered by Love, Ellis snapping him up behind the wicket with Ryder delivering. Robins was the seventh man in and when tea-time was called he and Enthoven were in partnership, with Robins contributing 8 to Cambridge's total.

Rain began to fall heavily at this juncture and the decision was reached to adjourn the game for the day. Enthoven and Robins will resume for the Collegians later.

Score: Cambridge University — First Innings—

E. W. Dawson c Collins b Ryder	69
R. C. H. Lowe c Ellis b Ryder	0
K. S. Dulee Singhi b Richardson	11

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

Now that most of the noble pastimers are devoting their important moments to the business of peddling Florida sand, swamps, palms, sunsets and unpublished testimonials of William Jennings Bryan, the dialogue of the game this year may run something like this:

• • •

CATCHER: Be careful how you work on this guy, he's dangerous.

PITCHER: Don't worry about him. I got his second down payment yesterday.

• • •

BATTER: Do you think I ought to wait this baby out or what?

MANAGER: Not on your life! Take the first bid he offers.

• • •

BASE-RUNNER (rounding third on long hit): How does it look now?

Babe Ruth seems to have fully recovered, but you can't say as much for pitchers who have been hit by him this year.

The experts say Young Stribling is a very rough fighter. . . . He is particularly rough on a promoter's bankroll.

Johnny Buff, former champion, was knocked out the other night by a fighter named Hamm, who is obviously not as bad as he sounds.

Bucky Harris is engaged to marry a southern society belle. . . . Now you know what the headline means, "Stars at Diamond Game."

The young husband's idea of a crime wave is a bill from his lady's hairdresser, demanding thirty smackers for a permanent.

JACK DEMPSEY IS GOING TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK., TO BOIL OUT. . . . MEANTIME THE NEW YORK BOXING COMMISSION WILL REMAIN AT HOME AND CONTINUE TO BOIL THERE.

It was Mr. Coue, wasn't it, who promised to get better and better in every way? . . . Well, does anyone know how his bridge game is these days?

Say what you will about Cleopatra, but nobody ever accused her of taking a bath in a tub of champagne.

Wouldn't it be terrible if that unexplored tract in the Arctic zone turned out to be another real estate development with golf courses as side features?

"Lend me your ears," pleaded the orator. "Will a couple of cauliflower ears do?" piped up the wise cracker.

DOMINION BIRTH RATE DECLINING

Statistics Show a Decline of 4.4 Per Thousand Since 1921.

OTTAWA, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—The birth rate in English-speaking Canada continues to decline. In November last, the most recent month of record, birth statistics show that 11,314 living babies were born in Canada, excluding Quebec, for which no vital statistics are available. This is 764 less than in November, 1924. The equivalent annual birth rate per thousand of population has dropped from 24.5 in 1921 to 20.1 in 1925.

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Announcing another graduate from the custard pie class—Chester Conklin, who now is being hailed as one of the "major discoveries" of the season!

Like Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels and several others, Conklin belonged to Mack Sennett's little army of slapstick wielders. He became established as such, and might have ended his days being dumped in flour barrels but for the accident of a role in Pola Negri's "Woman of the World." Anyone who saw the picture knows how much he did to save it.

With this began his gradual divorce and the appearance upon the screen of a mime whose pantomimic art can be gauged from a bit in "A Social Celebrity" wherein Conklin and Adolphe Menjou, their backs to the audience, hold a screen conversation. In these gesturings are given a wider range of emotions than one may find in the faces of half the crowned heads of moviedom. It is more than pantomime; it is art.

Keep an eye on this Conklin. He's to have dramatic and character parts variously in Aileen Pringle's "Wilderness Woman," Constance Talmadge's "Duchess of Buffalo," Richard Dix's "Take a Chance" and Menjou's "Ace of Cads."

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Here is recorded one of the most modest remarks ever made by movie maid. And to appreciate it fully you must know that the great majority of girls in the Hollywood beauty gallery consider selfish pampering a special guarantee of the gods. Hear, then, the reply of Patsy Ruth Miller to the inquiry if she was contemplating matrimony.

"I may never get married," quoth Patsy Ruth, solemnly.

"But think," Miss Miller was urged, "of all the fine young fellows who will be disappointed by that statement!"

"Well, I'd rather disappoint a number of young men for a little while than disappoint one for life," said the considerate actress. A confession unique in the realm where marriage and divorce are often mere episodes of vanity in emotional dalliance, and where the lasting happiness of a wedded mate is something not to be pondered too deeply.

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Richard Barthelmess, happily esconced on a hilltop in Hollywood, where he will hereafter make his productions, is thawing out some of his reputed solemnity and restraints. For the first time in years, he says, he has the time and place to indulge vigorous outdoor play.

Returning from Santa Cruz island, where he Robinson Crusoed for a week, stalking wild sheep and strange sea beasts, he at once departed for the Grand Canyon with Ronald Colman. Dick and Ronald, old pals, planned there to live the primitive life in an ancient cliffdweller's ruin beyond range of tourists' eyes on the Bright Angel trail.

* * *

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—There is amusing irony and pungent courage in the refusal of Fatty Arbuckle to accept his attempted banishment from the screen.

When certain influences thwarted his attempted reappearance as a film actor, following the tragic San Francisco case, and even prevented his directing pictures under his own name, Arbuckle adopted a nom de cinema.

This ostracism was nominally to preserve the morals of children who, it was argued, might be somehow infected by seeing the banned comedian's name on the screen. Fatty countered by directing several pictures under the suggestive name, Will B. Good.

Prospering a little, he has now changed the name to Will Goodrich. The morals of children seem to have been safeguarded—at least not notably disturbed by this subterfuge. And now the aliased comedian is to direct Marion Davies in "The Red Mill," it is rumored.

RACING RESUMES.

Suspended For Three Weeks in England.

LONDON, May 20 (Canadian Press)—Racing, which has been suspended for more than three weeks owing to the strike, will be resumed Friday. The races will open with a meet at Ayr Friday and Saturday and Windsor and Southwell Saturday.

On Whit Monday racing will be put on a pre-strike basis, there being running meets at Hurst Park, Wolverhampton, Redcar and Dunstall Park, with steeplechasing in various parts of the country.

For the present there will be no special racing trains, as all the railways have curtailed their services by half.

LAWN BOWLING SEASON OPENS MONDAY, MAY 24.

The Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club will open the season (weather permitting) on Monday (Victoria Day) with games afternoon and evening. Rinks will be drawn for at 2 p.m. and 7.15 p.m. A hearty welcome is extended to all old and prospective bowlers.

SOFTBALL OPENER.

BILLY EVANS Says

Ruth's Comeback.

"Glad to see the Babe is going good."

Since the opening of the season I have heard that remark many times.

The speaker in each instance was some big league ball player, discussing the sensational showing of the Yankees and the fine all-round play of Ruth.

Babe Ruth is mighty popular with his fellow ball players, which after all is the true test. They are glad to see him come back so strong. The players realize the Ruthian craze brought in more money at the gate than any other thing in the history of baseball.

With Babe Ruth among the elite, baseball has its best drawing card working again. It means more money for everybody to have the Babe stepping out in front.

* * *

Channel Congestion.

It looks as if the English Channel would be quite cluttered this summer if all the prospective swimmers make good their threat to attempt the feat.

Once a fad for the masculine sex, trying to swim the channel has become a habit with the fair ones.

Already two of America's best women swimmers, Gertrude Ederle and Helen Wainwright, have announced their intention to trying to make the difficult swim.

Looks as if it would be necessary to delegate a number of aquatic traffic cops to handle the congestion that seems certain to result in the channel when warm weather really hits us.

* * *

Difficult Task.

Playing a sun field is one of the most difficult jobs in baseball, for at least two reasons.

First, it calls for unusual judgment on every ball hit, also the ability to again pick up the flight of the ball after you have once lost it in the sun.

Second, it places a severe strain on the eyes and naturally handicaps a player in his batting. I have heard star players express the opinion that playing a sun field lessens a player's batting average at least 30 points.

I doubt if I ever saw a more finished sun-fielder than Harry Hooper, who rounded out his big league career last season as a member of the Chicago White Sox.

For 12 years he played the difficult sun garden in Boston and followed this up with five seasons in the trying sun field at Comiskey park in Chicago.

"Every time I lose a fly ball in the sun, I think of Harry Hooper and what a marvel he was," remarked Harry Heilmann, champion batsman of the American League, to me recently.

"Like all of us I have seen Hooper miss fly balls, but I never saw him stagger around under one like most of us."

* * *

Form Upsets.

In spring training the two St. Louis clubs looked great. When a highly-touted club gets away to a poor start, the reaction of the fans is all the more severe.

For that reason both the Browns and the Cardinals have been subjected to considerable "razzing" from those who originally came out to cheer.

Despite the poor beginning, both Managers Hornsby and Sisler accept their fate rather philosophically.

"Just glance at our batting averages, then compare them with those of last season and you will have the answer for our failure to win consistently," explains Manager Sisler.

"We haven't been able to back good pitching with like fielding and batting and when we did the latter two things, the pitching was missing," says Hornsby.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE BARREL FAIRY.

I do wonder if Mister Snoopsy stole my shadow," said the little Ragbag Whiffet, as he and the Twins continued on their journey.

I shouldn't wonder," said a voice. And without any warning at all, a barrell started to roll along beside them.

Who are you?" cried the Twins, who remembered the story about the wolf and the little pig and how the little pig crawled into a churn and rolled the whole way to Franklin Fair.

I'm just a barrel fairy," said the voice. I have no home and I live in a barrel. As I have rheumatism in one of my wings and can't fly, I just roll my barrel around. Do you mind if I go a little way with you? I get very lonesome."

Certainly not," said Nick. "We'd like to have you."

So they all walked along and along and along, and the barrel-fairy rolled himself along and along and along, and pretty soon they came to a steep hill. "Dear me!" cried the barrel fairy. "I can't get up this steep hill! And I do want to go with you. I'm so lonesome and everything."

"Oh, that's all right," said Nick. "Don't you worry! You must be pretty light if you're a fairy, and Nancy and I can carry you up. Nancy, you lift one end of the barrel and I'll lift the other, and the little Whiffet can push up from underneath."

"Well then, I'll be ever and ever so much obliged," said the barrel fairy, giving the barrel a little wiggle to show how happy he was. Both ends of the barrel were shut up tight so the Twins couldn't see inside. But when they started to life the barrel, Nick said, "Say, fairy, you must be pretty fat."

"Oh, I'm not really," said the barrel fairy. "I'm so thin I have to stand up twice to make a shadow."

This made the little Whiffet feel pretty bad, talking about shadows 'n all, but anyway he helped, and after struggling and struggling they got to the top of the hill.

"There!" said Nick as he and Nancy sat down on a bank to rest. "I guess you can go the rest of the way yourself all right. There aren't any more hills to climb."

"Oooh! But I can see out of a crack," said the barrel fairy, "and there's a steep hill to go down right in front of us."

"Can't you roll down?" asked Nancy.

"Oooh! I couldn't! My barrel would smash if it hit anything. And as long as I have such bad rheumatism in my wing, I must have my barrel," said the fairy.

"Well then, we'll have to carry you down," said Nick.

So the Twins picked up the barrel and struggled and struggled until at last they reached the foot of the hill.

"There!" said Nick. "I guess you're all right now."

"Just for a little while," said the barrel-fairy. "There's a deep creek ahead and I can't roll over that."

"For goodness sake!" said Nancy. "How far are you going?"

"I'm going to see my grandma," said the barrel fairy. "She lives just past the woods."

Well, sir! The poor Twins carried that barrel about two miles. There was always some new reason why the barrel fairy had to be carried.

"This is the place," said the voice in the barrel at last. "Much obliged!"

At that the lid flew off and out bounced the three bad Gazookumses. "Much obliged!" they shouted again as they ran off into the woods. "We had a very nice ride indeed. We'll be going home about half past two if you pass this way."

The Twins were too mad to answer.

EDITOR'S EXPLANATION FAILED TO MOLLIFY HON. R. B. BENNETT

C. A. Bowman, of "Ottawa Citizen," Alleged Customs Probe Shielded Persons.

BENNETT PEEVED.

Bowman Says Personal Attack Was Not Intended in Editorial.

OTTAWA, May 20 (Canadian Press).—"My job is to express public opinion," C. A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, told Hon. R. B. Bennett, a member of the Parliamentary Committee, investigating the administration of the Customs Department, yesterday. Mr. Bowman was summoned as a witness before the committee to explain certain statements made by him in editorials written and published in the Ottawa Citizen of April 19 and April 21. His examination was conducted largely by Mr. Bennett.

Quoting from the editorial of April 19 to the effect that the Parliamentary Committee was shielding certain persons in high position, Mr. Bennett asked the witness to give the names of persons who were being shielded.

Mr. Bowman said that he was stating his own opinion in this editorial.

"Was your opinion based on evidence?" asked Mr. Bennett.

Anticipated Report.

Mr. Bowman replied that he had been prompted in the statement by the fact that the publication of the Duncan report was delayed. It was generally understood that the Duncan report implicated prominent Conservatives as well as Liberals. At the time the editorial was written the Duncan report had not been published.

Mr. Bennett asked what prominent Conservatives Mr. Bowman was referring to as being shielded and whose identity had been revealed by the publication of the Duncan report.

Mr. Bowman mentioned the names of Clarence Jameson, former Civil Service Commissioner, and R. S. White, Conservative member for Mount Royal, both of whom have been summoned as witnesses in the course of the investigation.

"Then you had in mind Mr. White and Mr. Jameson when you wrote this editorial," queried Mr. Bennett.

"No, I hadn't anyone particularly in mind. I had in mind the fact that the Duncan report had not been published."

Mr. Bowman said that public opinion was to the effect that this report was being suppressed because it implicated certain people. "I am expressing public opinion," he said.

Libelous Statement.

Mr. Bennett asked the witness if he thought that he was justified in slandering public men engaged in the performance of a disagreeable public duty without some definite evidence.

Mr. Bowman replied by asking if Mr. Bennett considered the statements in the editorial slanderous.

To this Mr. Bennett retorted that they were not slanderous but libelous. He asked once more for the names of the persons who the Conservative members of the committee were shielding.

Turning to the editorial of April 21, Mr. Bennett quoted a statement to the effect that the attitude of Conservative members of the committee was dictated by desire to get back into office.

"Have you the names of any witnesses who could be called by the committee and whose evidence will remove the strictures passed by you on Conservative members of this committee?" asked Mr. Bennett.

Partisan Motives.

Mr. Bowman replied that Hon. George Boivin, Minister of Customs, had told the committee that he had instances on file where Conservatives, as well as Liberals, were obliged in connection with the administration of the Customs Department. He had observed that the Conservatives were very keen about examining the cases where Liberals were involved, but not so keen when Conservatives were involved.

Mr. Bennett quoted from the editorials. He drew particular attention to one passage:

"The opposition has no heart for venturing along paths of investigation which will lead to the exposure of political associates."

"Who were the political associates referred to?" he demanded.

Mr. Bowman said that Senator Jacques Bureau, former Minister of Customs, had a good many friends on both sides of the House. Since he was pressed for names of witnesses who might be called, he would suggest Senator Bureau.

"You know we cannot call him," commented Mr. Bennett.

"You might invite him to come," retorted Mr. Bowman.

"Would you cal him a 'political associate' of the Conservatives?" asked Mr. Bennett. "Now who else shall we call?"

Over and over again Mr. Bennett asked for names. As often Mr. Bowman replied that he had no names not known already to the committee. He had spoken in a general way in his editorial, and believed that he was expressing public disappointment at the trend of the probe, and particularly to the fact that the Duncan report had not been tabled, months after it was in the committee's hands.

Explanation Not Sufficient.

Mr. Bennett satirically said it was not sufficient explanation of an "attack on men who could not answer." Mr. Bowman said if attacks were considered, there were members of the committee who had shown they could attack viciously on occasion. The tension was broken for a moment while Messrs. Bennett and Donaghy good-humoredly told each other that that was meant for him.

Other members of the committee were beginning to question the witness, when the committee broke up at the call of the House of Commons division bell. While it filled the room with its clamor, the proceedings were brought to a close.

Chairman Paul Mercier quietly admonished Mr. Bowman. He admitted that it was desirable that the press should have a certain amount of latitude, but those who wrote editorials should remember that most people were afraid of two things—death and the press.

Mr. Bowman said he hoped that the committee would realize that he had not intended to make any personal attack on anybody.

"But you did—you attacked me," said Mr. Bennett grimly as he gathered up his papers and left the room.

CARPET BOWLING.

All Saints' Club Wins Final Game of Series.

A very enjoyable time was spent at All Saints Parish Hall on Tuesday evening, when the members of All Saints' Bowling Club, entertained the members of the Eastern Star Lodge L.O.B.A. in the final game of the winter series. After the games, in which the visitors suffered defeat by a score of 48-25, refreshments were served by the lady members of All Saints.

President Wiggins, Mrs. Boddison, and others expressed the pleasure derived from the many friendly games played during the past winter, between the two clubs, and also from the social time spent at the same. W. M. Brown responded on behalf of Eastern Star L.O.B.A.

Controller of Warsaw Determined to Maintain Constitution.

WARSAW, May 20 (Canadian Press)—Marshal Pilsudski absolutely refuses to consider a dictatorship, despite urgings from different quarters. The attitude of the man who now controls Warsaw was communicated to correspondents yesterday.

"The National Assembly will be summoned at Warsaw," the press informant declared, "and will elect a president of the republic and its decisions will be respected."

"Marshal Pilsudski," his spokesman continued, "is determined to maintain the constitution."

LONG TRIP TO KINGSTON IN VAIN

Wet Grounds Prevented the Ponies-Petes Clash Yesterday.

The Petes had a long trip through the rain to Kingston yesterday for nothing. They didn't even have the satisfaction of looking over the Pones' new ball ground, the Richardson Memorial Stadium, and an hour after their arrival in the Limestone City they were on their way home again, to return on Saturday, when another attempt will be made to pry off the lid. When the Petes reached Belleville yesterday a telephone message from Kingston declared that up to that time the rainfall in the home of the Ponies hadn't amounted to much, and "Shiner" Johnston was advised to complete the trip. Heavy showers in the early part of the afternoon, however, made the game impossible, and it was agreed to postpone the fixture until Saturday.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

MIX GOES BACK TO HIS COWBOY HAUNTS IN "TONY RUNS WILD"

The results of Tom's Mix's career in motion pictures were never more strikingly brought out than in his recent trip to Arizona where he filmed "Tony Runs Wild," his latest Fox Films thriller, which opens to-day at the Regent Theatre.

Seventeen years ago Mix decided to quit the cowboy business to take a turn at the movies. He was employed at the Circle Dot ranch, a big cattle outfit owned by "Tom" Campbell, later governor of Arizona, with headquarters in the wild horse country near the pueblos of the ancient Cliff Dwellers along the Apache trail.

Tom announced his intentions to his broncho busting mates and the announcement brought out some of the choicest ranchmen's humour, all at Mix's expense. He stood all the kidding of the gang and then started for Hollywood.

He was mounted on a flea-bitten pony and led an old pack-horse which carried all his belongings, but he went with the sincere good wishes of Campbell and all the cowboys.

When he returned to this same country to make "Tony Runs Wild," Mix rode in the latest Rolls Royce. "Tony," his famous horse, rode in his own specially constructed motor car. Behind them came a motor caravan with the other members of the Mix outfit, their belongings and the location equipment necessary to the making of motion pictures. It was a long caravan. Its personnel was numerous. It overflowed the Apache Lodge, the famous hotel along the Apache trail and the horse and equipment camp spread out in Fish Canyon near the hotel.

Former Governor Campbell called at the lodge to pay his respects to Mix and remained for a fanning-bee which revived memories of Mix's Circle Dot days.

BERNIER DRAWN BY NORTH'S LURE

Canadian Arctic Explorer Considering Private Expedition This Summer.

BOAT PRICE HIGH.

QUEBEC, May 20 (Canadian Press).—A private expedition over a 6,000-mile route from Quebec to Greenland has been seriously considered of late by Captain J. E. Bernier, famous Canadian Arctic explorer, but in conversation with him yesterday, it was learned that unless he can secure the boat he needs at a lower price than is demanded by her owners, the expedition, which would have started from this port on July 18, will have to be called off.

The veteran explorer and navigator made his last official trip to the northern waters for the Canadian Government last summer, but he says the call of the north is again proving irresistible to him. He had chosen the steamer "Sable I." as the ideal type of ship for his purpose, she being equipped for ice-breaking work, but her owners demanded $65,000 for her charter for the season, whereas, as Captain Bernier declared yesterday, that he would not pay more than $45,000.

The "Sable I." was for years owned by Faroahar and Company of Halifax, and was used on their Halifax-Newfoundland service.

GERMANY OPPOSED TO SOME WEAPONS

Proposes To Forbid Use of Gas, Planes, Tanks and Big Guns.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 20. — Canadian Press. — Concr. proposals to forbid the use of eroplanes and poison gas in warfare, and suppress heavy artillery and tanks were put forward by Germany to-day at a session of the preparatory disarmament commission. The proposals were presented by Count Von Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States.

Answering allusions to Germany's industrial strength, which would have to be taken into account when Germany's neighbors were asked to disarm, Count Von Bernstorff declared: "I don't want to evoke memories of the past, but history has demonstrated the impossibility of transforming our industrial equipment into implements of war, primarily because our factories are so near the frontier that they can be destroyed at the very outset of war."

ST. JOHN'S W. A.

Reports From Toronto Presented By Delegates To Annual Conference.

The Women's Branch of St. John's W. A. met on Tuesday at 3.30 p.m in the Parish House. As this was the closing meeting until the fall, there was a large gathering. There were members present from St. George's and All Saints', to hear the reports from Toronto brought by the delegates to the annual conference.

The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. A. Turner, and after a brief discussion of the usual business, Mrs. G. S. Cameron and Mrs. G. Melton gave their reports, which were both very interesting. Mrs. G. Evans and Mrs. J. Rigden also gave a detailed account of their departments.

The attention of the members is drawn to the "Deanery" to be held at St. John's on June 8th, and every member's attendance is requested.

After closing with the benediction, tea was tastefully served by Mrs. Budd's committee.

BOY SCOUT NEWS.

DRYDOCK OPENS.
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 20 (Canadian Press).—This city's new two million dollar concrete drydock received its first ship yesterday when the Portia, a coastal vessel, entered it to be overhauled.
When the various freight sheds and workshops attached to the drydock are completed, the cost of the enterprise will be in the vicinity of two million dollars. The new dock is 575 feet long, 70 feet wide and 32 feet 3 inches in depth.

WORKMEN HURT IN FACTORY FIRE

Thirteen Injured, One Believed Fatally, in Montreal Plant.

DAMAGE $175,000.

MONTREAL, May 20 (Canadian Press). — Thirteen workmen were injured, one of whom may die, when fire, thought to have been caused by a spark from an electric motor, destroyed the piano and gramophone factory of the Colonial Piano Company, Limited, at St. Therese, about nineteen miles north of Montreal, last night. The flames also destroyed the large water tank of the Canadian Pacific Railways and burned down some sheds. The damage was estimated by Ovila Hogue, secretary-treasurer of the Colonial firm, at $175,000, partly covered by insurance.

The victims were injured when they were trapped by the flames, following an explosion in the top floor of the building. Men jumped from the windows or held on to the sills with the flames licking their hands and faces until ladders could be raised to rescue them.

Moise Binette, 47, is not expected to live.

City.
Dear Sir,—In reviewing the past year's laying record I am surprised and more than satisfied at what I consider exceptionally good results, which I attribute to the continuous use of BLATCHFORD'S POULTRY FEEDS. After laying heavily all winter the fertility and hatchability was about 90 per cent. My record of 16 laying hens from January, 1925, to January, 1926, were very good. There was not a day I did not receive eggs proving that some of them layed right through the moulting period.
Of late we hear a lot about BRED TO LAY FOWL, but I think there is more in the words FED TO LAY and my experience with BLATCHFORD'S POULTRY FEEDS leads me to believe that feeding is the most essential.
You can use this testimony if you so desire.
Yours very truly,
E. SIMMONS,

BUDGET PROPOSALS

Opposition Members Suggested Higher Tariff on Fresh Meats.

OTTAWA, May 21 (Canadian Press).—The House in Committee yesterday gave consideration to budget proposals.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, replying to an interjection by Donald Sutherland (Conservative, South Oxford), stated that the Tariff Board was an "enquiry board." The Government, however, accepted responsibility in respect to tariff matters and two hundred and forty-five members elected by the people would have the last word on the tariff.

In considering the item of the tariff on fresh meats per pound, Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Conservative, South Wellington) declared that the increase of one-half a cent per pound on fresh meat from the United States was not for the purpose of protecting the Canadian farmer but merely to accommodate Australia. It was a result of the trade treaty dickers with Australia and New Zealand. The effect of the change would not be to stop importations from the United States at all.

Fred Davis (Conservative, Calgary East) also entered a protest, saying that by the present tariff position the Government had exposed Western Canada to importations of mutton from Australia with the result that the growing sheep industry in the Western provinces had been killed.

Hon. S. M. F. Tolmie (Conservative, Victoria) said there was danger of mutton and lamb being dumped into Canada. He advocated a larger tariff on wool, mutton and lamb, so as to conserve the home market for the Canadian sheep industry.

Sheep Industry Declining.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George) declared the sheep industry was one of the most important in the country, but was fading away. He believed that the tariff on mutton and lamb from Australia should be raised to 2½ cents and to 5 cents in the general tariff. He did not think we should buy abroad products which could be produced and manufactured here, thereby affording employment to foreign workmen, while Canadians were out of work. "There is no reason why we should not have production of sheep in this country on a much larger scale than is the case at present," he said.

"I will admit at once that we would have much more if some of the city and country dogs were muzzled," replied Mr. Robb. "They are a greater menace to the sheep industry of Eastern Canada than is the tariff."

"The dogs who sit on the Government benches, not the farmers' dogs," interjected Mr. Cahan.

"I do not ask my honorable friend to withdraw that statement; the people will judge him by it," retorted Mr. Robb.

"I think the honorable gentleman really means the watchdogs," remarked S. W. Jacobs (Liberal, Cartier).

"I do not mean any unpleasant inference, simply the watchdogs across the way," said Mr. Cahan.

Unfair Competition.

Mr. Sutherland said that many members who had voted in favor of

Malt Firm Wants Refund Prohibition Ruins Good Will

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 21.—(United Press).—Goodwill destroyed by prohibition should be deducted from its income tax assessment, says the Red Wing Malt Co., in a suit to recover a part of the tax it paid to the Government.

"The company has no goodwill left after prohibition and therefore should not be taxed on it," said attorneys who argued for the malt manufacturers.

MORE SECURITY NEEDED BEFORE POWERS DISARM

Quick Results in Disarmament Seem Further Removed at Geneva.

NAVAL CONFERENCE

Discussion by Britain, United States and Japan a Possibility.

GENEVA, May 21.—(Canadian Press).—Quick concrete results in European land disarmament were deemed to be further removed Thursday when additional states, including Rumania, Poland and Finland, following the leadership of France, verified their conviction that disarmament can come only after the achievement of greater security than now prevails. But many of the delegates found hope in M. Paul-Boncour's admission that the Locarno pact and the league convenant had created new security and that "relative security permitted relative disarmament."

Another distinct feature of the day's proceedings of the preparatory disarmament commission was the proposal of Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, to abolish air warfare by forbidding the use of airplanes, as well as poison gas, heavy artillery and tanks.

At the same time, Count von Bernstorff, answering allusions to Germany's industrial strength, which would have to be taken into account when Germany's neighbors were asked to disarm, he declared.

"I do not want to evoke memories of the past, but history has demonstrated the impossibility of transforming our industrial equipment into implements of war, primarily because our factories are so near the frontier that they can be destroyed at the very outset of war."

A naval conference between Great Britain, the United States and Japan for the discussion of naval disarmament is among the possibilities. The Japanese have announced their intention to advocate such a conference if it is found that France and Italy would not attend a naval conference apart from a general disarmament conference.

Fellow Jew Not Welcome Jolson Resigns From Club

NEW YORK, May 21 (United Press).—Al Jolson, the black-faced comedian, who was able to make President Coolidge smile at his own breakfast table, has resigned from the exclusive Westchester Biltmore County Club because of an alleged objection when Jolson brought a Jewish friend to the club as a guest.

Jolson, himself a Jew, resigned because he felt the action of the club's vice-president in making known its objection was a slur on the race.

MINE OWNERS REJECT PLANS

Would Interfere With Administration Without Increasing Efficiency.

LONDON, May 21. Canadian Press. — The mine owners to-day informed the government that Premier Baldwins compromise suggestions for ending the coal tie up would limit the freedom of administration and would not increase the efficiency of the industry.

The owners urged the restoration of the eight hour day to reduce the costs of production. They maintain that if this were accepted the reduction in wages would be less than at present. The seven hour day is now standard in mines.

The miners have already rejected Premier Baldwin's proposals, refusing to accept increased hours or reduced wages.

CARPENTERS WANT 80C IN MONTREAL

Union Demands 15c. Increase in Wages.

MONTREAL, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Demands for an increase of fifteen cents an hour in wages have been made by the Montreal district council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, to take effect at the beginning of this summer's building season, it was learned yesterday.

Consideration of the union's demands, which would raise the rate for carpenters in Montreal to 80 cents an hour, was given yesterday by the general contractors' section of the Building Exchange. It was decided to appoint a committee to meet the union officials.

FRENCH BLAMING UNITED STATES AND ITALY FOR FRANC'S COLLAPSE; MORE CONFIDENCE BY CREDITORS

Franc Regained Some of Lost Ground on Thursday's Exchange.

COMMERCE PLAN

Threats of Reprisals Against Italy for Selling of Francs.

PARIS, May 21. — (Canadian Press).—The French Government's expressed decision to "use every possible resource and public credit at its command" in its fight against further depreciation of the franc had the effect Thursday of improving the financial situation materially, the dollar dropping from 35.15 to 33.38 francs, and sterling from 170.80 to 162.15.

Confidence appears to have been restored on the part of French bondholders and demands for reimbursement of short term notes due yesterday fell more than a billion francs short of what the treasury expected.

The decision of the council of ministers to adopt stern measures, such as the use of the Morgan loan, which has been feared by speculators since it was floated in March, 1924, and the threat to employ even the gold reserve as protection against further attack on the franc had the desired result.

Regulate Commerce.

M. Peret, finance minister, is to confer immediately with representatives of all the banking and financial institutions with a view to transferring available assets now existing in the Bank of France from foreign commerce to an organization designed to regulate all exports and imports. While all importers and exporters will not be forced to deal through this newly-formed bureau, M. Peret calls upon all wholesalers, importers and exporters, to handle their transactions through the bureau, which will be known under the name of "The Patriotic Export and Import Office."

Meanwhile, political circles have become alarmed over the continued depreciation of the franc. Premier Briand yesterday received a delegation from the Radical-Socialist group of the chamber—one of the most important numerically, headed by Louis Malvy, former minister of the interior, which demanded that parliament be convoke at once to ratify the ministerial measures in defense of the franc.

This M. Briand refused, saying that the convocation of parliament before the scheduled date, May 22, would cause unnecessary alarm. He is reported to have told the delegation: "The franc will take care of itself without the assistance of parliament."

Blame United States.

Among the rank and file on the street "the offensive from New York against the franc" is held responsible for the present collapse of the French standard. This was reflected in derogatory remarks openly made in the boulevards and streets of Paris while the Connecticut footguards and Richmond Blues were parading.

"Long live the dollar at thirty-five" was the cry that greeted the soldiers as they passed down the Champs Elysees.

Incensed At Italy.

A bitter feeling against Italy for buying Francs at sixty days and then selling them for cash in stemming the averse tide against the lira, financial circles aver, is also evident.

Bourse operators feel that should the French government authorize the Bank of France the use of the Morgan loan and part of the gold reserve as a guarantee for the purchase of lire on a margin to be immediately sold outright there would be a possibility of evening matters with Italy, which they feel has broken away from the solidarity of "Latin standards". Belgian, French and Italian. Their argument is: "Italy improved the value of the lira by buying francs. Why not assist the franc by buying lire?"

Shielding Of Children's Skins Against Sunlight Crime Against Nature, Assert Toronto Doctors

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 21 (Canadian Press).—The solicitous shielding of children's skins against sun is a crime against Nature, in the view of Dr. I. R. Harris, Toronto surgeon, attending the American Health Congress here.

And the sooner mothers learn to expose their babies to the sun until they are "tanned as brown as bears," the better it will be for the youngsters, in the opinion of Dr. F. Tisdall, also of Toronto. He and Dr. Harris gave their opinion at a symposium yesterday.

"The majority of people in the United States and Canada suffer during the Winter and Spring from lack of sunlight, and that accounts for the high mortality of these months," said Dr. Tisdall.

BANKERS WANT UNION CABINET

Want Politics Out of Attempt To Restore Franc.

CABINET CRISIS.

PARIS, May 21 (Canadian Press). — With the Government and the Bank of France at odds over measures to save the franc, the opinion is growing in political and financial circles that the exchange crisis will be solved only by a Cabinet crisis.

Co-operation between the Government and the financial institutions is meeting with obstacles of a political nature which thus far have prevented an agreement.

The bankers hold that the political crisis must be brought to an end, first by the formation of a National Union Cabinet, which would exclude from its action all factional and doctrinal politics.

NO CONVENTION FOR LIBERALS

Feel That Provincial Gathering Is Not Necessary This Year.

RIDINGS ORGANIZED.

TORONTO, May 21.—(Canadian Press).—No Provincial convention of the Liberal party of Ontario will be held this year, it is reported. The Liberals feel, it is said, that a Provincial gathering can be dispensed with, in view of the fact that systematic organization of the different ridings has been under way for some time, and that "headquarters policies" can be formulated at a meeting of the Provincial Executive, which will be held here on May 28.

THE WEATHER.

Although I did not notic any frost this morning, it is likely that it was in evidence in some places, as the thermometer had been down to 34 degrees during the night. Highest yesterday 55 degrees. Unsettled conditions are again approaching.—W. P.

The British people are said to be acquiring a liking for grape fruit.

Heavy Snow Fall Covers Parts Of Saskatchewan

SASKATOON, Sask., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Heavy snow fell Wednesday night and on Thursday morning at several Saskatchewan points. At 1 o'clock, two inches of snow was reported at Insinger, snowing heavily at Wynyard and Springside, two inches of snow at Kandahar, one inch at Barcarres after heavy rain, snowing at Lipton, Blaine Lake and Handel.

Nearly all central and northern Saskatchewan points report rain. No frost damage reported.

OPEN SHOP FOR QUEBEC PLANTS

Until Shoe Workers Accept Arbitration Award and Return.

MAYOR INTERCEDES

QUEBEC, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Following a lengthy meeting between Herbert Gale, president of the Quebec Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association, and Mayor Martin, who was accompanied by several other members of the City Council, Thursday, it was announced by the Mayor that after stating their case and producing documents to substantiate their claims, the manufacturers definitely refused to resume negotiations with the Shoe Workers' unions until the latter accepted the wage lists authorized by the arbitration board and ordered their members to return to the factories.

Mr. Gale informed the Mayor that the manufacturers who were members of his association were determin to keep their factories operating on the open shop basis, accepting all the men who were willing to work under that system, until the unions accepted the decision of the arbitrtation board.

That the situation was not altogether hopeless, however, he admitted, and he also declared that the manufacturers were prepared to discuss certain price list changes once the men had returned to work. They had signified their willingness to discuss these price list changes with the union heads, Mr. Gale said, laying down the conditions, however, that the price lists as approved by the arbitration board should first be accepted by the unions and that the men should return to work while the proposed list revisions were being made.

FATE OF SCOTT TO BE DECIDED

Attorney General of Illinois To Examine Sanity Report.

ONLY ONE COURSE.

CHICAGO, May 21. — (United Press).—The fate of Russell Scott, former Canadian financial wizard, who has thrice escaped the gallows after being convicted of murder, rests with Attorney-General Oscar Carlstrom to-day. Carlstrom announced that he would have all the records of the sanity commission, which recently examined Scott in the Chester Sanitarium and found him sane, sent here immediately.

Carlstrom has indicated to the United Press that the only path open — provided the reports are legal — will be to recommend that Scott be returned to Chicago and a date set for the execution. Scott was convicted of slaying Joseph Maurer, a young drug store clerk, in a hold-up.

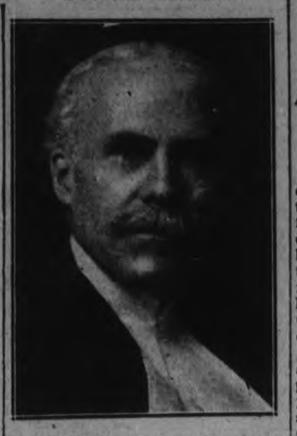
PAROLE BOARD IS CRITICIZED BY HIS HONOR JUDGE HUYCKE

SCORES BOARD.



HIS HONOR JUDGE HUYCKE who, as President of the Ontario County Judges' Association, expresses disapproval of the methods of the Pardon Board.

President of Ontario County Judges' Association Opens Convention.

JUDGES DISREGARDED.

Approves Contributory Negligence Act as Improvement on Old System.

TORONTO, May 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Doubt that the Ontario Parole Board was best qualified to judge of appropriate sentences for criminals was expressed by Judge E. C. S. Huycke, of Peterborough, President of the Ontario County Judges' Association, in his opening address to-day to the County Judges of Ontario gathered here.

"I have observed with some disapproval and disappointment, the punishment of criminals during late years," Judge Huycke said. "The sentences inflicted by judges are said not to be carried out or even sufficiently recognized by the pardoning power and the Ontario Board of Parole, which latter has come in for the chief criticism."

"The question arises, which does, or should, know best what is advisable or necessary for the reformation of the criminal himself, and second for the protection of society generally, the courts or the Parole Board? Are the Parole Board the best judges? It is said that the infliction of any part of an indeterminate sentence, given after extreme thought and care of wise and experienced judges, is ruthlessly disregarded and displaced.

Judge Huycke believed the Contributory Negligence Act, placed on the Ontario statute books at the session before last, was satisfactory, and an improvement on the old system, being more equitable and less confusing.

PUNISHMENT OF WIFE DESERTION IS DISCUSSED

Children's Aid Societies Turn Down Resolution Advocating Lash.

JUDGE'S OPINION.

Some People Can't Live Together, He Says—Consider Matrimony.

TORONTO, May 21 (Canadian Press).—The consideration of several topics, particularly juvenile court work and the nation's obligation to her children, with vigorous discussion of a resolution that the lash be recommended as proper punishment for wife desertion, ill-treatment of wives and children, and offences against girls, featured yesterday's sessions of the annual conference of the Association of Children's Aid Societies of the Province, being held at the Parliament Buildings.

The resolution favoring the use of the lash, which came from the board of management of the Children's Aid Society for Sault Ste. Marie and Algoma district, was turned down by the resolutions committee as "too drastic a penalty," and in the ensuing discussion the majority of the members upheld the committee's stand.

Urged to express an opinion in the matter, Judge Mott of the Toronto Juvenile Court stated: "It is hard to say what should be done about wife desertion. I've seen some cases in which a man has just used intelligence in deserting his wife." People said they were not taking matrimony seriously. They were accepting the obligations of marriage "very carelessly." He would like to see, he said, consideration of wife desertion go farther than the thought of punishment to consideration of matrimony. There might well be something said in favor of the divorce regulations in the States, said he. It was impossible for some people to live together. Yet what were they going to do about it? Divorce was a costly procedure.

ONE MAN DIES IN BAD STORM

Part of British Columbia Swept By Tornado—Tree Falls on Man.

DAMAGE HEAVY.

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., May 21. Canadian Press. — One death and heavy damage resulted from a severe storm which swept this section of Northern Central British Columbia adjacent to the headwaters of the Fraser River, Wednesday afternoon, and which assumed the proportions of a tornado for 20 minutes in Prince George.

Nels Nelson, a pioneer farmer of the Pineview district, was almost instantly killed by being pinned beneath a falling tree.

SUCCESSION DUTIES ARE DUE PROVINCE

Judge Finds Property in Detroit is Not Exempt.

TORONTO, May 21.—(Canadian Press).—A judgment given yesterday by Mr. Justice Grant holds that the Ontario Succession Duties Act is not ultra vires in so far as it assumes to tax property outside Ontario of persons who have been domiciled in Ontario. The question arose in connection with the administration of the estate of the late Raymond A. Baby of Windsor, who died on August 24, 1923. Part of his estate consisted of securities on deposit in Detroit, on which the administrator of the estate refused to pay duties. Judgment is now given in favor of the Province and the amount due is $42,906.70.

Three Of Chicago's "400" Bob Hair—Front Page News

CHICAGO, Ills., May 21. — (United Press).—Three of Chicago's best groomed women, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and Mrs. Richard S. Folsom, had their hair bobbed on Thursday and the fact was chronicled at half-column length on the front pages of the city press. The move was hailed as a concession to the new order by representatives of the city's most exclusive society.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's bob is not a regular shingle. Her hair remains long in the back so that it can be tucked under.

CANADA IMPRESSED DUCHESS OF ATHOLL

Was Delighted at Meeting So Many Scots.

LONDON, May 21. Canadian Press —The Duchess of Atholl, Under Secretary of State for Education who has just returned from a tour of Canada, is considerably impressed with the latent wealth of the Dominion.

In an interview here on Thursday the Duchess said that while Canada was already a great and wealthy country, the resources yet to be developed were well worthy of all the toil sons and daughters of British Empire could devote to it.

The Duchess declared she had been tremendously impressed with her experiences in the Dominion, and more especially so by the warmth of the Canadian welcome extended to her. She had been touched by the great number of men and women of Scottish descent she had encountered during her tour.

A conclusion which had been formed by her trip, she said, was the paramount need in Canada for more male and female immigrants of the "right sort."

TWO YEAR TERMS FOR JAIL BREAKERS

Sentences To Kingston For Men Who Tried To Escape From Guelph.

GUELPH, May 21. Canadian Press —Five prisoners, who figured in a sensational attempt to break custody at the Ontario Reformatory on Tuesday, appeared before Magistrate Watt yesterday, and were sentenced to terms of two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary.

They are Ernest Wittick, Ottawa, Clarence Ere, Woodstock, Malcolm Young, Hamilton, Orval Lafave, Leamington and Alfred McCrae, Cobalt.

Immigration In March Doubles Last Year's Figure

OTTAWA, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Immigration for March, 1926, was more than double that of March, 1925, according to official figures made public today by the Department of Immigration and Colonization. The exact figures were 15,229 for March, 1926, compared with 6,575 for March, 1925.

LIBERALS PLAN MONSTER PICNIC

Northumberland Executive Appoints Committee To Arrange One.

PREPARE FOR VOTE.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, May 21. — The members of the executive of the Liberal Association of Northumberland County at their meeting held in the Leonard House here Wednesday, appointed as a committee, Dr. G. W. Robertson of Colborne, and A. J. Meyers of Campbellford, secretary, with F. J. Slade of Fenella, party candidate at the last Federal election, to arrange for the holding of a monster picnic in Victoria Park, Cobourg, late in June or early in July. Some of the leading Provincial and Federal statesmen will be secured as speakers, and the affair will be widely advertised so as to assure a large attendance. It is a long time since the party in this riding has held such a celebration and it was felt by the executive that this would be one of the best means for getting the party together to hear the discussion of public questions.

In spite of the fact that the weather was unfavorable, a heavy rain having fallen all day, there were over 20 members of the executive in attendance. No one pretended to know when the next Provincial election will be held, or to more than guess at the policy of the government, but the general impression was that it would be the part of wisdom to get ready as the Legislature is not likely to last through another session. The selection of a candidate gave the members little concern as that is regarded as a matter as good as settled, all that is necessary being to call a convention to ratify formally a choice that will be popular with all sections of the rank and file.

Before the executive adjourned the organization was strengthened in various part of the riding, and the present political situation in the Province and Dominion was thoroughly discussed.

WALKER LOSES WELTER CROWN

Pete Latzo, Product of Pennsylvania Mines, New Champion.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Pete Latzo, 28 years old, a product of the coal mine region, last night dethroned Mickey Walker as world's welterweight champion in one of the most sensational ring upsets in years.

Before a wildly cheering home town crowd of 12,000, Latzo battered his way to victory over the titleholder, in a slashing, spectacular ten-round battle. At the end of the fiercely fought encounter, in which the fighters stood toe to toe and slugged each other from start to finish, Latzo was awarded the decision by the unanimous verdict of the two judges.

Walker took his defeat gamely and smilingly, so far as outward manifestation went, while Latzo seemed too overcome to realize just what had happened.

Walker had entered the ring a 2 to 1 favorite.

COUNTY COURT SITS IN JUNE

Supreme Court Also Held at Cobourg Next Month.

MEN ON TRIAL.

COBOURG, May 21.—The regular June sittings of the County Court for Northumberland and Durham are to be held here on June 8th.

Supreme Court June 14th.

The Supeme Court sittings will open at Cobourg on Monday, June 14th, before Hon. Mr. Justice Meredith, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas.

Will Come Up For Trial May 26.

The four men, Arthur Watson, William Cain, Alfred Brignall and John Cann, who were placed under arrest in connection with the robbery of Capt. Wilson's home at Baltimore, will come up for trial in the County Court here on Wednesday, May 26.

Bail For Two.

Upon application before Judge McGlade for bail made by their counsel, T. F. Hall, K.C., bail on two sureties of $500 each was accepted for John Cann and William Cain, and they were allowed their liberty.

WARKWORTH PLANS BIG CELEBRATION

Will Light and Extinguish Big Bonfire—Try Out Fire Brigade.

(By a Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, May 21.—Warkworth will celebrate Victoria Day in its own way, a way that will mark another step in the steady progress made by that enterprising village. Monday morning the new fire fighting apparatus, recently purchased by the trustees of the village, will be tried out. A monster pile of rubbish has been piled up outside the corporation, and when this has been set on fire and the flames given a good start, the firemen will have an opportunity to show what they can do. By that time it is expected that the brigade will be fully organized.

County Council Called.

Warden John McCubbin, who is also Reeve of Percy Township, has called the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham together in midsummer session on June 14. This is a week later than the session opened last year, as, owing to the lateness of the season, the Warden decided to give the farmer members a chance to catch up with their work. This is always the longest and most important session of the year, and this year the question of another boost in the equalized assessment of the urban municipalities is likely to be taken up.

To Play at Campbellford.

It now seems probable that the team selected from the Town Softball League to represent Warkworth at Campbellford on Victoria Day will be the school nine, as these young people have already demonstrated their ability to take care of all who have the temerity to face them.

Another team in the League, the one that has been recruited from the young men in the vicinity of the White Schoolhouse down the Norham Road, is covering itself with glory on the diamond. These players are known as the Blue Hole Huskies on account of their location. Near the White School there is a swimming hole, famous for miles around because of the solid and smooth blue clay bottom and for the reputed invigorating nature of the waters. It was only natural that the name of this favorite watering place should be transferred to the ball players who have lived in it from infancy.

German Powder Mill Blown Up With Many Casualties

WERTHEIM - ON - MAIN, Germany, May 21 (Canadian Press).—A great explosion occurred in a powder mill near Hassloch, Bavaria, Thursday, which wrecked the building and killed or injured many of the employees. It is officially announced that seven are dead, one missing, twelve seriously injured and scores slightly injured.

The first explosion occurred in one of the workshops, and other explosions followed. The shock was felt for many miles, and parts of the heavy machinery were hurled hundreds of feet. Flames added to the horrors and the firemen and rescuing parties were greatly impeded in their work of aiding those half buried in the ruins.

The greatest of all faults is to be conscious of none.—Carlyle.

SAM JACOBS TURNS

the Australia treaty in the last House had not been re-elected. Give the Canadian farmers and Canadian industries a chance, he added. Canadian enterprises should not be subject to unfair competition by lack of protection.

J. E. Armstrong (Conservative, Lambton East) asked if the cholera prevalent in Ontario was not due to the importation of American pork. If this were so, the tariff against American pork should be raised or an embargo placed against its importation.

Mr. Robb stated that this question was one for the Minister of Agriculture. He thought that if Mr. Armstrong could convince the Minister of Agriculture that hog cholera was due to American pork, Mr. Motherwell would be the first to take action.

Mr. Sutherland then moved an amendment to strike out the item of 3½ cents per pound under the general tariff of fresh meats and substitute five cents per pound.

Mr. Robb interjected that the amendment was out of order as it would increase the taxation.

Deputy Speaker Duff, chairman of the committee, ruled the amendment out of order, and Mr. Robb proceeded to quote the trade figures to show that Canada's exports of mutton in 1925 doubled her imports.

Forke's Sheep Profitable.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, said that much had been said about the ruined sheep industry. He, himself, raised sheep and no part of his farm to-day was as profitable as the sheep. Last year he had received $10.50 apiece for lambs and the cost of maintenance had been only a trifle. Nothing else paid so well on the farm. The one disadvantage was the high price of wire for fencing. "I want to tell honorable members that all the wolves in Canada are not after the sheep." Mr. Forke added that the farmers were not afraid of imported mutton.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William) said that there were many men among the Conservative members who were prosperous farmers and had the interests of agriculture, and Canada as a whole at heart when they advocated protection. Protection would have given Mr. Forke a better price for his lambs.

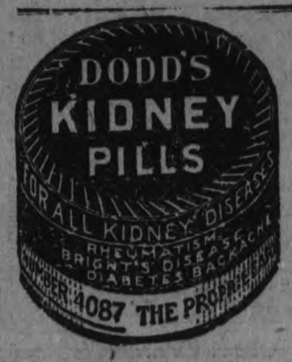
Mr. Robb said that those who criticized the Australian treaty might not have the opportunity to do so for very long. If the tactics being pursued were continued, Australia might take action very quickly and cancel the agreement. He recalled that Dr. Manion had supported the Australian treaty last year, and had personally seen him with respect to it.

Manion Favored Treaty.

Dr. Manion replied that no man inside or outside of the House had ever heard him attack the Australian treaty. He had voted last session in favor of the treaty, as there were large pulp and paper interests in his riding. At that time he had also stated that if the Conservatives were returned to power he would advocate a general all-round increase in the tariff on farm products. His desire to-day was to assist the treaty, and also to improve conditions among the farmers "by treating other countries as they have treated us."

Mr. Sutherland then entered into a discussion of the Australian treaty; but Deputy Speaker Duff stated the treaty was not under consideration, and Mr. Sutherland was out of order. Mr. Sutherland again made several references to this treaty. Finally, the Deputy Speaker pointed out that he had already ruled, in respect to the Minister and "three or four other members," that discussion on the treaty was out of order.

Seldom has the Grand National, the greatest steeplechase in the world, been won by the favorite. Frequently animals of the nondescript variety have literally romped home in the famous event, two notable examples being Master Robert, the winner several years ago, which was at one time a plough horse, and Moonraker, which served its apprenticeship drawing a water cart.



HOTEL CASHIER ROBBED.

NEW YORK, May 21. — A lone robber on Thursday entered the auditor's office of the fashionable Hotel Ambassador in Park Avenue, slugged the auditor's assistant, grabbed a satchel containing a pay roll of $5,000, and escaped through a side entrance.

JUNIOR UNIVERSITIES.

Premier Ferguson's proposal to establish "junior universities" at a number of strategic points in Ontario, of which Peterboro is named as one, again brings the question of Collegiate accommodation here to the fore.

The Board of Governors of the University of Toronto have declared themselves as not opposed to the Premier's plan, although they favour the retention of first-year courses in pass and honour subjects on the university curriculum for all who desire to take them.

Mr. Ferguson's scheme, while only in the embryo stage, should be full of interest to Peterboro people, especially as this is one of the high school centres mentioned as being included.

The present accommodation in the local Collegiate Institute would be, of course, unequal to the carrying out of the plan here, and the Premier's proposal will tend to create new interest in the whole question of high school facilities in Peterboro.

THE ROAD DESTROYERS.

The spectacle of two heavily-laden and ponderous trucks, mired to the hubs, almost side by side so that only a narrow piece of roadway was left open to traffic, greeted motorists on the Peterboro-Port Hope highway on Wednesday evening.

The big machines had broken through the road and were hopelessly stalled, and every passer-by asked himself the question why the Government expends vast sums in the construction and maintenance of highways and yet allows the roads to be torn to pieces each spring by heavy trucks.

There are some regulations, it is true, as to the size of the load that is to be carried in the spring, but these are not enough.

Something more drastic in regard to the operation of these destructive machines will have to be laid down if the roads are to be preserved and the expense of maintenance kept within reasonable proportions.

At this season of the year, in fact, the highways should be closed altogether to heavy traffic.

In our own district the Provincial highway has been badly damaged at many points by such traffic, and there are indications that the same conditions have been set up in all parts of the Province.

The damage will continue so long as heavy trucks are allowed to operate before the roads are ready for them, and sooner or later the Government will be forced to face the situation firmly.

INDIFFERENT CITIZENS.

A striking evidence of the almost criminal indifference that exists in most Canadian centres in regard to municipal affairs is furnished by the details of the voting in Kingston on Tuesday on two very important bylaws submitted to the ratepayers.

One of these measures proposed to raise $25,000 for improvements and changes in the Kingston Exhibition Grounds; the other to grant a fixed assessment for ten years to a company which proposed to build a considerable addition to its plant.

Both these bylaws were lost; that, however, is not the angle that is of most general interest.

The outstanding feature of the voting was that fewer than 700 out of the 2,400 voters on the list considered it worth while turning out to express their opinion on these questions, one of which involved an expenditure of $25,000 of the people's money, the other meant the securing or loss of an industry that would provide a considerable amount of employment for Kingston citizens.

Not one citizen in three of those eligible to vote exercised his franchise, and the only excuse given by some of the delinquents was that they had forgotten the vote was to be taken, although the Kingston newspapers gave plenty of space to a discussion of the measures.

It is indifference of this kind that makes the administration of municipal affairs a difficult matter, and that tends to inefficiency and mismanagement of the public service.

THE TARIFF BOARD.

That the hearings of the Tariff Advisory Board are to be public so far as possible and that opportunities will be given to those interested on one side or the other to state their views, is an announcement that will be approved.

If the public is to receive any education as to the working out of the tariff, it is necessary that the evidence heard by the board when applications for tariff adjustments are being considered should be available to the people.

Such a policy would have considerable value in enlightening the citizens of Canada on a subject about which there is endless argument without in many cases any intelligent knowledge back of the controversy.

At the same time it would seem only right and just that when any particular industry has the power to advance arguments in favour of increased protection for its products that the consumer of these products should be given similar privileges if he believes that increased duties are detrimental to his interests.

These two points have been made clear by Government replies to questions asked by members in the House, and the public generally would be consulting their own interests in closely following the proceedings of the Tariff Board and weighing the evidence and arguments that are offered by those who appear before the commissioners.

WHAT AILS THE MARITIMES?

Writing under the caption, "What Ails the Maritimes?" in the June 1 issue of MacLean's Magazine, William Boyd Macodrum of Sussex, N. B., discusses the Maritime rights question with a dispassionate frankness that will secure him a sympathetic hearing from all Canadians who are concerned about maintaining the solidarity of Confederation.

"No amount of partisan argument can explain away Maritime discontent in terms of politics," declares Mr. Macodrum. "The Liberal debacle in the Provinces by the Sea at the last Federal election was not a Conservative victory," he says. "It was a protest against the indifference of Canadian legislators to the industrial and economic needs of those Provinces."

"The root of the trouble," he continues, "is to be found in the question, 'Is Canada playing fair with the Maritimes?' and that in turn leads to the question, 'What exactly are Maritime rights?'

"The latter term," points out the writer, "explains nothing. It is a misnomer. It was born of the exigencies of politics. It has become a party slogan. It belongs to the same species as 'Canada for Canadians' and 'The Full Dinner Pail.' Its meaning has been lost in the pother of partisan bickering. It implies a belligerent, chip-on-the-shoulder attitude strangely repugnant to Bluenose type. Many leaders of Maritime life disown it. Yet, for all that, there is a feeling, deep-seated and resentful, that the rest of Canada has not played the game squarely with the Maritimes."

Mr. Macodrum does not absolve his fellow-Maritimers from all responsibility for the conditions which have given rise to the current agitation. "With some notable exceptions, our people are very much lacking in initiative. They will not go forth and work with what tools they have, blunt though these may be. Wooden vessels are not being built and the Maritime ship-builders cannot, or will not, build steel ones. They are gloomy and pessimistic. The visitor remarks, 'What a fine day!' and gets the answer, 'Yes, but it's going to rain tomorrow.' Furthermore," the writer adds, "the Maritime merchant should get out of the old rut."

Apart from such considerations as these, however, Mr. Macodrum finds that the Maritime complaint is far from being foundationless. For one thing, he claims the rest of Canada has not lived up to the spirit of the clauses in the Confederation agreement which guaranteed the Atlantic Provinces railway connection with the Central Provinces. True, the railway was built and is still functioning, but it is not operating as it was designed to operate because of what the Maritimer considers unjust discrimination in rates. For example, the express rate on fish from Prince Rupert to Chicago, a distance of 3,596 miles, is $3.93 a hundred pounds, while the rate from Halifax to Chicago, a distance of 1,669 miles, is $5.37 a hundred pounds. Also, the potato grower in Guelph, Ontario, can ship 760 miles for 47 cents, where the grower in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, ten miles closer, pays 50 1-2 cents

This phase of the question the writer closely associates with the slow development of Maritime ports. Why, for instance, are the Halifax grain elevators "little more than pigeon roosts?" Mr. Macodrum finds one explanation in "the flaunting of such advertisements as "Portland, Maine, the natural winter port of Canada." The people of the Maritimes, he admits, have been told over and again that the flow of grain to the Atlantic seaboard is governed by deep-seated economic causes, but: "We are not yet convinced that grain cannot be shipped to the Canadian Atlantic ports, and there is rankling in our minds a feeling that the selfishness of those living along the great waterways from the city of Fort William to the city of Montreal has been placed upon a pedestal while the national good has been sacrificed to the god of personal greed.

"Another sore point with the Maritimer," continues Mr. Macodrum, "is the distribution of Federal taxes illustrated by the fact that since Confederation the Dominion Government has expended $280,000,000 on canals in Central Canada, whereas the Maritimes have received $650,000 for a drain in Cape Breton."

It is such considerations as these which cause Mr. Macodrum to exclaim: "Is it any wonder that rumblings of secession have been heard in the Maritime Provinces?"

Additional interest and value is attached to this timely discussion of a vital Canadian question by reason of the fact that the editor of MacLean's has afforded Lorne McDonald, assistant freight traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways, an opportunity of discussing Mr. Macodrum's freight rate figures from the standpoint of the railways.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Is it too much to hope that now the long drawn out Budget debate is finished that Parliament will get down to real work?

A Quebec girl was charged in Hull Police Court with indecent exposure, because of the brevity of her skirts. There are certain types of legs the exposing of which might well lead to Police Court cases.

Premier King spoke for three hours on the Budget and Hon. R. B. Bennett was nearly as great an offender. Canadian public men should take a leaf out of the book of British political leaders and learn to trim down their speeches to a reasonable length.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A Budget vote in which neither the Premier or the Leader of the Opposition participated is a novelty.

Now that the division has been taken, there will be natural wonder over why it should have been considered necessary to do so much talking in advance.

The head of the Railwaymen's Union in Great Britain says there never will be another general strike. If the recent effort had been successful there would have been no statements of that kind.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 20 — The feature of the potato trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices declined 10 to 20 cents per bag which was attributed to the falling off in the demand.

A stronger feeling developed in the butter market and prices were 1-2 cent per pound higher. The trade volume was fair and the receipts were 1,788 packages.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, Man., May 20 (Canadian Press) — Arrivals: 800 sale cattle and calves, 1,400 hogs and 26 sheep and lambs. Nine cars of stock are due to arrive today.

With 1150 cattle offered, indications pointed to a good clearance with prices firm. Relatively few stockers and feeders were available.

Hog prices sagged. Packers were bidding 13.50 for thick smooths, 25c below yesterday close.

A few good spring lambs drew a bid of 16 cents a pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 20 (Canadian Press)—Owing largely to an unexpected advance in Liverpool quotations, the wheat market here took a sudden upward swing today. Anxious bidding on the part of traders short of wheat to fill May contracts here was a notable feature. Chicago closing prices on wheat were strong, 1 5-8 to 4c net higher, with corn 3-8 to 3-4c up; oats at 1-8c decline to 1-2c advance, and provisions unchanged to seven cents off.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., May 20 (Canadian Press) — Influenced by the strength at Liverpool and Chicago, with resultant short-covering, the wheat market here today advanced 1 1-4c to 2c, the May future leading to close at $1.51 7-8. July closed at $1.49 1-8, and October at $1.32 1-8.

The unexpected strength at Liverpool, and a fair amount of buying credited to foreign account forced shorts to cover rather heavily. On the extreme bulge the May future touched $1.52 1-8, or 2 1-4c above the previous close.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

KEEP YOUR MIND OPEN.

It is a physical or scientific fact that when your mouth is open you can hear better. When you open that food receiver or drink-cove between your cheeks, sounds are heard more clearly.

When your eyes are open you usually see and when your ears are alert you most always hear, but the big idea is to keep your mind open.

Refusing to consider the other side of a subject for fear you will lose your personal viewpoint is proof of a small mental stature.

Open your eyes, open your ears, open the cave between your cheeks when you want to eat or drink, but close your mouth when you want to think.

The brain is the most variable in size and quality of all the parts of the human body.

UNION JACK OFF SOUTH AFRICAN NATIONAL FLAG

Smuts Opposes Government Bill Before Crowded Gallery in House.

WARNS OF TURMOIL

Former Premier Refers to Canadian Plan of Enquiry by Commission.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, May 21.— (Canadian Press Cable via Retuer's).—The government's determination to proceed with the bill providing for the adoption of a new national flag for the Union of South Africa produced a tense atmosphere in the house of assembly. There is growing agitation over the seleection of a flag design from which the Union Jack is completely absent and notice that the question was to be taken up had filled the assembly galleries to overflowing. A party from government house was present, including Princess Alice, wife of the Earl of Athlone, the governor-general, Sir Charles Coghlan, premier of South Rhodesia, was also an interested auditor.

Opening debate, former Premier, Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, leader of the South African party, expressed deep regret that the government had introduced the bill so close to the termination of the assembly's session. He declared it an act levity and contempt of public opinion. General Smuts appealed to Premier Hertzog to realize the depth of sentiment in the country, which, he warned, might soon be in a state of turmoil.

A Labor member interrupted: "You are making it worse," he told the former Premier, causing considerable uproar in the house.

Refers to Canada.

Continuing, General Smuts affirmed that the people would say "this is not our flag; it was forced upon us." He declared that the flag question could only be settled by an agreement reached away from the heated atmosphere of the house. He called attention to the recent similar position in Canada, where after a commission of enquiry had reported to the government, the question of a new Canadian flag was left in abeyance.

General Smuts, in an eloquent peroration declared, "This is not a political matter, it is a national one. The government, even at this stage, should pause. They can get the measure through, by means of their majority, but the result would be in vain. This suggested emblem would not be flag to honor, but a means of dividing the people of the country."

BOOTLEGGER AND WIFE JAILED FINED $2,000, CAR CONFISCATED; LINDSAY POLICE WERE WAITING

"King of the Bootleggers" in Victoria County Trapped With Liquor.

CAN'T PAY FINES

Walter Olson of Coboconk Delivered Bag of "White Lightning."

LINDSAY, May 21.—Provincial Officer Storey and License Inspector Porter gathered in Walter Olson and his wife, residents of Coboconk, together with a new Star car containing eight imperial quarts of "White Lightning." Olson is termed by the authorities the "king of bootleggers" in this district. They have been shadowing him for a long time, and he made his boasts that the authorities would never catch him. He ran into their arms Wednesday night, however, and yesterday he was fined $1,500 and costs and three months in jail for having liquor for sale in a car, and in default of payment an additional six months. His wife was charged with having liquor in her possession and was fined $500 or three months in jail. The Magistrate also issued an order for the confiscation of the 1926 Star car by the Crown.

Police "Tipped Off."

Olson and his wife drove into Lindsay Wednesday night in company with Mr. and Mrs. McGregor and child, of Coboconk. They proceeded to the residence of Mrs. "Dinky" Gassien, whose husband is now serving a jail term for bootlegging. McGregor, according to his own statement carried the bag full of bottled liquor to the door and was greeted with the query "Is that you Olson." He informed the woman that he was acting for Mr. Olson in the delivery of the wet goods. The Provincial Officer as well as License Inspector must have been "tipped off" concerning the delivery, as when McGregor entered the door the officers made their appearance by a back route and promptly proceeded to seize the liquor. The woman of the house put up such a vigorous protest that the officers had quite a lively time of it. When quiet was restored License Inspector Porter paid a visit to the car. His coming was noticed by Olson, who informed his wife. It appears that a bottle of liquor had been overlooked in the car in the process of delivery, and the woman quickly seized it and hid it under her coat. She was ordered to step from the car by the Inspector, who proceeded to search her. Another demonstration was staged, during which Mrs. Olson succeeded in loosening the cork from the bottle, and a portion of the contents ran over Provincial Officer Storey's clothes. The woman was finally placed under arrest.

Although the pair was represented by L. V. O'Connor Thursday, they pleaded guilty. Police Magistrate Bradford said the case was the most flagrant that had ever come before him. The display of liquor in court indicated that they were in the business on a large scale.

Olson and his wife were unable to pay the fines and will put in time in the county jail.

Still Seized Before.

Some time ago during the regime of License Inspector Thornbury, a raid was made by that officer on the Olson home, where a still was seized. Mrs. Olson at the time of the seizure threatened to shoot the License Inspector and Excise Officer Glass. Olson was fined $500 for a breach of the Inland Revenue Act, but was successful in an appeal before the late Judge McGillivray, of Whitby. He was also charged with the theft of turkeys at Coboconk, but was acquitted.

NO OPPOSITION ON SCHOOL TAX

No Controversy Expected Over Provision for Separate Schools.

EDMONTON, May 21 (Canadian Press).—When the Alberta Legislature resumed Thursday after six weeks' adjournment it plunged at once into the business as it was left off when the members returned to their homes on April 8. It is hoped that the prorogation will be reached at the week-end.

One of the first questions to come up will be that of the Northern railway situation and soon after the House opens, the Premier expects to make his statement on the fresh negotiations which he has been conducting in company with the Minister of Railways, Hon. V. W. Smith, on the occasion of the recent visit to the east.

Members of the cabinet were in session all the morning and were considering their attitude on several of the questions which are likely to arise in the measure still pending. A bill dealing with stockyards in the province has also been drafted but it is doubtful whether it will reach the House at the present time.

The Premier and the House leader of the Opposition, Captain J. C. Bowen, had a brief conference when the resources question was under consideration. It is believed that the Opposition will support the measure as it stands at present and see no danger of controversy over the provision providing for the continuance of assistance to Separate Schools out of the revenues from school lands after they are taken over by the province.

WHITTEMORE IN HANDS OF JURY

Freed at Buffalo, Pleads Self Defence in Baltimore Crime.

SLEW JAIL GUARD.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Fifteen years of conflict with the law passed in review before Richard Reese Whittemore yesterday.

Juvenile court, parental school, Maryland school for boys, Portsmouth naval prison, Elmira workhouse in New York State, Maryland penitentiary — truancy, disorderly conduct, incorrigibility, absence without leave and breaking arrest, burglary, robbery—taking of human life.

Robert H. Holtman, Maryland penitentiary guard, is dead. Richard Reese Whittemore killed him.

Debonnairly the alleged organizer of New York's "million dollar crime trust" admitted it all to twelve men beyond a jury box railing in criminal court.

Whittemore slew Holtman because "if he had got his pistol, I wouldn't be here to-day," he told the jury—self defence.

Whittemore slew Holtman in order to escape from prison, the State has told the jury — first degree murder.

Whether prison doors or the gallows trap will yawn for him, Whittemore will know to-day. Prosecution and defence rested their cases on Thursday. Summing up, preliminary to giving the case to the jury, was scheduled for this morning.

There are five possible results of his trial which will put the "candy kid" again behind prison bars, against one which may place the rope about his neck. A verdict of first degree murder without capital punishment, second degree murder, manslaughter, acquittal, or a disagreement.

KRIM IN FLIGHT ALLIES REPORT

Riffian Leader Retreats Before Franco-Spanish Offensive.

RAPID ADVANCE.

FEZ, Morocco, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian chieftain, has fled westward with his family to the territory of the Beni Steffs. This announcement was made from French headquarters Thursday and it is further stated that the Franco-Spanish offensive, whose object is to encircle and shut Krim up in his mountain lair, is progressing more rapidly and easily than expected.

The French and Spanish forces working on the eastern branch of the Pincers yesterday extended their advance in both length and depth, and a French column operating to the north of the Quergha also made good progress and now commands all the approaches to the valley in which Targuist lies. It was in this section that Abd-el-Krim remained under cover for the last few weeks.

The results attained by these different columns are said to have been so satisfactory that it was decided to launch another drive by troops in the Fez region. The new operation was no less successful than the others, all the objectives being speedily reached.

WOMAN'S BODY IN RIVER.

Garments on Banks at Fort William.

FORT WILLIAM, May 21 (Canadian Press).—While going to work at eight o'clock Thursday morning Cecil Hind saw the body of a woman floating in the Neebing River, while a woman's coat and hat were lying on the banks.

The police were called and it was found to be the body of Mrs. Amelia Hind, a widow who has been residing with her daughter, Mrs. Watkinson. She was 75 years of age, and her husband predeceased her 36 years ago. Wednesday night she stated that she was going to spend the night with a friend, Mrs. Fraser, but she never reached the house, and thus neither family knew that she was missing till after the body was found. An inquest will be held.

INSPECTORS FIND STILL WITH MASH

Successful Raid Made in Cavan Township This Week.

COBOURG, May 21.—Inspector George Goodrich, Provincial officer T. Cousans of Cobourg, and Constable Hall of Port Hope, paid a surprise visit to the premises of a man named Richardson in Cavan township on Monday morning and are alleged to have found there a large quantity of mash made up of potatoes, wheat sugar and prunes, a large quantity of mash, three bottles of alcohol and a worm and still. They seized the outfit and brought it to Cobourg to the Department of Inland Revenue.

MINERS REJECT PROPOSALS FOR REDUCED WAGES

Mine Owners' Decision Today Also Expected to be Adverse.

NEW DEADLOCK

British Miners Preparing for Prolonged Strike—Government May Act.

LONDON, May 21.—(Canadian Press).—The mining dispute reached a new deadlock Thursday with the refusal of either the miners or mine owners to accept the government plan for a solution of the difficulty. The national conference of miners' delegates, in rejecting the government's proposals adopted a resolution which declared: "We are unable to recommend that the mine workers accept Premier Baldwin's proposals for a reduction of wages."

The mine owners will not deliver their reply to the government until today, but it is known to be non-acceptance.

The difficulty, therefore, is again where it was when the general strike was called and it was reported last night that the miners were making all preparations for a long stoppage, failing some new move on the part of the government.

A cabinet council was held last evening to consider the situation, and further conferences between the ministers and interested parties are expected today which may put a new aspect on the problem. But the prospect is that the government will be obliged to proceed with parliamentary action in order to force some kind of settlement upon the contending parties.

OTTAWA, May 21.—(Canadian Press).—J. E. A. Bisaillon will be recalled to give further testimony at the customs probe next Tuesday. The latter is ordered to bring all orders signed by Bisaillon for delivery or release of liquor.

GRANTED LEAVE TO APPEAL.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 21 (Canadian Press). — Leave to appeal from the sentence of three years, recently imposed on him, has been granted F. O. Maber, former director of the North-Western Life Assurance Company. He was convicted on a charge of fraud. He was released yesterday on bail of $10,000.

SMUGGLED MACHINE GUNS.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 21.—(Canadian Press.)— Charged with smuggling machine guns into Canada Louin Joseph Levy, Victoria merchant, was found guilty in Assize court on two of four counts. A strong recommendation for mercy was brought in by the jury.

Thomas Ling Newton, similarly charged, was acquitted.

Argument as to whether Levy is guilty in law as well as in fact, will be heard Wednesday.

INFINITE POWERS CREATED LIFE AND DIRECTS ITS EVOLUTION

Address of President of Royal Society of Canada at Ottawa.

CREATOR'S DEMAND.

Materialistic Theory of Life Inadequate, Declares Toronto Theologist. onto Geologist.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21.—(Canadian Press).—"Life was created by an infinite power and endowed with the property of progressing to higher expression, and evolution has proceeded in obedience to His will for the working out of His purposes.' Thus did Dr. W. A. Parks, professor of Geology in the University of Toronto sum up his convictions on the much discussed question of evolution, in his presidential address before the Royal Society of Canada here Wednesday. "The evidence for evolution is circumstantial, but in a mass way it is so overwhelming that scarcely a scientific man holds other opinion," he said.

The president's address was entitled "time and life" and from the standpoint of public interest is regarded as one of the features of the Society's convention.

"Modern investigation," said Dr. Parks, ""physical, astronomical and geological, all tend to increase the estimate of the age of the earth. The latest estimates, base on the rate of dissociation of unamium and thorium, make the age more than 1,700,000,000 years (one billion seven hundred million.)

Life 700,000,000 Years Ago.

"The first appearance of life is not known with certainty but there was a well developed life 700,000,000 years ago. From that time to the present life has continued and has shown a constant general advance to higher expression. This fact is made the basis of a law 'the tendency to the complex' which is regarded as the greatest lesson taught by the study of geology.

"A second outstanding feature" said Dr. Parks, "is the remarkable longevity of certain forms of life; some sea-shells of today were in existence 50,000,000 years ago and others have scarcely altered in ten times that length of time. In view of the immense number of generations, the fidelity of inheritance is more remarkable than that changes should have occurred. Life, however, has changed, in some cases more rapidly than in others, but always with such extreme slowness that it is impossible to observe it in the lifetime of a man or even in the lifetime of modern science. Evolution must stand or fall on the evidence of the geological record, and the geological record can never hope to do more than establish series showing gradual changes "seriations." The more complete (closer) the seriation the more convincing the evidence. The record scattered through hundreds of millions of years and over vast extents of territory can never be more than partially examined; in consequence close seriations for all lines of life are not to be expected.

Materialism's Oversight.

"The evidence for evolution is circumstantial but in a mass way it is so overwhelming that scarcely a scientific man holds other opinion." The materialistic view of life may eventually explain all vital phenomena and the process of organic matter but, in the opinion of Dr. Parks, it is inadequate in that it indicates no purpose, no object, no sign. The admission of a design demands the recognition of a designer, an infinite being, a deity .In the opinion of the speaker, life was created by an infinite power and endowed with the property of progressing to higher expression, and that evolution has proceeded in obedience to His will for the working of His purposes.

Man's Ancestry Unknown.

"Modern man appeared in Western Europe 25,000 to 30,000 years ago but his direct ancestry is entirely unknown. Earlier races of man-like creatures preceded him for a period of more than 1,000,000 years. The post-Darwinists regarded these races as the ancestors of man and the bugbear of 'end-on' evolution has beclouded the question ever since. It is now believed that these extinct man-like races were collaterals or offshoots from the main stem and that the Anthropoid ape, instead of being regarded as an ancestral type of man, should be thought of as a degenerate or unprogressive descendent from a nobler line."

Dr. Parks expressed little sympathy with attempts to draw the line between things sacred and profane. "Who shall say that revelation is complete or that modern scientific discovery is not a part of it?" he asked. Apparent discrepancies between biblical and scientific history are better left alone in the hope that future knowlege will remove them. The intensive study of the geological record is more likely to harmonize the divergent viewpoints than any other method of approach."

BIG WOOD PLANT DEAL CONCLUDED

New Industry For District East of Sault To Employ 1,000 Men.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 21.—(Canadian Press).—According to a statement made by the Hon. James Lyons on his return from the East, the proposal known as the Bruce Mines hardwood deal, which has kept Algoma and particularly that portion of the district lying between Bruce Mines and Thessalon, on tip-toe for some months, has now gone through and the construction of a huge wood-working industry east of Sault Ste. Marie is now assured. The concern is to employ 1,000 men, spend $1,000,000 in construction work, and erect saw-mills, flooring plants, veneer plants and other wood-working industries.

The concern is known as the Ontario Hardwood Lumber Co., and its tender for the hardwood limits involved was accepted only Wednesday.

It is understood that W. Parkinson of Akalyn, Wisconsin, who visited the Sault last October in company with J. A. Warner, represented the interests behind the deal and handled all the negotiations on their behalf.

Confirms Report.

TORONTO, May 21.—(Canadian Press).—Premier G. Howard Ferguson yesterday confirmed the report that a large area of hardwood timber between Sault Ste. Marie and Thessalon has been sold by the Provincial Government to an American firm which is to build a large plant for the manufacture of hardwood products. The area sold is of 1,458 square miles. The Province will collect $2.5C bonus and 50c statutory dues on every thousand feet of hardwood cut. The company will be authorized to cut only birch and maple.

SIR JOHN SIMON MAY BE LEADER

Lloyd George's Attitude on Strike Cause Liberal Dissension.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

LONDON, May 21. Canadain Press — The attitude of former Premier Lloyd George toward the general strike has thrown the same sort of dissensions into his party, the Liberals, as did his famous land policy, but the dissensions have not reached a stage where his position as chairman of the party is threatened, and he certainly does not at the present time contemplate resigning.

Mr. Lloyd George resented the haste of Lords Oxford and Grey in publishing manifestoes on the strike without previously consulting him and other Liberal leaders; consequently when a meeting of the Liberal leaders was called on May 10 to discuss the policy of the party with relation to the strike, he refused to attend, giving as his reason that a meeting was useless since Lords Oxford and Grey had already committed the party to the policy outlined in their pronouncements.

An article published by Mr. Lloyd George in the United States May 9, was also adversely criticized by some of the members of the Liberal party, and calls for the text of this article have been so insistent that Mr. Lloyd George himself has taken steps to have it published textually in the British press to-day.

There is also gossip of a bid being made for the leadership of the party in opposition to Mr. Lloyd George by Sir John Simon, whose striking parliamentary speech declaring the general strike illegal brought him great prestige and is generally agreed to have been the main cause of the calling off of the strike.

Sir John, in a speech to his constituents at Cleckheaton last night repeated his denunciations of the general strike, but criticized what he called the "sorry bungling and incompetence" of the government, which he said, "goes a long way to explain the nine days blunder of the strike."

He nevertheless urged that it was the bounden duty of the Liberal party to work for the protection and full use of industrial combination by trades unions.

TWO-YEAR ARCTIC TRIP BY TRADERS

New Schooner Provisioned For Five Years.

VANCOUVER, May 21 (Canadian Press). — On June 15 the 75-foot power schooner Nigalik, built at Vancouver, will depart for the Arctic on a fur trading expedition which will keep her in the far north from two to five years.

The vessel, constructed for a newly formed Canadian company controlled by C. P. Clarke and R. C. MacGregor, of Vancouver, and backed by New York capital, cost $40,000 to build, and it is expected she will be able to withstand all the rigors of a long Arctic trip. Clarke and MacGregor have had long experience as fur traders in the north.

The Nigalik will proceed from Vancouver along the Alaska coast line, trading with Eskimos, and then proceed to Boothia Peninsula, where it may be necessary to winter, but it is planned, if possible, to make the north-west passage to Baffin Land, the same as Amundsen tried to make coming westward.

With good luck in trading and weather conditions, the trip may be completed in two years, but provision has been made for a stay of five years if necessary.

SPECIALIST DEAD

Dr. J. L. H. Martel, 47, Passes in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 21. — Canadian Press. — Dr. Joseph Louis Hypolite Martel, the well known ear, eye, throat and nose specialist, of Quebec, for many years connected with the Hotel Dieu Hospital here, died yesterday at Chambly Basin.

Dr. Martel was 47 years of age. He was born in Chambly Basin, where his father, the late Dr. Chas. Martel represented the County at the Quebec Legislature.

He is survived by his widow, two sisters and three brothers.

PARTNER DENIES ACCUSATION IN OFFICIAL REPORT BY BISAILLON OF SMUGGLING CARS AND LIQUOR

Ludger Brien Confronted With Former Customs Officer's Statement.

KEPT NO ACCOUNTS

Operated Liquor Business Under the Name of J. E. Belisle.

OTTAWA, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Evidence given by J. E. A. Bisaillon, former chief preventive officer at Montreal, and that given yesterday by Ludger Brien, once his partner, before the customs inquiry committee, failed to coincide in several particulars. Toward the close of the sitting, C. W. Bell, M.P., one of the committee, confronted Mr. Brien with statements made by Bisaillon in letters written to the customs department.

"Brien is a bootlegger and deals in smuggled goods," wrote Mr. Bisaillon to the department. Again: "Brien has been a very active smuggler in alcohol and automobiles."

Mr. Bell asked if these statements were true.

"No, they are false," the witness declared. He qualified his denial to the extent of saying that he had been the operator of a garage and like others dealt in second hand cars. Two of three of these cars, which he acquired and sold in perfectly good faith, turned out not to be "Quite O.K."

A statement by Bisaillon that he (Brien) was trying to arrange to have four automobiles a month smuggled across the line for him to dispose of, was also given absolute denial by Brien.

Were Liquor Partners

Brien and Bisaillon were partners in the firm of liquor dealers known as J. E. Belisle. Brien told the committee yesterday that he had a five-sixths interest in the firm and Bisaillon one-sixth. The firm kept no accounts.

Mr. Bell expressed surprise at this. It was strange that Bisaillon, who believed that the witness was a smuggler and a bootlegger, did not demand an accounting to make sure that he got his full share of the profits.

"I don't want to discuss what he thinks of me, and I don't want to say what I think of him," commented the witness.

Brien gave the committee his version of the midnight visit by Officer Duval and himself to the barge Tremblay at St. Sulpice. They found the barge already in the hands of the Quebec Liquor Commission. Later, he said, he overheard the two Americans, Campbell and Stuart, who escaped from the barge, laughing at the ease with which they had got away. The witness was asked a great many questions about the partnership in the Belisle business. In answer to a question, he denied that a man called Gelinas, who furnished part of the money required to operate the business, was actually a partner. The Belisle firm did quite a large mail order liquor business, Brien said, but orders, bills of lading, etc., had been destroyed some years ago when the firm went out of business.

"We did not smuggle, or steal, or do anything wrong, so I thought no one would be interested in the documents," the witness said.

Strange Partnership

Mr. Stevens thought it was a strange relationship between Gelinas, who was manager of the former firm of Boivin, Wilson Co., and the Bisaillon-Brien firm. He had financed them, took a one-third interest in their farm at Rock Island and finally paid their overdraft of $15,000. What did he get for all that? Mr. Stevens asked.

"He did not get very much," replied Mr. Brien.

"What favors did he get?"

"Nothing whatever—but—"

'Open up, get it off your mind," prompted Mr. Stevens.

"I have nothing on my mind," said Brien. "I am trying to conceal nothing. But it is really too bad to bring in the names of fellows who have only tried to help me out."

Mr. Stevens regretted that he must pry into private matters, but your private affairs," he added, "are so mixed up with public affairs that we must do it."

Bisaillon's Farm

Mr. Stevens went on to discuss the Bisaillon farm. It was "equipped for handling alcohol," he believed. Witness thought it was equipped for "nothing in particular." There were the usual farm quarters, a cellar, an attic and "rooms which might be filled with furniture or with other stuff."

"Why did you buy this place?" asked Mr. Stevens.

Amid a good deal of laughter, witness explained that they were "doing well" and thought they might take over a pleasant place "for a summer resort." Besides it was Bisaillon's birthplace, and there was a monument to pioneer farmers on it.

Mr. Stevens asked if Brien has been conferring with Bisaillon lately.

"We are not very friendly now," replied witness.

"I thought you had made it up?"

"I have seen him a couple of times, but that does not mean that we kiss one another yet."

Look After Himself

Asked if persons "close of Bisaillon" had not been priming him with his evidence, witness replied coolly that he could look after himself.

"But you are glad that Mr. Gagnon (Bisaillon's counsel) is sitting near?" asked Mr. Bell.

"I wish Mr. Gagnon were not there because they tell me he is going to question me after you get through," replied Mr. Brien.

Witness denied that he had denounced smuggled cars in order to sell them. He had sometimes given information to "the boys" concerning cars which might be in his garage. The car sold to his brother-in-law, St. Germain, he was not aware that he had denounced, although Mr. Stevens showed him a receipt he had signed for the informers moiety. He did not know that it was that car. At this point he said he would have to relapse into French to make himself clear. Mr. Stevens said he still had much to say, and since it was past six o'clock, they would put it off until Friday.

Books Still Missing

Just before adjournment, G. F. Leaver, of the committee's firm of auditors, was called and stated that he had examined the books produced yesterday by J. H. Gauthier, of the R. & G. Company, Rock Island, and found that those which the committee wanted were still missing. He stated that he had visited the premises of this firm in Rock Island when the books were available. Later, on a return visit, they had vanished.

The committee instructed Mr. Leaver to make a list of the books which were required, so that they could be procured from Rock Island.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach,' says a well know authority.

"Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

"Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

CRASH KILLS THREE.

Automobile Collides With Heavy Truck.

VENTURA, Calif., May 21. —Canadian Press. — Two men and one woman were killed and another woman badly injured yesterday, near Triumfo, when their auto crashed into a truck. The dead are Florence Rocheanig, Los Angeles, A. E. Den, Los Angeles, and an unidentified man.

BROWN VS. ROOT JUDGMENT.

This is an appeal from the judgment of George A. Payne, Esquire, Police Magistrate, for the Town of Campbellford, Brown is the Chief of Police of the Town, and Root is an employee of Robinson & Company, Departmental Store people in the Town of Napanee.

Root was charged on information laid by the Chief of Police, apparently under instructions from the Town authorities, with the violation of the Transient Traders Act, and the by-law of the town pursuant to that Act. The by-law seems regular and legal, and its validity is not attacked. It is agreed between all parties that the Robinson Company Limited be substituted as defendants, in the place of Roy Charles Root the employee.

After the hearing in Campbellford I reserved my judgment in order to read and consider the judgment of the Police Magistrate, which I had not then seen. I have since carefully considered it and agree with the reasoning and conclusions of the Learned Magistrate.

The goods in question were in the shop of Miss Shannon in Campbellford, who is legally and properly carrying on business. The trouble arose about these goods consigned by the Robinson Company to Miss Shannon which she offered for sale, and did sell some of them. The Town Authorities contend that these goods were being sold, or offered for sale by the Robinson people, or Root their employee. I find this is not correct, and must be overruled. There was no sale by the Robinson Company, or any one for them, to any of the customers, and there was no privity of contract between the Company and any purchaser. The goods were sold by Miss Shannon, who alone was entitled to collect the price. It is true the goods were sent on approval, and some of them returned; but this does not affect the status of the parties. Miss Shannon received a profit of ten per cent. of the selling value of the goods sold, and is liable for the ninety per cent balance to the Robinson Company.

I find that the Robinson Company did not sell, or offer for sale, any goods in the Town of Campbellford, contrary to the by-law, and therefore the appeal must be dismissed. The goods were shipped on approval to Miss Shannon, who retained and sold some of them and shipped back others at various times. It is contended that Miss Shannon was the agent of the Robinson Company. The opposite is the fact.

I can find no Ontario case exactly in point, but on the fact herein the case seems too clear for contention. It has been held, however, in British Columbia, that where goods are consigned by an owner to be sold on commission, and are sold by the consignee in his the consignee's premises, that the owner, or consignor, of the goods is not the occupant of the premises where the sale took place and cannot be convicted under the Transient Traders' Act. Reg vs Wilson 7 B.C.R. 712.

The whole thing seems to me to be a very plain case, and the appeal is dismissed.

I note that by consent originally costs were not asked for nor given; on this appeal they are asked for, and if the respondents, the Robinson people, insist upon it, they will be entitled to such costs as may be taxed.

ADVERTISING FOR WINNIPEG MINERS

Labor Member Says Besco Seeks Men For Sydney.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21.—(Canadian Press.)—"Is the Government aware that the British Empire Steel Corporation have advertised for one hundred miners to be sent from Winnipeg to Nova Scotia, when there are hundreds and hundreds of miners out of work in that province," asked A. A. Heaps (Labor Winnipeg North) in the House of Commons yesterday.

Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Labor, said that he would investigate. He had not heard about it.

There was a cross fire of questions on the same subject. I. D. MacDougall (Conservative Inverness) wanted to know what would be the Minister's attitude in such a matter.

"I will let my honorable friend know that when I decide," replied the Minister.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor Winnipeg North Centre) asked what the Acting Minister of Immigration would do about a proposal which he said had been made by the Government Employment Agency to bring European miners into Nova Scotia.

Hon. Charles Stewart replied that no such proposal had come to his notice. No matter who made the proposal it would have to come to him eventually for permission and he would be able to investigate the whole situation and deal with it on its merits.

Of all days, that one is most wasted on which one has not laughed.—Chamfort.

The Army needs a long rope

When you give money to The Salvation Army Self-Denial Fund you help The Army to throw more rope to the helpless and needy ones tossed upon the rough waters of life.

Every year The Salvation Army helps more little ones, more needy mothers and more "down-and-outs", irrespective of creed, color or race.

The Army's ceaseless mission of mercy is one long, intelligent effort of love and helpfulness. Its work among neglected and suffering little children alone would make it a noble institution, but it does not stop with the children—it takes in all the needy and helpless ones, bringing comfort to the miserable, courage to the outcast and hope to the despairing.

It is your privilege to help The Army's work by contributing to the Self-Denial Fund. Every dollar will mean hope and comfort for those in need.

Make your subscription this year as large as you can. The Salvation Army deserves well of you.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, May 21.—On Sunday evening the topic of the sermon preached by the Rev. J. A. Totten was "The Church." The choir sang an appropriate anthem and F. M. Staples sang as a solo "The Rock Stands Fast." Mr. Totten has been preaching a series of sermons on the doctrines of the church, which his congregation have been finding helpful and interesting.

The services in St. John's Church, Ida, were conducted last Sunday evening by Mr. Barnes, manager of Toronto Bank, Millbrook.

Cavan Centre Sunday School, commencing May 23, will hold its session in the morning at 10.30, instead of the afternoon. This will likely continue until the end of August.

The organized Young People's Bible Class, of whom Mrs. F. Staples is the teacher, have adopted a plan which has proved very satisfactory. The members of the class, in turn, occasionally take entire charge of the class, with one of the members as teacher. Next Sunday morning, May 24, Ralph Staples will teach the lesson.

Messrs. Wilfred Reynolds and Ray Staples attended ball practise in Bethany on Monday evening. The teams are preparing for sports day, May 24.

Mrs. McComb, Millbrook, is staying with her daughter, Mrs. L. Newton, who has been ill, but is convalescing.

Mrs. Foster, Bethany, was a visitor in Cavan for a few days this week.

The hot sun and cold nights last week were hard on the fall wheat. A nice warm rain is badly needed.

Much of the wheat, especially on banks or knowls, is not looking well.

The alfalfa is looking patchy, it being winter killed in spots.

BONAR LAW NEWS

BONAR LAW, May 21.—Mr. and Mrs. John Meikeljohn and daughter Emma of Campbellford visited at Mr. John S. McKeown's home on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Haslett motored to Trenton on Sunday.

Miss Vera McIvory of Nicholls Hospital, Peterboro, is recovering from her operation and expects to return home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meikeljohn and Miss Emma Meikeljohn of Campbellford had tea at William Barlow's home on Friday evening.

Clarence McKeown and Miss Lillian McKeown attended the minstrel show at Marmora on Friday night.

Clarence McKeown has returned to Campbellford after spending a two weeks' vacation at his home on the 12th Concession.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Casement were guests of Andrew Thompson on Sunday.

Mr. W. S. Stiles and Miss Grace Stiles were in Belleville on Saturday.

Mrs. Isaac McIvory has returned home after spending a few weeks in Peterboro with her daughter, who is recovering from her recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Reid visited at Arthur Burkitt's on Sunday.

A large number from this district attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Nelson Sexsmith at Trenton on Sunday.

Miss Maud Thompson of Marmora spent the week-end at Bonar Law.

Mrs. Anna Thompson has returned home after spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Cummings, at Toronto.

Miss Lena Morrow spent the week-end with friends at Frankford.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haslett, on May 4, a son.

Mr. Fred McKeown and family spent Sunday at John Reid's, Marmora.

KING'S WHARF NEWS.

KING'S WHARF, May 21.—The weather for the last few days is all that could be desired and the farmers have taken advantage of it and are busy working on the land.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Patrick Fitzpatrick who was among the pupils who graduated from St. Mary's Redemptorist College in Brockville, Wednesday, and who is spending his holidays at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guiry and family spent Thursday the guests of the former's mother, in Lindsay.

Mr. Tate from Omemee has started through here and carries all kinds of fresh and cured meats which will be appreciated by the farmers.

Mr. Senon Perdue of Peterboro spent a few hours Tuesday the guest of his son, Mr. Patrick Perdue and family.

Mr. Angus Twomey has purchased a new car.

Mr. and Mrs. William Perdue of Peterboro spent Sunday the guests of friends here.

Mrs. Richard Murtha and family have moved to Lindsay where they intend to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Herlihey were business visitors to Lindsay, Friday.

Drs. Garnet and Grace Perdue of Detroit, Mich., spent the week end the guests of the former's brothers here.

Mr. Hubert Flood of Ennismore was a Sunday visitor in this locality.

EUCHRE PARTIES ARE CONCLUDED

Ladies of Campbellford Church Hold Last of Series.

MISSION CIRCLE

CAMPBELLFORD, May 21.—The Willing Workers of Christ Church held a successful entertainment in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. The time was spent on progressive euchre, Mrs. J. E. Birke and Mrs. James P. Archer taking the ladies' prizes and Harry Free and John Storie being the lucky winners of the gent's prizes. After the game was ended the ladies served lunch.

This brings to a close a series of euchres given by these ladies for the season and which have all proved a decided success.

The young ladies of St. Andrew's Mission Circle held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the Sunday school rooms. After the usual form of service, a good programme was given. Mrs. John Storie and Miss Minnie Stephens, who were sent as delegates to the Provincial convention held recently at Toronto, gave excellent reports of the meetings which were enjoyed by all present. Miss Lillian Hay contributed a solo. The young ladies decided that at their next meeting they would pack a bale with suitable gifts for boys and girls for Christmas, the gifts to be sent to the Presbytery for distribution.

Mrs. William Maddocks and baby daughter Jean, of Toronto, are spending a week or two visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sidney Bidgood, of town.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander spent the week end with friends in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones spent last week in Brantford.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapman, Mrs. A. Chapman and Roy Chapman of Colborne spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Joyce.

BURGLARS VISIT STORE IN MADOC

Chased by Manager Before Securing Any Booty.

MINE RE-OPENED

MADOC, May 21.—Burglars attempted a robbery in the Mackintosh store on Tuesday night, but were discovered before they had time to gather their loot. About twelve o'clock Clayton Rook, manager of the store, was walking along the streets when he noticed that the lights in the store were out. He immediately went to investigate and on attempting to turn on the lights at the switch just inside the door, found that the button had been removed. Hearing a noise at the back of the store, as he thought, he attempted to reach the next switch a little more than half-way down the store, but before he could get to it, he was knocked to the floor with a heavy blow. As soon as he had recovered sufficiently to get to his feet again, Mr. Rook pursued the intruders but they had made their get-away through the back door, in the time gained. No money had been left in the till by Mr. Rook, and no goods were taken as far as known. Mr. Rook sustained two two cracked ribs from the conflict.

Work has been resumed at the zinc mine discovered by Mr. Cowain of Peterboro, to the extent of shot-drilling to determine the formation of the earth and the depth and width of the veins. The company has been re-organized, a step necessitated by the death of two of the directors.

DOURO PERSONALS.

DOURO, May 21.—Mr. Charles Towns has installed a telephone, his number being 2 r 4-1. Messrs. John L. O'Brien and Michael Sheehan have also installed phones, the former's number being 8 r 4-1 and the latter's 8 r 3-1.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerwood Taylor of Port Hope, who were married recently in Toronto are visiting Miss Ellen Forsythe.

Miss Clara Young of Young's Point spent the week end with her aunt, Mrs. Ellen Buckley.

Miss Clara Murphy of Ennismore who was supplying for Miss Lillian Condon in S.S. No. 4 during the illness of the latter's mother, has returned to her home and Miss Condon is again in charge.

Mr. H. Tighe and Miss Long of Norwood were Sunday visitors with Miss Ellen Forsythe.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. O'Brien is quite ill with bronchitis.

Mrs. John Brown, an aged resident of the township, passed away on Tuesday morning.

Miss Nellie Sheehan of Peterboro is visiting at her home in the township, recuperating after her recent operation.

Mr. John Garvey is driving a truck for Mr. Douglas, the Maple Leaf cheesemaker. Mr. Garvey collects milk and delivers whey.

Mr. T. McCarthy is assisting Mr. Douglas of the Maple Leaf factory.

Mr. R. Staples has commenced cutting shingles.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clancy and children of Hastings were Sunday visitors with Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick English and children of Asphodel were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carlow.

VOICE CONTROLS CURRENT.

An engineer of Nottingham, England, claims to have perfected an invention for controlling electric current by means of the human voice. The sound waves of the voice, says Popular Science Monthly, are transformed in such a way that they will control any electric circuit.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'E CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Evening Examiner "IDEAL Fashions" by Jean Belle Hamilton

Flaring Hemline Still The Favored Silhouette of Paris

If you would be distinctive, in this season of beautiful and varied colors, then don a black-and-white frock like the one above. The rich combination of black satin with white crêpe de chine makes this model most appropriate for formal afternoon wear. It features the flaring hemline, which is still the favored silhouette of the Paris couturie, the flare being introduced at the sides only, leaving a long unbroken line front and back. The upper part is somewhat molded to the figure, and has a white crêpe scarf-collar and rever facings; also long set-in sleeves that are loose at the wrists in the new way. No. 1201 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 5 yards 40-inch black satin, and ¾ yard white crêpe de chine. Price 20 cents.

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the newest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

BLEEDING GUMS.

From their color—which, in health varies from a light pink to a dark pink, you would know at once that the gum tissues are richly supplied with blood.

Nature has planned it so purposely, thus giving the oral tissues high regenerative powers, subject as it is daily to minor injuries and scrapings during the mastication of food.

Normally, gum tissue is firm and resistant, and will tolerate much abuse, without bleeding. But should there be an undue tendency of the gums to bleed, straightway this should be taken as a warning sign that something is wrong, and the family dentist consulted forthwith.

What then, may be amiss?

Obviously these tissues are not in health, this being further manifested by a change in color from pink to red, or to a purplish tinge, evidencing venous congestion.

Furthermore, the gingivae may be swollen, or again, slightly shrunken at their crests, though in the early stages of gingival disease, visible manifestations other than the tendency to bleed readily may not be present.

Perhaps the first intimation you have had of this condition was when one day, performing your mouth toilet, you noticed blood welling up freely around the necks of one or more teeth. So you sensed, and rightly, that the source of this hemorrhage was in the 'pockets' underlying the free gum margin.

But why here?

The gum and gingival tissues are protected by a comparatively thick epithelial covering but which becomes progressively thinner as it lines the side of the pocket, until at its deepest point, this covering is extremely light, or may be missing altogether.

Here, then, is the most vulnerable point of attack on the part of the disease bearing organisms, which, gaining access to the tissues, through some cause, set up a milk degenerative process, with a consequent breaking down of the cell structures and exposure and weakening of the blood vessel walls.

So that with this condition present, even a mild stress on those weakened areas is sufficient to cause a hemorrhage.

There always is a reason for bleeding gums!

The Woman's Day

Written by a Woman for Women.

Touching brightly on woman's every major interest in life from books and babies to politics and psycho analysis.

(By Allene Sumner)

Me First!

The husband loves his mother. And his aunt. He would love his wife, if she would let him. But she demands all or nothing. She is infuriated by his love for these others. "Am I your wife or am I not?" she shrieks, when he does something for the other two. Implying that a woman cannot be loved and cherished as a wife if a husband respects and loves other women who have claims upon him, too. All this in the Pulitzer prize-winning play of the year, "Craig's Wife." And not an especially extreme case! This jealousy between wives and mothers, mothers and wives, has made many a married man's life a curse to him!

Cinderella's Clothes!

"I want Peaches to wear a new outfit at every appearance," says Edward Browning, millionaire bridegroom to 15-year-old Peaches, his Cinderella girl bride. The white-haired bridegroom explains that when Peaches has a new dress he wants her hat and coat and slippers and hose to match it perfectly!

The Right Idea!

Which proves that in the midst of rapturous honeymooning with his goldilocks, "Daddy" must get some time to read the fashion magazines which insist almost as never before that complete outfits harmonizing or matching must be worn. A beige and brown invisible check topcoat, for instance, worn with a beige print dress, a large beige hat with brown velvet band, beige hose and slippers.

New Jobs for Girls.

Musical maidens who aspire to 'do something' with their voices might get jobs singing in hospital wards. Science now hails the curative powers of song and it is said that doctors are engaging sweet-voiced damsels to carol for them before certain patients.

For the special benefit of those who complain about the high cost of a can of beans on a dining car, the railroads reveal these figures. A dining car alone costs $50,000, they explain. Laundry averages four cents a person, crew, forty cents, fuel and ice, five cents, and 25 cents for miscellany before the food cost itself is considered at all.

Cook This at Home!

That's why Id on't advise you to order mock duck on the diner. But try it on your own kitchen. Pound a half-inch round steak. Spread over it a dressing made from melted lump of butter, egg size, teaspoon grated onion, pinch of sage and pint of bread crumbs moistened with 1 egg stirred into frying pan when butter is hot. Roll up and fasten steak with stitches. Stick with strips of fat bacon, dredge with pepper, salt and flour. Put in dripping pan with little water and baste often. Bake in moderate oven an hour and serve with the gravy.

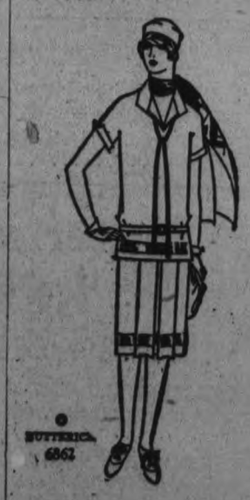
Trial Marriage Test.

"Our trial marriage lasted 10 years. Our legal marriage but two." So explains the divorced wife of Franz Molnar, playwright. A sad commentary on human nature, this—that it can only endure the clandestine, the unrestricted, and is so childish that it cannot find freedom even in "bondage."

Ellen Key Dead!

Hardly a whisper of it in the press, but Ellen Key, feminist, who has probably done more to unfetter woman of the 19th and 20th century than any other human being, died at her county home in Sweden a few days ago, aged 76. Read her "Woman and Labor." Reflect when it was written and see if you do not believe her a daring, free-thinking person!

The Two-Piece Frock Cuts Its Sleeves to the Shoulder



BUTTERICK 6862

For Summer and the country, most women prefer the short sleeve. It is cooler, more comfortable, and lengthens the time between trips to the laundry, especially in cotton materials that wrinkle at the bend of the arm while the rest of the frock keeps perfectly fresh. This type of two-piece frock is particularly nice for tub materials, for the edges of the blouse and skirt are straight. For morning, ginghams, cotton prints and printed sateens are attractive. Eyelet embroidery for the blouse with the box-plaited skirt of shantung or crêpe de Chine is new and puts the frock in a different class. Shantung with long sleeves makes a smart dress about town.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

W.M.S. PRESIDENT

Mrs. D. T. L. McKerroll, prominent Toronto church worker and for many years connected with the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, was has left for Saskatoon for the annual meeting of the society, over which she is now President.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL of TODAY

DOES SHE LOVE HIM?

When I got to my room I could not sleep. I said to myself: "This is worse than walking home and climbing the stairs of my father's house deathly afraid that he will hear me."

Every nerve in my body was tingling along its frazzled edge. I looked at the cheap little clock that was ticking away and found that it was after two. I knew that I would have to be up and doing in the morning, for I was due at my new job at the department store.

Resolutely I closed my eyes only to have them spring open, and I was wide awake. I kept this up until my eyelids smarted and I was thoroughly disgusted with myself. Most of the time I was wondering if I was a great fool not to accept Jerry Hathaway's proposal.

I liked Jerry very much. In fact I liked him better than any other man I had ever met. I knew if I would only say yes, he would marry me immediately and from then on I would be taken care of. Everything would be comfortable—and deadly monotonous.

I would have no more trouble. I would not have to plan how I should earn money enough for my daily bread. All I would have to do would be to make Jerry happy.

I have a memory that is very inconvenient and at this minute I happened to think of what I had heard a woman say at my mother's club. This woman had written much on love and marriage and this day she said: "It takes a very clever woman to make marriage successful. There was a time when a woman only had to keep her house in good order, cook her husband's food to his liking, and raise her children in the fear of God. And she would probably have on the stone at the head of her grave: 'Beloved wife of James Smith,' or some other name like that. Now we don't live in houses. And most of the married women I know patronize restaurants and delicatessen stores. None of them have any children and no one but a chef could cook a dinner to suit the men I have met since I have been in this town.

"Times have changed greatly and life has grown so complicated that marriage has become a business interlude and not a romance.

"If a girl would make a success as a wife she must study her husband first of all. If he wants to Charleston, she must twist up her legs in that barbaric dance. If he wants to play bridge, she must hire a teacher and learn it or die. And unless she wants to be a golf widow she must follow him around the eighteen holes, and perhaps be discreetly not there when he reaches the nineteenth and his pocket flask."

TOMORROW: Ghosts of Kisses.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, MAY 22.

Conflicting testimonies rule the astrological chart for this day. While there are propitious signs for those who aspire to important places in the public service, yet there are omens of difficulties in new ventures, in commercial pursuits and all manners of publications. All contracts and writings should be signed with caution and it might be wise to defer important changes or journeys.

Those whose birthday it is are promised an opportunity for preferment, promotion or public honors, especially if in the employment of others. Others should sign all papers or documents with care and defer new ventures and important change or travel. Commercial transactions may be perplexing. A child born on this day should make its best success in the employment of others or in connection with public enterprises.

REMEMBER THIS.

Bread, cake, crackers and wafers will retain their crispness and freshness if you keep them in tin receptacles.

The Store That Cannot Be Undersold

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

AUDREY MORTON suspects NONA, a Toronto stage girl, of trying to vamp JOHN PARRISH. Audrey is the adopted daughter of HARRY MORTON (a rich, unmarried, middle-aged man, much pursued by women). Audrey herself loves Morton. So does ona. Parrish loves Audrey. The latter has been rude to the young man, until Nona intervenes. As this chapter opens, Parrish has just come to dinner in the Morton apartment in Toronto.

Morton and Audrey live in Peterborough, where Morton has been more or less a mystery for 15 years, but he also maintains this costly duplex apartment in Toronto.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXXII.

Audrey's hand was outstretched as she crossed to where Parrish was standing.

"Oh, Mr. Parrish," she said, sweetly, "I've been waiting for you!"

He looked astonished. "I said I'd be here at seven," he said. "It isn't quite seven yet."

"I didn't mean that," she told him. "It just occurred to me that instead of eating dinner here, it would be nice if you and I went out some place to eat, so we could dance a little."

"But aren't you tired?" he protested. "The last I saw of you this afternoon, you looked as if you were going to wilt."

She dimpled again at him. It was the first time that she ever had treated him with such cordiality, and his face was beaming.

"But I'm all rested now," she said, "and I've been home so much in the evenings that I'd like to go some place."

Morton listened to this colloquy in quiet amusement. "My dear," he said, "you'll be losing a good cook for me. Half the evenings you are too tired to eat dinner, and now, when dinner for three is almost ready to serve, there'll be only one here to eat it."

She smoothed his coat sleeve. "Be a good daddy and don't scold," she urged. "I haven't had any fun for a long time, and Mr. Parrish tells me that he can dance now, beautifully."

Her maid appeared with a light cape, and Audrey led Parrish out the door. His face was roseate with pleasure, and he forgot to bid Morton goodnight. His guitar remained beside the door.

The older man stood thinking, for a time, and then slowly turned his back and moved to the center of the room. He stood beside the long table, knocking on it thoughtfully with his knuckles. At last he turned to the telephone, and called Nona's apartment. Her voice answered him.

"Didn't think I'd catch you in," he told her. "But the young people have left me alone tonight, with a dinner on my hands, and nobody to eat it. Can you come over and be my guest?"

"But I have a date," she told him. "I was just ready to go out."

"Too bad," he said. "Run along then, and have a good time. I'll try somebody else."

"No—no—no!" the girl cried. "I'll bet you'll call up Lois, or Camillia, or one of those girls. I'll come!"

"But what about that appointment of yours?"

"I should worry about the old appointment!" she said. "I'll break it. Be over right away."

She came, half an hour later, in a new gown, low cut and close fitting. It was black, with a little flash of silver tissue where the waist folded across her bosom.

"You are lovely, Nona," said Morton, holding her hands. "Who bought it for you?"

She was not disturbed at his question. "Bought it myself," she told him.

His eye passed over the expensive garment. "Didn't know you had come into an inheritance," he commented.

"Inheritance nothing!" she laughed. "I haven't done a lick of work in two months, and haven't had a cent of salary. I was just about on my uppers, and I needed some new clothes. So I went and sold that diamond and platinium bar pin you gave me."

He gave an exclamation of concern.

Her hands still were in his. "You don't mind if I sold your present?" she asked him.

"Why didn't you tell me you needed money?" he said. "I didn't want you to sell your jewels—and it was my fault, anyway. I made you leave your place with the show, to rehearse with Audrey, and never did a thing to make it up to you."

She lifted one of his hands, and kissed it. "I'd starve any time, for you," she said, gaily, "but I CAN'T do without new clothes!"

She dropped her voice as she continued: "You know, Harry dear, I haven't been around with any other men, for more than six months—since I got to know you well."

He drew her hands together, patted them, and dropped them.

"How about that dinner engagement of yours this evening?" he asked her.

"Oh, I have to eat, sometimes," she told him. "But I mean I haven't been out on any parties. Really I haven't!"

Morton rang for Audrey's maid, and Nona followed the girl up to the pretty dressing room at the head of the stairs. She reappeared in a few minutes, and Morton led her out to dinner.

"Some cocktails," Morton told the butler, as they sat down, "and let's have some of that wine that just came in. Has it been chilled?"

The butler bowed.

"We'll have a little port, pretty soon, too."

The man bowed again, and went after the cocktails.

"This is a beautiful room," Nona said, looking at the heavy tapestry that draped the walls. "Harry, I never realized until lately that you were such a rich man."

Morton did not follow her conversational lead. Instead, placing his hand over hers as it lay upon the cloth, he asked her: "Have you been vamping young Parrish?"

She threw back her head and laughed merrily. "You knew I was going to!" she accused.

"I rather suspected it," he said. "Do you know the reason Audrey went out with him this evening? It's because she thinks you're a dangerous influence upon the young man."

The butler appeared with the cocktails, and the conversation ceased as they sipped at the cold, pearly liquid. The butler withdrew.

"He keeps these cocktails on ice," Morton explained. "Makes them up one day, for use the next. That gives them a chance to ripen."

The girl nodded approvingly. "It's the nicest I ever tasted," she agreed.

Returning to the subject of Audrey and Parrish, she went on: "There was just one way to interest that girl in Parrish, and that was to make her think some other girl was interested in him, too. And look how its worked! She takes him out to dance with her, when she's so tired, and her feet hurt so, that she can hardly stand!"

Morton smiled. "She dropped in a chair when she came home, as if she had been shot," he said. "When they went out together, she was tripping along as if she had just awakened in the morning."

"He's hers," Nona said, "so of course she'll fight to keep him—even if she doesn't really want him. She just wants to keep some other woman from getting him."

The butler brought in the hors d'oeuvres.

After they were served, he brought a bottle of wine in a napkin, and held it for Morton's inspection. The latter nodded. When the cork was drawn, the servant filled the hollow stemmed glasses that stood at the two plates.

"I like this," Nona said, tasting the wine.

"I think it's good," agreed Morton.

"No, I don't mean that," said the girl. "I mean living like this—living as if you WERE somebody, and being waited on by people that you hire, instead of eating around at restaurants, or munching a loaf of bread up in your room because you have no invitation to dine."

"You mean you don't eat unless somebody invites you out?" Morton asked.

"Not exactly," Nona said, dipping into the hors d'oeuvres with her fork. "but there are lots of days when we have no money—girls like me." She laughed. "There's an old fellow around town, about seventy, that is a sort of standby to us—to lots of us. He isn't very clean, and he's uncommonly ugly, but he has lots of money. So every night, a lots of girls who are hungry, and haven't any other invitations, wish themselves on him. He'll eat dinner with as high as ten of them at a time, some nights."

She laughed again, but Morton did not join her.

"I don't like that," he said, slowly. "It's a shame that a girl like you should have to sponge off a greasy old pirate. I've seen him, with a lot of little girls around him, smirking at them, while they eat his dinner."

"Oh," said Nona, "he's not dangerous. I think he's just lonesome."

"Like most of us," Morton commented.

There was a pause, while the next course was served. When they were alone again, Morton said: "Nona, I want you to have that pin back again. I really wanted you to have it."

"There was something funny about that pin," Nona said. "Why did you buy it for me, Harry?"

He thoughtfully considered his spoon, as he held it poised half way to his lips. "I'll tell you frankly, Nona," he said, putting down the spoon.

"Audrey thought she was in love with me. I suppose she WAS in love with me. She is a young thing, just at the age when girls and boys are ready to find their mates. I was the only man at hand, and she fell in love with me. That wouldn't do. I simply couldn't permit it. And so I hired Parrish, and threw her into his company, and I let her see me with you, and with some other girls, in the hope that she might become disgusted with me—at least as a matrimonial prospect. I bought the pin partly so you could show it to her."

His voice dropped, and he touched the table softly. "I don't know just how it's going to work. She went wild, and said she was going on the stage, to learn how other girls attract men. That is, how they managed to attract me. I never have forbidden her to do anything, and I didn't forbid her to do that. But Nona, I'm worried."

Nona laid her hand on his arm. "Harry," she said, earnestly, "if I had a child as pretty as that, I swear I'd keep her walled up in a convent, or in my own house, until she marched out on the arm of her bride-groom. Harry, I tell you it's dangerous."

"But I've tried to look out for her," he argued.

"I know," she said. "But I know this, too—she's already picked up some stuff around with the girls that I wish she didn't know," she paused; and then with a bitter note in her voice, went on. "I went on the stage when I was only sixteen, and I know what happened to me!"

They continued to eat, in silence for a time. When they resumed their conversation, it was on other topics. They were finishing the last of their after-dinner coffee, when there came a ring at the hall bell. The butler ran to the door and opened it. Audrey flounced in.

"Why are you mixing in my affairs with Mr. Parrish?" she cried, as she caught sight of Nona. "And what are you doing here?"

(To be continued.)

DISCONTENT IN POLISH CITIES

Regime of Pilsudski Is Unpopular—Opponents Confer.

NO COUNTER REVOLT.

POSEN, May 21. — (Canadian Press). — The smoldering fires of discontent with Marshal Pilsudski's regime are assuming international importance. While leaders of the Right parties pour into Posen for conferences, it is learned that secret agents are being despatched to Paris to confer with the French Government.

The military garrison is being strengthened, although officials in this conservative stronghold deny that a counter-revolution is being planned. Patriotic societies and veterans' and students' organizations are feverishly preparing for any emergency.

DAMASCUS BOMBED 500 REPORTED DEAD

300 Houses Destroyed By French—News Censored.

LONDON, May 21.—The London Daily Express published a despatch from a Damascus correspondent, who quoted "semi-official" sources in saying that 500 civilians and 100 rebels were killed and 300 houses destroyed in a French bombardment of the city on May 7. The Daily Express despatch was dated May 9, which was taken as indicating that it may have been mailed to avoid censorship.

The Paris offices of the United Press reported that a similar story, published on May 7 and May 8, was officially denied by the French Foreign Office.

Children Killed.

The report, as published in the Daily Express, said that "women and children were among those killed in the bombardment," and added that "the French casualties were approximately 20 killed and 30 wounded."

The despatch said trouble began on the night of May 6, when rebel Druse tribesmen attacked a French army post at Bob-Mousalla and killed eight soldiers. It said 200 rebels then took refuge in the Midanor section of the city. On May 7, the despatch continued, 3,000 French troops surrounded the quarters and demanded that citizens of the quarters surrender the rebels, under penalty of bombardment, giving the citizens 30 minutes in which to do so or leave the quarter.

Artillery Used.

The despatch added that the citizens said they could not force the rebels to surrender.

"Twelve three-inch field guns, four 4.8-inch howitzers and 12 airplanes were used in the bombardment," the despatch continued. "'Shelling began at noon and continued unceasingly for 15 hours. Fires immediately broke out in various places."

VIM, PEP, ENERGY.

The successful and happy person radiates good health, has vim, pep and energy, clear flashing eyes, lightness of step and cheerfulness of manner. You cannot however, be this fortunate if you are troubled with indigestion, stomach disorders, constipation, rundown condition or any derangement of the digestive or intestinal tract. The liver, kidneys and bowels must be in good condition to avoid contamination of the blood stream. Nature however, has provided the means for correcting such conditions and restoring the system to health. The means is the new product, MILLER'S HERB JUICE. It is composed of the juices of roots, herbs and barks blended in such a manner so as to be pleasant to take and giving prompt and permanent results. Thousands of sufferers have voluntarily submitted signed statements of gratitude and appreciation. Frank Bawden, prominent Windsor, Ont. business man stated: "Although for years I had tried many remedies I could not secure relief from indigestion and constipation. I could not sleep with the terrific gas pain. MILLER'S HERB JUICE is the product that made all my troubles disappear. I now attend to business full of vim, pep and energy."

EVIDENCE DIFFERS IN SEVERAL POINTS

J. E. Bisaillon's Statements Are Denied By Former Partner.

OTTAWA, May 21.—(Canadian Press.)—The evidence given by J. E. A. Bisaillon, former chief preventive officer at Montreal, and that given yesterday by Ludger Brien, once his partner, before the Customs Inquiry committee, failed to coincide in several particulars. Toward the close of the sitting, C. W. Bell, M.P., one of the committee, confronted Mr. Brien with statements made by Bisaillon in letters to the Customs Department.

"Brien is a bootlegger and deals in smuggled goods," wrote Mr. Bisaillon to the Department. Again: "Brien has been a very active smuggler in alcohol and automobiles."

Mr. Bell asked if these statements were true. "No, they are false," the witness declared.

FIRE VICTIMS IMPROVE

Twelve Out of Danger in Quebec Town.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 21. — Canadian Press. — The condition of Moise Bissette, one of the employees of the Colonial Piano Company, Limited, who was seriously injured when fire destroyed the plant at Ste. Therese (about 19 miles from the city) on Wednesday, is still critical though are now held out for his recoevry. The other victims are reported to be out of danger.

SCHOOL CADETS TO BE INSPECTED

Col. S. H. Hill Will Review Public School Boys.

ON JUNE 4TH

Arrangements are well under way for the annual inspection of the Peterboro Public School Cadet Battalion, which will be held before Colonel S. H. Hill, Director of Cadet Services, Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, in Central Park, on Friday, June 4th. The details are in charge of Q.M.S.I. Thomas of Headquarters Staff, who expects the boys to again carry off, as last year, the honor of first place in the district. The six companies of the Battalion are working hard under their own individual Instructors and Officers with a view to carrying off the Denne Cup, now held by Queen Alexandra school for the best company in drill and physical training.

Medals will also be presented to the winners of same in the Laura Secord Rifle Match.

In addition to the Board of Education and Home and School Associations it is hoped that all parents and friends will turn out and cheer the boys along in their excellent and very beneficial cadet work.

Further details of the various companies, programme of ceremonial and competition, etc., will be published later.

TRACKMAN KILLED.

Robert Galt, 52, Struck By Train While at Work.

BURLINGTON, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Struck by a train while working on the C.N.R. tracks about two and a half miles east of here, Robert Galt, aged 52 years, of Oakville, was instantly killed yesterday.

BUDGET CLAUSES PASS THE HOUSE IN COMMITTEE

Discussion on Increased Duty on Bananas and Fresh Meat.

TREATY ITEMS.

Automobile Duty Clauses Are Left Over To Give More Time.

OTTAWA, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Budget proposals increasing the Canadian customs duty on fresh meats and bananas coming from the United States passed the House of Commons in the committee stage last night. To give effect to the Canadian-Australian treaty, general tariff rate on meats was increased from three to three and a half cents a pound. To give effect to the Canada-West Indies treaty, a duty of 50 cents a bunch on bananas imported through any but Canadian seaports also is imposed.

There was a protest from western members against the banana duty on the ground that New Orleans was the logical shipping point for that part of Canada and from the Ontario members, that Balitmore, Philadelphia, or New York was the distributing point for Ontario. The Minister of Finance replied that concessions must be made to the Indies in return for a lower tariff and increased markets for Canadian products, and the item eventually passed without amendment.

On the meat tariff the Opposition, however, wanted a still higher general tariff, and an amendment was moved asking for a general tariff of five cents. This was ruled out of order and the original item carried.

Considerable progress was made during the evening on Budget resolutions. All the items affecting Sugars carried without amendment. The items affecting the duties on automobiles were stood over, because of the extended discussion which is expected on the Budget.

MANY SUMMONED BY COAL COMMITTEE

Premiers of Four Provinces Asked To Appear at Inquiry.

OTTAWA, May 21 (Canadian Press).—The Premiers of the Provinces of Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and Alberta will be invited to appear before the Special Committee of the House of Commons investigating Canada's supply of coal. Representatives of transportation companies which freight coal by water, Provincial fuel comptrollers, Mayor J. F. Foster of Toronto, and William Buchanan, coal merchant, London, will also be asked to attend.

A decision to this effect was made at this morning's meeting of the special committee appointed by the House to conduct this investigation.

YEAR IN PRISON.

Deputy Returning Officer at Peace River.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 21.—(Canadian Press.) — Ray Winter, who acted as deputy returning officer for the McLeod River poll in the Peace River Federal election, was yesterday sentenced to one year's imprisonment with hard labor in the Saskatchewan jail. Winter was found guilty on two charges of initialling papers purporting to be ballot papers, and of putting unauthorized ballot papers in the boxes. The sentences are to run concurrently, along with a further sentence of six months' imprisonment which was imposed on Winter previously by Magistrate Williams for inciting non-British subjects to vote.

Half Supported Himself He Cannot Support Wife

BOSTON, Mass., May 21. — (United Press). — When police arrested Jerry Barry, 78, here, on Thursday on a non-support warrant, he pointed to his wooden leg and protested:

"How do you expect me to support a wife when I'm only half supporting myself." He will be in court Friday.

FEARS REBUKE HANGS HIMSELF

Ten Year Old Boy Found Dead in Barn By His Brother.

FOLLOWS FIGHT.

CALGARY, Alta., May 21 (Canadian Press)—"You'll be sorry if you tell," warned ten-year-old Johnny Cochrane, of Fenn, Alberta, when his small brother said he would complain at home about a fight the two had in the barn. His brother did not heed him, but went into the house, and when he came out half an hour later Johnny was hanging by the neck from a rafter. The high strung and nervous boy apparently could not face the prospect of a rebuke from his family and ended his life. The boy was heard screaming loudly for about five minutes by the attendant at a grain elevator about a block away, but the man thought that perhaps he was being punished at home, and therefore paid no more attention to it.

The programme commences on Saturday at 5.00 p.m. with a reception at the corner of Charlotte and Park Streets, and at 7 there will be a massed open air concert in Central Park, followed by a public reception in the Temple. On Sunday there will be open air meetings at 10, 2 and 6.15, and at 10.45, 3 and 7 services in the Temple Judge E. C. S. Huycke will be the chairman at the musical festival in the afternoon. On Monday morning at 10 the band will play at Nicholls and St. Joseph's Hospitals; at 2 there will be a picnic at Jackson Park, and at 7.30 a grand musical with Professor R. Gliddon as the chairman. Colonel and Mrs. R. Hargrave will accompany the band.

SMALL BUSH FIRES ARE UNDER CONTROL

Forest Rangers Near Sault Ste. Marie Have Been Busy.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 21 (Canadian Press).—During the past few days quite a few small bush fires have occupied the attention of Forestry Department rangers but to-day those which have not been extinguished are all under control.

One of the fires occurred at the power line construction works at Mile 157, A.C.R., and another at Grace Mine. A fire east of Michipicoten Mission was also attended to and there was one at Echo Lake. Other fires reported were in the Iron River settlement at Cobden, one in the Indian Reserve and one in Day Township.

LIQUOR VENTURE NOT SUCCESSFUL

Witness Tells Customs Probe Committee About Istar's Voyage.

VESSEL IS LOST.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21.—(Canadian Press.) —The voyage of the good ship Istar, loaded with 20,000 cases of Scotch whisky designed for consumption in the United States, was the subject of discussion before the Customs Inquiry committee this morning. Ludger Brien, who has already been examined as to his part in the famous barge Tremblay case, was not particularly anxious to tell the committee about the Istar. In passing, however, he mentioned that he had not engaged in the liquor business in Canada since the Quebec Liquor Commission came into being. Hon. H. H. Stevens, noting the qualification, asked him if he had engaged in that business in the United States. In reply, the witness admitted that he had been one of a syndicate which chartered the vessel to carry a cargo of liquor from the British Isles. The cargo was shipped alright, but it never reached its destination. Apparently there was difficulty when it reached this side of the Atlantic. It was never delivered and the syndicate, Brien said, lost a large sum of money which had been paid as a deposit to the British manufacturers. He could not tell the committee whether the Istar returned to England with her cargo or if she is still roaming the seas attempting to land a few of the 20,000 cases along the United States' coast.

JUSTICE ORDERS MAN RELEASED

Says He Should Be Compensated—Six Months For Drunkenness.

SERVED TWO MONTHS.

TORONTO, May 21. Canadian Press. — Mr. Justice Middleton today ordered Patrick Lawlor of Hamilton, discharged from the Ontario Reformatory, declaring that Lawlor should be compensated for loss and suffering. He has served two months of a six months sentence for drunkenness. Lawlor's counsel made the suggestion that Magistrate George Jelfs of Hamilton, who sentenced Lawlor, should pay the costs.

May Wheat Fluctuates End Of Month Draws Near

CHICAGO, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Rapid fluctuations in the price of the May delivery of wheat signalized today approaches of the end of the season of settlement of accounts. Offerings of May were of sufficient volume to break prices 4c temporaryily. Wheat shipments from Omaha to Chicago were announced and rains both in the States and the Canadian Northwest tended further to weaken values, derpite export business estimated at 800,000 bushels, largely Canadian.

Wheat closed irregular, 1 3-4c net lower to 3-8c advance, corn 3-4c to 1c off, oats unchanged to 1-4c higher, and provisions unchanged to 10c down.

Better Business Outlook Causes Upward Movement

NEW YORK, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Responding to encouraging statements on the outlook for business by steel executives attending the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute here, stock prices turned briskly upward to-day on buying spread over a broad list. Sharp rallies also took place in French and Belgian currency.

Rails made a good response to the publication of an excellent April earnings statement.

Oils also took on a new lease of life on the announcement of another increase in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Specialties, which have been heavily offered of late by bear traders, rallied briskly on the cessation of selling pressure.

Many Stocks Share Gain; Brazilian Is Toronto Leader

TORONTO, May 21. Canadian Press. — All classes of stocks benefitted from the general upturn on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, with Brazilian the dominant leader in activity. Brazilian reached a high of 95 3-8, closing the morning at 95¼ for gain of 5-8 of a point. Smelters was sold four points higher at 198. Canada Steamships preferred strengthened 1 3-8 at 73 and Massey-Harris common also was 1 3-8 higher at 50 1-8. Arnold common strengthened a point at 23 and Canada Bread and British Columbia Fishing both were slightly higher. Mines were quiet but in the unlisted section International Petroleum improved 3-8 at 32¼ and Imperial Oil 1-4 at 36.

Many Small Losses To-day On Standard Mine Market

TORONTO, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Depression continued the chief characteristic of the market on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. The losses, however, were not large, and a great many stocks were unchanged in price. Noranda Mines eased 20 cents at 15.15, and Indian 1¼ at 7 3-4. Barry Hollinger was sold down 2¼ at 40½, and Canadian Lorraine 1 at 84. Dome firmed five at 13.15. Other changes were negligible.

ENGINEER DIES AFTER ACCIDENT FROM INJURIES

C.N.R. Passenger Train Hits Bags of Cement at Crossing.

TWO OTHERS HURT.

Train Derailed and Cars Upset—Bags Fell From Truck.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Engineer Thos. Robinson, this city, was fatally injured to-day, and two others less seriously hurt, when a C.N.R. passenger train was wrecked at a crossing near Stoney Creek. Fireman Martin of this city and Baggageman W. Lattimore were the less seriously injured.

A private crossing had been made by the Provincial Department of Highways for the passage of materials at that point, and several bags of cement had fallen from a truck on to the track. The engine, tender and parlor car turned completely over, and two other coaches were derailed, but remained upright. No passengers were injured. Engineer Robinson was found crushed against the boiler under a heap of coal, and died after reaching the hospital. Superintendent C. Forrester was on the train, and at once started an investigation. The enginemen were removed on a special train to Hamilton Hospital.

KIWANIANS TOLD OF CONVENTION

John Allen Gives Advice on Best Way To Travel and Advises Attendance.

SPECIAL PROGRAMME.

Kiwanian John Allen was the speaker at the club luncheon to-day at noon. He took for his subject the International convention which is to be held in Montreal the second week in June. Mr. Allen has been over the road many times between here and Montreal and he told the members the best road to take. The members of the local club who are going are to be billeted on the Steamship Richelieu, which will have special lighting, city water, a fine orchestra, and individual telephone lines from the Montreal exchange.

He read a letter from the International President, John H. Moss, stating that all attendance plans had practically been completed. "Life consists largely of hopes followed by realization or disappointment. In the degree that hopes realized outnumbered hopes blasted is happiness promoted." Montreal holds no disappointments except for those who fail to attend. A very carefully planned programme has been drawn up as it is the culminating event of the year. Mr. Allen ended with a plea for as many members to attend as possible and at the end of the luncheon the roll was called and it is expected that there will be thirty-five going from the local club. For those who are unable to go the special programme of all Kiwanian night is expected to be heard by them as they are holding their luncheon at night that week.

A special feature night is being put on at the convention when many scenes of historical interest will be shown, as the habitant in his quaint old ways, the landing of Champlain, of Cartier, the Dollard episode and winter sports around Montreal. The outstanding speaker of the convention will be Rabbi Stevan S. Wise.

A local committee was appointed to make plans for the luncheon on the evening of the 7th, whereby the programme in Montreal may be heard over the long distance telephone by an amplifier, and also to make plans for the Zero hour at 7 p.m., when all Kiwanians all over the continent will be thinking of Kiwanian principles and singing Onward in Kiwanis.

Everett Taylor, the booster for the day, told the members in a very concise way "How to keep Warm without Burning Coal," his recipe was "Go and work."

A committee was named to make arrangements for holding a Kiwanian dance at the Chemong pavilion some time in June. The committee consists of Wilfred Huycke as chairman, Scott, J. Green and L. H. Hamilton.

The committee which is to make arrangements for the All Kiwanis Night consists of Dr. F. Neal, chairman, C. Saunders and J. J. Turner.

QUESTION ELLSWORTH.

Statement About Possibility of Rock Isles Brings Inquiries.

NOME, May 21 (Canadian Press) —Lincoln Ellsworth, second in command of the expedition on which the dirigible Norge visited the North Pole on May 11, said yesterday: "I realize now that I said something when I remarked that we may have seen rocks."

Ellsworth received cablegrams inquiring about this statement, which he made on Sunday to a correspondent of the Associated Press and which follows: "We may have discovered an island or so, but anyway they would not be considered land, but known as rocky pyramids which are usually interferences to navigation."

Ellsworth said that he knew from experience that the surface of the Arctic Ocean was illusive when observed from a height.

REPORTER SAYS LIQUOR IN BATH

Gives Testimony at Trial of Carroll For Perjury.

SOMEONE IN TUB.

NEW YORK, May 21.— (Canadian Press.)—Testimony that Joyce Hawley, a show girl, actually was in the bath tub from which men drank champagne at the party given by Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, was recorded in his trial for perjury to-day. Arthur F. Irwin, reporter for a tabloid newspaper, gave his testimony after introductory testimony yesterday.

Carrol is charged with having denied that liquor was served, when giving his testimony before the grand jury which investigated the "bath tub party" given on the stage of his theatre.

Irwin said he took two drinks of champagne from the tub before Miss Hawley entered it. In his testimony he named several prominent persons among the guests, and at the adjournment of the court for the day had just testified that he saw some one in the tub.

He said on the stand to-day that Carroll himself invited the guests to line up and have Miss Hawley serve them drinks from the tub in which she was sitting.

FRANC CONTINUES UPWARD MOVEMENT

No Decision Reached By Cabinet About Safeguarding Currency.

PARIS, May 21. — (Canadian Press.) — This morning's Cabinet meeting failed to reach a decision regarding further measures to safeguard the franc, owing to a difference of opinion between the Government and the Bank of France on the Government's proposal to use part of the gold reserve.

The franc continued its upward course during the forenoon. It opened at 33.25 to the dollar and 161.75 to the pound. Just before noon the quotations were 32.83 to the dollar and 159.75 to the pound.

POLICE FRUSTRATE COMMUNIST MOVE

Prevent Formation of Soviet Republic in Vilna District.

LONDON, May 21 (United Press) — According to the Daily Mail's Warsaw correspondent, Communists have been frustrated in an attempt to create a Soviet Republic in the Vilna district. The Communists hoisted flags bearing the Russian Soviet insignia, the correspondent says. After a heavy police rifle volley the officers made many arrests and dispersed the remainder of the Communists.

LINK IN HIGHWAY

Explore Route to Ontario Boundary.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, May 21. — Co-incident with a representative plea from public spirited bodies in Winnipeg and Western Ontario, for the completion of the Manitoba link of the Trans-Canada Railway eastward to the Ontario boundary, Hon. W. R. Clubb, the Minister of Public Works, yesterday set out with a party to explore the proposed route. It is understood the trip was taken to ascertain the most feasible means of effecting a junction with the road from Kenora, Ont.

Officials of the Public Works Department stated that the government proposed to spend $15,000 on the highway eastward this summer.

"The Destiny of Men and Nations"

WHERE IS THE WORLD HEADING FOR?

WE HEAR this question asked in some form or other on all sides. Nations which were looked on as sound and stable a few years ago are broken in pieces today. Proud and mighty empires have gone down in revolt, and everywhere the spirit of discontent is manifest.

THE PEOPLE are everywhere clamoring for a greater degree of self government than they have enjoyed in the past, and are little inclined to accept with tolerance political expedients to keep them quiet. Politicians, on the other hand, are at their wits' end to know what policy to adopt to satisfy the demands of the people.

THE DESTINY of the world of mankind is fixed and immutable. Jehovah, the Creator of man, has decided beforehand what regulations shall govern His earth and the people; His law must be obeyed.

THIS LECTURE will make clear what that law is.

YANKEES' STRING NINE STRAIGHT; BABE RUTH HIT FIFTEENTH HOMER

Tygers Win Two in Row From the Senators.

ATHLETICS WIN

NEW YORK, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Continuing their home run attack, the New York Americans made it nine straight here today, vanquishing the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4. This ties the recent record of the Philadelphia Athletics for the longest winning streak of the year. Babe Ruth delivered his 15th circuit blow in the fifth inning off Pitcher Gaston and in the same session Pat Collins drove out a homer with one on base.

Ruth's 15th home run of his record year was not made until May 31 in the Yankees' 40th game. To-day's game was but the 32nd of the season for the home club. The score:

St. Louis	011000020—	4	8 3
New York	10004000x—	5	6 3

Gaston and Schang; Thomas and Collins.

Detroit 6, Tigers 5

WASHINGTON, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Detroit made it two straight over Washington today, winning 6 to 5, putting over the needed run in the ninth inning. Washington produced three singles in the final frame, but failed to score. The score:

Detroit	200003001—	6	12 0
Washington	103010000—	5	11 1

Gigson, Wells, Dauss and Bassler; Coveleskie, Marberry, Ferguson and Ruel.

Athletics 10, Cleveland 2

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (Canadian Press).—The Athletics took the second game of the series today with Cleveland, 10 to 2. Cochrane's third homer of the season with one on base in the second inning finished Uhle. Norman Lehr, a rookie, hurled fair ball for the last five innings. The score:

Cleveland	200000000—	2	6 1
Philadelphia	32301001x—	10	11 0

Uhle, Karr, Lehr and Myatt; Harriss and Cochrane.

Chicago 13, Boston 4

BOSTON, May 20 (Canadian Press).—Chicago fell on four Boston pitchers today to defeat the Red Sox, 13 to 4. The White Hose collected eighteen hits, nine of them for extra bases. Score:

Chicago	201540000—	13	18 3
Boston	020001000—	4	9 2

Leverett, Thomas and Crouse, Wingfield, Kiefer, Lundgren, Ruffing and Burchoff.

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

The north pole has been discovered again. This is open season for chiseling your initials in ice-covered totem stick. Fix up a picnic lunch and come right over.

In the old days the chief drawback about discovering refrigerated icicle was in getting there without aid of Houdini, flying carpet, or violent case of delirium tremens.

Now the one thing that makes discovering congealed splinter tough taffy is congestion caused by tourists, coast-to-coast walkers and traveling medicine shows.

Last explorer to arrive in vicinity of frozen flag staff had to park his bucking blimp seven miles outside city limits until local authorities could clear passageway. There were 7542 other explorers ahead of him.

And even when he did sit close enough to discover that ice is ice whether you find it on a football star's back in Wheaton, Ill., or growing will in arctic zones there was nothing to do about it.

Old-timers used to laugh at grown-up popper like Ben Franklin flying a kite and there is no law against modern guffawing at explorers trying to hit an imaginary iceberg at 50 paces with three second-hand flags.

The snow-crusted barber pole of the blizzard belt has been discovered in every language known to human tongue, including the ox-tongue and spinach order that habitually decorates the menu.

Everybody has been there this spring so far except One-Eyed Connolly, the gate crasher who is probably victim of vicious freeze-out game.

The business has developed into a game of tag. Explorers are chasing one another around the pole like white mice trying to beat Paddock's time for the hundred in a revolving wheel.

Today you can spring over to the pole in day and half or you can stay in the flat and have your head examined. It probably needs it.

SOCCER CUP TIE AT CAMPBELLFORD

De Laval Meet Trent Valley Boys in Father Phelan Charity Cup.

When the draw for the Phelan Cup took place a few weeks ago, the representatives of the local clubs were anxious as to the outcome because it meant that a local eleven would battle Campbellford, either at home or away. On the second draw, the Trent Valley team came out first, then followed the De Laval, who travel on Saturday to meet their opponents on their home ground, in the first round of the trophy.

This is the first season that Campbellford has been favoured in the cup ties. In the previous tussels, they had the misfortune to travel every time, but now they have their turn to-morrow.

The donor of this trophy, Rev. Father Phelan, is now a resident of Campbellford, and was a keen enthusiast of the soccer game while in Peterborough.

All the playing members and friends of the De Laval eleven will meet at one o'clock prompt at the Market Square so as to travel by bus to Campbellford.

The marvelous growth in popularity which hockey has enjoyed in Boston the past few seasons is evidenced in the announcement that the arena where the hockey matches are played is to be enlarged to accomo-

DRAWN GAME IN PHELAN CUP TIE

Plenty of Action in Massey vs. Thistle Charity Game Last Night.

NO SCORING

Splendid weather greeted the soccer fans last evening at King Edward Park when the Masseys and Thistle met in the Phelan Charity Cup Tie before a fair attendance of spectators. After a very exciting game that was full of action, the two elevens left the issue to be settled some other evening on account of their being no scoring.

First Half

The Thistle won the toss and compelled the Masseys to face the fading sun. James set the ball rolling, Buchan transferred the play across to the right wing that tested Montgomery with a fast drive. Mid-field play ensued for a while until Foster evaded the defence and worked close in upon Thistle's full backs who let Griffine handle easily to clear. Wade trapped the ball from mid-air, balanced his forward line that went right into Masseys area to make Montgomery fist out of goal. Grant replied with a punt upfield. Halliday gained possession at half-way line, then passed forward to his centre forward who ripped a lightning drive past the upright. Exchanges were on an even basis for a little, with the goals being paid a casual visit without any score. But the bombardment that prevailed a little later from the Thistles' right wing deserved recompense when Joe Mayette hit the upright, with Montgomery awaiting the issue. It was now the Masseys turn to take the upper-hand and well they did as they repeatedly tested the Thistle custodian from all angles. Eventually the lags half-backs changed their tactics to close-checking and placing the ball. This enlivened the wing men's runs along the touch line, in which Ballemy made progress against the Massey's defence and gained two fruitless corner kicks. They came back to get another flag-kick off Montgomery when he fisted round the post. Two minutes later, half-time arrived with the two teams still on an even basis. No scoring.

Half-Time

A two-minutes interval again saw the battle start with a raid upon the Thistles charge that brought out the craftiness of Anderson and Scott. A break-away by Hutton set a new pace around Montgomery's citadel that went under seige when Ward touched the ball into goal. Quick as a flash the Massey goal-keeper threw himself across the goal-mouth to divert the ball around the corner for a flag-wick that was cleared by Blowers. Wade slipped the sphere to his team-mate, Hutton, who rattle the upright from close range. As the time rolled on, both elevens were full of pep that brought forth action in abundance. During a fifteen minute period, the scientific art ruled the game with new manoeuvres being brought out. They did not bring any result whatsoever because the close tackling never let a player get any latitude nor an opportunity to score, except once, when James should have scored when under bar. Darkness crept in as the tussel continued to be played in a sportsmanlike manner and the dying light made it very hard to follow the ball as the referee recorded time-up. Masseys 0; Thistles 0.

Masseys—F. Montgomery, goal; Grant and Blowers, backs; J. Montgomery, Halliday and Westlake, half-backs; Willis, Clark, James, Hotston and Foster, forwards.

Thistle—Griffin, goal; Anderson and Scott, full-backs; Buchan, Wade and Bromley, half-backs; Mayette, W. Hutton, J. Ward, Lamb and Bromley, forwards.

Referee—J. C. Russell.

Why He Succeeded

From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated, was the course which Doctor R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new oil fields near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, barks and herbs and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During the last sixty years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, in Bridgeburg, Ont.

GREAT CRICKET AT CAMBRIDGE

Light Blues' Captain Makes Highest Score Against Australians.

CAMBRIDGE, England, May 21.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Eight thousand spectators assembled to watch the second day's play of the fixture between the visiting Australian cricketers and Cambridge University Thursday were rewarded by a magnificent exposition of the fine points of the game. They also saw H. J. Enthoven, the Light Blues' captain, register the highest individual score that has yet been recorded against the Antipodeans in their present tour. With 93 runs to his credit, Enthoven exceeded by nine the previous highest made against the Australians at the Oval by Sandham of Surrey, who scored 84.

The day's play, which was marred by a downpour at tea-time, found Cambridge at the bat with Enthoven standing at 34 and R. M. V. Robbins at 4. Five wickets had fallen and the Collegians' total was 134. To-day Enthoven and Robbins resumed.

Enthoven staged a heroic battle and fought hard even when the wickets of his colleagues were tumbling around him. Robbins was unable to stay with him for any length of time. After adding five more runs to Wednesday's total, he succumbed to the watchful Ellis off Ryder's bowling. Robbins was the third of the Light Blues to have his hopes extinguished by the unerring work of the Australian wicket-keeper. M. J. Turnbull and R. G. H. Lowe had gone the same way previously with the Ellis-Ryder combination responsible for all three.

R. J. O. Meyer, good batsman, but more valuable to Cambridge as a bowler, followed Robbins and Richardson left little doubt as to Meyer's sojourn at bat. Meyer was caught and bowled Richardson when he had attained 4. From then on, the run-getting was left almost entirely to the Cambridge captain. Enthoven was in great form. He kept his head amid the catastrophe of his team going to pieces and by sheer determination hef creed the score higher and higher. Machin fell to Woodfull with a couple of runs, Ryder delivering the ball, and with him went all the Light Blues' hopes for any large increase to their score.

Jagger has always been regarded as a bowler pure and simple and it was not expected that he could contribute much. The crowd was not disappointed when Jagger yielded to a fast one from Ryder when he had made two runs. It was shortly after this that Enthoven's citadel capitulated in the only wicket that McCarthey took when the Cambridge skipper was dismissed leg-before-wicket. Enthoven had batted for three hours and a half and in that period he had slammed over eight boundaries.

Facing the task of acquiring 212 runs, the Australians sent in their captain and vice-captain, Collins and Bardsley. At first the visitors found the Light Blues' bowling not so easy. The prey that was expected to be sought became a decidedly hard pursuit and this was clearly shown when Collins stumps were crashed by Meyer when the Australian had made eight runs. The heavy-hitting McCarthey followed and together he and Bardsley looked like staging one of their old rallies, but Bardsley went under from a catch by Irvine off Enthoven. It was then that the redoubtable Woodfull assumed the bat and scoring became somewhat more rapid. McCarthey, however, succumbed to Lowe off Meyer and Ponsford with the memory of 110 not out against the M.C.C. to inspire him, began playing with an easy confidence. Matters took on a dull look for the visitors when Ponsford was retired leg-before-wicket just when he had broken over the double figures.

The situation demanded caution and when Andrews started in partnership with Woodfull, they set themselves to solve Cambridge's bowling seriously. They played carefully and steadily and gradually the Australians' score forged ahead. When time was called for the day Woodfull was standing his ground at 64 not out and Andrews with 25. These players will resume for the visitors to-day.

Dr. Brown Received Many Tokens of Appreciation at Wroxeter.

Rev. Dr. A. I. Brown, formerly of the London Conference, has bought a home in this city at 588 Aylmer street and is now setting his house in order. Previous to leaving Wroxeter at the United church annual congregational meeting a very complimentary resolution was passed in appreciation of Dr. Brown's able pulpit abilities, and his kind visitations to the people.

The Brussels Post said: Dr. and Mrs. Brown will be missed in the community. Dr. Brown was chairman of the Public Library Board for the past three years and during his term a deep interest in the reading of good books was aroused. Mrs. Brown, who was leader of the Mission Band during her term in Wroxeter, was the recipient of a gold pin and a Life Membership in the W.M.S. Among gifts received by the Doctor and his wife was a purse.

LOCARNO TREATY IS EXPLAINED BY REV. GORDON

Final Spring Meeting of Local Council of Women Held Yesterday.

SPLENDID TALK.

Most Comprehensive Summary of Treaty Is Given By Speaker.

WANT 8-HOUR DAY.

The last meeting until the Fall months of the Local Council of Women was held yesterday afternoon, in the Green Room of the Young Womens Christian Association. In the absence of the president, the chair was taken by one of the vice-presidents of Council, Miss A. Lancaster. A feature of the afternoon's programme was an address on "The Treaty of Locarno," given by Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's church.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. J. Wearing, the correspondence by Mrs. A. Mowat, and the treasurer's statement was given by Mrs. N. D. Seaton, who reported a working balance of $132.40 on hand at present.

The Council gave its approval to the motion brought up by Miss Agness McPhail in Parliament with regard to paying prisoners for their work, and turning over the money to their dependents, or keeping it in trust for the man on his release.

Mrs. Mowat mentioned the exhibit of Fine Arts which will be held in connection with the annual meeting of the National Council, to take place in June next at Vancouver, B. C., and suggested that the local Women's Art Association send a contribution to this exhibition.

A letter was sent to Mrs. Wood of Toronto, a member of the National Films Committee of the Council, with regard to a moving picture shown recently at one of the theatres here, was answered by Mrs. Wood, who recorded her unfavorable opinion of the same picture, when it was shown in Toronto. "I knew that the book was immoral," said Mrs. Wood in her letter, "but I did not think the censorship Board would pass anything quite so glaring as this play." The writer thought that many of the American films shown were of the same type, but, unlike this picture, the majority of them aimed at some sort of moral in the ending.

In a discussion which ensued, Miss Lancaster said that, as a rule, clergymen depicted on the films were treated with much disrespect. The one notable exception was in the case of Catholic priests, "who are invariably shown as being wise, just and benignant. I like to see any clergyman treated with the respect that is his due, but I do object to Protestant clergymen being depicted in nearly every case as sneaks and hypocrites."

Censoring the Censors.

It was finally decided to draft a petition to be addressed to the Board of Censors, criticizing severely their action in allowing such a picture to be circulated in Canada, asking them to withdraw it at once, and also requesting that they be more careful in the future in their choice of offerings. This petition will be left at the Y.W.C.A. after May 24th, and the ladies asked every president of an affiliated society to sign it there.

The secretary was asked to send a letter of condolence from the Council to Mrs. Joseph Mills, and also a letter of sympathy over her recent accident, to Miss A. Walton.

Address on the Locarno Treaty

Rev. J. W. Gordon gave a most interesting and comprehensive summary of the gist of the Locarno Treaty, outlining in clear, forceful language the ideas behind the framing of the Treaty, and its probable consequences on European matters in general. His discourse was listened to with much interest and was of a satisfactory length, the speaker having evidently learned the pleasant art of knowing just when to stop, and keeping his auditors' attention chained right up to that point.

"As soon as the war was over there was a tremendous desire on the part of the nations of Europe to be at peace," said Mr. Gordon. The many treaties which preceded that of Locarno had all taken the attitude of treating Germany as a very bad boy, but this aimed more at including her in the voice of the peacemakers.

The most significant things about the Locarno pact were the facts that it aimed at maintaining inviolate the present boundaries of Western Europe, and also that nothing that had been pledged in the Treaty should have any weight until Germany became a member of the Council of the League of Nations. The Treaty itself consisted of three parts: the Preamble, which outlined its aims and objects, the Seven Treaties which made up its main content, and a letter to Germany, in which emphasis was placed on the agreement by other nations to boycott any other country which might make war on Germany.

The March meeting of the Council of the League of Nations was most significant, in that it aimed to put the Locarno Pact into operation by first admitting Germany to a permanent place on the Council. The failure of this, through the action of Brazil in demanding a like permanent place on the council, and the impossibility of meeting her demands, proved a great disappointment.

Brazilian Elections

It was at first thought, said Mr. Gordon, that fumbling of the affair had been caused probably by interference by the Vatican or the British Foreign Secretary, but these assumptions later proved untrue. The real cause of the trouble lay in the fact that Brazil at that time was in the throes of a Presidential election, and the Brazilian delegates at the Council of the League of Nations were doubtful of the effect of this election, if they altered their request. Pessimists among the European nations, when speaking of the Treaty of Locarno, all claim that their individual countries have been tricked, but the general consensus of opinion in this regard is probably a proof, said the speaker, that each nation has received the same treatment. Another fault of the Treaty is laid at the door of ambiguous phrasing. There is not enough decision as to whether overseas possessions of the main signatory powers would be embroiled in case their mother countries became involved in petty wars, owing to their promises of help to small nations, and there is also a good deal of discussion as to the fatitude allowed by the phrase, "a justifiable war" mentioned in the Treaty as a possible cause of confliction in the future.

The bright spots in the Treaty were also referred to, especially the fact of the spirit which was evoked by the drafting of such a treaty, and which has been evidenced since in the more sympathetic attitude toward the German nation voiced by prominent French statesmen.

"The whole Treaty of Locarno," said Mr. Gordon, "is an endeavor to integrate the meaning of the League of Nations' Covenant more and more closely in the intertwining relations of Europe. Give the League of Nations a quarter of a century of peace, to develop its latent possibilities in, and to show the world that the things it aims to do can actually be done, then you will see what a mighty thing it is."

"As I read history, it seems to me that one of the mistakes of man has been that he thinks he can break the fundamental laws of morality and righteousness, and that he can do so with impunity. We know now that the war was brought on, not by Germany alone, but because the whole world was breaking these laws of morality and righteousness, and there is no safety for a nation, any more than for an individual, that acts in this way. But I do not think that the world is going backward. There never was a time in the history of world when so many nations believed that general well-being is induced and forwarded by an unselfish interest of the individual in the interests of others."

Deaf to Their Teachers

"A great mistake through the ages has been that men have not listened to their teachers." Mr. Gordon went on to refer to the great teachers of the Victorian period, who, he said, were strangely enough paid very well by their public, but were not listened to. The three great teaching periods of the world's history, he considered, were the teachers of Greece, of the Hebrews, and of the Victorian Period.

"The teachers of the Victorian Era were at their highest point when England began that movement which nearly led to her ruin a few days ago, the taking of the rosy-cheeked lads and lasses from the farms, placing them in great crowded industrial centres, and grinding out their lives; making a few people wealthy at the expense of the many."

Referring to the undeniable element of good to be found in every human character, Rev. Mr. Gordon spoke of the recent incident, where a man about to be deported from the United States as an undesirable citizen leaped into the water and saved a child from drowning. "In unexpected places are to be found these flashes of nobility in fellow-creatures, proving that so many of them are better than we think they are. We must believe in peace and think about peace and be at peace in our own hearts."

Rev. Mr. Gordon was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks by the meeting for his excellent address, following a few appropriate words by Miss Lancaster, who finished by concluding from Phillip Brooks: "You are at your highest and best when you are your truest self."

SOCCER NOTES

On Saturday afternoon the Thistle F. C. will meet the Omemee eleven in an exhibition game, at the Oval, kick-off at 3.30. This will be the first time that Omemee has played in the city.

A very important juvenile game is scheduled for the same afternoon at Nicholls Oval, when the Auburn meet the Young Vets in the opening match of the season, at 2 o'clock. Refelee, J. Buchan.

J. Lunn, and the Brother Brooks have left Omemee for new quarters and the E. and E. boys are now three players short, but the manager expects some new players to fill up the vacated positions.

Tommy Craig, last year with the Quakers, is at present in the city for the next two weeks.

TWO GAMES HERE ON THE HOLIDAY

Moose and Petes Will Clash in Two Victoria Day Battles.

Peterborough fans are to have a chance on Monday to see the Central Ontario League team in action, when the fast Moose team of the West Toronto Senior League will clash with Manager Johnston's gang in two exhibition games at Riverside Park. This will be a holiday feature that should be full of interest. The Moose team—by the way Hap. Harrison is a graduate from this club—have a well-balanced outfit and they promise to give the Petes a tough argument in the Victoria Day clashes. In fact, Manager Johnston's team will have to be right on their toes all the way through if they hope to pull out a victory over the Toronto ball tossers.

The morning game is called for 10.30 o'clock, and the afternoon fixture is slated for 3 o'clock. With two games on the cards for the holiday, it will give Manager Johnston a chance to work out all his players and to get his squad in shape for next Saturday's league game with Belleville here. Heckman, Hardill and Lennox will do the Petes' twirling in the holiday battle.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE OPENS TO-MORROW

Two Fast Games Will Be Played at Riverside Park.

To-morrow afternoon will see the opening of the Peterborough Men's Softball League, when two fast games will be played at James Stevenson Park. The first game will start sharp at 2.30, with Alex. Kay as umpire-in-chief.

The opponents in the first game will be the Belmonts and the Quakers. There has been keen rivalry between these teams since they met last winter in the finals of the indoor league, and a hard contest is expected. Two other strong teams will be the contenders in the second game. These are the Firemen and the Triple Link. This game should start about 3.45, and will provide a hot contest.

The following is the schedule for next week:

Section A.

Belmonts vs. Quakers—Saturday, May 22, at 2.30 p.m.—James Stevenson Park.

Fontaines vs. C.G.E. — Tuesday, May 25, at 6.30 p.m.—Central Park.

K. of C. vs. Belmonts—Thursday, May 27, at 6.30 p.m.—Nicholls Oval.

C.G.E. vs. Quakers—Friday, May 28, at 6.30 p.m.—Central Park.

Section B.

Firemen vs. Triple Link—Saturday, May 22, at 3.45 p.m. — James Stevenson Park.

Brinton's vs. De Laval—Tuesday, May 25, at 6.30 p.m.—King Edward School Grounds.

Baracas vs. Triple Link—Wednesday, May 26, at 6.30 p.m. — James Stevenson Park.

Post Office vs. Firemen—Thursday, May 27, at 6.30 p.m. — King Edward School Grounds.

PLAY REPEATED.

Baraca Class Puts on "Our Boys" at Park Street.

The play, "Our Boys," was successfully repeated by the Baraca Class of the Murray Street Baptist church last evening. There was a good attendance, and much interest manifested in the handling of the entertaining production. Between acts, violin numbers were played by Miss Katherine Taylor and songs were given by Mr. Robert Henry, with accompaniments played by Mr. Cecil Lapp.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL.

RAYMOND GRIFFITH IN "HANDS UP!"

The farcical take-off on the war between the Northern and Southern States which forms the background for the capers of the handsome Raymond Griffith in "Hands Up!" makes one of those pictures about which a spectator might have divided opinions. According to several of those who witnessed it yesterday, it was a regular scream, and chock full of funny situations. We can't say personally that we laughed ourselves to death, but then, we may not have been in a laughing humor. Anyway, to be on the safe side, it is one of those spectacles somewhat akin to the novel which the careful reviewer said might appeal strongly to anyone who liked that sort of book. If you like the type of comedy that Raymond Griffith injects into "Hands Up!" you will enjoy the picture. It is an affair in which the carefree gentleman shines at all times. He makes love to two damsels in a prairie schooner which is being surrounded by a gang of yelling Indians, escapes from the redskins later by teaching his captor how to "roll the bones," and dynamites a mine by throwing a lighted cigar in a "high explosive" container. At no time does he lose his debonnair demeanor nor the shine on his high silk hat, even when he rolls down a dusty mine chute and emerges on top of a scrap heap.

At anyrate, there are plenty of laughs in the comedy which precedes the picture, and the usual excellent short reels. The Capitol orchestra has some good music for the feature presentation.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

RESCUE BY MIX HAS THRILL ALL ITS OWN, SAYS MISS LOGAN.

"Being rescued by Tom Mix has a thrill all its own," said Jacqueline Logan, when she returned from location along the Apache trail, where Mix made "Tony Runs Wild," his latest Fox Films starring picture, now at the Regent Theatre. Miss Logan is cast as Grace Percival, the heroine.

"'Tony Runs Wild' is the first western picture in which I have appeared and I like it. At the finish I was rescued from a band of desperadoes by Tom. In fact it was my first role with his outfit and it was all so snappy that I just loved it.

"You see, I'm a Texan by birth—just naturally like horses and cattle and the great Wild West. And the spot where we were making 'Tony Runs Wild' is the very heart of the west. We were along the Apache trail. That's the district where the worst of the Indians used to roam. Ranchmen about the Solano ranch tell me that in the last twenty years the west has been pretty well eliminated but I found a lot of it that I just naturally love."

"Tony Runs Wild" is one of the finest pictures Tom Mix has ever made. It was directed by Thomas Buckingham.

Mr. Perry Alexander has issued opening announcements of Oak Orchard Lodge. The opening for 1926 season is Wednesday, June 16th.

The fire department received two calls yesterday afternoon, one at 12.18, to 223 Dublin Street, which was a chimney fire, and the other at 5.05 to 377 McDonnel Street, where a defective chimney set the roof on fire. The damage was estimated at $25.

The flowers in Victoria Park are just coming into full bloom and the beds look very beautiful.

The Honorable G. N. Gordon returned from Toronto, where he was yesterday on business, and said that he met a great many persons who spoke in the most complimentary terms of the broadcasted concert of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir. Mr. Gordon said that every person he saw who spoke about the concert stated that it was the outstanding attraction of the season.

ROBB PROPOSES REDUCTIONS IN TARIFF ON AUTOMOBILE PARTS AS AN AID TO CANADIAN PRODUCTION

Will Apply To Parts That Are Not Made in Canada.

HOUSE DISCUSSION.

Compel Factories To Cease Being Mere Assemblers of Parts.

OTTAWA, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Hon. J. A. Robb, during budget discussion in the House yesterday indicated his intention to propose a reduction in the tariff on certain automobile parts not made in Canada.

Mr. Robb also gave notice of an amendment that automobile tops, wheels and bodies are to be dutiable at 20 per cent. British preference, 27½ per cent. intermediate, and 30 per cent. general tariff. Chassis for automobiles are to be dutiable at 12½ per cent. British preference, 17½ per cent. intermediate, and 20 per cent. general.

The most contentious item in the tariff proposed, that of the reduction in duty on automobiles, read: "Automobiles and motor vehicles of all kinds, N.O.P.," to which Mr. Robb added by way of amendment yesterday "and chassis for same."

Replying to Sir Henry Drayton, Mr. Robb stated that it had been found that the high duties had made it profitable to smuggle cars. It had occurred to him that if smuggling were so profitable it might be well to look into the matter. The automobile industry, it had been found, had been taking full advantage of the old duty, but those engaged in the production of parts had not been doing likewise. He believed that the automobile industry with the reduced tariff was being afforded sufficient protection to make a profit.

Sir Henry Drayton asked Mr. Robb if he had any idea what protection the automobile industry in Canada was entitled to.

Too Much Protection.

The Minister replied that his investigation into the matter had led him to the conclusion that the provision requiring 50 per cent. manufacture in Canada was an exceedingly wise one. He had discovered that some motor plants were not manufacturing but were merely assembling in Canada. These plants were not so much interested in the Canadian market as they were in exporting under the treaties which granted favorable consideration to Canadian products. He had no wish to injure the motor industry of Canada but he wanted this industry to do a reasonable business in the Dominion. He had come to the conclusion that it was enjoying too much protection.

With reference to the manufacture of parts, Mr. Robb said the Government would be in a better position to deal with them when they got together and agreed on just what they wanted. The Government proposed to give the automobile manufacturers reductions on certain parts not made in Canada.

Sir Henry Drayton asked the Minister if the smuggling of cars into Canada was really a reason for reducing the tariff.

The Minister replied that this might have had something to do with it.

Smuggling Small Factor.

Sir Henry expressed the opinion that it was an extremely small factor. The Government had acted without knowing what the net protection given the Canadian manufacturer was, and without knowing what he was paying in sales tax or receipt tax. The cut had been made without the slightest information upon which scientific action could be taken. "There's the Minister who is to blame for it all and he doesn't know a thing about it," Sir Henry said, indicating Robert Forke, Progressive leader, who was seated in the front row in the Government side of the House.

Sir Henry Drayton complained that the tax on the finished car was less than on auto parts. Mr. Robb replied:

Encourage Manufacture.

"The policy of the Government is not to injure the manufacturers of parts but to compel factories in Canada to cease being assemblers of parts and to manufacture at least 50 per cent. of their cars. No company should enjoy the advantage of the Imperial preference on cars exported from his country unless they do make 50 per cent. of the finished cars in Canada."

Later, when Sir Henry was attack-

Aviator Missing In Alaska Believed To Be Rum Runner

SEATTLE, Wn., May 22 (Canadian Press).—Interest in a search for M. B. Favor, Seattle aviator, who is overdue at Ketchikan, Alaska, increased yesterday when Federal officials learned that he is a man known to them as Bill McCoy, three times arrested for smuggling liquor into the United States from Canada, and now at liberty under bond following a plea of guilty here May 3.

Favor left here Sunday morning on a 600-mile non-stop flight to Ketchikan, en route to Bristol Bay, Alaska, to spot salmon from the air for a traction company.

No word of the aviator has been received since his departure.

LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENT TOLL RAISED TO FIVE

Two of the Injured Die in St. Thomas Hospital From Hurts.

ONE CHILD ALIVE.

Five of Six People in Automobile Hit By Train Are Now Dead.

ST. THOMAS, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Deaths in a St. Thomas hospital have increased the toll from yesterday's level crossing accident near Springfield, to five. The dead are: Mrs. Harry French, aged 30; Anna, her two-months-old daughter and only child; Elda Brinn, aged 23, of Guysboro; all killed instantly; Harry French, 31, Miss Annie Brinn, aged 16, of Guysboro; died in hospital. Doris Brinn, aged 2 years, is still in a St. Thomas hospital and may recover.

Mr. and Mrs. French and child resided at Eden, Ontario, and other victims were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Brinn of Guysboro. The party, in Mr. French's car, was returning from a funeral when struck by an M.C.R. express. The engine of the motor car had apparently stalled on the crossing just as the train approached.

COURT RESTORES CHILD TO FATHER

Grandmother To Receive $500 For Five Years' Care.

OTTAWA, May 22 (Canadian Press).—The settlement out of court of the question of the custody of Florida Bergeron, aged 5 years, whereby she is restored to her father, featured the closing session of the non-jury sittings of the supreme court of Ontario at the court house Friday.

Rolland Bergeron, gardener of Navan, had taken action against Zenaise Boucher, the child's grandmother. By the settlement the child is restored to her father, who is to pay her grandmother $500 for its keep and clothing during the five years she had possession of her. The defence was that the child's parents had agreed to let her have the child as a death bed request of her daughter, which was the child's mother.

THINK IT OVER.

Canada had a substantial water-power development, of more than 300,000 horsepower, during 1924, involving $45,000,000 in added capital expenditure, and bringing the total development up to 3,569,275 h.p., and a development of 700,000 h.p. in 1925—another record.

Mexicans Think States Real Bandits' Paradise

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 22 (United Press). — The United States popularity regards Mexico as teeming with bandits and now Mexico is beginning to regard the United States in the same way. Dr. Anvers Osuna, a Mexican educator and former Governor of the State of Tamaulpas, says crime conditions here are far beyond the average Mexican's imagination.

"'In my first two weeks in the United States,' he declared, "I read of more crime, more robberies and more murders than I ever dreamed existed."

MINE DISTRICT DOLES REDUCED

Thousands of Men Protest Cutting of Relief To Families.

DEMANDED BREAD.

LONDON, May 22. — (Canadian Press) —Reports from Wales, Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire are that thousands of miners have marched to the poor law relief offices to protest against the cutting down of relief doles to their families. In many instances single men demanded admittance to the workhouses, but this was refused by the poor law guardians, who maintained they could not legally give relief to such men, as they might return to work if they chose.

At Newport the marchers were met by police who read a proclamation from the Mayor and Chief Constable to the effect that they would not be allowed to go to the workhouse. Demands for the distribution of relief in the shape of bread and cheese also were refused, but many sympathetic persons in Newport sent donations of hundreds of loaves and many pounds of cheese. In all demonstrations the men were orderly.

TWO FACTIONS IN AGREEMENT

Presbyterian Service at Pittsburgh at 10.30—United Service at 2.30.

ON MAY 23 ONLY.

KINGSTON, May 22 (Special).—It was announced to-day that an amicable arrangement had been reached by the two factions of St. John's Church, Pittsburgh Township, through their counsel, entirely without prejudice to the right of either party, regarding the holding of services on Sunday next. The Presbyterians or anti-Unionists will hold a service at 10.30 in the morning, and the independents will hold a service at 2 in the afternoon.

Negotiations for a mutually satisfactory arrangement between the parties to the dispute while the merits of the case are being finally decided, are still going on, but the arrangements for Sunday's services are the only definite steps so far, and it applies only to Sunday, May 23.

WHITTEMORE GUILTY OF MURDER SENTENCE ON BANDIT NEXT WEEK

Slayer of Prison Guard Spat in Face of State's Attorney When Being Led From the Baltimore Court Room.

WIFE FAINTED AT THE VERDICT.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 22. Canadian Press. — Richard Reese Whittemore was found guilty of murder in the first degree late Friday by a Jury that deliberated one hour and five minutes.

The penalty, death by hanging or life imprisonment, rests with Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne.

The "candy kid" turned suddenly savage as he heard his life turned over to the discretion of Judge O'Dunne.

As he was led from the room he spat viciously in the face of State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Conor.

Mrs. Margaret Whittemore fainted when the jury foreman, J. M. Bauer, pronounced the verdict without adding the words "without capital punishment" which would definitely have saved her husband from the rope. Earlier she had for the first time broken into tears as O'Conor demanded her man's life.

Judge O'Dunne announced he would impose sentence next week. Edgar Allan Poe, Whittemore's counsel, did not immediately indicate whether he would appeal.

"The ends of justice can be served," Deputy State's Attorney Rowland K. Adams outed into the jury box, "only by an unqualified verdict of first degree murder, which will allow the State of Maryland to hang Whittemore as a deliberate murderer."

It was the second time in a month Whittemore had heard suc' a demand from a prosecuting attorney. At Buffalo, where he went on trial on April 19 last for murder in connection with a $93,000 robbery, the jury could not agree upon his guilt. In Baltimore where he went on trial again for murder, one month to the day later, he admitted killing Robert H. Holtman, a prison guard, on Feb. 20, 1925. The State sought to establish the murder was deliberate. Whittemore pleaded self defence.

Adams had concluded his peroration and Edgar Allan Poe, Whittemore's counsel, had arisen to play his lone hand when the midday recess was taken.

Alex. McGregor - 30

Another key-man of The Examiner editorial staff has written "30" to his last story after many years of faithful service. Alex. McGregor, former Editor of The Review and late Staff Correspondent of The Examiner at Campbellford, died at noon today.

Cold type cannot tell the esteem in which Alex, was held by the other members of the staff. No weather was too severe, no roads were too rutted, to hold him back when he scented a news story, and after long hours travelling he time and again spent the night in writing his despatch so that it should appear in the Mail Edition that goes into his territory.

Beloved by the staff of The Examiner, he was equally well liked by the people among whom he has represented the newspaper for years. He made his home in Campbellford, and every man in public life; every politician who has attended the conventions of all parties at Warkworth, and the men, women, and children of the town, have experienced his genial manner and benefitted by his kindly smile.

Mr. McGregor was more than a good reporter. As Editor of The Peterborough Review in the early part of this century, then Editor of a Renfrew newspaper, and again with The Review until it was taken over by The Examiner, he learned the art of pungent writing which made his stories so well worth reading. Examiner readers will recall the large numbers of stories under the date-lines "Campbellford, Cobourg, Warkworth, Hastings," and the line "By a Staff Reporter." They were the work of Mr. McGregor, and his by-line stood for the highest quality of reporting combined with a splendidly developed ability to interpret the happening.

Few men of his advanced age have the zest for work that characterized Mr. McGregor up to almost the day of his death. His last story was printed yesterday, and at the end of it he wrote "30", the newspaperman's sign for "the end."

POLES TO ELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Successor To Wojciechowski To Be Chosen on May 31.

ARMS CALLED IN.

WARSAW, May 22 (Canadian Press).—A national assembly has been convoked for May 31, in Warsaw, to elect a successor of President Wojciechowski, who resigned after the Pilsudski military coup.

Pilsudski Collects Arms.

BERLIN, May 22 (Canadian Press).—A special despatch to The Vossische Zeitung says that the Pilsudski Government, fearing a sudden counter revolution, has ordered all civilians to turn over their arms by May 24 under penalty of arrest. Police are searching all homes suspected of being hiding places for weapons. During the coup d'etat, weapons were handed out indiscriminately to all those joining Marshal Pilsudski's force.

Paderewski Returns

NEW YORK, May 22 (Canadian Press). — Ignace Jan Paderewski, noted pianist and former premier of Poland, left the hotel where he has been confined with illness this morning, to sail for France on the steamship Paris.

Paderewski gave no intimation on leaving his hotel what connection there might be between his departure and the present condition of affairs in Poland.

Candidate for Presidency

BERLIN, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Despatches to The Berliner Tageblatt from Warsaw report that Ignace Jan Paderewski, noted pianist, will be a candidate for president of the Polish republic.

FARM MARKET SESSION DULL

Wet Weather Keeps Buyers and Sellers Away To-day.

PRODUCE SCARCE.

The buying on the farmers market was dull this morning, hampered by the threatening clouds and the occasional swift drenching of patrons and produce alike. Only the fish on the fish man's stall and the pansies in boxes seemed to have any use for the raindrops that fall on the "just and the unjust" alike, as the Spring poet says.

Dairy produce was not overly prominent this morning, and had a quick sale. Eggs sold from 28 to 30 cents a dozen, and butter from 35 to 40 cents a pound. On the open section, one man sold butter, 3 pounds for $1.00.

Fowl was very scarce, the available supply of chickens being priced around 35 cents a pound. Clover honey in five-pound pails was 75 cents.

On the open market, potatoes were fairly plentiful and were priced at $3.50 a bag. Rhubarb was selling at six bunches for a quarter. Spy apples were 40 cents a peck in extra good quality, Tolman Sweets and Russets 25 cents.

Pansies blooming sturdily and other plants in boxes were 20 cents each, or 6 for a dollar. A little boy standing in the rain had marsh marigolds, or cowslips, at 10 cents a bunch. Upstairs, roots of bridal rose, honeysuckle, iris and Orange lilies, were a nickel apiece.

Pickled cucumbers in large baskets were price at 50 cents and small Yorkshire piglets were $14 a pair.

Rare Old Volume Sells For $20,000 At Auction

NEW YORK, May 22 (United Press).—A rare book sold for $20,000 at an auction here yesterday. John Gower's "Confessio Amantis," a first edition printed in London in 1483, was bought for that price by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, who also paid $3,900 for a copy of the first edition in English of Robert Garnier's "Tragedy of Antoine," translated by the Countess of Pembroke in 1585. Only 20 copies of the Gower book are known to exist.

EAST PETERBORO LIBERALS MEET

Discuss Matters of Interest To Riding and Plan Convention.

TO HAVE CANDIDATE.

NORWOOD, May 22.—A meeting of the executive committee of the East Peterboro Liberal Association was held in the Council Chamber, Norwood, on Friday, May 14. Matters of general interest to the riding, as now constituted were considered.

It was decided to place a candidate in the field for the next general election for the Ontario Legislature. For this purpose a convention of the Liberal electors of the riding will be held during the first week in June at the Town Hall, Norwood, the date being left to the Hon. W. E. N. Sinclair, leader of the Liberal party, to arrange.

It is expected that the Hon. M. Sinclair, Hon. Duncan Marshall and Hon. Nelson Parliament will be present at the convention to discuss matters relating to the affairs of the province.

At a meeting of the County Roads Commitee held in the County offices, Peterboro, on Saturday last, it was decided that on account of the heavy repairs required to be made on all the roads it would be unwise for the county to take over the streets of the villages included in the county roads system. In view of this fact the Village Council visited the Belmont rock quarries on Wednesday to inquire into the cost of surfacing these streets with trap rock.

The council will also look into the matter of oiling the streets or treating them with calcide to keep down the dust.

Little Girl Will Plead To Save Father From Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., May 22.—(United Press)— With her father scheduled to die in the electric chair within three weeks, a six year old Buffalo girl will appeal to Governor Smith. The child, Dorothy Bittle, a frequent visitor at the prison, thinks Sing Sing is a "College." She does not realize the plight of her father, George Bittle.

Her personal appeal will be made with that of her mother. It is the one chance of saving Bittle's life as the only other chance was lost when the state lunacy commission declared he was sane.

Bittle was convicted and sentenced to death in connection with the fatal shooting of a Buffalo jeweller named Rufus Eller. Another man, Frank Minnick, has been executed for the crime already.

BEAUTY OF FALLS TO BE PRESERVED

Conferences Held on Matter By Canadian and U.S. Officials.

OTTAWA, May 22. Canadian Press. The preservation of the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls, has been the subject of conferences between representatives of Canada and the United States. Recently the Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, visited Washington in the matter.

Satisfied—

Some days ago a party in Rochester, desiring to locate here, advertised wanting to buy a house, the replies coming to an Examiner box number.

That same party called into this Office this morning, saying he had received 57 replies, thanking us and saying he was very satisfied with the results.

MISINFORMED IN LAW AND FACT SAYS PAROLE BOARD CHAIRMAN OF OPINION OF JUDGE HUYCKE

Widow Claims $15,000 From Hotel For Husband's Death

EDMONTON, Alta May 22—Canadian Press, Bertha Knight, widow of the late Crown Prosecutor A. M. Knight, who came to his death in the Macdonald Hotel in December, 1924, when he fell own a service lift shaft, is bringing action against the Grand Trunk Development Company in the supreme court, before a judge and jury on Tuesday next.

Mrs. Knight is suing for $75,000 on behalf of herself and children for the loss of her husband, alleging negligence against the hotel authorities in leaving an elevator short in an improper condition during a banquet.

BLAME ROULEAU FOR DEATHS OF LIQUOR VICTIMS

Jury Finds Quebec Man Responsible For Two More at Inquest.

ALREADY CHARGED.

Held For Manslaughter Following Enquiry Into Death of Third.

QUEBEC, Que., May 22. —(Canadian Press). — Philippe Rouleau of Levis, who is already before the criminal courts on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Arthur Poliquin, one of the Levis methylated spirit victims, was held responsible for the deaths of two more of the victims by a coroner's jury on Friday.

The jury under coroner Jolicoeur held Rouleau criminally responsible for the deaths of Pierre Gagnon and Francois Poliquin.

The only witness heard at the inquest was Dr. Wilfrid Derome of Montreal, Provincial Autopsist. He gave the result of an examination which he made of internal organs of Pierre Gagnon and Francois Poliquin. Both men, Dr. Derome stated, had died from methylated spirit poisoning.

In cases of Gaudias Gagnon and L. A. Bernier, Dr. Derome explained that his examination showed that they had died from congestion of the lungs, which might have been brought on by the consumption of methylated spirits.

Two additional charges of manslaughter were laid against Rouleau following the rendering of the verdict by the coroners jury holding him responsible for the Pierre Gagnon an Francis Poliquin deaths.

BURNS WERE FATAL.

Lindsay Mail Carrier Dies in Hospital.

LINDSAY, May 22. — The death occurred at the Ross Hospital Friday of Robert Logie, the rural mail courier, who was seriously burned last Tuesday afternoon, when his mail van took fire on the highway about two miles south of the town.

The deceased was 67 years of age, and lived alone on a farm on the borders of the town.

"We Have No Pardoning Power," Declares Dr. A. Lavell To-day.

NOT ASHAMED.

Indeterminate Sentences Given So That Discretionary ower May Function.

TORONTO, May 22 (Special to The Examiner).—"Judge Huycke is misinformed both in his law and his fact. We have no pardoning power," declared Dr. A. E. Lavell, chairman of the Ontario Board of Parole, today. He defended the board from a criticism of it, and its work yesterday by Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough, who, at the convention of the County Judges' Association here, said that the sentences inflicted by judges were said not to be carried out or even sufficiently recognized by the pardoning power and that the Ontario Parole Board came in for the chief criticism in this resnect.

"We do not change any sentence to the extent of one day," said Dr. Lavell. "We have no power to do so. The Parole Board deals with indeterminate sentences alone. These are given by the courts in order that the board may use discretionary powers. The board therefore acts in all cases within the powers deliberately given to it by the law and the courts. I was very much surprised to see the Judge's statement in the paper, as our relations with the Judges and the Magistrates have always been most harmonious and most cordial. I think the Judge must have got the Ontario Parole Board mixed up with some other authorities."

Considering the material with which we have to work, the Board has nothing to be ashamed of in its record. I note that the Judge states that the courts are in better position to know what treatment is best for an offender towards his reformation. Of course the Judge has a perfect right to his opinion, and it may be that in some cases the Judges may have better information than the Board of Parole, though I think not. This is the first time that I have ever heard of a judge claiming this.

JUDGE HUYCKE IS RE-ELECTED

Chosen President Again By Ontario County Judges' Association.

CLOSING SESSION.

TORONTO, May 22 (Canadian Press).—At the closing session of the annual meeting of the County Judges' Association of Ontario here yetserday, the following officers were elected: President—Judge E. C. S Huycke, Peterborough; First Vice-President—Judge J. G. Wallace, Woodstock; Second Vice-President, Judge Valin, North Bay; Secretary-Treasurer — Judge G. M. Vance, Barrie.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THIS manse, at the window of which I sometimes sit and muse, is perhaps just a wee bit more interesting than an ordinary home. Like the clock in the Post Office tower, as compared with a man's watch, the community has more claim upon it. Many visitors come to its door, and not a few cross its threshold. Some come in pursuit of business, others come soliciting help, while many come in a social or friendly way. But, of all who come, there is n one so regular or more welcome than our friend the Postman. He is our most frequent visitor, calling upon us at least once, and very often twice every day except Sunday or some special holiday. And he never comes empty-handed. He always leaves something of interest, even if at times it savors of the unpleasant. Today he came at the usual hour bringing something from a far country. This visit made me think of the words of a certain wise man: "As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country."

STYLES IN SINGING.

Style may not be everything, but it makes an important contribution toward either success or failure. There are styles in dress, and some people would sooner be dead than be out of style. And there are styles in writing which either commend or condemn a writer. There are styles in singing, especially within the church, and it would be a good thing for most sanctuaries if church choirs adopted them.

This year the Rev. Dr. Wauchope Stewart, Haddington, Scotland, has been delivering the "Baird Lectures" at Glasgow on "Music in Church Worship." And he has said some things of first importance. I would, if I could, bring his words to the attention of every director of church music, and to the members of every church choir. There can be little doubt but that if his wise words were heard and heeded a new and far more valuable meaning would be added to the praise of the Christian Church. Speaking on the work of the choir, Dr. Stewart said its first function was to lead the congregational praise. In this branch of the work the interests of the congregation were paramount. The style of singing to be aimed at was that which would best support and encourage congregational song. The lecturer said he favoured the view expressed in the report of the Archbishop's Committee that for congregational singing, "the first need of the moment is a fearless revival and vigorous use of natural unison singing." If we were not, he said, to adopt unison singing, then what we really got was not anything like well balanced part singing by the congregation as a whole, but half-hearted unison singing by a large proportion of the congregation, silence from a considerable section, who might participate were unison singing the established practice, and more or less tentative part singing from isolated altos, tenors and basses scattered throughout the church. The introduction of unison singing would lead, said Dr. Stewart, to the lowering of the pitch, so that men could sing what used to be called "the Church part" to an increase in the volume of tone and heartiness of feeling of the congregational song, and to the adoption of a kind of music better suited for congregational use than much of the part song type of hymn tune at present in vogue.

FAREWELL TO THE CHOIR.

Robert J. Burdette in one of his inimitable sketches paints a wonderful word picture of "The Parson of a Struggling Church." The Parson was lying on his bed; three months' arrears of salary was pillowing his head. His couch was strewn with tradesmen's bills that pricked his heart like thorns, and nearly all life's common ills were goading him like horns. Beside his bed sat one of his leading members, to whom he gives some advice to be passed on to others in the church. There is some for the janitor, and some for the deacons. "There's another, too, the Woman who talks the sermon through; tell her I do not mind her buzz—my hearing days are few. Tell her to leave her mouth at home, some Sunday, for a minute, and listen to a text, at least, without a whisper in it. And tell the Board of Trustees not to weep with bitter tears, for I can't be any deader now than they have been for years. And tell half my congregation that I'm glad salvation's free, for that's the only chance for them between the desk and me."

"And a farewell to the choir! How the name my memory racks! If they could get up their voices as they do get up their backs! Why, the stars would join their music and the welkin would rejoice."

LIKES AND DISLIKES.

Bob Burdette was a man of very wide experience, and he is not drawing so much upon his imagination as upon his memory in that description of some choirs. It is a popular belief that most of the trouble in churches begins with those who occupy the choir seats. And in trying to make excuse for them we are told that being singers they are, like most artists, temperamental, and should be granted more latitude than ordinary folks.

All that may, or it may not, be true. I refuse to act as one of the judges, and that because I have trouble enough on my hands without inviting any more. For myself I have always been very happy in all my relations with the choir, and I greatly appreciate their co-operation in the services of the sanctuary. But when I am on this subject I might as well add that in one direction some choirs have been a disappointment to me. I cannot help feeling that some of them have an altogether mistaken notion as to what their chief function is within the church. Certainly the most important part of their work is not the singing of the anthem, although they often act as if it were. The first function of a church choir is to lead the congregational singing.

PRAISE AT ITS BEST.

The Psalmist says, "praise is comely." And that, by the way, is a very fine description of praise when it is at its best. We sometimes speak of a woman as being 'comely.' And it seems to me that we could scarcely pay her a finer compliment: she is good to behold. Praise is 'comely' when the whole congregation is having a whole-souled part in it.

I like a quartette in church work for the variety it can give; and after all, variety is the spice of life in the church as well as out of it. But the best quartette can become an abomination when it does away with the united praise of the people in the pews. It is no more natural to praise by proxy than it is to eat that way. Our praise, to be acceptable to Him to Whom it is offered, must be in the nature of a personal offering of the soul's sincere feelings.

The value of a quartette, in my judgment, is that it gives foundation and leadership to the choir as a whole. With a good quartette and a large volunteer choir, both of which feel that they are in the choir loft to lead and not to discourage the whole congregation in singing praises unto God, you have something of which any preacher might well be proud. When the choir devotes its time and its talents to this end you have a most powerful instrument in the work of carrying the Glad Tidings to the hearts and consciences of men and women and little children.

WHEN STARS SANG.

There is a passage in Job which, while I cannot understand it fully, is at least suggestive of the place that praise has always had in the thought of God.

"Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou Me. Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? Declare if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? Or who hath stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? Or who laid the corner stone thereof? When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy?"

What a wonderful time that must have been, when, before the beginnings of human history, or before evil had entered the earth, the whole universe was filled with praise. No wonder the Psalmist says, "Praise is comely."

Before there can be praise that has in it the note of victory there must be a recognition of indebtedness to the work of redemption. Otherwise our song will be cold and mechanical, and from such singing in the House of God may we be delivered. At the present moment there is far too much of it.

FEELINGS SET TO MUSIC.

When the children of Israel stood on the shores of a new continent, set free from the bondage of Egypt, with the consciousness of a great change, we read: "Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the Lord." That was once, at least, when feelings expressed themselves in song And when singing is at its very best it is the outpouring of a soul swept by emotion and carried along the pathway of praise.

At a later date we find the children of exiles in the land of Babylon, and Israel we have them say to those who were taunting them, "How can we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?" So, instead of expressing their feelings in song they expressed them in tears. We are told that they hung their harps on the willow trees and wept as they remembered Zion.

For a long time, a period that is sometimes called 'The Four Hundred Silent Years,' singing had gone out of the earth. But one memorable night there is a burst of song which breaks out upon the ears of mankind, as Heaven's finest singers unite in singing the praises of Him Who is the inspiration of every fine feeling and the keynote of all church praise.

Lying in the meanest part of a prison are two men whose backs have been lacerated with the cruel lash. For company in the darkness they have the rats. A more miserable condition could scarcely be imagined. Surely their hearts will be filled with bitter feelings and thoughts of revenge. But no, there's not a bitter feeling in either of their hearts; neither is there a single thought of revenge. Suddenly the prison walls and corridors ring with a burst of song which at first seems strangely out of place amid such sordid surroundings. It is a song of praise to the Giver of every good and perfect gift. And, as if creation itself wanted to show its appreciation of such feelings it applauds in the form of an earthquake.

The reason why so much church praise is so listless is just that the rank and file of those who occupy the pews in most churches are either spiritually dead or lazy. When redemption is a fact in human experience praise will be perfected within the courts of God's House.

REVIVE US AGAIN.

Every great spiritual revival has been characterized by soul-full congregational singing. It was so in the days of Moody and Sankey. In Scotland, one of the most conservative countries in the world so far as church music is concerned, Sankey brought about an unprecedented transformation in church praise. One can scarcely realize how great has been the change. And when C. M. Alexander visited that land he found material ready to his hand which gave him his finest opportunity to show what a master of assemblies he was. The Welsh revival set the whole of Wales and the British Isles singing. If such a revival could come to Canada it would be the greatest blessing ever conferred upon this fair Dominion.

Bridge Builders

In Aberdeen, scene of Samuel Rutherford's exile, and from which he sent forth those wonderful letters of his, a strange sight was witnessed not so very long ago. It all happened at the Railway Station. There was great excitement among the crowds. A piper marched up and down the platform playing spirited airs on his bagpipes. A stranger might have asked with good reason, 'What is the cause of all this excitement?' The cause of it all was that seventy-six persons, twenty being children, were going off to Australia to assist in the building of the great Sydney bridge. The men were all stone masons. The selection of the thirty-two masons had been made by the representatives of the New South Wales Government and local trade unions. How romantic it all is if we are not too blind to see it. We need bridge builders in ever part of the Empire, and we need them all over Canada—folks who can span the gap between themselves and the castles they build in the air.

"The Destiny of Men and Nations"

WHERE IS THE WORLD HEADING FOR?

WE HEAR this question asked in some form or other on all sides. Nations which were looked on as sound and stable a few years ago are broken in pieces today. Proud and mighty empires have gone down in revolt, and everywhere the spirit of discontent is manifest.

THE PEOPLE are everywhere clamoring for a greater degree of self government than they have enjoyed in the past, and are little inclined to accept with tolerance political expedients to keep them quiet. Politicians, on the other hand, are at their wits' end to know what policy to adopt to satisfy the demands of the people.

THE DESTINY of the world of mankind is fixed and immutable. Jehovah, the Creator of man, has decided beforehand what regulations shall govern His earth and the people; His law must be obeyed.

THIS LECTURE will make clear what that law is.

DEALING WITH AGGRESSORS

Text, Genesis 26:12-25.

Then Isaac sowed in that land, and received in the same year an hundred-fold and the Lord blessed him.

And the man waxed great, and went forward, and grew until he became very great.

For he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and great store of servants. And the Philistines envied him.

For all the wells which his father's servants had digged, in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines had stopped them, and filled them with earth.

And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go from us: for thou art much mightier than we.

And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

And Isaac digged again the wells of water which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father: for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham: and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of springing water.

And the herdman of Gerar did strive with Isaac's herdman, saying, The water is ours and he called the name of the well Esek: because they strove with him.

And they digged another well, and strove for that also: and he called the name of it Sitnah.

And he removed from thence, and digged another well: and for that they strove not and he called the name of it Rehoboth: and he said, For now the Lord hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

And he went up from thence to Beersheba.

And the Lord appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee, and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed, for my servant Abraham's sake.

And he builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent there and there Isaac's servants digged a well.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 23. How to Deal with Aggressors. Genesis 26: 12-25.

By WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Success always brings its problems, and possessions increase man's responsibilities.

Isaac had inherited much from his father Abraham, but he had been shrewd in increasing his possessions, and he had become a man of large herds in a pastoral society. His enemies, the Philistines, envied him, but apparently they had no grounds for their enmity and their envy except that Isaac was apparently more prosperous.

The Philistines showed their envy by filling up with earth the wells which Abraham had had his servants dig. Wells, of course, in such a society represented a valuable basis of life for man and beast.

The simple statement that "Isaac digged again the wells of water" which his father had dug, is full of rich spiritual meaning. The springs of goodness and of prosperity that our fathers have unbared through digging and delving become clogged up through neglect and through positive acts of evil.

Digging the Wells.

There is always profound need of digging again the wells of water which our fathers were so zealous to discover and maintain. Isaac, we are told, also called these wells that he brought to life once more by the names with which Abraham had called them. There is such a thing as a healthy reverence for the past that strengthens life in the present.

Apparently, also, Isaac discovered other wells, for his servants "digged in the valley and found there a well of springing water." Then strife arose between Isaac and the herdsmen of Gerar, who claimed this well.

Isaac apparently was a man of peace, and he dug another well, but they strove for that also. Of the third well that he dug they left him in peaceful possession. He called the name of this well Rehoboth, "for now the Lord hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land."

Abraham's Ideals.

It is interesting to see the peaceful ideals of Abraham finding expression in his son Isaac. It is a wise and sound policy to avoid petty quarrels, and it is not always a right attitude to stand too pugnaciously for one's "rights."

Rehoboth, the name by which Isaac called the well, has been interpreted as meaning literally "broad places" or "open places." One commentator says that a modern English equivalent would be "freedom" or "liberty."

Freedom and liberty are attained as much through avoiding strife as through conquest, though it is not always possible to avoid strife. Inasmuch as Isaac followed in the path of Abraham, it is not surprising that through him should have been continued God's covenant with Abraham.

The closing verse of our lesson is instructive. It tells how Isaac did four things at Beersheba where Jehovah appeared unto him, apparently in a dream, confirming to him the promises made to Abraham.

Isaac built an altar there; he called upon the name of Jehovah; he pitched his tent there; and he had his servants dig a well. What do these things symbolize in modern life?

Do we build an altar to God, consecrating ourselves to his plans and purposes?

Do we make the environments of his altar our dwelling place? Do we do our part in digging the well that symbolizes the springs of life and refreshing?

Here we have forcefully set before us life as a sacred enterprise. Only the man who makes his life that can presume to enter at all into the spirit of this lesson.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

Once upon a time, when a celebrated Christian writer was travelling in the Highlands of Scotland, he met a shepherd. Looking at him with kindly, searching eye, in gentle tones he said to him, "Do you know the Father?" The shepherd knew what the stranger meant; but, being unable to answer yes, he turned away to his sheep, and left the question unanswered. But though the stranger went, the question remained. He could not put it away. "Do you know the Father?" At break of day, through the hours of light, and beneath the silent stars, he heard it. Amid the quiet hills, when no human being was near, the stranger's voice seemed sounding still—gently sounding with its heart-searching question. Nor was it in vain. Often did the shepherd hope to see the stranger again. He had good news to tell him now—news he longed to tell. But years came and went, and the lonely shepherd of the hills saw not his solemn questioner. Would he ever see him!? He feared not. But at last the stranger came—again a tourist through that "land of brown heath and shaggy wood." The shepherd knew him, greeted him heartily, and said earnestly, "I know the Father now, sir."

If there are half-a-dozen or a dozen people that you can't get along with, it's your fault.

AN EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES.

An elderly man, calling at a girls' school to inquire after his daughter, was greeted by the beaming principal.

"You must be proud to be the head of such a large family," she said, "all the members of which appear to be so fond of one another."

"Large family! Devoted! What do you mean?" he asked in amazement.

"Why," the principal gushingly answered, "no less than five of Marion's brothers have been here to see her."

AN OVERLOOKED ITEM.

The successful chef is usually ready to admit his possession of skill.

"Tell the chef," said a distinguished musician, lately, upon conclusion of a meal, "that the fish was marvellous, the roast superb, and the ice cream unsurpassable."

The waiter relayed the message and returned with another.

"The chef says to tell you that the soup was excellent too."

FLY THE UNION JACK.

The Great War Veterans' Association is appealing to the merchants who secured the G.W.V.A. flags to fly them on Monday.

It is a request that should be generally complied with.

Holidays in Peterboro as a rule have been distinguished by an atmosphere of gloom, creating the impression among visitors that the city is without life.

Nothing produces a holiday spirit more readily than a goodly display of flags, and with the service provided by the G.W.V.A. there is no reason whatever why Peterboro should not show her visitors on Monday that this is a live community which recognizes the 24th of May, not merely as a day's freedom from work, but as the anniversary of the birth of a beloved sovereign, Victoria the Good.

Most establishments in the business section have the G.W.V.A. flags; it is but a moment's task to put them in place.

Let Monday be marked by the spectacle of the Union Jack snapping in the breeze from every flagstaff so that something of the historic importance of the day that is being celebrated will be sharply emphasized.

Let us learn to fly the flag.

A SAFE AND SANE HOLIDAY.

Victoria Day(the first of the summer's round of holidays, will be observed on Monday.

To many people the day means an outing by road or water, and every motor car that can be coaxed to run will be chugging along the highways.

May the Examiner appeal to everybody in general, but to motorists in particular, to make Victoria Day a safety first holiday.

Unusual traffic conditions call for unusual care on the part of every driver.

There will be in the procession of cars along the roadways tomorrow and on Monday many motorists of little experience, a fact that should always be kept in mind by drivers generally.

Under such conditions the wise motorist will play safe; he will take no chance himself and he will drive with his car under such control that he can offset the carelessness or inexperience of others.

In fact, safety first should be the slogan—at all times, of course, but particularly over the holiday, when the stream of traffic will be unusually heavy and when, as already pointed out, the large number of inexpert drivers on the roads introduces a new element of danger.

Peterboro people should resolve that so far as they are concerned Victoria Day will be a safe and sane holiday, with no casualty list to cast a gloom over the celebration of this historic anniversary.

SHORTER SPEECHES.

Steps that have been taken in the House of Commons to put some limit on the speech-making proclivities of the members will be greeted with loud cheers from a long-suffering public.

The curb is to be applied to back-benchers, according to Ottawa despatches; leaders are to be given more latitude as befitting their status in their parties.

It is recognized, of course, that the party chieftains should be given more time to state their views than should be accorded the rank and file.

Yet even the leaders could very well shorten their addresses.

The Premir spoke for three hours in his Budget speech; Hon. R. B. Bennett, who followed him for the Opposition, filled some twenty pages of Hansard.

The latter confessed toward the close of his effort: "I have spoken at intolerable length," and the Premier might truthfully have made a similar admission as he concluded his three-hour address.

It is difficult to imagine a British parliamentarian speaking at such length as Right Hon. Mr. King and Hon. Mr. Bennett did the other day.

Even among the leaders the speeches in the Mother of Parliaments rarely run to an hour in length, and often are well under that limit, and it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that both the Premier and the Opposition lieutenant could have boiled down their contributions to the Budget very materially without detracting from—in fact, adding to—the effectiveness of their arguments.

SAVING OUR OWN MONEY.

The Ontario Department of Highways is to continue the educational advertising so effectively used last year to impress upon the people of the Province the desirability of using the roads properly.

The policy of educating the public through the newspapers as to helping to preserve the highways of the Province, instead of trusting to the punishment of the offenders to check misuse of the roads, commends itself as being sensible and businesslike.

Highways in Ontario cost a lot of money, many thousand dollars a mile, to build, and they cost a lot of money to maintain.

That money must necessarily be obtained from only one source—our pockets.

If there were some magic lamp that the Provincial Treasurer could rub every time money was needed for road building or maintenance, the situation would be quite different.

But, alas, there is no magic lamp, no trick way of obtaining revenue from the atmosphere.

When the Province needs it for roads or any other source, we dig down and pay it out of our purse, slender or corpulent, as the case may be.

Thus in trying to educate us to take care of our highways, the Government merely seeks to teach us to save our own money.

It endeavours to make us see that if we want to tear these expensive roads to pieces by excessive speed the operation will be a costly one, inasmuch as we'll have to pay the shot in the long run.

Strawberries are ripe in the Canadian West. Some parts of the Dominion anyway can say the winter is over.

WHAT OF LACROSSE?

It is a strange thing that at the time when lacrosse, Canada's national summer pastime, is fighting for its existence in its native land, it should be gaining in popularity in the United States, says the Brantford Expositor. Some of the famous colleges there have, as a matter of fact, discarded baseball as their spring game, for lacrosse, and great crowds are attending the games. In a few years time we may expect to see lacrosse almost as universal across the border as ice hockey, imported from Canada, has been in the last two winters.

Lacrosse is still, in the minds of thousands of Canadians, the finest of summer games. That it has lost much of its popularity is due more to the fact that it is not played so often as it used to be, and in many once noted lacrosse centres, is now never seen at all. Professionalism, laxity in enforcing the rules, and a consequent deterioration in the spirit of sportsmanship and fair play, have all had a part in this. The development of the "tourist," the player who goes from town to town and gets a comparatively easy job on condition that he joins the home team, has been another factor in killing lacrosse, as well as other games.

While professional baseball has been criticised by many, yet those who know most about it know that one reason for its growing hold on the people of this continent is that it is under real discipline. Players on teams offending against its laws do not escape fitting punishment. Something of the discipline of baseball must be brought to bear both in amateur lacrosse and hockey if they are to keep their place in the hearts of Canadians. Hockey is doing reasonably well because that idea has some recognition. It is not too late to put lacrosse on its feet again in Canada.

OLD AGE.

An insurance actuary has just given out the statistics of old age, and the old folk may congratulate themselves that they are becoming not only a multitude, but a very hearty and healthy lot, with conditions and prospects that are every day and in every way getting better and better. Old people, says the actuary, now constitute 4.9 per cent. of the population, whereas thirty years ago they were only 3.9 per cent. There are four old people today where there were three a third of a century ago.

But what is old age? The insurance actuary makes all the usual courtesy dodges so as to let everybody feel old if he wants to or stay young as he likes; but in order to stick a pin somewhere he says 65 is old, 65 and thereafter. And the sixty-fivers and over—well, there are 500,000 in New York State and 200,000 in New York City, and while the figures are not given for the other States, the estimate is around 7,000,000 for the whole country.

About two thirds of all the old people are said to be self-supporting and only one-sixth dependent upon private or public charity. Another sixth is supported by children, relatives or friends. Only 2 per cent. are said to be in alms-houses. The increasing number of the aged, not merely the youths of 65, but those of 80, 90 and 100, who are said to be a vast army all by themselves, simply proves that all of us are living longer than our fathers did.—Philadelphia Ledger.

PERILS OF DEMOCRACY.

Hon. James W. Gerard, who was American Ambassador to Germany from 1913 to 1917, and who is the author of a book on "My Four Years in Germany," was recently guest at a banquet of the Ontario Bar Association. He spoke of two perils of democracy. One is too much legislation, combined with the tyranny of the majority. He referred to some of the freak laws passed by State Legislatures:

"If you sit down on the train in Texas to a friendly betless game of cards with your wife, you may be carried to jail at the next station by a Texas ranger. If you sell a cigarette in Arkansas or advertise one in Kansas, you are in peril of the law, while in Utah if your wife wears high heels or smokes a cigarette, you may have her torn from your side by the sheriff of the county for two offences, and the man who votes in Oregon may dictate to the man in New York, thousands of miles away, what he may or may not put in his stomach, an authority which even Torquemada never claimed. . . . . A bishop may smoke a cigarette publicly in Puritan Massachusetts without incurring social ostracism or religious criticism; but a workman who so smokes in Utah goes to jail with the horse stealer and the wife beater. How do you explain that to the young idea?"

This kind of legislation, he said, bred a contempt for all law. With one exception he referred to State legislation having only a local application. Some of these State laws are undoubtedly not only tyrannical but absurd. We need not dwell upon this point, because our Provincial Legislatures are not guilty of many errors of this kind. Another peril to which he referred was lack of interest in public affairs, evidenced by the fact that only 55 per cent. of the people vote. Here we have a similar difficulty. Compulsory voting has been advocated as a remedy. The question is whether it would go to the root of the evil, which is that there is a lack of patient and careful thinking on public affairs. Possibly if every man and woman were compelled to go to the polls—of course with freedom to cast a blank ballot—it might have the effect of stimulating interest. But it would not cover the whole ground. Because it is notorious that many of those who do vote give very little attention to public affairs, except on the eve of an election or at some other time when their passions are aroused. The evil lies in long periods of apathy, broken by short periods of excitement.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make it a sane and safe 24th of May.

United States tourists are already arriving in the district. Their presence is unusually welcome as a sign that somebody believes we're going to have some summer weather.

Stimulating the tourist traffic is an activity that is apparently not in favour with Ontario athletic associations.

Ontario Liberals are preparing for a Provincial election. Surely they didn't get a secret tip from the Premier!

Soon it will be a case of "detour and the world detours with you." And by the time new stretches of highway are open, older ones will be closed for repairs.

The ghost that Canadians believe in is the one that walks on pay day.—Oakville Record.

REPLY TO "IN EARNEST."

To Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—This gentleman quotes the Provincial health officer, Dr. McCullough, as saying that there is no connection between alcohol and health. But it has now been discovered that alcohol is in its pure or free state in the human body from conception to death. If "In Earnest" will extract or neutralize the alcohol in his own body he will die within an hour. The connection between alcohol and health is clear.

IN BETTER EARNEST.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, May 21.—There was no let up in the demand for butchers' cows and prices were strong all week. Buyers were unable to fill their orders and more could have undoubtedly been sold without infringing on the prices. Choice cows are $6 to $6.50, good $5.50 p, and mediums $5 up. Very few below the latter grade are coming in. The supply of stockers and feeders sold at firm prices. Real good feeders, 900 lbs. and higher, were $7 to $7.35, and breedy stockers, 650 lbs. up, $6 to $6.50 a cwt. There will no market till Tuesday and there is no carry-over. Steady prices are forecasted for next week.

Although this market was too high to permit of any Buffalo shipments this week, further advances were registered and medium quality calves were up 50c a cwt. Choice calves are from 12c to 13c, good calves 10 1-2c to 11 1-2c, medium 9c to 10c, and common and heavies 7c to 8 1-2c a lb.

The only bunch of yearling lambs sold this week at 15c a lb. Spring lambs have a wide range from $8 to $15.50 each. Sheep were steady but few choice enough to bring 10c a lb.

There were not many free hogs on sale during the week and prices took two consecutive jumps of 25c a cwt., f.o.b. thick smooth. There is no definite bid for next week's deliveries.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, May 21 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:
Sterling demand $4.85 1-8.
Sterling cables $4.86 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 21 (Canadian Press).—The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for wheat on the Montreal market today continued steady and a fair volume of business was transacted. The trade in coarse grains was very slow. On spot there was some demand for Manitoba spring wheat and sales of No. 2 Northern were made at 9 3-4 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, No. 3 Northern at 5 1-2 cents per bushel over, No. 3 Canadian Western oats at 6 3-4 cents per bushel over, and tough No. 2 feed oats at 1-4 cent per bushel c.i.f. Montreal.

A fair trade was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was steady. An easier feeling developed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats and prices were reduced 10 cents per bag.

The weariness that characterized the potato trade Thursday was again prominent today and prices declined 10 cents per bag. This was attributed to the small demand from United States and other sources.

The feature of the butter trade was the continuation of the stronger tone and prices were advanced 1-2 to 3-4 cents per pound. The receipts were 5,092 packages.

Receipts of cheese were 4,703 boxes. The trade was quiet and prices unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 21 (Canadian Press).—In a nervous, rapidly fluctuating market today, wheat finished irregularly 1 3-4c net lower to 3-8c advance. Heavy selling, which at one time caused 4 cents break in the price of May wheat, suggested to some observers a move to check further shipments from other markets to Chicago in time for delivery on May contracts here. Corn closed 3-8 to 1c up, oats unchanged to 1-8 and 1-4c higher, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

Much of the selling of May was on the part of houses that were at the same time purchasing July. The difference between the two months was temporarily the widest shown in a long while, 28 1-2c a bushel.

MANITOBA LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, May 21 (Canadian Press). — Arrivals 210 cattle and calves; 783 hogs.

Trading was of an extremely light nature, with cattle prices steady.

Hogs were firm on an inactive market. Thick smooths sold up to $13.50 and select bacons $14.85.

The sheep and lamb market was not established.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Despite encouraging crop reports, following a night of rain in many Canadian districts, the wheat market held comparatively firm today, and the close showed only fractional losses.

The close was steady, 1-8c to 3-8c lower, with May at $1.51 3-4; July at $1.49, and October at $1.31 3-4.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

TWO ADVANTAGES.

One way to become popular is to listen more and talk less. Listening is not only a fine art—it is a very profitable plan. We learn when we listen. We teach when we talk.

Let the other fellow select his own subject. Find out what he knows. He will like you more, and then, again, you will probably know more—two advantages.

An individual is no bigger than the thing that irritates him.

People are like pins, useless without the head.

"Listen in" on Oakland Owners

"I know now why Oakland is winning and holding goodwill."

"My new Oakland Six outperforms even costly cars."

"I've never seen its equal for all-around economy."

"My friends marvel at the car's nimbleness in traffic."

Tributes such as these are pouring in by thousands from new Oakland Six owners. These owners are not merely Oakland friends, they are Oakland fans—as enthusiastic over the car as over their favorite performer in sports.

And no wonder! The new Oakland Six—priced from $75 to $500 lower—embodies more than 100 improvements, including Air Cleaner, Oil Filter, Full Pressure Oiling System, Four Wheel Brake refinements and the Harmonic Balancer—an advanced engineering feature imparting unmatched freedom from vibration. As one owner says, "The car has everything!"

General Motors Time Payment Rates (GMAC Plan), heretofore the lowest in the industry, have been made still lower. We can now save you as much as $30 to $60 in your time payment costs.

JAPAN ADOPTS LEMIEUX ACT AS MODEL FOR LABOR LEGISLATION

Provides For Boards of Arbitration in Industrial Disputes.

BROAD POWERS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 22. —(Canadian Press).— The Department of Labour has received information indicating that legislation very similar to the industrial disputes investigation act of Canada, better known as the "Lemieux Act," has been adopted by the Parliament of Japan.

The bill on this subject was introduced by the Japanese Premier and provides, as in the case of the Canadian law, for the appointment by the government of boards of conciliation to deal with labour disputes. These Boards may be granted on request of either party to any dispute which arises in connection with Public Utility Enterprises such as Railways, Tramways, Shipping, Water, Gas and Electricity Supply, Telephones, Telegraphs, the Postal Services & other enterprises which directly concern the daily life of the public. The Government may also establish boards of conciliation with disputes involving Public Utility Industries when it is deemed necessary, without formal request from either of the parties concerned.

For Private Industries.

The Japanese Legislation in question permits of the establishment of Boards to deal with disputes in other than Public Utility Industries, but in this case, as in the case of the Canadian Act, it is required that the application shall be made on behalf of both the employers and workers concerned.

Boards of Conciliation in Japan, as in Canada, are given authority to call witnesses and to inspect the premises in which the dispute has occurred. The reports of Boards of Conciliation in Japan will be submitted to the Government as in Canada, and Provision is made under certain conditions for their publication. There is also a provision forbiding persons not directly concerned in the disputes from instigating a suspension of work.

The Japanese law in question will come into force on a date to be fixed by Imperial ordinance.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Gravenhurst Family Escapes in Night Clothes—Related in Peterborough.

The home of Mrs. James Campbell (Jennie Butcher) at Gravenhurst, was totally destroyed by fire Monday at midnight. The contents of the house were almost all burned. Mrs. Campbell and her three children escaping in their night clothes.

Mrs. Campbell is a daughter of Mr. Butcher of East City.

GOOD PRICES PAID AT FARM AUCTION

Cattle Bring From $70 to $90 at Trent River Sale.

TRENT RIVER, May 21.—There was a large attendance at Mr. Archie Langford's auction sale of farm stock and implements on Tuesday afternoon. Everything was sold and good prices were realised. The cattle brought from $70 to $90 each.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Langford are leaving Thursday for Campbellford to reside.

Mr. John Boyd has a fine display of tulips at his residence.

Mr. Jas. Cook landed another fine pickerel one night recently. It weighed 8½ pounds.

Mr. F. Pitts and son Alfred motored from Toronto Saturday and spent over Sunday with the former's daughter, Mrs. Ernest Wilkinson, and family.

VICTORIA COUNTY ROAD TAX STRUCK

Rate of 4 1-2 Mills Decided By Board.

LINDSAY, May 22.—At a meeting of the Victoria County road system board Friday, the rate of the county roads was struck at 4½ mills. Considerable discussion took place and an amendment for 5 mills was put to the board, but was lost in favor of the 4½ mill rate. It was felt by some of the members of the board that the money supplied for county roadwork was insufficient for modern conditions and that the county would be better served and the investment sound if the rate were higher. The chief argument in favor of the old rate was the additional requirements of the townships for their roads, and that if the county rate was increased, it must curtail the township work. Some of the roads in the township are in a desperate condition at present and will require a considerable outlay of money to get them into shape. The Peterboro-Lindsay highway through the townships of Emily and Ops will call for the expenditure of considerable money.

THREE KILLED IN CAR AT CROSSING

Three Injured in Crash Near St. Thomas.

ST. THOMAS, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Lou Kennedy, Mrs. Harry French and the latter's five-year-old daughter were all killed almost instantly, when the motor car in which they were riding was struck by a Michigan Central Railway train a few miles east of Springfield Friday afternoon.

Harry French, husband of one of the dead women, was driving the car, which he owned. He suffered injuries from which he will probably recover. Another daughter, three years of age, and Miss Gilda Brinn, of Guysboro, both of whom were also in the car, were injured.

The four Frenches, two of whom are dead, liven in Eden, Ont. Mrs. Lou Kennedy is believed to be also a resident of Eden.

CHEQUES FOR $550 WITH $1.52 CREDIT

Domestic Servant Jailed—May Be Deported.

LONDON, Ontario, May 22. — (Canadian Press). — Jean Prescott, 24, a domestic, was sentenced in City Police Court on Friday to two months in jail with a recommendation for deportation at the expiration of her term, after being convicted a week ago on a charge of fraud, involving a sum of $550. It marked first time in London that woman has been sentenced on such a charge. She was alleged to have given a cheque, with the purchase of a new car, for $550 when the balance of her account in the bank id not exceed $1.52.

APPEAL ENTERED.

Steamer Company Will Contest Judge McGlade's Finding in Case.

COBOURG, May 22.—An appeal has been lodged by the Anchor Donaldson Line against the decision of Judge McGlade of the County Court of Northumberland and Durham in the action brought by Mathews Bros. of Lakeport against the Anchor Donaldson Line. The action was brought over a shipment of apples to England, which are alleged to have been damaged in transit. In the action that was argued in the County Court here the Steamship Company was found liable.

BEST CROP SIGN IN ELEVEN YEARS

Snow and Rain in West Promise Bumper Yield of Grain.

WINNIPEG, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Snow and rain which fell over an extended area in Manitoba and Saskatchewan during the past 24 hours are worth millions of dollars to the farmers, crops experts declared yesterday. As a result of the snowfalls, crops within the area of precipitation have been pushed far in advance of the average for this time of year, they say. Never since the bumper yield of 1915 have spring indications pointed to such a bountiful harvest. All danger of soil drifting is now regarded as past.

RAILWAY SHOPMEN ASK FOR INCREASE

35,000 Affected By Negotiations in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., May 22. The presentation of their case in the wage negotiations between the Railway Association of Canada and Division Four, Railway Employees' Department of the American Federation of Labor, was concluded here on Friday by the rail shopmen committee —the wage sub-committee of the Railway Association which has been conducting the negotiations with the men's representatives will now prepare its report for submission to the operating committee of the Association, and a further meeting of both parties is expected to take place within a week.

The shopmen are asking for a ten per cent. an hour flat increase for all grades and no deviation from their original demand has been made, it is understood. Approximately 35,000 men are affected by the negotiations.

$2,000,000 SILK SHIPMENT.

PRESCOTT, Ont., May 22. Canadian Press. — A shipment of ten car loads of raw silk valued at two million dollars, arrived here Friday from Japan and were ferried across the St. Lawrence on the car ferry "Charles Lyon" en route to New York. The shipment was one of the most valuable to pass through this port in many weeks.

CALLED TO TORONTO CHURCH

PORT ARTHUR, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Rev. J. A. Tuer, St. Paul's United Church, is in receipt of, and will probably accept, a call to College Street Church in Toronto.

TRY IT YOURSELF

THOUSANDS OWE THEIR HEALTH TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. ALPHONSE COOL

"Every person suffering from Constipation or Indigestion should take "Fruit-a-tives" and I am positive that they will soon feel in the best of health. As for myself, I have tried nearly every other kind of remedy and have come to the conclusion that "Fruit-a-tives" is best. Mr. Alphonse Cool, 2922 Lafontaine Street, Montreal."

Because "Fruit-a-tives" is a genuine fruit medicine made from fruit juices, intensified and combined with tonics — it corrects constipation, stomach, kidney and bladder troubles, in a natural way, and purifies the blood. No other remedy can be the same as "Fruit-a-tives."

MARMORA, May 21.—Wor. Bro J. W. Barlow, D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward district, made his official visit to Marmora A.F. and A.M. 222 on Monday evening. Following dinner, served in the Town Hall by ladies of Marmora United church, the following toast list was submitted, with G. B. Airhart, W.M., as chairman. "King and Craft," God Save the King; "Grand Lodge and Prince Edward District," proposed by Very Wor. Bro. W. L. Rigg and responded to by Wor. Bro. J. W. Barlow, Right Wor. Bro. T. P. Lancaster, D.D.G.M., Peterborough District, and Right Wor. Bro. T. E. Laycock. Past D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward District. "Ladies and Visiting Brethren," proposed by Wor. Bro. H. W. Sabine and responded to by Mrs. J. W. Barlow of Eastern Star and several visiting brethren out of the large concourse present.

CREAMERY BURNED.

Renfrew Fire Causes $80,000 Damage—Only Half Insured.

RENFREW, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Renfrew Creamery, owned by Edward McKenney, was destroyed by fire which broke out early this morning, causing damage estimated at around $50,000. Insurance on the building and machinery was $22,000. This is the third large fire Renfrew has suffered this year. There was no one in the creamery when the fire started, and the place was enveloped in flames before a passer-by noticed it and gave the alarm. Ten tons of butter was also lost.

The blaze was most spectacular, and could be seen for miles. Mr. McKenney stated this morning that he would rebuild at once. In addition to the butter, there was nearly 1,000 gallons of ice cream and three tons of cream destroyed.

NO DEALINGS WITH QUEBEC UNION MEN

Shoe Manufacturers "Masters In Own Shops."

QUEBEC, May 21 (Canadian Press).—"On no condition will the Quebec Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association consent to have any further dealings with the National and Catholic Unions," stated Herbert Gale, president of the manufacturers' association in an interview yesterday. Mr. Gale said he thought it appropriate to issue this statement in order to offset the erroneous impression to the contrary that had been conveyed by reports of the meeting he had Thursday with Mayor Martin and other members of the City Council, when the shoe industry dispute was gone into at some length.

Mr. Gale said: "Insofar as the manufacturers are concerned, the unions no longer exist. We have decided to be masters in our own shops and will no longer submit to being dictated to as to the men we will employ or the manner in which we will operate those shops."

FOURTH STRIKE WEEK.

CARDIFF, Wales, May 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Miners in the South Wales' coal fields are tightening their belts for a long period of short rations as they enter the fourth week of the coal tie-up. As yet, however, there is no apparent disposition anywhere to accept reduced wages. Soup kitchens for strikers as well as children are now in operation in the towns where suffering is most acute.

POLICE ORDERED CANDY ANALYSIS

Followed Many Theories About Disappearance of Evangelist.

AT LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 22 (Canadian Press)—The result of the chemical analysis of the candy from which Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, widely known Woodstock, Ontario, evangelist, is said to have eaten shortly before she disappeared while surf bathing at Ocean Park on Tuesday afternoon is awaited here today.

Police developed this phase of the investigation yesterday after following numerous theories, including possible kidnapping of the evangelist by an underworld character who is said to have taken exception to Mrs. McPherson's views on dance hall operations.

Acting upon a possibility that the sweets may have contained some harmful element which would have rendered the evangelist helpless in water, the police ordered the analysis.

WORKMAN INJURED.

Suffers Painful Accident While Working at Saw Mill.

APSLEY, May 20.—Robert H. Knox met with a painful accident on Saturday when two fingers of his right hand were nearly severed while engaged in his saw mill. Mr. Knox suffered severe injuries to the same arm about three years ago under similar conditions.

A splendid film issued by the Ontario Government showing the working of a Consolidated School, was shown in the parish room on Saturday evening, and will likely be secured again shortly.

A play under the auspices of the Apsley United church will be produced in the Parish room on Monday evening, the 24th May, proceeds to be devoted to the renovation of the church. So far as known this will be the only celebration for Empire Day.

The Rev. C. A. G. Spence went to Cobourg on Wednesday to give an address on "Mission Work" to the W.A. of St. Peter's church.

The Rev. E. W. Gardner is making a short visit to Apsley and will assist in the Mission at the Whit Sunday services.

With most of the men on the drive, seeding has been somewhat delayed, but next week will probably see the greater part sown.

Snow and ice was seen as late as Friday last in some of the shaded woods around Owenbrook.

Mr. A. W. Lean, it is understood, has been appointed Chief Fire Ranger for this district in the place of Mr. Dan Whitmore.

Apsley is now again receiving daily mail service, the summer schedule coming into effect on Saturday last.

Permanent Concrete Highways
Reduce Haulage Costs

The history of concrete highways in Canada proves their economy in the matter of maintenance. They carry the heaviest traffic — safely and comfortably — without breaking down. They are permanent.

Just as remarkable, too, is their ability to reduce haulage costs. As an instance, the records of the Ontario Transport Company of Toronto show a saving of 45% in operation costs when their trucks are running on concrete.

Facts like these mean much to every community. They show concrete roads to be an economic necessity—reducing living costs, attracting tourists, inviting industry and materially stimulating prosperity.

Concrete gives the utmost in paving value for every dollar invested.

WEDDING BELLS.

KEEFER—GRAY.

NORWOOD, May 22.—In the United Church, Norwood, a very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, May 19, at 4.30 o'clock, when Mildred, younger daughter of Mrs. Gray of Norwood, was united in marriage to Mr. I. Harland Keefer, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Keefer of Norwood.

A large crowd had assembled in the church to witness the ceremony. The altar of the church was banked with a profusion of potted plants and cut flowers.

Promptly at the appointed time, Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, played on the organ by Miss R. Squire, B.A., of Toronto, peeled forth, and the groom and groomsman, Mr. Carman Knox, took their places in front of the altar. The winsome bride, attired in a French gown of golden georgette, with Swiss embroidered trimmings and wearing an imported picture hat of mohair and georgette to match, was escorted down the aisle by her cousin, Mr. J. Edgar Erwin, of Perth, who gave her away. She was preceded by her sister, Miss Pearl Gray, R.N., of Peterboro, who wore a dainty frock of blue georgette, trimmed with pastel shades, and a large hat to match. The bride carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley, and the bridesmaid's bouquet was of Richmond roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. F. Stillman, pastor of the church. During the signing of the register Miss Ona Finlay sang very sweetly, "My World."

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold bar pin with diamond setting; to the bridesmaid, a sapphire birthstone ring in white gold, and to the groomsman a pair of cuff links. The organist and soloists were presented with onyx bar pins set with pearls.

After the ceremony a reception followed by a luncheon, was held at "Lilac Bloom," the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Gray, gowned in navy georgette, over flowered crepe, and wearing a large black tulle hat, was assisted by the groom's mother, Mrs. Keefer, who was attired in a powder blue georgette, and wore a blonde mohair hat trimmed with blue. Mrs. Gray wore a corsage bouquet of American beauty roses, and Mrs. Keefer wore sweet peas.

The house was very attractively decorated with spring flowers and daffodils, decorated each of the little tea tables.

Later in the evening the happy couple left on a motor trip to Western Ontario, the bride travelling in a smart ensemble dress of Brittany blue crepe, blond coat and hat, with shoes and stockings to match. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received from friends and relatives from far and near.

Mr. and Mrs. Keefer will be at home after July 1st at their residence, Ridge Street, Norwood.

OBITUARY.

R. H. ELPHICK.

NORWOOD, May 22. — Norwood friends heard with regret of the death of Mr. Richard Henry ('Dick') Elphick, which occurred at his home 180 Lake Street, St. Catharines, on Tuesday, May 11.

The deceased, who was in his 36th year, was married in 1912 to Miss Mary Anderson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Anderson of Norwood. For the past fourteen years he had resided in St. Catharines, where he was employed as travelling salesman for the Apple ford Counter Check Book Co. During his residence in St. Catharines he had made many warm friends.

He was a member of the United Church and a faithful worker in the Sunday School. He was also a member of the Maple Leaf Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Empire Lodge No. 87 I.O.O.F., and of the Commercial Travellers' Association.

The funeral was held under the auspices of Maple Leaf Lodge A.F. and A.M., the services of the Order being conducted by Bro. D. Robson, W.M., and Bro. William McKenzie, Chaplain. Rev. Pue-Gilchrist had charge of the service at the house.

The funeral was largely attended. He leaves behind him to mourn his wife and two sons, Archie and Douglas, also one brother, Mr. H. E. Elphick, of Toronto. Two half-brothers and one half-sister also survive him, namely: George Elphick, Minneapolis, Minn.; William Elphick of Campbellford, and Mrs. William Hill of Hastings.

The beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

$800 ROBBERY AT STURGEON FALLS

Brick Vault of Department Store Looted.

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., May 22 (Canadian Press).—Approximately $800 in cash, some cheques and some bonds were taken by persons who broke into the brick vault of the department store of Michaud and Levesque here Friday. No clue to the identity of the robbers was found. The robbery was evidently carefully planned. A similar amount was stolen in like manner from a store at Verner, near here, a few days ago.

ROBB PROPOSES

ing along the same lines, Mr. Robb interrupted with "Nobody knows better than my honorable friend that it is a dangerous thing to start interference with tariffs, but this Government has had the courage to do it."

Conservative Promise.

An argument ensued between the Treasury benches and Sir Henry Drayton as to the reason why the former Conservative Government did not revise the tariff in 1921. Hon. Ernest Lapointe reminded Sir Henry that the speech from the Throne, in the year following the investigation by a tariff board, of which Sir Henry was the head, promised an immediate revision in the tariff.

Sir Henry replied that everybody knew perfectly well that before the budget came down that year the United States had imposed taxes which bore very heavily on Canadian production. The Government of the day had no means of knowing whether these were to be emergency measures. The question of whether they would be repealed or become permanent was then in the balance. No Government could safely have embarked on tariff revision in the circumstances.

He accused the Government of "groping for revenue while it is answering the bell call of others."

Honorable G. H. Boivin, Minister of Customs, agreed with a previous statement made by Sir Henry that the Government received $217 in taxation for each car produced and consumed in Canada. He pointed out, however, that almost 50 per cent. of this was in excise and sales tax and that on every car imported into Canada the same excise and sales tax must be paid.

Must Pay War Debt.

The Government was confronted with two important duties. In the first place, it must pay the large debt which had been accumulated as the result of Canada's participation in the war. Secondly, it must see that commodities sold in Canada commanded no more than a reasonable price. It was useless to say that the cost of the automobile could be reduced to the consumer by taking off the excise and sales taxes. These taxes were necessary as revenue producers.

Mr. Boivin said that the net protection enjoyed by the Canadian manufacturers was almost ten per cent. greater than shown in the Customs tariff.

General J. A. Clark (Conservative, Vancouver-Burrard) interjected that Mr. Robb had informed the committee that some Canadian automobile manufacturers were protected to the extent of 100 per cent. He asked Mr. Boivin to explain the 45 per cent. protection.

Not Assembled Here.

Mr. Boivin stated that a car costing approximately $3,500 in the United States would be listed at $5,414 in Canada. The list price of the car in Canada was based upon its price in the United States, plus the duty, the sales tax and the Canadian excise tax. The American dealer, after paying the Canadian dealer 20 per cent. for selling this car, received $2,800. A number of cars which were said to be assembled in Canada were not even being assembled here, Mr. Boivin declared. He thought it would be absolutely impossible for any Minister or member of the House to say just what was the net duty being paid by any automobile manufacturer on a particular car.

So long as the automobile industry could show a fair profit, that was all it had the right to ask. There was no desire to put the industry out of business.

"The tariff was reduced in order to bring down the price of the car in Canada to the Canadian consumer," he said.

In referring to the matter of automobile parts, Mr. Boivin said the Government desired to encourage production in Canada, instead of having assembling plants here only.

Mr. Robb then proposed his amendment placing certain automobile parts on the free list.

After the dinner recess, the new amendments to the budget resolutions came up. Answering a question, Mr. Robb explained that the phrase "when new" had been inserted in the description of autos, $1,200 and under.

"There are men," he said, "who sit up nights planning how they may beat governments, Customs officers, etc., and it was represented to us that cars that came under the 27½ per cent. rate might be brought in, run around for two days and then be represented to the Customs as a used car, entitled to a lower valuation."

U.S. Cars Undervalued.

Mr. Chaplin (Lincoln) said that he had learned that the Canadian Customs are being cheated systematically through undervaluation of United States cars. Appraisers arrived at the "fair market value at the place of origin" by taking the discount value submitted to them by the makers. That value might be the price at which a factory sold cars in very large quantities to one distributing syndicate which might have the agency for half a dozen states. In this way a car valued for Customs purposes at $2,800 was said to have been sold in Canada at $5,400.

Mr. Robb said that when the Minister of Customs was in his seat later on the matter might be brought up again. He admitted that when he began to go into this question of auto imports he had been surprised at some of the things he had discovered. If Mr. Chaplin's contention was correct he would not hesitate to say that the system was wrong, and that the Customs people largely were to blame.

Further Concessions.

Mr. Robb declared a further concession would be made in respect to the tariff. A drawback of 25 per cent. would be paid on materials, including all parts, when used in the manufacture of automobiles and motor vehicles, where only 40 per cent., or more, instead of at least 50 per cent., of the costs of the finished article, had been produced in Canada. This would apply until April 1st, 1927.

Sugar Item Passed.

An item which provides for a drawback of 99 per cent. on sugar when used in the manufacture of loganberry wine, was passed with practically no discussion. It is stipulated that this drawback is payable only on raw sugar produced in a British country.

The next tariff item which provides for a continuation of the drawback of 80 per cent. on artificial silk tops and waste or artificial fibre silk tops until January 1, 1928, was also passed.

J. D. Chaplin (Conservative, Lincoln) said that he understood the company for which this item had been passed was now manufacturing goods at Cornwall.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, replied that no objection had been offered by this company.

The provision for 80 per cent. drawback in the duty on artificial silk yarns or filaments up to the first day of January, 1927, was approved.

Aid Quebec Factory.

On the next item which provides for an extension of the drawback of 99 per cent. in the duty on cellulose acetate in powdered form from April 30, 1927, to December 1, 1927, aroused a strenuous opposition. Mr. Robb explained that this item was introduced to assist a large industry which was to be established at Drummondville, Que. There was to be a proposed capital investment in this company of $10,000,000.

Mr. Chaplin declared that by bringing down this item the Government was breaking a promise which it had made to the company already established at Cornwall.

To this the Minister replied that the Cornwall concern had no objection to the provision.

Mr. Chaplin persisted that the Government was breaking its contract, and the Minister retorted that the Cornwall company had offered no "serious objection."

Removing the Duty.

Mr. Chaplin seized on the word "serious" and asked the Minister to tell the House what the objections offered were. It was for the House to determine whether the objections were serious or not. The truth of the matter was that the Government had promised to put a duty on cellulose acetate for the benefit of the Cornwall concern but this concern had only received the benefit of this duty for three months and fifteen days. It was an English company, and one of the best in the world. Now the Government was taking the duty off.

Mr. Robb said that the provision was only for six months. He asked Mr. Chaplin if he thought the Government should give a monopoly to the Cornwall company for ever.

Mr. Chaplin retorted that he had suggested nothing of the kind. Any company was welcome to come into Canada and manufacture under the terms which were offered to the Cornwall concern.

Mr. Chaplin said he considered the stand of Mr. Robb as "unfair, unreasonable and unjust." He thought that the item should be allowed to stand until the correspondence between the Minister and the company at Cornwall had been tabled.

Mr. Robb declined to accede to this request.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William) stated he could not understand the Minister's refusal to allow the item to stand until the correspondence had been tabled.

Mr. Robb said that Mr. Chaplin was only one member of the House, while there were two hundred and forty-five members to be considered.

"That may be so," retorted Dr. Manion, "but there are one hundred and fifteen members around the member for Lincoln who probably hold a good deal of his views."

Sir Henry Drayton suggested that the Government might make more progress with its estimates if it proved more amenable to reason in such matters as this. The Opposition had the right to see the correspondence referred to, and it could not very well judge the merits of the item under discussion until it had. At present the Opposition was entirely in the dark.

Several other Opposition members added their voice to the request and the Minister of Finance finally agreed to let the item stand over for the present.

On an item which had removed the tariff altogether from machinery used in producing unrefined oil or fertilizer from shales, J. E. Armstrong (Conservative, Lambton East) appealed for modification on behalf of some industries in his riding which, he said, would be adversely affected by the removal of the duty on this machinery.

Finally, however, the item carried with little further discussion.

Reason for Difference

Addressing the House last night, Mr. Robb gave an interesting explanation why lower duties on cheap cars had been limited to new cars. "There are men who sit up at nights trying to beat governments," he told the House, "and it has been represented to us that a car coming in under the 27½ per cent rate might be run around for two days and then a lower valuation be claimed for it as a used car."

Hon. George Boivin, Minister of Customs, also gave the House some information about the methods adopted in connection with the importation of American cars. He said that certain American manufacturers sometimes established what was termed a subsidiary manufacturer in Canada, although there was no actual work done on this side of the line, beyond that of distribution. The establishment of this subsidiary on the Canadian side of the line enabled the manufacturers to obtain a reduced 30 per cent discount might not the car, for duty purposes, but the 30 per cent discount might not always be conceded to the Canadian dealer in the final distribution of cars.

All the tariff items in the Budget were approved last night before the committee rose. Two tariff resolutions under consideration were not finally disposed, however. Mr. Robb pointed out that the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Opposition leader, desired to speak on the resolutions and suggested that their final approval be withheld until Tuesday, when it was expected Mr. Meighen would be in the House.

JESSIE BIRNIE, M.D., C.M.

Dr. Birnie is a native of Collingwood Ontario, being the daughter of the late John Birnie, a prominent citizen of that town.

Having graduated from Trinity College, University of Toronto, she took her post-graduate course at the New York Polyclinic, afterwards visiting various hospitals and, finally, coming to Peterborough and beginning here the practice of her profession.

Questioned as to her opinion of Prohibition, Dr. Birnie said: "I am a strong and unqualified prohibitionist. I do not believe that any individual should in the best interests of the community or state, be allowed to do anything that injures themselves, and, therefore, must injure all."

"Who would you say might state from time to time what private individuals might be allowed to drink and eat, the general proposition which we are considering being that only experts are qualified to say what a man should drink and perhaps eat, and not the man himself."

"Yes, the general proposition undoubtedly is that all things which experts declare should not be eaten and drunken by people in the best community interests should be prohibited. It is not a question of education or persuasion, but of straight prohibition."

"Would you leave it to a government board of experts to say, Dr. Birnie?"

"No, I do not think so."

"Are the members of the medical profession generally not only qualified, but possibly the best judges of the needs of their patients for drugs, drinks, food, etc?"

"I think perhaps they are. As the whole question of fitness and suitability has to be left to somebody beside the individual himself or herself it would necessarily have to be left to those who know and I admit that, in my opinion, medical men are those best qualified to judge."

"Then you would say, Dr. Birnie, that since the interests of the community as a whole are paramount and that in the face of them an individual has no rights or, as they are usually called, "liberties," it follows that compulsion should be used of an effective kind to make people do what expert medical opinion says is best for them in matters of health?"

"Yes."

"You are of a strongly scientific trend of mind are you not, Dr. Birnie? You believe that Science has in all its branches so laid bare the facts and requirements of Nature that Science, that is, scientific men and scientifically-educated professional people should, if they come forward and say a thing should be absolutely prohibited, it should be absolutely prohibited?"

"I do not wish to appear too strong in these food matters," said Dr. Birnie, "but I do believe that what is clearly in the life interests of a community should be made compulsory upon individuals, but where an individual is not hurting the community, I would grant him his so-called liberty, and let him go ahead. But he should not be allowed to be the judge of what will, or will not hurt the community. That is for expert medical opinion to say."

"Suppose that we all become doctors. We could then do as we like about alcohol?" suggested the writer, playfully.

"Yes, but you wouldn't use it if you as a medical man knew."

"Except in some cases?"

"Yes, where it is used as all drugs should be used. Regarding foods, I would not be too ready to interfere, you know, but I do think that good and bad foods and the food and bad conditions of foods should be left to experts."

"What do you think of tobacco, Dr. Birnie?"

"There is a great deal to be said in favour of tobacco. I would by no manner of means prohibit it. If it soothes a man and makes him a more reasonable husband and father, let him smoke: provided always, of course, that if it is found unsuitable or harmful that the smoker will stop."

"And education?"

"I think that it is a great great pity that originality in children is being so much done away with by the present method of teaching. Homework is most essential. It is of great value to a child to acquire knowledge by the sweat of its own brow, and not to be a mere echo of somebody else. Originality is the true value of education."

ARBOR DAY IS KEPT AT WARSAW SCHOOL

Children Spend Afternoon in Woods—Boys Make Early Trip.

WARSAW, May 22.—On Friday last Arbor Day was observed by Warsaw school children. There were just a few lessons in the morning, then the school rooms were cleaned and decorated. Some of the girls brought plants. In the afternoon all went to the woods. Some picked flowers. They had games and a little picnic.

On Saturday morning Mr. Currie and fourteen of the school boys met at the school a little after five o'clock a.m., and went to the woods to observe the birds and try to recognize them by their songs. The principal ones to be observed were a colony of Martins beyond the mill. Some of the boys were very interested and all had a very happy time. They were home by about eight o'clock.

Committees Met.

The committees from the different churches met some time since Tuesday evening and decided that Cottesloe, South Dummer and Westwood go together and Warsaw, Carmel, Bethel and Zion remain as they are. A good many Warsaw people do not feel that this is the best plan for the community.

The Churches.

Next Sunday evening Rev. H. B. Herrington will preach on "Why We Observe the First Day Instead of the Last Day of the Week as Sabbath."

On Sunday evening the United Church was prettily decorated with flowers. The choir was composed of mothers. Two were grandmothers and there was one mother and daughter and one aunt and niece. They sang, "My Mother's Old Bible" and "I'll Wear a Flower on Mothers' Day," with solo by Mrs. Herrington, duet by Mesdames Herrington and J. Hawthorne and chorus. Rev. J. Wesley of Norwood led in prayer and preached the Mothers' Day sermon. He told how the idea originated nineteen years ago and seemed to fill such a need that it has spread all over the Christian world. He went on to show why children should love and honor parents; the great undying love a mother has for her children. He spoke of the long standing of the Chinese nation, one of whose principal tenets is the honor they have for their parents. A nation to stand must honor the parents. Canada must. The young people of Canada must love and honor those to whom they owe their life.

There was no service in the Anglican Church.

The service in the Baptist Church on Sunday morning was well attended. A good many of the Continuing Presbyterians and Anglicans were there.

Now that Mr. Pinkerton can stay at the river and here, there will be Tuesday evening prayer meetings weekly, beginning this week.

Rev. T. W. Pierce will give an illustrated lecture on his work in Armenia and among the Turks on Thursday evening at Cottesloe.

FARM RELIEF IN UNITED STATES GIVEN SETBACK

Price Stabilization Bill Defeated By 212 To 167 in House.

TWO WITHDRAWN.

Measures Proposed Credit Plan and Commodity Marketing.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Farm relief legislation received a setback in the House Friday with the defeat, 212 to 167, of the Haugen price stabilization bill.

This action cleared the calendar of all farm proposals, as the two other bills, the Tincher credit plan and the Curtis-Aswell commodity marketing measure, were withdrawn by their authors.

After the adverse vote on the Haugen bill, Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, announced that the next move was up to the agriculture committee.

Representative Aswell, of Louisiana, ranking Democrat on the committe and co-author of the Curtis-Aswell proposal, said he would attempt to obtain a favorable report on a compromise measure containing the principal provisions of his bill and the Tincher bill.

House in Uproar

The vote on the Haugen bill, which embraces the relief plan of farm organizations from the corn belt and was not in accord with recommendations of Secretary Jardine, came after a series of motions that tied the House in a knot and kept it in an uproar.

Chairman Madden, of the appropriations committee moved to recommit the bill to the agriculture committee and after a long wrangle over whether this motion was in order, Representative Mapes, Republican, Michigan, presiding, was sustained in his ruling that it was proper.

At first on a standing vote the House, 197 to 176 ordered the bill recommitted. A vote by tellers then was demanded, and by a narrower margin, 171 to 166, the House voted again to recommit, members filing up the centre aisle to indicate their vote.

The parliamentary way finally was cleared for a roll call vote on the question, and then, as they went on record, enough members switched to make the result 182 to 200 against referring the bill back to committee. A roll call on final passage then was ordered.

BELMONT U.F.W.O. HOLD MAY MEETING

Ladies Discuss Play and Strawberry Social—County Director Speaks.

HAVELOCK, May 22.—The May meeting of the Belmont U.F.W.O. Club No. 1561A was held at the home of Mrs. David Burgess, on Thursday, May 19th. The meeting was postponed from May 6th to 19th owing to the bad condition of the road. There was a fair attendance of the members and a number of visitors including Mrs. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. Hamlin, County Director of Peterborough, all of Warsaw. On account of the illness of the president, Mrs. J. F. McMillan, the vice-president, Mrs. William Smith occupie the chair.

The meeting opened by singing 'Feeding the Nation." The roll call was followed by a reading from Mrs. Wildman, "The First Prize Essay of the United Farm Women of Ontario."

The discussion took place with reference to getting up a play and a strawberry festival but the matter was left over until next meeting. It was decided to go ahead with the quilt to raise money toward better prizes for the school fair.

A special item on the programme was a very interesting talk by Mrs. Hamlin on Co-operative marketing, education and rural conditions. The possibilities of the U.F.W.O. are numerous and important. Club members should practice more extensively co-operative buying and selling and also study the school system from the standpoint of national service, she said.

Mrs. Payne rendered a solo which was enjoyed by all present. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, after which Mrs. R. Anderson of Warsaw gave a humorous recitation.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William Smith on the first Thursday in June. Anyone interested in the movement will be welcome.

RAISES LESS FOOD.

SHREWSBURY, Eng., May 22.—Lloyd George recently stated that for more than 40 years the agricultural laborer has been clamoring for an interest in the soil, but there are fewer smaller holdings to-day than when the agitation began. He said that Great Britain is producing much less food now than at the outbreak of the World War.

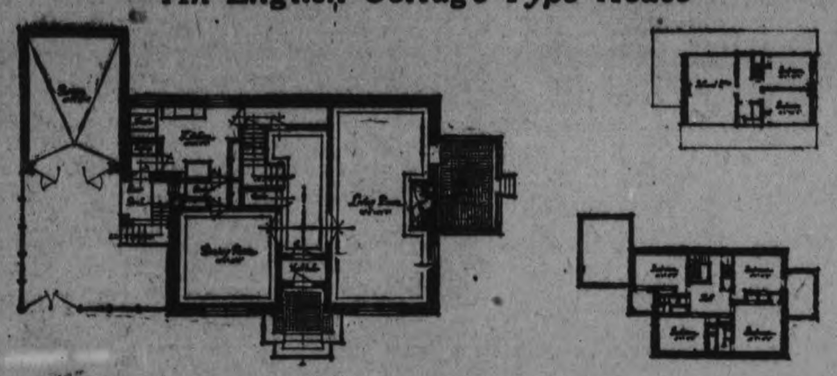
An English Cottage-Type House



(By Lawson and Little, Architects.)

The illustrations show a suburban house designed in a modernized version of the English cottage style.

The main entrance door opens into a wide hall, which is enlarged into a square staircase hall at the farther end.

The large living room to the right of the entrance is a room of unlimited possibilities—as regards furnishing and decorating.

The dining room is connected to the kitchen through a serving pantry. The kitchen being provided with a dining nook and ample space for necessary kitchen equipment.

There are four bedrooms and two bath rooms on the first floor, and two bedrooms and a billiard room in the attic. All the bedrooms are provided with cupboards.

The exterior walls of the house are faced with multi-colored Rustic brick, which together with the dark slate of the roof and the brown color of the woodwork, give the house an unusually artistic appearance.

The living and dining rooms on the ground floor and the halls on both floors are trimmed in hardwood, the remainder of the house in white wood for stain or paint finish. The floors are of hardwood.

The bath rooms are tiled and the plumbing fixtures are of the built-in type. A boiler room and laundry together with coal storage have bee provided for in the basement. The heating is by hot water with oil burning boiler equipment. The cost of the house and garage, providing that simple finish is used for the interior woodwork, would be about $10,000.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address: Lawson and Little, 374 Beaver Hall Hill, Montreal, Que. Copyright 1926. MacLean Building Reports Limited.

ACTION AGAINST DOCTOR REJECTED

Judge Dismisses Lindsay Suit For Damages.

LINDSAY, May 22.—Mr. J. E. Anderson, who was solicitor for the plaintiff in the Phillip v. Archer case, heard at the session of the Supreme Court here, has been notified that Mr. Justice Grant has dismissed the action with costs. It will be remembered that William Phillip, a farmer of Mariposa Township, sued Dr. David Archer, of Port Perry. In August, 1924, the doctor supplied the plaintiff with a box of pills. He swore that there were two kinds of pills in the box, separated by cotton batting. He took a chance of taking the right pill, but took a bichloride of mercury tablet instead, and nearly lost his life.

Harold Jackson of Port Perry, a medical student, testified that there was no cotton batting in Dr. Archer's office or no bichloride of mercury.

Justice Grant did not credit plaintiff's account that the box, when he received it was, as he testified it was, when he took the bichloride of mercury.

There is always room for a man of force and he makes room for many. —Emerson.

Complete muscular relaxation essential for healthful sleep

At "rising time" comes the test as to whether your night's sleep has given you the renewed vigor and vitality so necessary to the busy activities of this modern age.

If certain muscles of the body remain tense for lack of resting support no amount of sleep will renew their energy. For instance—if the muscles enclosing the vital abdominal organs are allowed to sag and assume unnatural positions due to improper mattress support, they are under a strain, and cannot relax. Sleep therefore, doesn't rest this part of the body as well or healthfully as it would if proper support relieved the strain and allowed the tense muscles to relax.

The Marshall Spring Mattress, built with many hundreds of highly resilient, independantly working springs, fits the natural contour of the body, giving even, gentle support to every muscle. This kind of body support ensures true muscular relaxation and health-building sleep. It is this Marshall principal of new sleeping comfort that is changing the sleeping habits of generations.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Two girls are in love with HARRY MORTON, who is unmarried, attractive to women, wealthy and middle-aged. One is his adopted daughter Audrey; the other is NONA, a Toronto stage girl. Morton, trying to turn Audrey's attention from him, has let her see him flirting with Nona and other women, and also has thrown her into the company of JOHN PARRISH, his secretary. Audrey decides to go on the stage so she can learn how stage girls charm men, and Morton in particular. Morton arranges for Nona to be her dancing partner. Parrish is in love with Audrey, and Nona flirts with him, to attract Audrey's attention to him. Audrey, for the first time, goes out in the evening alone with Parrish, and Nona comes to Morton's apartment for a tete-a-tete dinner with him. Audrey, coming home angry, orders Nona to leave.

(Morton maintains a residence in Peterborough and an expensive apartment in Toronto. The three are in this apartment as the chapter opens.)

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Morton leaped to his feet, angry.

"Audrey!" he exclaimed. "I can't permit this! Nona is my guest!"

The younger girl's eyes were fiery, and her fists clenched. "I don't care whose guest she is! She has been trying to make a fool out of me!"

"Audrey!" Morton thundered. "Go up to your room!"

She stamped her foot. "I won't go up! I won't go until that woman is out of the house!"

Nona confusedly arose, and edged away from the table. "I'd better go," she said, her voice low.

Morton made a gesture at her. "Stay where you are, Nona," he said. "Audrey, go upstairs!"

The girl, who had been speaking in a high key, dropped her voice, but repeated stubbornly: "I won't go upstairs until she goes out of here!"

Morton's face set sternly. He took Audrey by the elbow, and, turning her, led her to the stairway. At the foot of the steps, he released her, and silently pointed upward. After a moment's irresolution, she sprang from him, and running up the stairs at the top of her speed, flung into her own room and slammed the door.

Morton returned to Nona. "Nona," he said. "I'm sorry. You've been kinder to that child than any other person would have been, I apologize for her."

There was a little smile at the corners of Nona's mouth. "I didn't do anything for her—it was for you I left my job in the show, and rehearsed with Audrey. I suppose there won't be any more dancing together, now?" Her eyes were raised in inquiry.

"I don't know," said Morton. "I'm not strong for her going into cabaret work. You know that. But I am mighty sorry that she should treat you this way, after all your kindness to her. Here. Wait a minute."

He went into his study, opened his desk, and drew out a check book. Hastily he filled in one of the blanks, signed it, and handed it to Nona.

"Get back that pin I gave you," he told her.

She made a little cry of protest. "But this is for the whole five thousand! I sold it for thirty-five hundred, and I have about twenty-five hundred left. Don't give me all this!"

He waved her away. "Keep the extra twenty-five hundred," he told her. "I owe you that—and I'm ashamed that I didn't think of it before."

She took her departure, lingering a moment with her hand in his as she left the room. When she had gone, Morton went upstairs, and rapped sharply at Audrey's door. There was no response, and he tried the knob. The door was latched inside. He rapped again.

"Go away!" came Audrey's voice from within.

He rapped again, imperatively. There was a pause, and then the latch rattled. The door slowly opened. Morton stepped inside, shut the door behind him, and striding across the room, sat down on Audrey's couch.

"Audrey, you've asked me many times about your mother," he said abruptly.

The girl, standing by the door, stared at him. Plainly it was not the opening she had expected.

"Sit down there a moment," he ordered her.

Wondering, she obeyed.

"Audrey, your mother was a beautiful girl, as you are," he said. "She was self-willed, as you are. She was passionate, as you are. She was self-centered, as you are getting to be. And Audrey, she wrecked her life.

"Audrey, are you going to wreck yours?"

She had been standing in the center of the room as he began to speak, but as he proceeded, she shrank farther and farther from him, until now she was huddled in a chair against the opposite wall. The defiance all was gone from her face, and there remained only a fixed look of fright. He regarded her a moment, his eyes cold.

"What do you mean by speaking to me as you spoke tonight, and what do you mean by treating Nona as you treated her?" His eyes, unwinking, seemed to pierce hers with their gaze. "Nona has been kind to you. You treated her wretchedly. What are you going to do about it?"

With a despairing wail, the girl bowed her head upon her folded arms, and wept. The big sobs shook her body. Morton sat impassive, waiting.

At last she raised her tear-stained face. "You're so mean to me!" she said.

He did not reply. Rising deliberately, he walked across the room, passing within an arm's length of her, opened the door, and went out. The latch clicked, and he was gone.

* * *

An hour later there came a tap at Morton's study door. He was inside, at his desk, writing.

"Come in," he said, shortly.

A little figure, in quilted dressing gown, crept into the room. It was Audrey, her nose and eyes swollen with crying, her hair disordered.

She stood looking at him.

"Well?" he said.

"Oh!" she cried, stumbling forward, and falling at his feet. "Daddy, don't be so cold to me! I've been horrible! I know that—but don't you be horrible, too!"

He bent his head, and looked at the mop of fair hair that was buried in his lap. At last he raised his hand, and laid it on Audrey's head. Slowly he slid forward out of his chair, and in a moment the two of them were seated on the floor together, their backs against the chair, and their arms around one another.

"Dear child!" he said. "I stab myself to the heart when I speak to you harshly. But Audrey! I—I knew your mother, and I don't want you to go the way she went!" He laid his cheek against her head. Nestling closer to him, she was quiet a little while. Then she asked: "Did you know my mama very well?"

"Yes, I did," he said. "As a very young girl, she was the most charming creature I ever knew—except you. You and she might be twins. But she was willful, and she thought only of her own emotions—as you have been thinking, Audrey. And because she would not permit anybody to direct her course, she steered into shipwreck." Her upraised arm was bare, where the sleeve had fallen away, and Morton caressed the white flesh.

"Audrey, that's why I never have given you any orders—until tonight. And you remember what you did!"

She buried her face in his coat. "I'm sorry—I'm dreadfully sorry," she moaned. "I guess I'm just bad. But daddy!" She sat up, and pushed the hair back from her eyes. "Do you know what Mr. Parrish told me? He said that Nona had told him the only way to make me fall in love with him, was for him to flirt with her! And he's been doing it! Do you wonder I was angry at her?"

Morton rose to his feet, and held out his hand to assist the girl. She sat down in his revolving chair, and he moved over to a chaise longue that stood beside his desk.

"Audrey," he said, slowly, "that's just the sort of thing I was talking about. Learn to understand the other person's mind, and point of view, or you are going to smash yourself, and those who love you. You never gave a moment's thought to Nona's problem, or to Parrish's, did you?"

She looked at him, with dawning comprehension. "Still, she was interfering in my affairs," she said.

"There you go again," he said. "The less you think of the word 'me' and 'my' the happier you're going to be, and the happier your friends are going to be. Listen here.

"Parrish is in love with you, and you know it. You never paid the slightest attention to him as a man, until you saw Nona flirting with him. She did it on purpose, of course, in order to interest you. And she succeeded. Do you know why she did that?"

Audrey assented. "I suppose it's because she's in love with you, and wanted to get rid of me."

"Precisely," Morton said. "At least, she thought it would please me if you became interested in Parrish. If you had been in her place, and had known as much as she does, you'd have done exactly the same thing."

Audrey considered this point of view for a long time.

"Anyway," she said at last, "she made a quarrel between you and me. That was all her fault!"

Morton arose. "I love you," he said gently, "but if I were you, I'd go upstairs now, and pray for understanding, and charity, for the sake of your own happiness.

"Suppose we cut out this dancing venture of yours for a while, and go back to Peterborough tomorrow night?"

She came to him, assenting. "Don't be angry at me, daddy dear! It all started because I love you. You know that!"

* * *

Morton, Audrey and Parrish arrived in Peterborough two mornings later. The sun was bright, and the warm breeze touched their faces softly as they alighted from the Pullman car.

"Oh this air! This air!" cried Audrey. "Isn't it delicious?"

The car was waiting, but Morton told the driver to collect their baggage, and take it home. The three swung off toward home on foot.

"It seems an age since we went away," said Audrey. "I'm happier already."

"I think it will be very much better for you here," said Parrish. She looked at him suspiciously.

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"I didn't like you to be around with those chorus girls, where you danced, and in that sort of company," he told her.

Her face colored with vexation. "I see you have constituted yourself my guardian," she snapped.

Parrish looked at her with concern, and stammered. "Why—why, I beg your pardon."

She had been walking between the two men, but now she passed to Morton's other side.

They walked on in silence, Morton wrapped in his own thoughts, and Parrish looking anxiously from time to time at the girl. Audrey herself kept her eyes averted from the young man.

"Aren't those your next-door neighbors, sir?" asked Parrish, as a man and woman approached them.

"Sure enough," said Morton. "I don't believe I've seen them in a month." The couple now was within a few paces. With a smile, Morton was lifting his hand to his hat, but stopped.

The man and woman swept by, their eyes fixed forward, without recognition, ignoring Morton's bow and Audrey's friendly nod.

FOREIGN MINISTERS MUST OBSERVE LAW

Mexican Minister of Interior Issues Warning To Protestant Clegymen.

MEXICO CITY, May 22. —(Canadian Press). — Minister of the Interior Tejeda has issued a statement saying that all foreign Protestant Ministers who fail to comply with the constitution and laws of the country will be deported. This is considered to mean that all foreign ministers, both Roman Catholic and Protestant, must cease religious activities or leave country.

STILL WELL AND ABLE TO DO HIS WORK

Saskatchewan Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills Twelve Years Ago.

Mr. Sydney Bent Suffered With His Back and Kidneys.

SHAMROCK, Sask., May 21.—(Special.)— In our Almanac published in 1919 the following testimonial from Mr. Sydney Bent appeared: "Six years ago I suffered a lot from my back and kidneys. I tried a lot of medicines and drugs, but kept getting worse, till some of my friends said I would not live long. Four years ago I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. After taking the first box I felt so much better, I decided to continue the treatment. The result is I have been able to do homestead duty for the last three winters. Would advise anyone suffering from kidney trouble to take Dodd's Kidney Pills."

We have just received word from Mr. Bent that he is still well and living on his 160 acres, doing his own work. He has not needed to take any Dodd's Kidney Pills for a long time, but always keeps a box of them in his house.

This is further proof that Dodd's Kidney Pills make you well and keep you well.

LOCAL MAN RETURNS FROM FLORIDA VISIT

W. Blackwell Made 5,000 Mile By Automobile.

Mr. William Blackwell, who has just returned from a ten weeks' stay in Florida, during which time he covered about five thousand miles by motor, was especially impressed by the road system of the State, where the speed limit is forty-five miles an hour, and distance to the traveller is therefore no object.

The roads are built on a "pay as you go" plan, the large amount of State work being financed by a gasoline tax of four cents, the State having no bonded indebtedness on its roads. The work on the roads is done by prison labor, all State and County convicts being put to work on the roads. In driving through the country, especially on the Western Coast, one sees large groups of convict workers, driving motors, mule trains and tractors, always accompanied by armed guards. Occasionally one escapes from the firing range of the guards, and is recaptured by bloodhounds.

Mr. Blackwell spent some time on the famous Swanee River, and was interested in its sudden changes of level. The Swanee floods regularly, its fluctuations in this respect being governed by the rainfall in the O'Kesenoke Swamp in Georgia where the river has its source.

The Swanee has been known to rise at the rate of five feet in a day. In mid March it was in flood and in the ensuing seven weeks, had fallen about twenty-five feet, almost to low water level. A river shore resident pointed to a water mark half way up the wall of his house, and said: "We just move out when the river is in flood. Fortunately, the climate is beneficient and everything dries very rapidly.

The Alhopahad River, a tributary of the Swanee, mysteriously disappears and flows underground for a distance of six miles.

During his stay in Florida, Mr. Blackwell, among other places, visited St. Augustine, Tampa and Fort Pierce.

BUSINESS UPTURN STILL CONTINUES

Increased Activities In All Industries Provides Encouragement.

MONTREAL, Q., May 22.—(Canadian Press.)—"Favorable upturn in Canada's business situation continues and the increasing activity in major industries provides a basis for encouragement," says the monthly business summary of the Bank of Montreal issued to-day. "The improvement in railway earnings, the progress in building construction, the extension of export trade and the marked increase in domestic sales of automobiles, are signs of betterment in progress."

COLONIES SET BRITISH NAVY

Number of Cruisers Governed By Extent of Overseas Territories.

SAYS CECIL.

GENEVA, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Britishers in Geneva who are connected with the British delegation of the Preparatory Commission on Disarmament, in session here, think it would be exceedingly difficult for Great Britain to participate in a naval conference between Great Britain, Japan and the United States, unless France and Italy also took part.

The three-cornered naval conference is the unofficial suggestion of the Japanese delegates. Such a conference, it is pointed out by the British, necessarily would be concerned with the smaller warcraft in which France and Italy are particularly interested. These observers declare also that United States and Japan, having a special geographical position remote from possible enemies, can afford to give relatively little importance to smaller warcraft, whereas Great Britain, geographically, is close to great powers having strength as regards non-capital ships. Viscount Cecil has told the disarmament meeting that it was possible further agreements might be made with respect to submarines and cruisers, but he felt it his duty to point out that the number of cruisers in the British Navy was largely governed by the needs created by having territories overseas. Yet, he saw no reason why, "by a general agreement," the size of cruisers should not be diminished.

PROTEST FLAG CHANGE.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, May 22—(Canadian Press). — Agitation against the proposed South African flag is growing. Protest meetings are being held all over the country. Union Jacks are appearing everywhere outside of shops and on motor cars and many men are wearing Union Jacks pinned on their coats.

A protest meeting was held in the Town Hall at Durham last night.

STORIES TOLD ABOUT STRIKE

Labor Organ Says Inside History Provides Surprises—One on Baldwin.

GOVERNMENT THREAT.

LONDON, May 22. — Canadian Press. — The New Statesman, the weekly organ of the labor interests, says that when the whole inside history of the general strike is written, it will provide surprises.

This paper repeats a story which had been whispered about that when the general strike was imminent, Premier Baldwin and Lord Birkenhead were laboring for peace, but had to face a threat of resignations on the part of their colleagues, Winston Churchill, Arthur Neville Chamberlain, W. C. Bridgeman, Lieut. Col. Amery, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, and other unidentified officials, whereupon the Premier gave way.

When the strike ended, however, the paper says, Mr. Baldwin took charge of affairs without consulting anybody. He declared peace, and insisted upon peace.

The New Statesman says it also has heard, but is unable to verify the story, that the general strike was called off under a government threat to repeal the Trades Dispute Act in a single day, confiscate all union funds, call up the army reserves, and arrest the trades union council itself.

RELATIVES AND FEN WEDDING DAY TO HONOR GOLDRIENDS COMING

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barnett Were Married on May 23, 1876.

BIG CELEBRATION

Only One Break Has Ocurred in Family—Many Descendants.

HAVELOCK, May 22.—Guests from Peterboro, Campbellford and Keene, as well as from other places in the district and from different parts of Canada and the United States, will gather here next Monday to join in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barnett, who have lived here for over 12 years, but whose long lives began in Otonabee Township. The children, grand and great grandchildren of the aged couple are sufficient in number to make up a large gathering at any celebration, but these will be augmented by lifelong friends, and the prospects are one of the largest crowds ever assembled at a similar function here will join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Barnett many happy returns of the day. Their family is sparing no pains to make the occasion one to be remembered with pleasure by their parents, and these children will gather from all parts to do them honor.

Born Near Keene.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barnett were born near Keene, where they went to school and grew up together. Mrs. Barnett's maiden name was Catherine Roache. The husband was born on the tenth of September, 1854, and his wife is one year his junior, although but for the records no one would suspect the age of either. They were married May 23rd, 1876, but as the anniversary of that date falls this year on a Sunday they were obliged to postpone the celebration of their golden wedding for one day. Their wedding of so long ago was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro, by the late Rev. Monsignor Casey, who even at that time was far advanced in years.

The young couple, after their marriage continued to reside in Keene until 1883, in which year they removed to Campbellford, where Mr. Barnett for nine years was superintendent of the custom branch of the mill owned by the late Charles Smith and what is now known as the Peterboro Cereal plant. His health failed and Mr. Barnett found it necessary to give up inside work, and for a change he engaged in the sale of all kinds of farm machinery, a business in which he prospered.

Moved to Peterboro.

After a residence of 21 years in Campbellford, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett moved to Peterboro, where they made their home for 12 years on Stewart street. While in that city the husband gave up active work and retired to enjoy the fruits of an industrious and successful career. Twelve years ago they came to Havelock to make their home with their widowed son, William, who was engaged in the railway business and who, on the death of his wife, had been left with the care of two small children. That son was killed at Smith's Falls while on duty about three years ago, and this is the only break that death has made in a family circle of eleven.

The surviving children are Mrs. T. Lapointe of Peterboro, James and John of Buffalo, Leo of St. Catharines, Mrs. P. Coughlan of Buffalo, Mrs. Fred. Whaley of Peterboro, Dominick and Thomas of Toronto, Miss Josephine of Windsor and Anthony of Niagara Falls, N. Y. All of the children, including 33 grand and two great grandchildren, are expected at the celebration.

Episcopal Blessing.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro has instructed Rev. Father McCarthy, parish priest here and at Norwood, to convey to Mr. and Mrs. Barnett his blessing, as well as prayers, for their continued happiness and prosperity. Their spiritual life has all these years been a model for their children and their neighbors.

John Barnett of Rochester, N. Y., who was best man at the Barnett wedding half a century ago, will be present at the golden anniversary of that event. The bridesmaid, Miss Julia Roache, sister of the bride, died some years ago.

FINDS GIANT AFRICAN TRIBE.

Discovery in Central Africa of a tribe of giant negroes ruled by a seven-foot king is reported by William J. W. Room, Secretary of the British Foreign Bible Society. He has just returned from Africa.

The tribe, says Popular Science Monthly, comprises 2,000,000 persons whose average height is between six and seven feet. The men are fond of athletic sports. Because of their height and strength, they probably could surpass our best sport records.

NORWOOD BOARD HEARS REPORT

Inspector Speaks Favorably of Work in High School.

BOARD MEETING

NORWOOD, May 22.—At a special meeting of the Village Council the good roads question was discussed and it was decided that it would be in the best interests of the village to have the county superintendent take charge of the repairs to the streets included in the county roads system.

The Board of Education held its monthly meeting with the following members present: Messrs. F. Fry, E. C. Squire, J. Marks, J. F. Elliott, J. A. Finlay, Edgar Buck, J. G. Keefer, D. B. Cutcliffe, J. A. Steyens, J. H. Webster and H. Cuthbertson.

Mr. Lumsden, chairman of the Property committee, reported for the committee's work on the question of additional insurance, stating that the committee valued the contents of the High school at $3,000 and the Public school at $2,500. Since then he had been informed that the desks which were included in the valuation belonged to the building.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Marks, that the board add $5,000 additional insurance on the contents of buildings of the school and the matter be left in the hands of the committee to place the insurance.—Carried.

Principal Lawlor addressed the Board re the securing of a set of volumes of Popular Science for the High school library. He also made some recommendations re the property and suggested the appointment of an assistant examiner for the Entrance examinations, recommending Miss Graham.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Goden, that the matter of the books for the High school be left with the Supply committee to procure, that the Property committee look after the recommendation of Mr. Lawlor and that Miss Graham be appointed to the Entrance Board.—Carried.

Mr. Keefer, chairman of the Supply committee, reported that Mr. J. E. Roxburgh had submitted a quotation of $15.75 per ton on hard coal.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Buck, that the Supply committee be empowered to purchase the usual amount of hard and soft coal for the High and Public schools.—Carried.

Eczema Was So Bad Could Hardly Sleep

Mrs. G. Jones, Kitscoty, Alta., writes:—"I had eczema on my left hand, and my first finger was so swollen, sore and itchy I could hardly sleep at night.

I got a prescription from my doctor, but it did me no good, so I finally began to take

Burdock Blood Bitters

After I had taken three bottles I was completely relieved of my eczema, and would advise any one suffering from any disease of the blood to use B.B.B., as it is worth its price many times over."

This valuable preparation has been on the market for the past 47 years; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A communication was read from S. R. Armstrong, city clerk of Peterboro, stating he was directed to state that the city was not liable for account of $46.86 tuition of Charles Cowling.

Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. Marks, that the secretary write the Department of Education re the matter of Charles Cowling.

The report of the High school inspector was read showing a higher grading in certain instances on property and excellent work being done by the staff.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Finlay, that the report of the inspector be received and placed on file and that a summary be published in the Register.—Carried.

Mr. John F. Elliott, delegate to the convention of the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers' Association in Toronto, gave a report of the proceedings of the convention.

Moved by Mr. Goden, seconded by Mr. Cuthbertson, that Mr. Elliott's report be accepted and his expenses of $12.80 be paid.—Carried.

Chairman Fry reported that the cadet inspection had taken place and thought Principal Lawlor was to be complimented on the excellent showing made by the corps.

The auditors' report was received.

Moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Cutcliffe, that the report be received and filed and that the headings in the treasurer's book be changed.—Carried.

The following accounts were reported paid: J. E. Roxburgh, $70.25; Harold Elliott, $90.00; George Elliott, $45.00. Other accounts were: Wm. Doughty, $2.50; John Baskin, $5.50; J. W. Rork, $21.57; J. Finlay & Sons Co., $9.65; Hydro Electric Commission, $2.70; Hydro Electric Commission, $2.70.

Moved by Mr. Keefer, seconded by Mr. Elliott, that the accounts paid be ratified, and that the Hydro Electric accounts be paid, and the other accounts referred to the committees and if correct be paid.—Carried.

Mr. Lumsden, chairman of the Property committee, presented a recommendation from the Property committee that the new insurance be destributed to provided $500 additional on the contents of the Public school and $1,000 additional on the contents of the High school and $4,000 additional on the holding of the High school.

Moved by Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Cuthbertson, that the recommendation of the Property committee as to the distribution of the insurance be approved.—Carried.

Inspector's Report on Norwood H.S.

The following is a summary of the report of High School Inspector G. F. Rogers of the Department of Education on his inspection of Norwood High School. The report reflects most creditably upon the splendid condition of the school and the excellent work that is being accomplished. Special mention is made by the Inspector of the Upper School work carried on at Norwood High School which is the only school in the county where this advanced work is taught. The report follows:

Grading of Accommodations

This grading has a very important bearing on the amount of the grants:

1—Closets	2
2—Water Supply	2
3—School Grounds	3
4—School Buildings	1
5—Class Rooms	2
6—Halls	3
7—Waiting Rooms	0
8—Cap Rooms	2
9—Teachers' Private Rooms	2
10—Desks	2
11—Blackboards	2
12—Lighting	2
13—Heating	2
14—Ventilation	3
15—Gymnasium	0
16—Assembly Hall	0
17—Adequacy of Accommodation	2

The installation of chemical closets in the basement is a great improvement.

Although grades 1 and 2 are usually given only when flush closets are in use, I am giving grade 2 to item 1 above because apparently the system here installed is at present satisfactory.

Organization

Ratio of pupils to teachers, 25 to 1.

Division of duties among teachers—satisfactory.

Provision for teaching the courses—a greater number of Upper School courses is being taught than one usually finds in a four-teacher school; but because of the small registration in the Lower School classes, no part of the school work seems to be suffering on this account. The Upepr School class is a good one and the work is eminently worth while.

Miscellaneous

Staff — Teachers are all legally qualified.

Discipline—Excellent.

Fire Drill—Once a month.

Character of the Teaching

Generally speaking, the teaching I observed was satisfactory.

Character of Pupils' Work

Writing—Form II — Number examined, 21; good 7, fair 6, poor 6, bad 2.

Spelling—Form II—Number examined 21; good 10, fair 6; poor 3; bad 2.

Art Portfolios—Satisfactory.

Records of practical and experimental work in science—good.

General Remarks

The tone of the school is good. The impress of the principal who has had such a long and successful record as head of this school, is seen everywhere. The other teachers are hard working and fairly succussful. The recently appointed member of the staff is quite inexperienced but she gives promise of giving good service.

One is struck with the large proportion of students taking Middle and Upper School courses. Fifty per cent of the total enrolment is registered in these two classes. This is somewhat unusual and is evidence of the fact that there is a real need in this county for the advanced work being offered in the Norwood High School.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. R. McCulloch is President of Seymour West Branch.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 22.—The ladies of the Seymour West Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. George Longmuir on Thursday afternoon for the monthly meeting and election of officers. The meeting opened by singing the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The secretary, Miss M. McArthur, read the minutes of the last meeting, and also gave the report for the year's work.

It was decided to have the June meeting at the home of Mrs. R. McCulloch, and hold the picnic later on in the summer, Mrs. Macoun and Mrs. George Brown to superintend the lunch for the meeting.

Mrs. Macoun gave an interesting reading, "House-cleaning on the Farm." It was moved by Mrs. McKee that Mrs. Macoun and Mrs. Dunham be the presiding officers for election of officers, and Mrs. E. McConnell and Mrs. Ray Archer to be scrutineers. Mrs. Roy Fleming and Mrs. James Watters suggested voting by ballot.

The election of officers is as follows:

President — Mrs. Robert McCulloch.

1st Vice-President—Mrs. Thomas Dunham.

2nd Vice-President — Mrs. Roy Fleming.

3rd Vice-President—Mrs. George Van Volkenburg.

Secretary—Mrs. Douglas Rutherford.

Directors — Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Mrs. Reg. McCulloch, Mrs. Thomas Dunham, Mrs. G. Van Volkenburg.

District Representative—Mrs. D. Rutherford.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. McCulloch on June 17.

Nervous Strain of Modern Life

LIFE was never lived at such high tension. There is a mania for speed, hurry and excitement. Nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate and there is little time for recuperation.

But there is a limit to human strength. Sooner or later there comes the nervous breakdown.

There is usually plenty of warning of the approach of nervous exhaustion or collapse. You find you do not rest or sleep well. You are nervous and irritable. Little things annoy and worry you. You may have indigestion and headaches.

To get away from this condition you must have rest. You must help the nerves to get back health and vigor.

The most effective restorative of the nerves is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Many have been restored after months or years of the most serious forms of nervous trouble. But prevention is the wiser course. It is so easy to head off trouble by using this great restorative when the warning symptoms come.

You will feel younger and look younger and your friends will notice this and compliment you. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cts. a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto, 2, Canada.

The Companionable Smock

There was a time not long ago when the smock was identified as the working costume of an artist, but of late it has been adopted as office uniform, house frock, and for every type of practical wear. Women find them more convenient to slip on and off, and they are very becoming, besides lending themselves to a variety of designs in cotton washable fabrics. The smock presented here is voted one of the attractive models. It is fashioned of cotton broadcloth in plain color, with collar, revers and large pockets of printed cretonne in a becoming design. There are gathers over the bust, and it has long set-in sleeves. No. 1330 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3 yards 36-inch plain material, and 1¼ yards figured. Price 20 cents.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our new Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centers, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

PYORRHEA.

The warning—that 'four out of five' is pyorrhea's toll—as screamed at you daily from newspaper and magazine advertisements, would seem to be substantiated by the report of certain eminent investigators who declare that approximately from seventy-five to ninety tper cen of individuals of twenty years of age and over, have acquired Pyorrhetic lesions.

But though the situation is not so alarming as we are asked to believe, yet pyorrhea is an all too prevalent disease and one concerning which information should be more widely published.

This disease is one affecting the bony tissue enveloping the teeth and the involved soft tissue structure. It manifests itself by a breaking down ofthose tissues and structure, accompanied by the progressive loosening of the teeth, and the formation of 'pus pockets.'

Authorities have established beyond question, that this disease is a menace to the health, maintaining, as it does, a most favorable condition for the growth and perpetuation of micro-organisms that cause disease.

Much unceasing and fruitful research has been carried on with a view to discovering the causes of this disease. Many factors contribute to its incipiency, such as faulty occlusal balance, improper diet, constitutional disturbances or general ill-health.

But it is safe to say that in many instances pyorrhea is a direct sequence from neglect of proper oral hygiene.

One of the dangerous features of this malady is that the initial lesion is a bone resorption that may escape detection due to the fact that the soft overlying gingival tissues may at this time exhibit little or no change in tone or color.

Remedial treatment should be prompt. Do not, however, be too easily misled by the urgency of the so-called 'pyorrhea cures,' the claims for which are not only in many instances exaggerated, but often totally misleading.

IRVING AND ELLIN!

Now Irving Berlin and his heiress bride, Ellin Mackay, have written a new waltz song called "At Peace With the World." ', for one, am become a bit awearied of the public exhibitionism of Irving Berlins' love-torn heart back in the dark and dread days when he wrote "All Alone," as contrasted with the present balmy days when he tells the world that it's "Always" and "At Peace" at last! But I suppose business is business even if it means commercializing one's own romance!

"WOMAN'S DILEMMA."

"There is no reason why hot roasts and vegetables may not be prepared in large kitchens and sent into private homes as easily and efficiently as ice cream now is," says Alice Beal Parsons in a new volume called "Woman's Dilemma," which sets forth the full cause of feminism as few books ever have. An hour a day is ample for keeping the small house or apartment in order, says she. And she questions with a loud firm voice that all domestic chores should go to the feminine half of the household only.

A great book for club woman discussion!

For the after-the-show snack that is a little different, make Spanish chocolate and serve with wafers. Shave two squares of chocolate and cook with 1-2 cup sugar and 1-2 cup water, stirring. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1 pint rich milk. Let the whole boil two minutes. Turn two stiffly beaten eggs into mixture, beating over low flame until all is a fine froth. Mixture is thick but smooth.

LAYIN' OFF

They say it does a fella good to lay off work a day, but I'm right here ta tell ya that it really doesn't pay. Ya make yer plans fer needed rest, and think you'll stay in bed, but all yer plans go blaha when the honest truth is said.

The doorbell starts a ringing, while the wife is in the yard. You wonder why the dickens people push the thing so hard. You wait a while, just hoping that the ring will soon be still—but finally jump and answer. It's some fellow with a bill.

At noon the kids come trailin' in and let ya know how glad they are that they are gonna sit right down ta lunch with dad. Of course ya gotta hop right up, though feelin' far from able, and join the throng at luncheon at the bloomin' kitchen table.

By two o'clock the missus feels, as long as you are home, that you can tend the baby and she'll grab her chance to roam. When evening comes, your "rest" day's gone and, frankly, you are sunk. This layin' off a day, at home, is just a lot of bunk.

The death is announced in Detroit of Dr. Sarah G. Banks, who was a graduate in the first class to admit women to the medical school of the University of Michigan, in the early '70's.

A Bell Pattern in Two Piece Front on a One Piece Frock

BUTTERICK 6846

To be all in one but not to look it is the aim of many frocks that simulate the two-piece cut so cleverly that it would take second sight or a back look to reveal their one-piece construction. The frock illustrated is made of French-blue rayon alpaca with the collar, jabot and cuffs bound with navy. Inserted plaits and a hip-to-hip belt across the front are pleasantly deceptive. In town, dresses of this type with long sleeves are extremely useful in the printed or striped silks or rayon and cotton crêpes which do not show every spot as prominently as the plain crêpes.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL of TODAY by JERRY

GHOSTS OF KISSES.

"In the years that I have lived," continued this brilliant speaker, "I have found that only happy marriages are possible when the wife does the thing her husband wants her to do just as she must obey her boss in an office or a store. The women of the new generation do not seem to think the game is worth the candle."

Tonight I knew that I did not want to settle down to married life.

A woman cannot be free after she is married. She must live up to the rules and obey her boss, and, unlike a business life, she cannot get out of her job by just resigning.

I wanted to have some experience outside the home just the same as men do. I did not want to marry until some man took me off my feet so that I would not think—only feel.

"Well," I said to myself with a weary smile, for I was dead tired and I just could not go to sleep, "I certainly am getting enough excitement to satisfy the most exacting person, man or woman."

As that thought came to me I also felt Jerry's mouth press hard upon my lips, and—and—all unknowingly I went to sleep. My nerves were lulled by the ghost of my lover's kisses, the lover that I was not sure that I really loved; the lover whose kisses would never grow unwanted because the moment I did not want them I could say goodbye, for I would not be bound to him by ties I would have to legally break.

The next morning Mamie came into my room just as I was getting ready to go to my job at the Morton Department Store.

"Did you sleep any last night, Judy?" she asked.

"A little," and I smiled as I realized what had sent me to sleep.

"I didn't, Judy. I was thinking all night about what I should do with mother. What would you do?"

Don't ask me a question like that, my dear," I remonstrated. I am sure you have already decided to take up your music again. I really think that I should do the same if I had your voice. But you know as well as I that if you go back to Montreal, your mother will have all the anathema of the Catholic church hurled against you."

I know it, Judy. I know it. And the awful thing about it is that I am not sure that she will not be right in doing so. I haven't yet made up my mind whether we of the newer generation are right or whether the old is."

I brought you a cup of coffee, Judy, dear," continued Mamie, for mother is still pretty mad and she would make it rather for you if you went down where she was this morning. I don't want her to hurt you, Judy. It is bad enough for her to hurt me."

Oh don't worry about me. Your mother couldn't be as impossible to live with as my father. Mamie, if I ever live to have children I certainly will give them a little leeway. And if they haven't brains to take care of themselves I think I will lock them up in some sanitarium. Tell your mother, won't you, that I will get out of here tonight. I am afraid that I can't do it this morning, as I am late as it is."

Where are you going to be at lunch time, Judy?" Mamie asked.

I don't know. Do you want me to call you up?"

Yes. I am going to see Buddy this morning and settle this business for once and for all and then I want you to know about it. In fact you are the only person on earth that I would want to know all about it. I would like you to meet him, Judy," she said wistfully.

All right, I will call you up and you can decide on all the rest of it then."

I hadn't a moment to spare when I hurried into the employees' entrance and up to the store managers' office.

There I met a very stern-faced old gentleman who evidently had heard nothing about me.

When I gave him my name and said that I was supposed to go to work somewhere in the store that morning he began pawing over some papers on the desk and his face got redder and redder every minute.

Finally, he touched a button, which must have rung in another office, for shortly Mr. Armstrong came bustling in.

What's all this about, Armstrong: This girl tells me that you have hired her. I thought you knew that it was a very slack time with the store. We are laying off clerks instead of putting them on."

Yes, Mr. Smith, I know all that," responded Mr. Armstrong quietly. But I had my orders to hire this young lady from Mr. Robinson himself. He said that you would place her. The reason why I did not speak to you about it was because I thought that he had probably done so."

TUESDAY: Judy Wonders Why.

A woman customer returned a toothbrush to a Topeka drug store the other day, complaining that she had used it only four years and the bristles were falling out.

The Needlework Guild of America whose national president is Mrs. Thomas J. Preston (formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland), will hold its convention in Boston in May.

YOUR HEALTH

Not long ago I saw the report of a tuberculosis conference held in Belfast, Ireland. "Tea drinking is ruining people, and silk stockings are to blame for some present-day illnesses," said Dr. Dennis O'Hagen at this gathering.

"What is required," he said, "is a health campaign to get people to feed themselves properly. I advise people to drink less tea and to get back to the days of 'stirabout' and buttermilk. There would be less tuberculosis if people took this advice."

The dish Dr. O'Hagen refers to as "stirabout" is an old-fashioned mixture of cornmeal and oatmeal, boiled down and stirred vigorously. It is a common dish in the British Isles.

What the Irish physician has in mind is the changing habits of people everywhere. The old-time simplicity is giving way to styles in dress and practices in eating which are destructive of health and vigor.

Of course, silk stockings in and of themselves can do no harm. But silk stockings and the sheer dresses going with them, lead to exposure and manner of living which are productive of illness and lowered vitality.

Tea drinking and nibbling at cakes and confections between meals destroy the appetite for more substantial foods. The vegetables, salads, fruits, bread and meat foods carrying the essentials, must be had or the health suffers.

Tuberculosis is essentially a disease of the 'teens and the early twenties. It attacks young people at just the time when silk stockings and social frivolities are most attractive. That is the time of life when out-of-door life, sunlight, good food and plenty of sleep are absolutely essential to the development of the body and all its organs. Unless the lungs are filled constantly with pure air and the blood enriched by proper food, there is sure to be trouble.

When I speak of "proper food" I mean the simple and substantial foods of the olden days. The novelties and titbits, no matter how expensive, are not acceptable substitutes for the bone and muscle building foods of the simplest nature.

I like to see young people enjoy themselves and I am not one of those who worry over the "flappers" and "Johnnies" of the day. In character I feel they are all right, but I am worried for fear they may not get the foods and live the hygienic lives which will guarantee strong bodies.

Give heed to these things, dear young people!

NOTE.

Will Mrs. J. R. who applied for information regarding eczema please send her address to The Examiner office. The envelope enclosed for a reply was mislaid by Dr. Copeland.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, MAY 23, 24.

Sunday's horoscope is marked by conflicting and depressing conditions in all lines of endeavor. Under the circumstances it would be well to take advantage of the day for rest and introspection.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year of setback and delays. Money difficulties may arise, and it would be well to remain in routine lines. A child born on this day may be quiet and introspective and subject to treachery.

Monday's astrological forecast emphasizes the prospect of growth in business and financial status and likewise holds encouragement for new undertakings. Push to the goal of the ambitions, but calmly and with amiability.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of fulfilled ambitions in industry and labor, with growth and financial fulfillment. New ventures are encouraged but with deliberation and cool judgment. A child born on this day may be expected to have excellent qualities and should reap the reward for industry and responsibility. But it should be trained in amiability and cool deeds.

The custom of a bride wearing a veil is derived from the old Anglo-Saxon way of the ceremony under a square of cloth, held at each corner by a tall man, to conceal from the onlookers the bride's blushes.

Alberta was the first of the Canadian provinces to extend a full enfranchisement to women.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE CHOCOLATE DROP TREE.

The Twins and the little Rag-bag Whiffet kept going along toward Mister Snoopsey's cave where they certainly hoped to find the Whiffet's lost shadow.

All at once right beside the road they saw a chocolate-drop tree. So they all stopped and picked up some chocolate-drops that had become over-ripe and fallen to the ground.

Nick had eaten a walnut-maple, and a caramel, and a chocolate almond, and Nancy had eaten a mint-patty and chocolate-covered Turkish delight and a chocolate cream-nut, and the little Whiffet had had six large chocolate marshmallows, when suddenly the ground opened at their feet and up came a house.

There, sitting on the front porch, fanning himself with a stove-lid, sat the Nib Nob of Nobody's Land.

"What!" he cried, when he saw what was going on. "Eating chocolates off my very best chocolate-drop tree! How very ustrabovarius! How exceedingly rastigulashus! How horribly—but there! There isn't a word in Nobody Land language bad enough to call what you are doing. Who are you?"

"We're the Twins," said Nick. "And this is the Whiffet. He has lost his shadow and we're hunting for it. We're looking for Mister Snoopsy's cave in Hidy Go Land."

At this the Nib Nob of Nobody's Land gave a shriek and fainted three times. His servant with two noses rushed to fan him, and his cook with two chins rushed to pour water over him, and after a while he came to.

"What happened?" asked Nancy.

"Sh!" said Two Nose. "You mentioned his deadliest enemy. The name of Snoopsy of Hidy Go Land has not been mentioned in Nobody's Land for years 'n years 'n years 'n years. You almost did the business that time!"

Suddenly Ub Glub, the Nib Nob of Nobody's Land demanded. "What made me faint?"

"We were just saying, your Majesty," said Two Nose, "that it was a warm day."

"That's right," said Ub Glub, "Very! And if we don't get our chocolates picked soon they will melt and run away. Who did you say these little thieves were?"

"We didn't mean to steal," said Nick. "The chocolate-drop tree was right here and all the chocolate drops were lying on the ground."

"Your faces are familiar," said Ub Glub. "Where did I see you before? Now I remember—you are the children who refused to get me a fire-engine, aren't you?"

"We're awfully sorry," said Nancy, "but really we didn't know where to get you a fire-engine."

"Well, I still want one," said Ub Glub, fanning himself more furiously than ever with his love lid. And if I can't have a fire-engine inside of five minutes—off go your heads."

It looked pretty bad for the Twins and the poor little Whiffet. Nobody knew what to do exactly. Nobody wanted to lose his head, but nobody knew where in the world to find a fire-engine. But all at once—chug! chug! chug! rattle, roar, bang! clang! There stood a perfectly good red and gold fire-engine not three feet from the place where Ub Glub was sitting.

"How very nice of you, my dears," said the Nib Nob in a honey-like voice. "I suspected from the first you were fairies. What make is it, and can it do hills on high?"

But nobody answered for nobody knew. Where it came from is still a mystery but I suspect the Fairy Queen.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Jimmy.—You have an intensely feminine nature, charming and affectionate, but without much initiative or efficiency. Circumstances of your life combine to force you into a life that is rather reserved and retired, and you must constantly fight against a tendency toward morbid, introspective thinking. You are possessed of a dual nature, one side much better than the other. You are very sympathetic and kind to people in illness, but have a habit in yourself of nagging and finding fault, that, unless checked, will not make for happiness for yourself or the people associated with you. Married life to you may be very happy if you can control this tendency, sometimes quite unknown to the one possessing it. You are also nervous and dissatisfied at most times, constantly wishing to be doing something else. You should cultivate trust and confidence in your associates, cheerfulness and steadfastness, and resolve not to complain and murmer. Try to keep your hands and feet still, and resolve, above all else, to be lovable. Marry a man born in February or November. You were born on Friday. Your colors are gold and violet and white.

E. M. L.—Possessed naturally of a disposition that inclines to good times, to pleasure and good cheer, with an aptitude for the fine arts, for singing and for dancing, you will find your best way of success in life is in never trying to play the lone wolf, and in associating yourself carefully with others in any enterprise. You are kind-hearted, generous and magnetic, but have a violent temper that causes you much trouble at times, and have a habit of taking dislikes to others without a real cause. You can, if you wish, inspire those around you to much good, but you must control your temper and learn to think before you speak, thus keeping your friends, instead of losing them. You have good judgment, and should rely on your own opinions, regardless of others' assertions to the contrary. You will succeed in life, if you resolve to adopt these rules: "Do not dream unless you act. Do not criticize. Do expect what you want. Do reach out and take it." You would be most successful in the bustling life of the city, rather than in a small place. Cultivate individuality in dress, manner, home surroundings and manner of speech. Strive for poise and self-possession. You were born on Sunday. Your color is black. The day you ask about, a Sunday, is one for real personal freedom and for musical and artistic expression.

M. H.—You have the same strong type of character that is indicated in the reading of your sister and the same type of coloring that makes your colors red and brown also. Your way of success in life, however, at least as long as you remain unmarried, lies along the avenue of real hard work, not necessarily slavish work, but the type of endeavor that is constant and careful, with no slackening up on your job. You are very ardent at heart, although frequently may be considered cold by those who do not know you very well. You have a fear of poverty, burglars and robbery, and are always uneasy when left alone at night. You are generous and kind-hearted, but inclined to be jealous of your friends and companions. You have strong healing powers within yourself, but may have some trouble with throat, lungs and kidneys. With you, medicine is very slow to act. You are fond of change and also quite fond of money, indicating a miserly tendency in later years. Always seek good cheer and sunshine, which your nature demands. Marry a man born in November, March or January. February and September are your good months. Monday your good day. You were born on Thursday.

E. H.—You have a strong nature, that you can develop into a force for much good or a contrary force that will work harm to yourself and others. You have the ability to face the circumstances of daily life with courage and efficiency, but you have a tendency to nervous haste that will make for trouble in later years, unless you resolve now to watch for it and control it at all times. You hate to await results, and an unfinished task is a positive affliction to you. Circumstances of your present life tend to keep you rather reserved and retired, and you have a slight tendency to shyness, which may be offset by your liking for the company of others and a friendly way which makes people like you at once. Try to cultivate this, rather than the introspective, morbid side of your nature. It will pay you better dividends to mix with others and like them, than to stand aloof, looking on at life through blue glasses. You are very honest and conscientious and regard a promise as sacred at all times. Cultivate the faculty of not seeing little things which annoy as you go through life, and strive for repose and calmness. You will do best when following out your inspirations than when following the advice of others. Marry a man born in April, August or November. February and June are your good months. Thursday your good day. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are red and brown.

Doreene.—You have naturally a strong, active, creative personality, inclined to be logical and daring and to disregard the rights of others and domineer, if allowed to do so. Your way of success in life, however, lies in tempering this tendency in your nature and employing tact and diplomacy as ways to gain your ends. Service to others should be your watchword. You would make a good nurse. Your strong personality in this way would be turned to a good account. But there are other avenues in life open to you. You would excel in almost any mental line you undertake, as you are efficient and very careful in obtaining information and imparting it. You would make a very good teacher. Your difficulty, as you go through the world, will be in striving to keep down your own good opinion of yourself. You have many fine qualities and a good deal of selfishness in your makeup. You will never think that others are as good as you, at least in your own secret thoughts, and may become very critical in later life. You will be happiest always in neat, comfortable surroundings, with neat, comfortable people. You are strong and healthy and will not grow old with advancing years, as along as you control your liking for good food. Marry a man born in March, May or August. You were born on Thursday. Your colors are the many variations of flame.

Rover.—You have rather a conservative nature, inclined to the study of the mystic and occult and unfavorable to new enterprises. You have an aptitude for business, commerce and finance, and should succeed in amassing money in these channels, although you are somewhat careless in money matters, in the way of neglecting to pay your bills promptly. You are careless too, of your belongings, and frequently drop and lose things. You are kind and amiable, and like the attractions of social life. In games of chance, you can depend a great deal on your keen intuition. You would make a good real estate dealer. You have a somewhat fascinating personality, but you are not at all steadfast. You have the habit of flitting from place to place and from people to people. Life is rather short, you know, for this sort of thing. You have a quick temper and a tendency to worry that will cause you much trouble with indigestion, unless curbed. You should strive for patience and steadfastness, not think too much of others' opinions, but rather value your own opinion of yourself, and cultivate poise. Success may come to you late in life. Be careful in your selection of friends, as your mind is quite susceptible to the influence of others. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are steel and purple shades.

J.G.—I am sorry that you neglected to give me the proper name. Your husband's name, preceded by "Mrs." is not sufficient. It is not really your own name, but just your married title.

L. J. M. H.—You have already had a reading, which should have reached you quite a while ago.

The pouch of a pelican is large enough to hold seven quarts of water.

The three portraits show, top, Capt. Amundsen, who has achieved all his ambitions in this voyage. When a young man he determined to visit both poles and navigate the northwest and northeast passages. He has done all these and visited the two magnetic poles as well. Captain Nobile, middle, is the designer of the Norge, which was built in Rome under his supervision. May Organize a Ku Klux Klan At Oxford To Ban Scent and Wide Pants From Campus

LONDON, May 22 (United News).—Talk of an organization similar to the Klu Klux Klan in the United States, to be used as a means of driving out effeminacy at Oxford University, is increasing among the older Alumni of this famous English institution of learning.

A newspaper man's description of a situation of campus life at Oxford has alarmed the Alumni throughout England and they feel that their sons, many of whom are students at Oxford but not a part of the effeminate class, cannot continue to bear the reputation which is being given by many to Oxford men in general. Here is the way a section of Oxford was described recently:

"A group of young men in tight-waisted coats and buff colored trousers a yard wide at the bottom are seated aroound a cafe table munching cream puffs and sipping tea. The nails are a trifle too well manicured; their hair is altogether too sleek. When one of them, in a plum color coat pulls out his handkerchief, a faint wisp of scent spreads across the room."

The reporter who wrote this account spent some time at Oxford, investigating stories which have been reaching London for many weeks, many of which tend to cast a slur on the old school.

Cambridge University is well pleased with the adverse publicity which Oxford is receiving. The many victories of Cambridge over Oxford in recent months has helped increase the storm of abuse which has been given Oxford.

Some Oxford men admit that the charges are true so far as a section of the school is concerned.

They are as willing as are the older Alumni to do what they can to correct the conditions that are being criticized. They declare that the influence of the "exquisites," as the effeminate element at Oxford is called, is insiduous and is spreading.

400 MILE FLIGHT FROM REFORMATORY

Eighteen Year Old Boy Arrested in Montreal.

HIS FEET SWOLLEN.

MONTREAL, May 22. — Thomas Brown, 18 years of age, three times arrested, and who has made two escapes, walked nearly 400 miles to Montreal, where he arrived Thursday and fell into the hands of Detective McCoy. Footsore from his long hike, the youth gave up his wanderings as meek as a lamb. He could go no further, although he admitted that he would have carried on in the hope that his swollen feet and tired limbs would take on a new lease during the next few days in this city. The long arm of the law intervened and today he will be taken back to Mimico, Ontario, where he escaped from a reformatory there last Monday afternoon.

Monday's was not the first break made by the youthful Brown. It was the most spectacular of his stunts to gain freedom, for he was a prisoner on the fifth floor when he shinnied down a water spout to the ground and made his getaway.

Brown was sent to Mimico for burglary at Carleton Place, Ontario, in October, 1924. By July, 1925, he tired of his confinement and walked away from the place one afternoon instead of going to his cell for an infraction of the rules.

The authorities were after him and in March, 1926, he again took French leave and was again recognized at Ottawa as an escaped prisoner sought by the authorities and once more the youth renewed acquaintance with his friends at Mimico Industrial school.

Last Monday wanderlust again got into his blood and while he was a long distance from the ground on the fifth floor, he never lost any time in planning how to get below without permission. A handy water spout, watched for days, appealed to the prisoner, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon he slid down the pipe, waved his hand at the building that housed him, scaled the fence and went away. He walked to Toronto and finally started for Montreal, nearly 400 miles from the Industrial school. He was a weary traveler yesterday, and a subdued one.

Wheat Prices Fall To-day Due To Increased Offerings

CHICAGO, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices turned downward today in early dealings, traders giving attention to rains in Canada and to increased offerings of wheat to be shipped promptly to Chicago. Opening unchanged to 3-4c off, wheat underwent a material setback all around, but then scored gains. Defeat of the Haughton bill at Washington weakened corn values which started unchanged to 1-2c down, and later showed a moderate decline. Oats were easy, Provisions also dropped.

Railroad Shares Featured Motors Continue Weak

NEW YORK, May 22 (Canadian Press).—The strength of railroad shares, coincident with renewed heaviness of motors featured today's brief but irregular session of the stock market. The trading was in fairly heavy volume, the sales running around half a million shares. Rails were in brisk demand as a result of the unusually favorable character of April earnings reports. With urgent short covering inspired by higher Hudson dividend apparently completed, and no organized effort made to follow up the advance, bear traders were quick to renew selling of automotive issues. Mack Truck crumbled two points on the first outbreak of selling and Stewart Warner, Hudson and General Motors about a point each.

Colored Gentlemen Serve Five-Course Lunch And All Hands Have Coffee When They Like In Peterborough Factory, Says Writer Home

THE following article is reprinted from The Weekly Telegraph, an English publication. Can anyone identify the factory? Or has anyone seen the "colored gentlemen" who serve meals to the bosses and minor bosses? Or the "army of colored kids," that picks up waste material? Or the man who wrote the letter?

WORKING FOR PLEASURE

Privileges the Canadian Factory-Hand Enjoys.

Recently a friend of mine emigrated to Canada. He went in some trepidation, for he is rapidly nearing "the forty line," and has spent all his working life engaged in a specialised factory craft. He was warned by the emigration officials on this side that his was a risky proceeding, for there is a great deal of unemployment in the Canadian cities—it is only on the land where work is plentiful. However, he had been out of work a very long time, and his little stock of savings was dwindling in an alarming manner, so he decided to chance it.

I had a letter from him a day or two ago. It is a most interesting and entertaining epistle. Here is the gist of it—

My friend was extremely lucky; he got into a post within ten days from landing at Montreal. He went, of course, in the early autumn, before the St. Lawrence became ice-b'ocked. He was fortunate in being a specialty man, for he dropped into work so easily solely on that account. He is working now at Peterboro'—a town of some twenty-five thousand inhabitants, on the main route between Montreal and Toronto, and some seventy miles from that latter city.

"What a big change" he writes, "in conditions out here! When you told me that I wou'd find things very much different, I didn't believe that they would be quite so different as I now find them. I was a little while in settling down, and in losing many of my old prejudices, but I'm all right now. Landed in clover, to be truthful! This is the best time I've ever struck, so here's to many more years like this!

"This isn't like working, old boy; it is more like being at that practical lesson we used to do at the old Technical School! We in the sheds start work at 7 a.m. and the office staff and designers come in at 8 o'clock. You would smile, son! Everybody has to 'check in'—even the superintendent, and they tell me that he has a screw of 10,000 dollars a year. It's great fun to watch him roll up at eight prompt in his dandy Packard—that's the Rolls Royce equivalent, out here, you know—and punch the old time clock before he goes along to his office. Imagine one of our home country mill managers doing that! He'd die in a blue fit at the thought of it!

"This concern's owned by a big corporation, and they have factories in several different towns. They tell me that all the time rolls have to go up to headquarters in Toronto, and even the superintendents get a big choking-off if they show a bad record.

"Well, you will be wanting to know about working conditions out here. For a start, they have wonderfully fine machinery. Contrary to my expectations much of it is of English manufacture. From what I had heard, I thought it would be near y all American. But it isn't. I often wondered what kept old Blank and Dashie, the machinists, so prosperous. I knew it couldn't be on the stuff they sold to English firms! Well, I guess they send most of their output over here! Some of the plant here was only built in 1924, and real beauties some of these machines are! It's a joy to handle 'em.

"Well, as I said, we start at 7 a.m. and then run through to noon. Then there's an hour break for unch—they don't call it dinner here; it's all 'lunch.' After that we go on from one until five p.m. Saturdays, we work from seven till twelve.

"You might think the morning stretch of five hours a long spell, but you don't really notice it, when you have fallen into the swing of things. Besides, there are some good compensations. For example, we get fifteen minutes coffee break at ten o'clock, and most of the fellows take a snack then.

"The cold weather's on now, and there's been some heavy snowfalls and terrible cold. So the firm have started their usual winter coffee pot going. What do you think of it, chum? Coffee gratis and ad lib.! And none of your stewed dish water! Real, honest-to-goodness coffee, with as much cream (not milk!) and sugar as you fancy!

"It's 'on tap' through the day, and any work man can drop in to the canteen for a cupful 'when so disposed.' But nobody abuses the privilege, and the fellows seldom make a call on it, except at the coffee break (there's some rush, then!), and at the lunch interval.

"By the way, on this job I count as a minor boss, so I fall in for an extra treat. I go in with the office staff each day for a free lunch, at the firm's expense! It's a real swell affair. The dining-room is a handsome apartment, elaborately fitted up, and there is a piano and gramophone and five-valve wireless. The table linen and appointments are of the best, and we are waited on by half-a-dozen 'coloured gentlemen.' I called 'em 'niggers' the first time down, but the fellow at the next chair soon put me wise about that. 'Coloured gentlemen'—unless you want to strike trouble good and hard However, it's a real slap-up lunch, with never less than five courses. Talk about 'piggy-wiggy' being in clover—— Well, I ask you!

"They keep the sheds here beautifully warm and there is an electrical arrangement that preserves a very even temperature. The heating medium is hot air, and this makes the atmosphere very dry and chokey' unti you get used to it. But it is so comforting, and a sight better than the iceberg we used to endure over home.

"A the machines here are electrically driven, and there is very little line-shafting about the place. Most of the machines have individual motors, and there is a meter on each to register current consumption. An office kid comes round each evening and takes the records, and afterwards these are sent up to headquarters.

"In this town practically all the mains are run overhead. Our factory line comes down on high steel towers, which are anchored on concrete beds. These lattice towers must be nigh on fifty feet high and there are a couple of transformers on the two where we tap the 'juice.' Electricity is a sight cleaner and more convenient than the old steam engine we had in the sheds at home

"They don't waste anything over in this place, I can tell you. You have to keep a record of all your material, and they have a little army of coloured kids going round all day sweeping up and sorting every scrap of waste.

"We , I , have to be closing down this letter, so I will just reel off a few more 'odds' for you ere writing finis.

"We have a beautiful big room where we wash and change into our outdoor things. We have a locker each where we keep our factory clothes. There are about two score hand wash bowls, and each is equipped with hot and cold water, and a very cute little idea for supplying soap. You just press down a small plunger and a short length of paste-soap—like the shaving cream variety, you know—falls into the palm of your other hand. It's a great idea; no waste, and no using of soap that somebody else has handled.

"Finally, there is one little point I mustn't miss. I've got a banking account now, son! Not one of your common or garden Post Office savings accounts—but a real current account, like all the k'nuts!

"You see, we all get paid by cheque on this concern. Pay day comes once a fortnight, and then everybody gets a cheque for wages; they don't pay anyone out in cash. Even the darkie kids that do the shop labouring receive their few dollars per cheque. So, you see, a current account is a necessity. Paying by cheque is certainly a very convenient scheme for the firm; for one thing, it saves them a lot of trouble; then it is a good safeguard, and also it renders easy the settlement of any disputes about errors. And it sure helps to make a man more thrifty and settled. When you have risen to the dignity of a current account, you somehow feel more self-reliant, and it's a fact you don't fritter so much cash away in trifles when it is not right on hand.

"All the bosses here, and a good few of the ordinary workfolk, own a number of shares in the business. I shall be buying some, when I have had time to look around a bit, and settle down more. They're paying eight per cent. on their Common Stock, and it would be rather nice to pay in a fat 'divi' cheque along with your salary strip, would-nt it, chum?"

THIS BIRD PLAYS NO FAVORITES

THE VALUE OF A LIBRARY.

By F. M. Dela Fosse.

WHAT would this world be like if we were all formed in the same pattern, with the same set habits, the same outlook on life, the same aspirations, even the same religious dogma? Of course, such a state of things is impossible, for a dead level means stagnation — and stagnation means death.

The very nature of our being precludes all thought of mundane perfection, and yet we find men and women dreaming of golden Utopias where everybody shall be made happy and prosperous and where evil-speaking, lying and slandering shall be unknown. This is a condition reserved for dwellers in Paradise, not for dwellers on earth, for man is imbued with a spirit of acquisitiveness, the spirit that strives and never tires of striving, and this fact should convince the least thoughtful that our salvation is not destined to be won by spiritual peace, but by spiritual war.

It is this desire to reach ever upwards and onwards for fresh knowledge that has brought man to his present status in the scheme of Creation, and one of the finest fruits of his thirst for progress is seen in the invention of printing. Five hundred years ago men possessed as true instincts, as brilliant imaginations, as magnificent intellects as are to be found in the world to-day. But they were hampered in their endeavours to benefit their fellow-men, owing to the absence of channels of swift communication. So the great bulk of humanity continued to progress slowly, and ignorance, cruelty, and sordid ways of living and thinking were rife amongst the masses.

The advent of printing was like the bursting of a sun over the horizon of man's mentality, for he had been groping in thick fogs for untold centuries, endeavouring to gain a clearer view of life and of the problems which it offered for solution.

We do not need to turn to the pages of history for a testimony to its value. In our own day—with our own eyes—we can see change following change with almost kaleidoscopic celerity in every branch of human endeavour and wherever progress is being made the BOOK and the PEN are the vehicles which are making that progress possible.

When one recalls the words of Keats, on first looking into Chapman's Homer:

"Then felt I as some watcher of the skies
When a new planet swims into his ken."

one faintly realizes with what ecstasy early readers must have pored over the first volumes that emanated from the presses of Gutenberg and Caxton.

To-day, books are so easily obtainable that men are apt to overlook their value and fail to realize the true worth of a library. It scarcely ever enters the mind of the man in the street that a visit to such an institution will bring before his eyes treasures of which he has probably never dreamed.

Books affect people in many different ways. Personally, whenever I unpack a fresh consignment I find my mind turning by direct sequence of thought to the pyramids of Egypt. They always seem to me so typical of man's eternal struggle to rear a spiritual pyramid of his own. All the philosophies, all the schemes for social betterment, all the numberless plans of statecraft and of priestcraft, pushed into the limbo of oblivion by succeeding panaceas for the world's diseases, have left, in their passing, helpful thoughts that have impelled oncoming generations to fresh endeavours. So, one should not regard even the strangest philosophy or the most weirdly constructed novel with contempt.

Although many of us may not be able to discern usefulness or beauty in such efforts, there are others who may, and in the great scheme of the universe the humblest, as well as the proudest of agencies must have its part. It all depends upon the angle from which one views things. I have read poems by Dean Swift which few respectable families would allow in their houses, and yet I am confident that if those same poems were to be placed in the hands of young people they would fill them with such horror of certain forms of vice that they would keep to the straight and narrow path in fear and trembling.

The library, to use a stock phrase, is "the poor man's university," whither he can wend his way to dip into the lore of the ages and gain access to far more knowledge than any school can possibly teach him. He can sit at the feet of many Gamaliels and drink in the oratory of the world's greatest preachers, statesmen and philosophers. If only the public could be induced to make wider use of its utilities it would soon discover that a public library not only offers the gift of free scholarship but also provides a potent aid in the formation of the highest type of citizen.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS MEETS MR. MARSH OWL

"Oh, dear," Doris cried, when she saw the queer looking bird fluttering over the low bushes, "someone has hurt that bird, I'll bet a—"

"Wait-a-second, wait - a - second," chuckled a merry voice, and a wee little elfin poked his head up from the grasses at Doris's feet. "Be careful what you bet, Little Lady."

"Well, of all things, Squeedee!" Doris exclaimed, turning around shaking her finger at the elfin, "I might have known you would be here to save me from losing my new hat. That's an Owl, isn't it, Squeedee?"

"Sure that's Mr. Owl," replied the elfin, "and a mighty fine fellow he is, too."

"But I never saw an Owl flying so close to the ground before," mused Doris. "Is he hunting his dinner?"

"Hello there, Mr. Marsh Owl," Squeedee called. The little fellow flew back to shake hands with Squeedee. "This is my little friend Doris, and this is Mr. Marsh Owl, Doris."

Doris took Mr. Owl in at one glance and bowed very politely. She had never seen an owl just like him.

He was just about 14 inches long, with great black patches around his big yellow eyes. His dusky brown feathers on his back were streaked with dark brown. His bill and claws were a blue black, while the feathers on his legs were more of a buff.

"Never seen a Marsh Owl before?" he asked as Doris looked him over. "Well, some folks call us Short-eared Owls, because, as you may have noticed, we have very short ears; in fact, they're so small you can't see them."

"I noticed that," agreed Doris.

"Ho o, there, Mr. Marsh Owl!"

"And do you really live down in the marshes? Where do you build your nests?"

"Seeing is believing," laughed Mr. Marsh Owl. "Besides, Mrs. Marsh Owl has a surprise to show you, Squeedee." He lifted himself on lovely buff and dusky-streaked wings and sailed low over the weeds and rushes to a rude little nest of hay and sticks built right down on the ground.

Here Mrs. Marsh Owl, a wee bit larger than Mr. Marsh Owl, greeted Doris and Squeedee.

"You're just the one I've been wanting to see, Squeedee," she laughed. "See our lovely eggs!" She moved off the rude nest to her guests could take a peck at the six lovely white eggs nestled in the hay, "Isn't that lovely?"

"It surely is," agreed Doris. "I've never met a Marsh Owl before, but I do want to say this: I think you one of the prettiest owls I have met. But tell me, you never build in the treetops like your relatives do? Why, may I ask?"

"Well, it's this way," replied Mrs. Marsh Owl. "Daddy and I live on mice, gophers and most all insects that live on the ground. Sow e think it more convenient to live down on the ground."

"I'd much prefer a nest on the ground to one in the trees," said Mr. Marsh Owl. "We very seldom fly high. We always just skim the tops of the weeds. That reminds me, I must catch something for the wife's dinner," and he sailed away.

Doris and Squeedee bid Mrs. Marsh Owl good-bye promising to call agai after the white eggs were hatched, and ran home.

10,000 DRY AGENTS.

Edwards Attacks New Presidential Order in U. S.—Wants Referendum.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 22.—(Canadian Press.)—The Presidential order creating an additional army of 10,000 dry agents by enlisting state, county and municipal officers with a dollar a year in the Federal prohibition service was described to-day by Senator Edwards, Democratic, New Jersey, as "the most revolutionary order ever issued from the White House in time of peace."

"The States are to be used as catspaws in the grand game of upholding the hands of the anti-saloon league administration. The already unmanageable army of official snoopers and sneaks is to be vastly increased and the onus of enforcement lifted from the shoulders of the Federal government (where it belongs) on to the backs of the States."

He added: "The public is bent upon ending prohibition," and urged a national referendum.

WORK OF BLIND ON EXHIBITION

Handicraft of Sightless Is Remarkable For Neatness.

AT TURNBULL'S.

"Blind people need work. Work means happiness." The age-ol formula for contentment, the finding of work that will keep the fingers occupied and the mind at ease, appeals to the blind as well as to the sighte individuals of the race. There are many tales of the despair that seizes those who are cut off by accident or disease from visual contact with their fellow men. They walk about and have their being in a world whose olors and pleasant sights are lost forever. For them remains only one avenue of escape, the road of work.

In the main winow o fthe Turnbull Company's' establishment, and upstairs in its showrooms are examples of the wonderfully fine work done by sightless blind workers in the workshops of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, in Toronto. Incredibly neat and fine are the stitches and the finishing touches put on these garments by the sightless workers. If such patient, carefull attention were paid to their handicraft by those possessed of eyes, they would be pointed out as models of industry. To note the painstaking finish of these garments an discover that they are made by blind people is to marvel at their expert use of the fingers that are said to become so clever in the worker deprived of sight.

There are dainty examples of their dexerity in House Dresses whose bright hues, although unnoted by the workers, are very attractiv. These are made up in black sateen and rayon cotton broadcloth and gingham, the gingham and sateen also fashioning the pretty aprons which form part of the exhibit, made in the "Polly Prim" style, with careful, fine binings and adornment of rick-rack braid. Even to those who do not wish to buy, an inspection of this work is a revelation of what may be one under the handicap of what used to be considered an insurmountable disability.

TWENTY-EIGHTH EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS TO BE HISTORY - MAKING EVENT

When Marie Tamisser, a pious lady of Tours (France) inaugurated the first Eucharistic Congress (celebration of the Lord's Supper) at Lille, France, on June 21st, 1881, she little thought it would become the important religious function it is today.

The original idea of holding such a congress was merely local. Of recent years, however, it has grown to such an extent that the 28th International World's Eucharistic Congress, to be held at Chicago from June 20th to 24th, promises to be one of the greatest religious gatherings ever held.

A personally conducted tour for the benefit of the Catholic people of Ontario has been officially arranged by the Knights of Columbus. Pilgrims will travel on special trains via Canadian National Railways on which will be personal representatives of the company to ensure every comfort for the travellers.

Special railway fares, also fares including rail transportation, sleeping car reservations and hotel accommodation in Chicago, will be quoted on application to G. P. McHugh, State Advocate, Knights of Columbus, 510 Federal Building, Toronto, or through any Canadian National Railways Agent. 17, 22

Kitchennette Too Small; Cramps the Personality

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 22 (United Press).—Kitchennette apartments—the joy of the newly weds—have come up for criticism before the first annual American Health Congress now in session here.

"The small apartment," said Dr. Christine M. Leonard of the Philadelphia Guild Guidance Clinic, "does not give sufficient outlet for excessive energy and the close association of the family dwarfs and cramps the personalities of its members."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Ok'a.

R. F. R. Huntsman, publisher of the Brooklyn (New York) Standard-Union, says

THAT everything of value you have obtained was brought to your attention by advertising.

All your possessions that you prize—you didn't invent any of them yourself, you know.

Some time ago somebody advertised character and education and you believed the advertisement: you were sold on home and family by effective advertising: and if you have any problem like education of your children, or safeguarding their financia interests, you look for advice from some advertiser who will tell you the truth—now, don't you?

If you will make a mental inventory and remember how you came to buy your radio or your trout rod, your shelf of books or your shoes or the wrist watch you gave for a present, you will remember that in the first place the purchase was prepared by advertising.

Yes, of course, you pick out your wife yourself. But goodness, how you had to advertise!

Supremacy in Fine Steel

In the percentage of Costly Chrome Vanadium Steel used, Dodge Brothers Motor Car outranks any other automobile in the World, regardless of cost.

It is everywhere conceded that Chrome Vanadium Steel is the toughest and most enduring metal ever created for use in the vital parts of a motor car.

It may not be so well known, however, that Dodge Brothers Motor Car ranks first in the world in the use of this costly and fatigue-proof material.

Dodge Brothers power assembly is almost entirely Chrome Vanadium—motor, connecting rods, crankshaft, transmission, universal joint, drive shaft, differential and rear axle.

Even the front axle is Chrome Vanadium — the entire steering unit—and every leaf of the springs.

In fact, wherever any manufacturer uses alloy steels, Dodge Brothers use costly Chrome Vanadium. And in numerous instances Dodge Brothers employ it where plain carbon steel, even in the costliest cars, is commonly thought sufficient.

This has been true from the day Dodge Brothers built their first motor car.

This explains why the words Long Life, Safety and Dependability are habitually associated with the name Dodge Brothers wherever motor cars are serving mankind.

FLAG IS STUDIED ON EMPIRE DAY

Deeds of Empire's Heroes Are Recalled on May 23.

CANADIAN IDEA

From "Famous Canadian Stories Retold for Children," by Leslie Horner (abridged).

In order that we may know all that our grand old flag stands for; and to help us learn more about Britain, our Motherland, and about our sister nations all over the world, Empire Day has been established in the schools.

The date chosen is the day before Victoria Day — but Empire Day must not be confused with the Twenty-fourth of May. It is quite distinct, and is not celebrated in the same way. May it never become a day of picnics, flag-waving and sky-rockets. These are good sometimes, but he who celebrates Empire Day so has missed its meaning. It is, rather, a day on which we sing patriotic songs, study the history of the flag, and have grown-ups come to the school to speak about the Empire and the brave deeds of her people.

There was a certain Canadian lady who had thought about the need of closer union between the various parts of the Empire for some time. Mrs. Clementina Fessenden, of Hamilton, Ontario, said that the best way to get one part of the big British Empire to know about and work for the other parts, was to teach the children in the schools; and as far back as the year 1896 she began to speak publicly on the subject, and to urge that it be given a trial. So to Canada belongs the honor of having thought of Empire Day first.

Many things that are worth having are hard to get; and Mrs. Fessenden did not have an easy time establishing Empire Day. Some people laughed at her, and others were indifferent, and thought what she said was not important. When she wrote letters on this subject to the newspapers they hesitated about printing them, for they were not willing to stand by her, and help her through. Sometimes she tried in vain to get a public hearing.

During the winter of 1896-7 she perfected her idea, speaking about it in public, and writing many, many letters and newspaper articles. Finally she brought it to the attention of the Minister of Education of Ontario. By this time the people saw that she was in earnest, and soon she had the satisfaction of seeing Empire Day celebrated in a small way at some of the schools of her own province.

Gradually Empire Day won its way. One triumph followed another. After it was established in Toronto, and some of the other Ontario cities, Mrs. Fessenden went to Montreal to attend a big patriotic celebration there in May, 1898. Mrs. Fessenden sat in the Governor's box, the children marching past her as they sang. In recognition of her unfailing efforts, an enthusiastic crowd presented her with a huge bouquet of red and white roses, tied with red, white, and blue streamers, the colors of the flag she loves so well.

The greatest triumph Empire Day has ever seen came in May, 1917, when 64 flags of British dominions were massed in a stupendous celebration of Empire Day in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England. The Great War proved how loyal all Britishers are, no matter in what part of the world they dwell; it showed to mankind thes pectable of the children rallying around their mother when she sent out her call for help. Who shall say that their loyalty was not the result of the patriotic teaching given year after year in the public schools?

THOUSANDS OF THANKFUL MOTHERS

Strongly Recommend Baby's Own Tablets To Their Friends.

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she would use nothing else. The Tablets give such results that the mother has nothing but words of praise for them. Among the thousands of mothers throughout Canada who praise the Tablets is Mrs. David A. Anderson, New Glasgow, N.S., who writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children, and from my experience I would not be without them. I would urge every other mother of young children to keep a box of the Tablets in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

'B' BATTERY LIFE GREAT PROBLEM

Selection of Proper Size Battery Aids in Cutting Cost.

LASTS LONGER.

The broadcast listener who is compelled to make frequent battery renewals is apparently faced with an inescapable dilemma. Either he must continue to spend money frequently for "B" batteries or else purchase a "B" battery eliminator, the first cost of which may easily amount to five or six "B" battery renewals. It seems to be a choice between two evils.

It is reassuring to know that short "B" battery life can be eliminated without such a wholesale attack upon the bank account as is required by the purchase of a "B" battery eliminator. "B" battery satisfaction is largely a matter of choosing the right size battery. The secret is to buy a reputable battery of adequate capacity for the set with which it is to be used.

You would not install a Ford engine in a ten ton truck and expect it to stand up under a full load, yet is it not an uncommon sight to see a large five tube receiver powered with small "B" batteries intended only for portable receivers. For receiving sets employing one to three tubes the most economical battery to buy is a "large" "B" battery, while receivers with four or more vacuum tubes require the "extra large" or Heavy Duty "B" batteries.

An interesting instance which illustrates the economy of maintenance secured with a large size "B" battery is given in a letter from Harry Allt, second engineering officer of the S.S. Antilachus. After describing the 45 volt "B" battery which he purchased while in Boston in March, 1923, he continues:

"I used it in connection with my two W.D. 11 valves, while I was in America, and then took it with me to the Far East via Panama, then proceeding to England, left it in my home. There it was used at varying intervals until I brought it away with me again. We had an exceptionally hot voyage via the Red Sea. I used it in Manila where it registered 43 volts, and again in Boston, and I am using it here at present, and it registers 39 volts, while the five tappings show but 2 volts depreciation. The total number of hours it has been in use is about 700, and when not in use no particular care has been taken to protect it."

Considering that the battery was in service for over two and a half years and for a total number of hours equivalent to over an hour's "listening in" every other night during that period, it certainly shows a remarkable life. Had the receiver been powered with a small battery intended for portable sets, the chances are it would not have lasted more than four or five months.

CRYSTAL GAZER LOCATES CHILD

Mrs. Booth Tells Searchers Where To Look For Little Girl.

UNDER OLD BARN.

HAROLD, May 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilson of the 8th concession of Rawdon Township received a shock on Tuesday, when their little neice, Laura Wilson, aged 6 years, disappeared about three o'clock. The child was seen playing in the yard and a few minutes later was not to be found. The alarm was given and very soon a great many friends and neighbors had gathered to assist in the search. They continued the search all night, but the child could not be found. Finally a party called at Mrs. Booth's home and she, on looking in her diamond, said she was near an old barn and appeared to be crying. She also described the clothing the child wore. Mr. Johnson, a neighbor, crept under this old building and discovered the child asleep and apparently all right, only badly frightened. Evidently she had crawled under the barn to get her pet rabbit which had run under the building and while under the barn became frightened at something she thought to be a woodchuck and sobbed herself to sleep. She said she was cold, but appeared to be not much the worse after the lonely night she had spent. Words could not express the great joy of the aunt and uncle when their little neice was safely back in their care again.

BOYS' RECITAL.

Whole Programme Given By Boys Under Fifteen.

A recital that was very interesting, owing to the fact that it was given by boys only, their ages ranging from four to fifteen years, was held last evening before a good sized audience, in the hall of the Conservatory of Music. The youthful pupils, members of classes taught by various teachers at the Conservatory, played remarkably well, several of the smaller boys making a decided hit. Little Alex Carlisle, in his white suit, with debonnair air and tiny violin, playing his miniature fiddle without the aid of any miniature score, appeared to be quite astonished at the interest he evoked in his audience, and small Allan Park and Morris Wearing were other members of the group whose appearance demonstrated the extreme youth of several of the musicians.

The boys, one and all, played with ease and business like execution, going through their performances mainly from memory, without any frills, and displaying real interest in their music. The interpretation of several of the numbers was extremely good, notably that of Ashton Fife, Arnold Noftall, Harold McFarlane and Walter Townsend on the piano, with interesting variations in a guitar number by small Kenneth Weldon, a clarinet solo by Billy Widdess, a 'cello number, "Traumerei," played in excellent style by Jack Thackeray, and a double violin number, Massenet's "Meditation," and Hayden's "Minuette," played by Donald Greene with carful skill.

The Junior Orchestra of the Conservatory played two attractive opening numbers ,in a Festival March and a Sacred Selection, with members of the ensemble in G. Hutchinson, A. Runnett, R. Clark, H. Johnston, M. Warne, S. Dawson, B. Widdess, J. Thackeray and R. Rowan. A Folk Song by a group of small lads, playing stringed instruments, included the followin members: R. Gillespie, T. Cragg, J. McKone, J. Weddell, F. Stenson, J. Barns, P. Bingham, G. Duncan and C. Morgan.

The solo numbers were as follows; Piano, "Cradle Song," "Nightingale" and "Raindrops,' by Morris Wearing; "Vicar of Bray," and "Over the Meadow," by Ralph Flitton; "Cinderella,' by Walter Howell; "Narcissus," by Billy Turner; "Soldiers' March," b, Allan Park; "Sonatina," by Russell Rowan; "Arielle," by Ray Trantar; "Morceau," by Albert Saunders; Chopin's Valse, Op. 64, No. 2, by Jack Cuff; "Papillons," by Ashton Fife. "Curious Story," by Arnold Noftall; Schuberts "Valse Impromptu," by Harold McFarlane; piano trio, "Paper Chain," by Donald McHoull, Melville Robinson and Jack Telford; piano duo, Weber's "Mazurka," by Jack Cuff and Ashton Fife; violin solos, "Carse Melody,' by Allan Park; "Old Folk Song,' by Alex. Carlisle; Massenet's "Meditation," and Haydens "Minuet," by Donald Greene; guitar, Kenneth Weldon; clarinet, Billy Widdess; cello, Jack Thackeray.

The final piano offering was by Walter Townsend, in two difficult numbers played with skilful ease: Bach's Prelude and Fuge and Beethoven's Rondo in G.

Accompanists for the special solo numbers were Mrs. Thackeray, Miss Edwin Palmer and Miss Margaret Widdess.

FORMER CITIZEN DIES SUDDENLY

J. L. McKay Found Dead On Oshawa Street Corner.

PETERBORO MAN.

OSHAWA, May 22.—(Special.)—J. L. McKay, grocer, of 366 Park Road south, this city, and a former resident of Peterborough, was found lying dead at Park Road and Pine Avenue at 11 o'clock last night. Coroner F. J. Rundle is investigating the circumstances of the death and it is not yet known whether an inquest will be held. Mr. McKay was believed to have been in the best of health. He was fifty-four years of age and was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church of the United Church of Canada. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Arthur, Harold and Wilfrid, and one daughter, Marjorie.

BOY SHOT HIMSELF.

Rifle Discharged While He Was Cleaning It.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 22. Canadian Press. — On Wednesday, as Grant Gerow, aged 14, who resides near the village of Newburg, was cleaning his rifle, it was accidentally discharged, the bullet lodging in the lower part of the right lung.

The victim of the unfortunate accident was alone at the time and was found some time later by his brother Percy, who immediately summoned assistance and medical aid.

He was reported slightly better yesterday though in a very critical condition.

PROSPECTS GOOD.

Sun Comes Out at Toronto For Running of King's Plate.

TORONTO, May 22 —(Canadian Press).— Prospects for a gala opening of the Canadian Racing season with the running of the historic King's Plate at Woodbine Park, this afternoon, increased when the sun broke through threatening clouds this morning.

The sixteen thoroughbreds in the King's Plate are carded to line up at the tape at 4 p.m., daylight saving time, in the feature race of the day.

NEW WOOL FOR NAVAJO BLANKETS

In order to get more beautiful wool for their famous blankets, Navajo Indians in New Mexico are breeding a new kind of sheep, a cross between the rare Karakul sheep from Asia and the native sheep, says Popular Science Monthly. The Karakul sheep is the animal that supplies the fur known as broadtail, astrakhan or Persian lamb.

FOUR ARRESTED.

Daughters of Reputed Wealthy Hotel Owner Held By Police.

CHICAGO, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Two daughters of a reputed wealthy owner of hotels in Toronto, Buffalo, Palm Beach and New York City, and two chorus men were taken into custody today in a north side apartment at the instance of the girls' mother, Mrs. Budd, who came from Buffalo accompanied by her son-in-law, Jack Wallace.

The girls, Mrs. Thelma Pudd Wallace, 19, and Marjorie Budd, 18, left home last October, the mother told the detective. David Morton and Jack Delis, who said they were artists and chorus men, were arrested and with the girls were held for hearing in the morals court.

Moose Will Battle Central Leaguers Twice on Holiday.

VISITORS ARE STRONG.

Leading the Parade in Willowdale League and Expect Win Here.

With two ball games scheduled for Riverside Park, on Monday, Peterborough fans will not have to worry about how to spend Victoria Day. The Moose team who are leading the parade in the Willowvale Park League in Toronto will oppose the Peterborough Central Ontario Leaguers in the morning and afternoon fixtures, the morning game scheduled for 10.30 a.m. and the afternoon tilt billed for 3 o'clock Baldwin and Booth will do the heaving for the Toronto crew while Manager Shiner Johnston will call on Al. Heckman, Lefty Lennox and Jeff Hardill to stop the invaders. With favourable weather the two games should attract a flock of holiay fans. The Moose will arrive in town to-morrow and will be in good shape for the series as they have had more work than the Petes.

Yanks Keeping Pace With Ruth As "Murderers' Row"

NEW YORK, May 22. — (Canadian Press). — With an amazing total of 37 home runs in 33 games, the New York Yanks have set out to establish one of the most remarkable hitting achievements in baseball behind the record breaking pace of Babe Ruth.

The great outfielder and his team mates are far ahead of their gait of 1925, when a total of 110 circuit clouts was compiled by the New York Club. At their present pace, the American League leaders are expected by the baseball men to exceed a mark of 160 for the season. They have met every club in the league and no staff of pitchers thus far has been able to curb the terrific hitting which has prevailed from one end of the batting order to the other.

Bob Meusell ranks second to Ruth with six four-baggers to his credit, while Combs come next in line with five. Collins has poled out four, Lazzeri three, Behrig two and Dugan and Koenig each one.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

For once they is something for us stay-at-homes to do on Victoria Day seeing as how Manager Johnston's ball tossers is billed to play 2 games at Riverside Park against the Mooses of Toronto. They is a morning game for them that don't sleep in and a afternoon battle for everybody, and 2 big crowds should toddle over the bridge to see the doings if the weather and everything is going to be all right. They ain't been much said about the Petes yet because the weather ain't been the kind that sets the ball bugs a-raving, but take it for me, Mac, Mister Johnston is going to have a team what will be up there fighting for the top rung all the way. Of course, the Kingston papers has the league won already, and Belleville expect Jack Oulette's right arm is going to carry them through to the top, but they both gotta climb over the Petes to get there, and the local lads is determined to make it a tough climb. Mon. gives the fans a good chance to size up the home talent for themselves, for them Mooses ain't no set-up for any 1's team, and they're coming down here full strength to scalp the Petes twice, the way they see it. All Mister Johnston's throwers will boil on the heaving hill in some part of the day's doings, and they should be plenty of excitement over at the ball yard on the holiday.

The Central loop was to have opened Wed., but the clouds opened first and all the Petes got out of it was the buggy ride. They travelled to Kingston and back without getting any nearer to a ball game than a glimpse of Belleville's new ball yard as they passed through the peaceful habitat of Messrs. Mills, Gerow and company. The new home of the Grand Trunks as seen from the road looks like a real ball plant, and if they can break in some of them Belleville rooters so they can sit in a grandstand without hitching they oughta be some good ball games seen out there this summer. The Petes was disappointed at not getting no action on their trip, but still a pleasant time was had by all.

THE 1ST CLASH OF THE SEASON.

Although the boys didn't play ball in Kingston Wed., the season was officially opened just the same, for Mister Joe Daley, the Ponies' manager, and Mister Shiner Johnston, the Petes' pilot, had their first run-in of the campaign. Them 2 birds get along about as peaceable as 2 cats tied together over a clothes-line, and 4 minutes after the Petes had taxied into Kingston the rival leaders was in a jam over when the game would be played. Mister Daley said Fri. or nothing. Mister Johnston said it would halfta be nothing then, for he couldn't get his players off work again at such short notice. Mister Daley said he'd take his team outa the league, and Mister Johnston intimated he'd shed no tears if Mister Daley did drop out. Then the 2 dipped into ancient history, and the audience got a earful and a bunch of laughs before Sat. was finally agreed to as a compromise, with Mister Daley lamenting that for the 71st time he'd been made a fish outa of by the Petes. All of which promises some lively doings every time the two teams hook up this season.

Next Sat. Mister Jack Oulette of Fenelon Falls, Lindsay and Belleville Business College will be here with the Grand Trunks to open the Central Ontario League season. Mister Oulette's last appearance in Peterboro was not a very auspicious 1, for the Raybestos team knocked him for a row of service stations and he almost threw his arm off. However, the Belleville dope says his flipper is as good as ever, and if it is they is trouble ahead for the Central League swatsmiths.

Hoping they will be some summer weather Mon. so the boys can get out and do their stuff proper.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

TEN ROUND DRAW.

Carpentier and Huffman Please 14,000 Spectators at New York.

NEW YORK, May 22. Canadian Press. — Georges Carpentier, soldier fighter from France, and Eddie Huffman, the blonde Californian, fought a ten round draw at Madison Square Garden last night, in a fight which bubbled with action from the start.

The decision met with general approval from the 14,000 spectators.

RACING DOGS

In recent months whippet racing has become an increasingly popular sport in many parts of America; among country clubs in the neighborhoods of large eastern cities, and especially in California, where handicap meets are held weekly the year round. And the reason for this popularity probably lies in the fact that, pound for pound, the whippet is the fastest animal that runs—provided the running is done over a course of 200 yards.

It has been proved in many coursing matches that a wild rabbit, given thirty yards' start on one of these little racing dogs, is doomed to certain destruction. A good whippet, well trained, can run 200 yards in twelve seconds. This means that the whippet travels at an average speed of slightly more than sixteen and one-half yards a second, says Popular Science Monthly. The racing greyhound, the whippet's big brother in dogdom, runs faster than that, but if handicapped according to size—which would give the whippet a start of ninety yards in a 200-yard race—the whippet would prove the faster.

Comparison of the whippet with the human runner makes the world's fastest sprinter seem slow. Charley Paddock's record for 200 yards is nineteen seconds—an average speed of about ten and one-half yards a second. A good whippet could give Paddock a handicap of sixty yards in a 200-yard race and beat him so easily that the finish wouldn't be exciting! The highest speed ever attained by a human runner—about eleven and one-half yards a second in the second fifty yards of a record equalling 100-yard race—doesn't compare favorably with the pace of these little dogs that are bred for running and nothing but running.

Even where he is supplied with mechanical aids, the human athlete would have little chance against a whippet over the dog's favorite distance. The 200-yard record for ice skating is more than five seconds slower than the standard time for whippets. Frank Kramer set a world record by riding a bicycle a quarter of a mile in twenty-eight seconds. If a whippet had been running against the greatest of cyclists on that occasion, the dog would have passed the 200-yard mark with a lead of at least ten yards.

All of which shows that whippet racing is a speedy sport—and explains why it is becoming so popular.

TEA AND SOCIAL ARE SUCCESSFUL

Most Enjoyable Event Held by United Ladies' Aid.

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, May 21.—The tea and social evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society held in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday evening, drew a large attendance and was one of the most enjoyable gatherings of the year.

Three long tables were most attractively laid, the floral decorations of daffodils and hyacinths being the gift of Mrs. H. W. Johnston.

Tea was served at 6.30 p.m. and evidently the menu was of a most satisfying character. Mrs. H. Skitch and Miss Estelle Hetherington were the cashiers, and among those who waited on tables were: Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. C. C. Garside; pouring tea were: Mrs. Johnston, Miss Duncan and Mrs. A. J. Brown; others assisting with the serving were: Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. Freelove, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds.

Community singing began about 8 p.m., Mr. H. W. Johnston and Mr. Howard leading, with Miss Ella Elson at the piano.

Other numbers on the programme were: Duet, "If Thou Are There," by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston; encore, "Ireland, I Love You," by Mr. Johnston; selection by the Continuation School Glee Club, "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," those taking part being Misses Elizabeth Russell, Margaret Howard, Beryl Wood, Laura Foley, Dorothy Crossley and Margaret Armstrong, Messrs. Walter Sayles, Jacy Byam, Kenneth Skitch, Laurence Rowland, Eddie Nattrass and Piercy Pitt, with Miss Kathleen Sutton as the accompanist; for an encore the club sang "We Will a-Hunting Go"; a second selection of the Glee Club was, "No, Sir," and the encore, "Good Night, Ladies."

Following the National Anthem, a number of community games were put on by the Tuxis Boys, Nelles Rowland being in charge. Practically everyone could take part in this part of the programme and a most enjoyable time was spent.

The proceeds were over $30.00 and will go toward reducing the debt in connection with the recent improvements to the church auditorium, the Ladies' Aid having assumed the entire obligation in this matter.

Curlers' Banquet.

Excellent music was provided for the curlers' banquet at the Waverley Inn on Friday evening through the kindness of Mr. H. R. Armstrong, an active member of the club, who kindly gave the use of his new Orthophonic Victrola for the occasion. A number of selections between the various speakers added much to the enjoyment of the gathering.

This is the fourth year for the schedule of games for the Allen Cup to be completed, Reeve W. T. Wood's rink winning it for two successive seasons, though the personnel of the rink changed each time; Councillor G. W. Sayles had the honor of skipping the winning rink last year, while this year J. N. McGill is the successful skip.

Young People Meet.

The Tuxis Square was responsible for the programme at the Young People's Society on Monday evening, Kenneth Skitch occupying the chair.

Owing to other events intervening, the attendance was smaller than usual, but the topic, "The Influence of Heredity and Environment," provoked both thought and interest. Nelles Rowland presented the subject under the head of environment and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Howard, took up the heredity aspect.

W. Byam read the Scripture lesson from the first Psalm, and Mr. Howard led in the opening prayer.

The C.G.I.T. group will be responsible for the league meeting next week, which will be held on Tuesday rather than Monday evening, the latter being a holiday.

The Tuxis Square, the C.G.I.T. group and the league will combine in providing the plants for the front of the church this season.

The girls will take up some phases of the work of the League of Nations for their programme on Tuesday evening. Everybody is invited to attend the Young People's meetings each week. The hour of opening is 7.45 p.m.

Personals.

The many friends of Mrs. William Mullen will be glad to learn that she has recovered from her recent severe illness.

Dr. Herbert N. Young now has his professional sign out in front of the Vance residence, which he recently purchased, and is expected to begin his medical practice here shortly. Dr. and Mrs. T. W. H. Young of Peterboro have announced the engagement of their son, Dr. Herbert N. Young, to Miss F. Baxter of Kingston, the marriage to take place at the latter city on June 12.

DRAW IN TEN ROUNDS.

Mayberry, of Hamilton, and Foley, of Vancouver, in Battle.

TEACHERS LEAVE HAVELOCK SCHOOL

Board of Education Accepts Two Resignations In Continuation Section.

HAVELOCK, May 22.—The Havelock Board of Education met on Wednesday, May 19, with all members present. A communication was received from John Robertson, secretary, Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, re classification of school for insurance purposes and filed.

Moved by Trustees Rigby and Fraser, that Mr. Fletcher's resignation as principal of the Continuation School be accepted, and the recommendation as read by Secretary be approved. Carried.

Moved by Trustees Roche and Moore, that Miss A. H. Long's resignation be accepted and the recommendation as read by Secretary be approved. Carried.

Three applications were received for positions on the Public School staff. These were, by consent, left over until the next meeting and the Secretary was instructed to advise the applicants that applications would be considered at a later date.

Seek Principal.

It was moved by Trustees Roche and Moore that the Secretary advertise in The Globe for a Continuation School principal at a salary of $2,000, male preferred. Carried.

Attendance Officer McAdam reported in connection with two calls he had to make since last meeting, and the board drew his attention to the fact that the statutes empowered him to take the necessary steps to enforce attendance by those of school age.

The board had under consideration the cleaning of the lavatories, and Attendance Officer McAdam was asked to see that the work was done in a sanitary manner for the sum of $25 per annum.

No action was taken with regard to a special book on science and a book of knowledge for the use of the Continuation and Public Schools.

ROSENBERG WINS.

Ebber Kicks White Towel Out of Ring—Fights To a Finish.

TORONTO, May 22. —(Canadian Press)). — Phil Rosenberg, world's bantam titleholder, weighing 126 pounds, eight over the bantam limit, was much too good for Bobby Ebber, Canadian Champion, last night. The bout ended in the fifth round, when Referee Marsh lifted Rosenberg's arm as the sign of victory, while Ebber lay on the canvas in agony after a severe battering about the ribs. Just previous to the end of the bout, Walter Obernesser, Ebber's old manager, who helped condition him for the engagement tossed a towel into the ring, but Ebber kicked it out.

Rosenberg had an advantage of almost five pounds on the Canadian champion.

CUTTING GRASS AT BALL GROUND

Horse Drawn Mower Being Put In Service To-day.

SLIGHTLY SOGGY.

The grass in the James Stevenson Park has grown about six inches since the water went off. The caretaker was late in getting started on account of not having the lawn mowers sharp and as a result of this the grass has gotten a great start and the hand lawn mowers will not cut it now. The infield is in fairly good shape except for being soggy in places, but it is expected by Monday that this will be dry. They expect to put a horse drawn lawn mower on the outfield this afternoon and by this means get rid of the long grass, so in all probability the ball diamond will be in first class shape for Monday's games.

LADY GOLFERS ELECT OFFICERS

Mrs. J. A Aylmer President and Mrs. H Cressman Captain.

SPLENDID REPORTS.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Golf Club for lady members was held recently in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. The captain, Miss Marjorie Hatton, was in the chair, and presented the prizes for last year, as follows:

Stratton Trophy—Mrs. R. Grant.
R. R. Hall Trophy — Mrs. D. Lawrie.
Ringer score—Mrs. R. Grant.
Mixed foursomesMrs. Basil Hall.
Captain and Vice-Captain—Mrs. Barton.
Club championship—Mrs. E. S. Martin.

The election of officers then took place:

President—Mrs. J. A. Aylmer.
Captain—Mrs. Harry Cressman.
Vice-Captain—Mrs. Allan Cameron.
Secretary—Mrs. Gerald Wood.
Treasurer—Mrs. L. B. Scott.
Entertainment Committee — Mrs. C. G. Graham (convenor), Mrs. Ed. Wood, Mrs. D. Lawrie, Mrs. R. A. Turner, Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Miss C. Littlefield.
Games and Handican Committee—Mrs. R. Grant (convenor), Mrs. E. S. Martin, Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mrs. F. L. Roy, Miss M. Rush.
Telephone Committee—Mrs. F. C. Weber (convenor), Miss Claire Mason, Mrs. Robert Abbott, Miss M. Rush, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. H. Morphet, Mrs. D. Lawrie, Mrs. J. F. Strickland, Miss M. Hatton.
Transportation—Mrs. F. L. Roy (convenor).

The secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Lionel Scott, gave a very full report of the year's activities.

It was decided to hold the regular weekly luncheon on Wednesdays and to invite Miss Ada Mackenzie to visit the club in order to par the course.

The meeting felt that the splendid success of the year had been largely due to the unfailing efforts of Miss Marjorie Hatton, the retiring captain.

ST. ANDREW'S TROOP.

There was a splendid gathering of the St. Andrew's new Troop last night from 7.30 to 9. Several games were played, including Kim's Game, Old Spotty Face, and a knot tieing contest, in all of which the boys made good records.

In view of Empire Day, special instruction was given in the composition of the Union Jack and in the correct way to fly it and honor it, and a start was made in signalling practice. Most of the boys have picked up the knots required for the tenderfoot badge, and it is expected that next week they will pass in the Scout Law.

Several stories of Scouting experience were told by the Scoutmaster and by the boys, and the meeting broke up with the "Be Prepared" yell.

Next Friday's meeting will be at 7.30, as usual. Any boys who are planning on going to camp should start saving now, and should seek ways in which to earn money, after consulting their parents. Boys who wish to join this troop should be on hand next Friday night, and all application blanks already handed out should be returned then.

THIRD PETERBORO (VIMY) TROOP

On Thursday evening the Third Troop held its weekly meeting. The Scouts collected at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.00 o'clock. From here they cycled over to the "Three Sisters," or the little piece of land on the ast side of the Goose Pond. The programme consisted mainly of games, as it was too cool to sit down. Skin the snake, various circle games and a horse race were on the programme. Mr. Taylor invented a new game. He hid about 20 peanuts, in the shells, about a little hill and at the word "G" the whole troop raced to the hill and started to hunt for the peanuts which were scattered all over the hill. Art Taylor of the Hound Patrol found 10 peanuts, thus winning the larger prize. The boys were allowed to keep the peanuts they had found and to get rid of them as they wished, which was not a hard job. Then the boys collected firewood and held a short camp fire session, after which the Scouts dispersed.

TENDERFOOT TESTS (3).

Know the Scout Salute.

A salute is merely a sign between men of standing. It is a privilege to be able to salute anyone.

In the old days the freemen of England were all allowed to carry weapons, and when one met another, each would hold up his right hand to show that he had no weapon in it, and that they met as friends. So also when an armed man met a defenceless person or a lady.

Slaves or serfs were not allowed to carry weapons, and so had to slink past the freeman without making any sign.

Nowadays people do not carry weapons: but those who would have been entitled to do so, such as knights, esquires, and men-at-arms, that is, anyone living on their own property or earning their own living, still go through the form of saluting each other by holding up their hand to their cap, or even taking it off.

To salute, merely shows that you are a right sort of fellow and mean well to the others; there is nothing slavish about it.

If a stranger makes the Scout's sign to you, you should acknowledge it at once by making the sign back to him, and then shake hands with the LEFT HAND. If he then shows his Scout's badge, or proves that he is a Scout, you must treat him as a brother-Scout, and help him in any way you can.

In making the salute, always use the right hand. The thumb rests on the nail of the little finger and the other three fingers point up, reminding the Scout of his three-fold Scout promise (like the three points of a Scout's badge). The hand, with the palm to the front, carried to the brim of the Scout hat, makes the full salute. Raised to the level of the shoulder, it constitutes the half salute.

The full salute is used at all times, except during the investiture of a tenderfoot. In this ceremony, when the tenderfoot makes the scout promise only he and the Scoutmaster take the half salute, the remainder of the troop taking the full salute. This is a new regulation which has just come into practice.

When carrying his staff, a scout salutes by carrying the hand straight across the body, so that it touches the staff, palm downward.

When his hands are occupied, a Scout salutes by turning his head and eyes smartly to the right or left, as the case may be.

When riding on a bicycle, a Scout salutes in a similar manner and in no circumstances should he remove either hand from the handle bar.

When an Officer approaches a group of Scouts, the senior Patrol Leader or Scout present will call the party to the alert, and will himself salute.

Scouts salute all Officers holding His Majesty's Commission or a Commission in the Naval, Military or Air Forces of any friendly nation.

Officers and Scouts salute the Union Jack when carried by an organized body, and also all regimental and Scout's colours, unless cased.

During the playing of the National Anthem (and those of friendly countries) Scouts will stand at the alert and Officers when covered will also salute.

I have seen Scouts saluting an Officer on the street by stopping still in the middle of a crowd and bringing the hand to the hat. This is wrong. You should keep on walking and turn your head in the direction of the person you wish to salute; at the same time, bringing your hand to your cap.

Dominion Registration.

In order to provide adequate Field Service of a truly Missionary character for the purpose of extending Scouting into localities all over Canada where the boys have not yet the benefit of any Scout organization, we Scouts have been asked to register at Dominion Headquarters and pay an annual fee of Fifty Cents. This money will be used to send trained men into unorganized districts, to start scouting and will be used in the province from which it comes. By doing this we will gain in two ways, i.e., we will become more consciously aware that we are members of a Dominion-wide, in fact a world-wide brotherhood of men and boys, working together for scouting, and we will be enriched in experience and character, by participating in Scout extension work by contributing Fifty Cents a year toward its support. In addition, we will receive an enrollment certificate signed by the leading Scout Officials in Canada, which will serve to identify us as members of a big brotherhood of scouts and of which we can feel truly proud.

I am sure all scouts in Peterborough will want to help in this big scheme and will do their best to save the money and have it ready when the call comes. All Peterborough troops apply for registration in October of each year. That gives you five months to save Fifty Cents or Ten Cents a month, or Two Cents a week. That isn't very much when you realize that some other chap just like you is going to learn how to be a scout, and have the good times you have, due to your efforts.

The thing to do is to start saving now! In order to save money, you must first earn it, and here are a few things you can do. Store deliveries, newspaper routes, selling old newspapers and magazines, garden clean-ups, keeping lawns in order, gardening, repairing things, raising chickens, cutting wood and dozens of other things.

When registration time comes next October, let us be able to say that every Scout in Peterborough earned and saved his registration fee. Let us be able to send our full quota to Ottawa and say, "We have done our Scouts' duty in helping others."

Weekly Game — Poison.

Three Indian clubs are arranged on the floor about 18 inches apart. The players form a circle around these, each man gripping his right-hand neighbor's left wrist with his right hand. Thus it will be seen that if the circle breaks, the director can instantly tell who let go.

The object of the game is to pull and crowd some one onto the clubs so that they will be knocked over. Those who let go or knock down any clubs are out of the game. It is a good plan to start another circle of those who are eliminated, thus keeping every one busy.

Variation.—A chalk circle or one large club may be used if desired.

Variation.—Use one club for each player, and when a man is out, he takes a club with him.

Variation.—For the out-of-doors, a stick may be placed in the ground, lightly, so that it may be easily tipped over. This should be three feet or more in height, for if it is low enough to jump over, it may cause accidents.

Bowling

AT K. of C. Alleys

The team captained by Mrs. Legros won three games from Mrs. J. Crowley's players in the Matinee League schedule at the Knights of Columbus' bowling alleys yesterday. Several players on Mrs. Legros' team had good scores, Mrs V. Fisher 198, Mrs. J. Coursey 192, Mrs. Ted Crowe 166, and Mrs. J. Legros 164. Mrs. Meagher, playing on Mrs. Crowley's team, had a score of 178.

In the Evening League games, the Bluebirds (Miss E. Leahy, captain) won three games from the Bees (Miss L. Hogan, capt.). Players on the Blu birds' team: Miss C. Fontaine 165, Miss F. Collins 154, Miss E. Leahy 152.

GOLF NEWS

An opening tournament for both lady and gentleman players has been arranged at the Peterborough Golf Club for the afternoon of May 24. The tournament will be for two-ball foursomes, and two silver cups have been donated for the winners. Members who can play will please 'phone Mr. Fred. Green, men's captain, or Mrs. R. Grant, ladies' captain. The draw for partners will be made at the club-house at 2 p.m., and it is important that players be on hand punctually. The course is now in splendid condition, and it is hoped that all players will try to be out.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

"SHAMROCK HANDICAP" THRILLING DRAMA OF STEEPLECHASE RACE.

J. Farrell MacDonald, Janet Gaynor and Leslie Fenton in Peter B. Kyne Play.

"The Shamrock Handicap," which will show at the Regent Theatre Monday, is a thrilling Peter B. Kyne story of a heroic Irish jockey who rides an Irish Jumper to victory on an American track. Leslie Fenton and Janet Gaynor, who played the dramatic role of Anna Burger in "The Johnstown Flood," have the leads while the comedy centres about J. Farrell MacDonald, of "The Iron Horse" fame. John Ford directed 'The Shamrock Handicap.'

Lady Sheila is the daughter of an impoverished Irish land-owner, and Ross is a jockey who grew up in the Irishman's service. An American turfman brings Ross to the United States where the boy sees that Rosaleen is superior to all American jumpers. He saves his money and sends $2,000 to the Gaffneys so they can come to America. That day, however, he is injured in a race. Chesty Morgan, whom he has displaced in popular favor, pulls on Ross' saddle just as his mount is poised for the first obstacle.

The horse falls on him and the boy is believed to be permanently crippled. He refuses to notify his friends in Ireland of the accident, and when they arrive with Rosaleen, Ross, in a wheel chair, meets them at the dock.

The Irish arrivals are broke, which gives an opportunity for a lot of humorous situations which continue until the day of the great race. Rosaleen's jockey is unable to manage his horse and Ross insists on being strapped in the saddle so that he can ride her. He goes out and wins over Morgan and with the purse money undergoes treatment which restores him to health, after which the Irish party return to Gaffney Manor where Lady Sheila becomes Mrs. Ross.

AT THE CAPITOL.

GIBSON STARS IN FILM ADAPTATION OF FAMOUS NOVEL

"Chip of the Flying U" Will Be Featured at Capitol

When "Chip of the Flying U," the latest Universal production, starring Hoot Gibson opens at the Capitol Theatre Monday, motion picture fans here will have an opportunity to see a screen version of one of the most popular western novels ever written.

"Chip of the Flying U" was written about fifteen years ago by B. M. Bower. It is a semi-humorous story, set on a western cattle ranch, with "Chip" Bennett, a cowboy and amateur cartoonist, as the hero.

The book proved to be one of the most popular stories of this type ever written. Hundreds of thousands of copies of it were sold, and it has been re-printed many times since its original publication.

Screen rights to the popular story were purchased by Universal about two years ago, with the plan of making it a starring vehicle for Hoot Gibson.

Filming of it was postponed, for various reasons, after the original announcement of its purchase had been made. So many Gibson fans, who had read of the plans for the book, wrote to the offices of Universal urging that the story be filmed immediately, so it was moved up on the production schedule by order of Carl Laemmle, president of the company.

"Chip of the Flying U," was adapted to the screen by Harry Dittmar and Lynn Reynolds, and directed by Reynolds.

In addition to the star, the large cast includes Virginia Brown Faire, Philo McCullough, DeWitt Jennings, Harry Todd, Mark Hamilton, Gilbert "Pee Wee" Holmes and others.

NEWS TRENT RIVER.

TRENT RIVER, May 22. — The river has gone down almost to normal height after about two weeks of high water.

Mr. John Boyd returned on Monday from Belleville where he visited a week with Dr. Robertson.

Messrs. Oliver and N. Garneau are busy filling contracts for building motor boats.

Prior to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Langford to their new home at Campbellford they were presented with two fancy wicker chairs and a fancy tray by friends and neighbors on Wednesday night. The event took place in the dining hall at the church. The Ladies' Aid served lunch.

Mr. Harold Burgess of Toronto has taken over the stone pavilion for the season and will bring an orchestra from Toronto. He expects to be here on May 24th to begin repairs and improvements on the building. Mr. Burgess is well known here and has many friends as he spent his holidays here last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose of Toronto are expected to spend the summer at "Ye Olde Mill."

Efforts to revive the Michigan-Ontario baseball league having failed, four of the cities on the Michigan end of the old circuit—Saginaw, Bay City, Flint and Port Huron—plan to have a little league of their own this summer.

CRICKET MATCH HERE ON MONDAY

Upper Canada College Team Will Play Against Club.

A GOOD GAME.

The cricket team of Upper Canada College will play here on Monday against the Peterborough Cricket Club. The game will be played on the Exhibition grounds, and should draw a large crowd of cricket enthusiasts. The visitors are reputed to be one of the best teams in Toronto, and will meet strong opposition from the local players, who have had several keen games in the past few weeks and are getting into good form.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

GENE SARAZEN—VOLUNTARY SLICE.

It is one thing to be able to slice a golf shot and another to control the slice. The average beginner, failing to keep the elbows close to the body, is prone to cut across the ball, which invariably produces a slice.

That isn't the kind of sliced shot I was after. What I set out to develop and what I needed was the kind of slice that had a slight fade-away to the right.

I decided to change the position of the ball instead of the position of my feet.

I moved the ball to and fro until I had located the right spot, almost opposite the heel of my left foot. In other words, I found that by playing the ball more off the left foot than the right, and by cutting across the ball slightly, I got the results I desired. I play most of my shots with the ball almost opposite the center of my stance.

Finding I could slice a ball playing in the manner described above, I practiced and practiced on the shot until I had it perfected. One wrong shot can ruin you in a tight match.

Compeau Threw Arm Out His Baseball Days Over

KINGSTON, May 22.—Canadian Press. — "Mosie" Compeau, formerly Kingston's star short stop, is out of baseball for good. Bothered by his throwing arm for some time, Compeau has been giving it every care, but while playing recently in Batavia, N. Y., where he had secured a position, his arm snapped. Two X-rays and the attention of a specialist have divulged the fact that there is little hope for Compeau ever to play strenuous baseball again.

LAWN BOWLING SEASON OPENS ON MONDAY

G.W.V.A. NOTES

The Salvation Army Band will march with the Veterans to divine service tomorrow. At the conclusion of the service the combined bands will play the Veterans back to the G.W.V.A. headquarters.

The Ontario Provincial Convention of the G.W.V.A. will be held in London, on June 2nd, when the question of Unity will be discussed. Local branches throughout the province will be guided by whatever action is taken by the delegates at this convention.

Monday is Empire Day. It is hoped that the day will be celebrated by the displaying of the national emblem. Those having flags, please note.

Two ex-members of the G.W.V.A. have answered the Last Roll Call, in the persons of Comrade J. Mills, and Comrade J. Ecobichon. The sympathies of all ex-service men will go out to the sorrowing relatives of these comrades.

During the past two weeks several pension claims amounting to several thousand dollars have been adjusted through the office. The secretary is glad to report that in this connection he has succeeded in establishing the claim for pension, which for so many years was denied the late Comrade Eddie Dormer.

There are innumerable claims for treatment and pension being brought to the notice of the authorities through the channels of this office, and any comrade who desires service in this connection should not fail to send in particulars of his claim to the secretary, when the matter will receive careful attention. This applies to all ex-service men irrespective of whether members of the G.W.V.A. or not.

Anyone having spare reading material please send to the office of the G.W.V.A. for distribution to sick comrades, or phone 141, when arrangements will be made to call for it.

Are You Overworking Your Eyes?

Possible to do that even when the eyes are normal. People who sew or read constantly are often victims of eye strain, sometimes when their eyes are almost or quite normal. Such folks need glasses for use when doing close work. These prevent the strain and benefit the patient greatly. We can supply you.

PROPER BALANCE TO BE STUDIED

Ever Ready Staff Will Listen in On Own Radio Programmes.

MORE ENJOYMENT.

Will proper balance between singing and accompaniment as determined by the monitor-room loud speaker always be equally satisfactory when heard over the average receiving set?

That is one of the questions which is engaging the serious attention of the directing staff of the "Eveready Hour." For some time members of the staff have suspected that this business of striving for a "studio-perfect" radio program is not enough. They are almost convinced that in the gay between transmitter and average receiving set, there is invariably something which will throw even a "studio-perfect" program all out of kilter, so that its reception on the average receiving set is nothing like as satisfying as it sounds coming through the loud speaker of the "monitor room" at the studio.

With a view to discovering whatever there may be of value in these suspicions, the "Eveready Hour" staff has arranged to set up two or more average receiving sets in the same building in which its programs are broadcast from WEAF studio, in New York, and assign some member of the staff to listen in on these sets while each Tuesday night's "Eveready Hour" is in progress. The listener at these average sets will be in direct communication by telephone with the listener in the "monitor room"—where there is no receiving set, but simply a loud speaker conected by direct wire with broadcasting room—and the two listeners will be able to compare notes frequently during the hour.

The results of these experiments conducted over a long period of time will be carefully tabulated "Eveready Hour" staff hopes to discover from a close study of them remedies which may lead to a greater enjoyment of its programs.

TEMPORARY OFFICE FOR TARIFF BOARD

Appeal of Steel Industries To Be Heard.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 22 (Canadian Press). — The meeting of the Advisory Board on Tariff and Taxation, already announced for Wednesday, May 26, at 10.30 a.m., will be held in the temporary headquarters of the board, the former offices of the Secretary of State, in the west block.

The appeals to be heard are those entered by the Algoma Steel Corporation, requesting tariff adjustments affecting the iron and steel industry of Canada.

The chairman, Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, yesterday stressed the fact that the hearing is an open one in the fullest sense of the word, and that all parties, who may consider their interests to be affected, are invited to attend and present their views to the board.

In the absence, as yet, of a permanent location for the board, special provision is being made for the accommodation of those who may attend this hearing.

FIVE YEARS FOR STEALING CHEQUE

Caledon Man Sentenced For Taking Post Office Money.

BRAMPTON, May 22 (Canadian Press).—James William Rogers, of Caledon, was arrested at Nobleton, tried yesterday at Brampton on the charge of stealing a cheque from the Post Office, and sentenced to serve five years in Portsmouth Penitentiary. The cheque was for $2,000, and it was charged Rogers made fruitless attempts to cash it.

PREMIER DEMANDS THAT MEMBERS QUIT

W. S. Monroe Charges Ministers With Treachery To Government.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 22. Canadian Press. — In letters demanding their resignations, Premier W. S. Monroe charges two members of his Administration, Hon. C. E. Russell, Member for Harbor Grace, and Minister of Public Works, and Hon. F. G. Bradley, Port de Grave, Minister without Portfolio, with "treachery' and with "plotting the downfall of the government."

MAYOR IS ELECTED HARBOR CHAIRMAN

Government Nominees Make Motion—One Member Then Resigns.

TORONTO, May 22. Canadian Press. — Mayor Thomas Foster of Toronto to-day was elected chairman of the Toronto Harbor Commission, on motion of A. A. Mulholland and O. A. Hogg, government appointees.

Major Mulholland at the same meeting submitted his resignation.

ST. THOMAS PRESS PRAISES MRS. PARK

Her Singing at Recital There Arouses Great Interest.

The press of St. Thomas comments very favorably on the singing of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, who recently acted as soloist there for the annual joint recital of the choir of Knox church, St. Thomas, and the choir of St. Andrew's United church, London. These two churches took different roads in the parting of the ways on the question of Union, but they still continue to hold their recital jointly as an annual event. The following extract has to do with Mrs. Park's work:

"Much interest was centred in the appearance of Mrs. Park, who selected an unusual programme, which is surely what guest singers should do when standard songs can be heard every day. They were old-fashioned songs by Haydn and Handel, narrative songs by Rachmaninoff, a real Yiddish melody, some modern airs, and an old Scottish air. Such a variety of songs requires a variety of gifts and Mrs. Park has those gifts. She has dramatic bursts of power which momentarily takes an audience by storm, yet exercises a wonderful restraint to sing with charming softness. Were she not an artist who knows the true art of song she might win constant applause from the "gallery" by using her full mezzo less sparingly. She sings with remarkable ease, taking long phrases apparently without effort and curved with perfect smoothness, as witness her last number, the Page's Song from "Les Hugenots." She has a completely formed plan of presentation, and when you have heard the number sung you feel that she has done it in a way that left nothing undone to a musical and delightful publication of its meaning.

MOTOR MAKERS REFUSE COMMENT

Won't Talk About Results of Proposal To Cut Duty on Parts.

TORONTO, May 22 (Canadian Press).—Toronto motor car manufacturers are disinclined to comment at length on the latest changes in the Budget proposals affecting the tariff on motor car parts. R. S. McLaughlin, president of the General Motor of Canada, located at Oshawa, said he would make no comment until his experts had gone to Ottawa and studied the latest proposals.

Roy Kirby, general manager of the Toronto plant of the Durant Motor Car Co., refused to comment beyond the statement that the drawback allowance was "a little better."

The latest changes are not fundamental, according to T. A. Russell, president of the Automotive Association of Canada. He added that the manufacturers would require a little time to appraise their effect. E. P. Clarkson, general manager of Dodge Bros. plant here, said "something satisfactory may yet result from all this."

MUSICAL SERVICES AT SALVATION ARMY

Interesting Programme In Connection With Visit Of Earlscourt Band.

An interesting programme has been planned in connection with the visit to the city on Saturday, Sunday and Monday of the Earlscourt Citadel Band of the Salvation Army in Toronto. The band includes old residents of Peterborough, in the persons of Commandant A. Smith and several of his sons, playing in the different sections.

A public reception, with Mr. F. H. Dobbin as chairman, will take place this evening at the Temple, when several selections and solo numbers will be played by the band and its members. On Sunday, a Holiness meeting, with the Great War Veterans in attendance, will be held at the Temple at 10.45 a.m., and with a Musical Festival, for which Judge E. C. S. Huycke will act as chairman, at 3 p.m. At 6.15 p.m. an open air service will be held at the corner of Hunter and George streets, followed by a meeting in the Temple at seven o'clock, when an Evangelistic Service will be held, and an address given by Colonel R. Hargrave, who also speaks at the morning service.

On Monday, the Band will play in the morning at the two hospitals, and will have a picnic in the afternoon at Jackson Park, to which everyone is invited. At 7.30 a Grand Musicale will be held in the Temple, with Professor Gliddon as chairman, and an interesting programme given, including solo numbers by different visiting band members.

EVANGELINE BOOTH IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Grave Fears Entertained For Recovery of Salvation Army Officer.

NEW YORK, May 22 (Canadian Press). — Grave apprehension was felt to-day over the condition of Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, who is critically ill with appendicitis at her home near White Plains.

"Although an operation is urgent, her physicians stated, "various complications leave the likelihood of recovery too much in doubt to warrant it."

Constantinople, May 22 (Associated Press).—The Turkish Parliament has voted an appropriation of 40,000,000 for the army and navy and for the purchase of munitions. The newspapers applaud the country's military preparations. They say that force alone commands respect in international relations and insist that the Turkish Army is now equal to any European military force.

GIVEN FIVE YEARS.

Found Guilty of Theft of Letter Containing Check.

Brampton, May 22.—Pleading guilty to the theft of a letter containing a check for $2000 from the mails at Caledon, William J. Rogers, farm laborer of Nobleton, was sentenced to five years in Kingston penitentiary by Magistrate Crawford in county police court here Friday.

The check was a prize given by a newspaper to Mrs. Charles Ayles of Caledon as the result of a contest last March.

TINY CARS TEST DRIVER'S SKILL.

A miniature roadway with tiny cars operated by levers has been devised by Dr. Morris S. Viteles, psychologist, of the University of Pennsylvania, to test the alertness and quick-thinking power of chauffeurs applying for licenses to drive automobiles.

Manipulating a lever, the applicant controls the movements of one of the little cars over a miniature road which presents all the problems of a real highway—curves, crossroads and ditches.

To drive the little car without mishap, says Popular Science Monthly, requires not only intelligence, but considerable mental alertness.

OVERCOAT IS RETURNED.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 22.—Washington State Forest Supervisor Sylvester has received the weather-worn remains of an overcoat which he left on the summit of Overcoat Peak in the Cascade mountains 28 years ago. It was forwarded to him in an envelope. He left it buttoned around a rock for use as a signal when he completed surveying in that region in 1897. The peak was named from the coat.

FRANCE PRESENTS ARMS PROPOSALS

Would Strengthen Operation of League's Mutual Assistance Clause.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 22 (Canadian Press)—M. Paul Boncour of France presented a proposal to the drafting committee of the disarmament commission today, the effect of which would be to strengthen the operation of mutual assistance under article 16 of the League of Nations Covenant.

The U.S. delegation made a reservation concerning the question of factors of national resources which are to serve as the basis for drafting a scale of armaments permissible to the various countries and which will be discussed at the eventual international disarmament conference.

JAIL BREAKERS AT BAYSWATER NEAR GEORGIAN BAY; MAN WHO HELPED ESCAPE IS IN CUSTODY

Accomplice Says Two Men From Burwash Are Armed.

HAVE STOLEN BOAT.

Outside Assistant Took Hinges From Door To Aid Escape.

SUDBURY, May 25 (Canadian Press).—W. G. Bishop and John D. Lockwood, who broke away from Burwash Industrial Farm last Thursday, are believed to be in the vicinity of Bayswater, between Parry Sound and Sudbury, near Key Junction on Georgian Bay.

A third man, who is alleged to have aided Bishop and Lockwood to escape is in custody in Parry Sound Jail. He is said to have joined the pair after they escaped, and also to have confessed the details of the jail break. According to this alleged accomplice Bishop and Lockwood are armed. He also alleges they stole a boat at Bayswater on Saturday night, and are still in the neighborhood. Superintendent Fairful of the Burwash farm was in Toronto today conferring with Provincial Police officials. Aid from an accomplice has apparently been established, for hinges and spikes were removed from the outside o fthe dor through which the two prisoners got away.
